A feature of particular interest in connection with the establishment of this district is the provision empowering assessment of the water powers along the Red Lake river for benefits accruing by reason of the regulating of the flow. This is a matter that should be particularly taken into consideration by farmers and landowners concerned for the reason that it is the first law placed on the statute books which makes any attempt to compel these corporations to contribute their share toward the cost of maintaining an adequate flowage and for the control of the flood waters. The farmers along the stream are only concerned in getting rid of the surplus waters and care nothing about what is done with the water after it leaves their premises. If water powers wish to employ the stream in their business the farmers are certainly willing they should do so, providing they pay their fair share of the cost.

Must Pay Large Share.

The fact that these water power companies are compelled, under the plan of the government, to pay a large share of the cost of the proposed improvement, should be highly satisfactory to the farmers, as this sum lessens what the lands benefitted must pay in exact ratio. The fact that this water is used by the companies after it is gotten rid off by the farmers adds nothing to the cost of constructing the controlling works or of dredging out the river channel. This is a matter that should be thoroly considered by all concerned.

The Division of Costs.

The War Department plan suggests a division of the costs of the project as follows, the total being estimated at $780,000: Water companies, $240,000; Indian lands, $238,000, this item to be taken care of by the Interior Department; lands outside the Indian reservation, $248,500. The improved water supply plants of the various municipalities procuring their water from the Red Lake river are to be assessed $39,000, while the Federal Government, for benefits to navigation, is to pay $15,000. It will be seen that while under any other law of the state the whole cost of this project would have to be borne by the land benefitted, under the Cliff law such lands outside the Indian reservation will have to pay less than one-third of the completed undertaking.

Power of Assessment Extended.

Another very desirable feature of this law, also brought out at the hearing, concerns the power of assessment for the improvement of the ultimate outlet of the drainage system. Under the present law, for instance, the dredging of the channel of the Thief River to a sufficient capacity to take care of the great volume of water cast into it at flood time thru the immense system of drainage ditches, can only be done by assessments against the lands directly benefitted. That is, only those lands can be assessed which directly cast their waters into the Thief river. The lands casting their waters into the drainage ditches emptying into the river and which make necessary the greatly increased size of the stream, cannot be made to contribute toward meeting the cost of providing the necessary outlet.

Under the Cliff law power is greatly extended, in that provision is made for the assessment of direct benefits the same as in the old drainage law and in addition thereto provides the new feature that to help pay the cost of the improvement of the ultimate outlet all lands furnishing water which add to the necessity for the enlarged outlet must likewise contribute to the cost of the improvement, and the power to assess benefits therefor is given. This certainly is a just provision and it would seem as if no fault were to be found with it.

In Doing Good Work.

The local committee in charge of this matter is composed of A. J. Anderson, Daniel Shaw and H. O. Chommie. These parties have been untiring in their efforts to secure this improvement. Congressman Steenerson is likewise enthusiastic over the project and is handling the negotiations with the governmental departments at Washington. He is prepared to cooperate with the local people with a view to securing such Federal legislation as may be found necessary.

Many Lawyers Present.

The legal bar of the district was well represented at the hearing. Every practicing attorney in Thief River Falls, with the exception of E. M. Stanton, appeared as an attorney of record for the petitioners at the hearing. Chas. E. Boughton of Red Lake Falls represented his county and those interested in the formation of the district in that section. Julius J. Olson of Warren, performed the same service for those residing in Marshall county. The drawing of the application was done by Attorney W. J. Brown of Thief River Falls, who was also the principal examiner of witnesses at the hearing.

Postponement Asked.

It was found that some of the lands in the vicinity of Red Lake, necessary to be included in the district, had not been specified in the original notice, and an adjournment of the hearing was asked until Jan. 29, 1920, in order to enable those interested to secure jurisdiction over that land. At this meeting further testimony will be taken and all parties can again be heard the same as at the first hearing.

FINE LEGION MEET ON ARMISTICE DAY

POST IS NAMED IN HONOR OF ELMER J. EKLUND, FIRST BOY TO FALL.

The Armistice day meeting of the local post of the American Legion was by far the most successful and best attended of any held since its organization. In spite of the adverse weather conditions the attendance from the country was greater than that of the city and the spirit shown at the meeting is indicative of the power to be developed by that fast growing organization.

In giving the legion posts thruout the United States a name, it has become the custom to honor the first man to fall on the battlefield and in Pennington county's case the post was named Elmer J. Eklund Post No. 117 of the American Legion.

Elmer Eklund was the son of Anton Eklund, residing in Rustad's addition, Thief River Falls, and enlisted in May 1917 at Green Bay, Wis., with the Wisconsin National Guard. He was killed while valiantly fighting for his country before Soissons, France, on July 26, 1918.

The post went on record as favoring the Morgan bill the provision of which enables service men to borrow from the Government $4,000.00 for the purpose of building a home or buying a farm and farm machinery paying the same by paying interest at 4½ per cent for 60 years out of which payments the interest, guarantee fund and principal is paid.

The post also went on record as favoring a bonus bill paying each service man $30.00 per month for each month of service with a limitation of $360.00.

The Auditorium was secured for a New Year's Eve dance to be staged by the Legion and the following committee was appointed to make the arrangements: Ted Hunt, chairman; Henry Froseth, Fred Scanlan, Derby Anderson and Carl Gulrud.

An employment committee was appointed and any employers in the county who wish to put fighting blood in their business and any service man out of a job, should get in touch with the committee, the personel of which is as follows: W. A. Hall, chairman; Harold Provencher, L. C. Nielsen, Fred Scanlan and Hardy Bothun.

The constitution and by-laws were adopted together with a resolution relative to slackers and aliens.

More For Roosevelt Fund.

County Superintendent Geo. M. Gunderson reports the receipt of $2.80 during the week for the Roosevelt Fund, the money coming from the following districts: No. 42, Miss Mabel Engen, teacher, $1.30; No. 28, Miss Elfa Werstlein, teacher, 50 cents; No. 127, Miss Grace E. McCrum, teacher, $1.00. There was previously reported $8.58 from pupils and $3.30 from parents, making the total to date $14.68.

he became a resident of Thief River Falls. Perhaps as well posted on conditions in the county as any man within its borders, his work has brought him into contact with the farmers of every section. He is also a hustler and in a position to devote to the position the amount of attention needed in order to insure the best results.

Mr. McGinn is the only other new official and nothing need be said concerning his fitness for the place.

Fair Dates Are Set.

The dates for the annual fair were set for Wednesday, Thursday and Friday, August 4, 5 and 6. This corresponds with the time at which the big show has been held in former years and has been found the most satisfactory to the public generally and farmers in particular.

Reports Are Read.

The annual report of Secretary Smith was read and showed that the organization is in better condition financially than ever before in its history. The assets exceed the liabilities by nearly $5,000 at the present time and this will be increased considerably when the state appropriation is made available. Sufficient money should be coming from this source to meet the premium payments, amounting to $1,484.05, but there is a question as to whether or not the appropriation made by the legislature will cover the entire sum as it must be pro-rated among all the fair associations of the state.

Times Had Wrong Dope.

The partial report published in The Times last week was misleading in a number of respects. The figures taken were sent out by the Minnesota Agricultural society and were for the year 1918. These were applied to the 1919 business by the reporter and the result was not quite satisfactory. It is only fair to say that Secretary Smith had nothing to do with the submitting of these figures, which would have left him with considerable explaining to do had they been correct.

Attendance Very Good.

The report shows that the attendance at the last fair totalled 10,000 and that there were 1500 entries of all kinds recorded. The admission charged was 50 and 25 cents during the day and 25 and 10 cents in the evening. Receipts at the gate and for grandstand privileges footed up $3,545.95, this being the best record ever made by the association. Over $4,000 was paid on the former indebtedness.

SERVED NEARLY 4 YEARS; MARINE DIES

GEORGE NELSON PASSED AWAY AT PUGET SOUND, WASH., NOVEMBER 5.

George F. Nelson, U. S. Marine, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Nelson, Bray township, died at Puget Sound, Wash., on Wednesday of last week at the United States Marine barracks.

He was serving a four year enlistment period and lacked but 40 days from completing his time when he was taken ill with brain fever and death resulted after an illness of two weeks. The body reached Thief River Falls Monday morning and funeral services will be held Friday afternoon from the home of the deceased's parents in Bray township and the remains will be interred at the Langstad cemetery.

Besides his parents the deceased leaves two brothers, John and Herbert, one half sister, Ella, and two half brothers, Melvin and Arthur.

George enlisted in the United States Marine corps on December 16, 1915, and was sent to the large training camp in California and later was sent to the marine barracks at Guam, Ladrone Island group, where he received a sharpshooters medal for his target shooting. Nelson was then practically nothing but a recruit and his performance in gunnery was looked upon by marine officers as very promising. He served on this island for many months and also served with the marines on the flagship Brooklyn. When the war broke out between Germany and the United States the Pacific fleet was ordered north and he was stationed at Vladivostock, Siberia, with the "first to fight" boys. Here he was taken ill and then sent to a hospital at the Phillipines and returned to the United States in June, and had been stationed at Puget Sound up to the time of his death.

George Nelson was born in Bray township on the 23rd of April, 1893, making his age at the time of death 26 years, 7 months. He was a typical red-blooded American boy, loving natule and an outdoor life. Above everything he loved his country and was about to finish a four year enlistment with the colors, and return to his home when called by death. His untimely death came as a shock to all who knew him and the sincere sympathy of everyone is extended to the bereaved members of the family.

Resolution of Respect and Condolence.

WHEREAS, in view of the loss that has been sustained by Brother Gilbert Benson and his children by the decease of a beloved wife and mother.

Therefore be it resolved, that it is but a just tribute to the memory of the departed to say that in regretting her removal from the midst of her family, we mourn for one who was in every way worthy of our respect and regard.

Resolved, that we sincerely condole with our brother on this dispensation with which it has pleased the Divine Providence to affect him.

Resolved, that this heartfelt testimonial of our sympathy and sorrow be forwarded to our bereaved brother and his family.

Resolved, that these resolutions be printed in a local newspaper and placed upon the minutes of the meeting.

Railroad News Notes

RETURN OF ROADS FAVORED BY HOUSE

COMMITTEE CONDEMNS PLUMB PLAN AS RADICAL AND IMPRACTICAL.

The house interstate commerce committee late on Monday favorably reported the Esch railroad bill returning the roads to private hands.

The majority report of the senate interstate commerce committee on the Cummins bill was also laid before the upper legislative body.

The report on the Esch bill condemns the Plumb plan as "radical" and "impossible." The report also rejects the provision of the Cummins bill recommending a transportation board. Such a body in all probability "would be subject to political influence even more than is the present interstate commerce commission," the house report says.

Chief points in the bill are:

"Federal control to terminate at end of month in which bill is approved if passed before 15th, otherwise at end of the following month.

Labor adjustment board and board of labor appeals to be created to settle labor disputes "upon application of chief executive of carrier or union, or upon written request of any three members of adjustment board, or upon request of president of United States."

Provision for damages against carrier or union in case of violation of contract.

Operating income guaranteed carriers for six months of not less than the average of its income for the three corresponding periods of six months during test period of three years ending June 30, 1917, provided carriers shall have filed schedules embodying general increases in rates within 60 days after termination of federal control.

New loans to be made to carriers within two years after termination of federal control if necessary to enable them to serve public properly. Revolving fund of $250,000,000 created for making loans.

Indebtedness of carriers to government to be extended for maximum period of 10 years with interest at 6 per cent.

Government owned boats and barges on inland waterways and canals and in coastwise service under railroad administration to be turned over to war department engineers.

Investigation of needs of water transportation for better co-ordination with railroads to be made by secretary of war through chief-of engineers.

Extension of authority to interstate commerce commission over pipe lines and transmission of intelligence by wire or wireless.

Carriers required to provide just and reasonable distribution of coal cars to mines.

RAIL UNIONS WILL ASK WAGE RAISE

FEDERAL DIRECTOR EXPECTED TO OFFER ONLY 3 PER CENT INCREASE.

Federal Rail Director Hines on Monday summoned heads of the four great brotherhoods to meet him Tuesday to discuss general conditions.

The brotherhood of railroad trainmen demand a wage increase averaging 40 per cent and that of the order of railway conductors for 35 per cent.

Anticipating that Hines' offer will fall short of their demands, leaders of the two brotherhoods are preparing for a referendum strike vote.

The four big brotherhoods whose officials met with Director Hines on Tuesday, although not affiliated with the American Federation of Labor, are acting in co-operation with ten other railroad unions which are connected with the federation. Of these unions the chief organization is the shopmen, including 5,000,000 workers who took a strike vote in August but postponed a walkout at the request of President Wilson in order to give the government an opportunity to reduce the cost of living.

An adverse answer by Director Hines to demands of the trainmen and conductors now would bring keen anxiety to the other railroad unions, according to union officials.

In such a situation it is considered likely that the fourteen organizations would join and present a unanimous demand to Hines.

The railroad workers are determined, their officials say to gain a wage increase before January 1, when the railroads go back to private ownership.

ADDITIONAL CAR IS ADDED TO 110 HERE

On account of the heavy baggage and express shipments from Thief River Falls to the Twin Cities, Soo officials have ordered that a car be picked up each evening by Soo flyer 110, in order to eliminate the holding of the train here beyond a reasonable length of time. This was inaugurated last Saturday and the car is loaded each evening and all express and baggage is loaded into the car on the sidetrack and ready to be picked up when the flyer arrives.

A special car containing baggage and express from the Twin Cities for Thief River Falls and points west and east of the city is loaded at Minneapolis and the car is set off each morning by the northbound flyer, 109. In this way the train will not be compelled to remain here for thirty minutes or more while the express is being unloaded to the trucks. In the past generally twelve trucks have been loaded to their capacity with express for 110 and the new system will eliminate the unloading process when the train arrives.

Express and baggage shipments from Thief River Falls are increasing steadily, besides a large amount of poultry and cream is brought in on the early train for shipment to Minneapolis.

Besides the baggage car the flyer also picks up the Thief River Falls sleeper, which is detached each morning by 109, a service which the Soo has maintained here for several years and which is highly appreciated by the traveling public.

Division Jottings.

M. S. Parsons has gone to work for the Soo Line at Ottertail, relieving E. W. Whiting as telegraph operator. Lathrop goes to Rochester to enter the Mayo Brothers hospital to undergo an operation.

J. J. Hovland, Soo agent at Alvarado, spent Sunday in Thief River Falls visiting with his family, returning to work Monday morning.

C. O. Ryan, helper at Orleans, visited here Sunday with friends.

Gus Wallin, car carpenter, who has been out of the Soo service for several months, returned to work Wednesday morning. Mr. Wallin spent the summer on a farm in Wisconsin.

In spite of the severe blizzards and storms on the Wheatline, the line has been kept open in good shape and trains are running on schedule time. It was thought on Monday that a call would be sent in for the snowplough, but the day passed in an uneventful manner and the evening passenger arrived nearly on schedule time.

Martin Stenberg, Soo fireman, left for Minneapolis the first of the week on a business trip and also to visit with friends.

Earl Elofson, car man, went to Federal Dam Saturday morning on a brief hunting trip, returning in the evening.

J. D. Lambert, Soo fireman, has resumed his duties on the road, after having spent the summer on a farm near Mahnomen.

A. B. Stenberg, fireman, spent the first of the week in Minneapolis on business.

Arthur Belland, coach cleaner, spent the latter part of last week at Oklee, where he was the guest of his friends and relatives.

Eckard Lane went to work at the Soo roundhouse Wednesday morning, as a boiler washer helper.

The derailment of two box cars at Oklee on Monday night was the cause of the Soo wrecker and crew being called out. The cars were quickly rectified when the large machine arrived at the scene to begin work. The Duluth passenger was held up a few hours before the track could be cleared.

Will Build Addition.

A building permit has been granted to W. W. Prichard, Jr., for the construction of an addition to the Tupper block, recently purchased by him, and which is occupied by the Simonson Meat and Grocery company and A. M. Langseth shoe store. The addition will be 15x35 feet, 20 feet in height and built of cement. There will be four windows and two doors provided and the roof will be of slate surfaced asbestos. The structure will be occupied by the present tenants when completed and will give needed room to both stores.

A Shower of Purses.

Loken Bros. are presenting another rather unusual sale for the last two days of the present week. On a recent trip H. O. Loken managed to pick up a bargain in purses—beautiful articles of late design—which he has decided to place on sale at a figure that should cause a stampede. A uniform price of 99 cents has been placed on these articles and those who want them will have to be on hand early. These purses will make ideal Christmas presents, being worth $2.50 in many cases.

Opens Bowling Alley.

Permit to operate a pool room and bowling alley in the basement of the Citizens State bank was granted to James Cosgrove by the city council at Tuesday evening's session. The motion was made by Alderman Froseth and seconded by Alderman Brumund. Mr. Cosgrove recently acquired the pool room property from J. P. Legler, who operated the establishment last year. The place was opened to the public yesterday morning and Mr. Cosgrove will operate the place in an efficient manner at all times. It is expected that bowling teams will be formed and some lively contests will be pulled off during the winter months.

In Million Dollar Class.

The First National bank of Thief River Falls now advertises its total resources as being over $1,000,000. The bank is the first in the county to reach this coveted position in the financial world and it is an achievement of which the officials may be justly proud. There are but few institutions in the entire section able to boast resources of such magnitude, but it is not likely that the First National will be permitted to enjoy this position alone, even in the city, for any great length of time. Banking resources are advancing by leaps and bounds and in many cases have doubled during the past few years.

SHEEP AND CHICKENS.

During the past five years hardly an issue of The Times has appeared but what there has been some article therein urging that more and better cows be secured by the farmers of Pennington county. This paper does not claim all the credit for the remarkable results in this direction that have been achieved, but the probabilities are that a considerable share of the credit for keeping the subject constantly alive is coming this way at that.

Now we are going to drop cows for a moment. They have secured such a foothold that no grave danger need be anticipated from such proceeding on our part. We wish to take up sheep and chickens for a change.

The people of Pennington county have always raised chickens, but never before have they owned such good ones or so many of them. Our chickens are famous. There are none better to be found anywhere, while turkeys and other feathered stock run them a very close second. It has been proven that this kind of husbandry is profitable, that it is interesting, and that conditions here are such as to produce the best. The past three or four years has seen an astounding advance, and at that it is certain that only a start has been made. But it is a start in the right direction.

There will be more than a thousand birds displayed at the annual show in this city next week. Every entry will be a thorobred which for style and general excellence cannot be outclassed by anything in the Northwest. This boast held good last year and it is even more indisputable now. The exhibit has increased about 33 per cent in size and while it would be impossible for the quality to keep pace with this, for the reason that it could not be improved to such an extent, it is nevertheless certain that an improvement will be noted.

Now a word concerning sheep: The county's first exclusive sheep show will be held next Saturday. Only lambs will be exhibited, these being the specimens raised by the Boys' and Girls' clubs. The entries may not exceed twenty, but they will be of a quality hard to beat. The youngsters have taken a great deal of interest in this class of stock and the results will be well worth noting.

Sheep raising is going to be an important industry in the county from now on and it will be well for our people to find out just what kind of stock can be produced here. The show on Saturday will offer an excellent opportunity. It will be held in the lobby of the Citizens' bank building and open from 9 o'clock until 5.

Sheep raising should be encouraged, as should also the boys and girls who have given their time and attention to producing something worthy of being shown. In no way can this better be done than by making it a point to visit this show.

THE DRAINAGE HEARING.

The interest shown at the first hearing called for the purpose of formulating plans for the creation of a drainage district to include the entire Red Lake river watershed must be gratifying to those who have long realized that some such plan as that proposed is the only thing that will solve the vexing flood problem in a satisfactory manner.

There is no denying the fact that much of the drainage work in this state has been a waste of time and money. Too much attention has been paid to relieving some particular section—often a small one—without giving sufficient consideration to where the waste water was transported. Starting a drainage system at the point of overflow has simply resulted in drowning out some man who was in a fairly safe position previous to the construction of the ditch and has seldom helped the one residing above him for any great length of time.

The idea is now to reverse the plan of operation. Sufficient outlet will first be assured and then the sectional or local drainage can be taken care of without danger. The main discharge arteries will be sufficiently enlarged to make certain their being able to take care of all the water that can under any reasonable conditions be expected to reach them, together with the providing of sufficient reservoir capacity to hold the overflow when it is finally deposited.

Some such plan as that advanced by the men behind the Red Lake River Drainage and Flood Control District will finally have to be employed if the best results are to be obtained. Thousands of acres of fertile lands are now lying idle for the reason that they are subject to periodical overflow. Insuring this land against visitations of this kind will mean a large increase in the population of the section and the reclamation of a vast area which at the present time is practically valueless. It is not a local proposition alone—the state and nation are interested in adding this empire to the productive, taxable area within their jurisdictions. The money cost of so doing will be small when compared to the eventual benefits.

The move is in the right direction and the plan suggested the best yet presented for accomplishing the desired results. All that is needed now is that the project be backed to the limit by every man residing in northwestern Minnesota.

COUNTY NURSE NEEDED.

A majority of the counties of Minnesota have made provisions for the permanent employment of a trained nurse. The centers of population have fared rather well in this respect for some time, and it is now proposed that people residing in the country districts shall no longer be slighted.

Never in the history of the country has the public health received so much attention as at present, and no subject is more worthy of the most careful consideration. The success of the movement for improved living conditions and a clearer realization of the dangers lurking where neglect or ignorance are permitted to hold sway has been made possible thru the campaign continuously carried on by those whose duty it is to look after this important feature of the peoples' welfare. It is a great work and worthy of the support of every citizen.

Pennington county can have a public nurse without going to a great deal of expense. The Red Cross chapter has a sum of money on hand which can be turned in toward defraying the cost of her engagement—in fact this is about the only thing the money can be used for if it is to remain at home. If it is not thus employed it will have to be sent to state headquarters of the organization and will be used in regular relief work.

It might be argued that this is a rather selfish view to take of the matter, but such is not the case. The Red Cross managers are anxious that communities shall take the steps necessary in order to keep this money at home, there being no doubt of sufficient provision being made for carrying out the general program. The requirement is that the money be used for civilian relief, and the securing of a registered nurse to work among the people of the county comes under this head. The money available at this time is not sufficient to meet the entire cost, but it will go a ways and will be used for the benefit of those who contributed it in the first place. There is little doubt but that the authorities would be willing to supply the deficiency.

The matter is urgent as the money now in the hands of the Red Cross may be demanded at any time.

THE SCHOOL NEWS.

The Times this week presents to its readers a new feature—one that should meet with instant approval. It is a page given over entirely to the students of the city schools. They are the editors and have the say of what shall appear and what shall be left out.

The idea is Supt. Ziegler's. He is of the opinion that such page will be read with interest by practically every resident of the district and that parents and others will thus be brought into closer contact with what is going on in their schools. Students will write on school subjects to their hearts' content and teachers will from time to time contribute articles of general interest.

The plan is a good one. Not only will the matter itself be of great interest, but the students themselves will be benefitted. They will realize that anything appearing over their signature will have a host of critics and that they must therefore be careful to have it in such shape that it will stand inspection. A sense of responsibility for their utterances will result which cannot help but prove of lasting value.

The name appearing over the page today is not necessarily permanent. The contributors themselves will select the proper heading and this will appear over their matter hereafter.

INEXCUSABLE WASTE.

Reports from nearly every section of the Northwest are to the effect that a large quantity of potatoes has been ruined by frost. The growers did not get the tubers out of the ground in time and thousands of dollars have been lost as a consequence.

While it is a fact that winter weather struck the section at a much earlier date than usual, yet there is not much excuse for such carelessness. The potatoes should have been dug and largely marketed long before there was any danger of frost and the farmer who now finds himself a looser has only his own carelessness to thank for it.

There were none too many potatoes in the Northwest this year at best and now the supply will be still further curtailed. This means higher prices for those who must buy the necessity and absolutely no return for those who permitted their crop to go to ruin. It is thus a loss in two directions, the only gainer being the man who saved his crop and will now get the benefit of higher prices due to the shortage.

There is not a farmer in the world but who knows that potatoes will not stand frost. In spite of this there is every year a heavy loss from this very cause and it is time something were done to stop it. It costs a lot of money to get a field of potatoes to the harvesting stage and it would seem as if the man who has gone that far should take a little pains to see that his crop was gathered before frost ruins it, particularly when he knows by experience that no dependance is to be placed on the weather at that time of year. There are but few crops on a farm to which more attention is given during the growing season and to deliberately throw away all this work, to say nothing of the possible profit, is inexcusably foolish.

THE INEVITABLE RESULT.

Farm lands in southern Minnesota and northern Iowa are no longer bringing the almost fabulus prices recorded during the summer. The figure is still high but the tendency now seems in the other direction and it is certain that the boom is at an end.

It was not a healthy movement at best and it is just as well for all concerned that it has subsided. The land referred to may be the finest lying outdoors but cannot earn a profit when paid for at the rate of $500 or more per acre. Exceptional prices for produce might make it possible for the farmer to get by for a time but as soon as things again get down to normal he will be compelled to get rid of his high-priced holdings or they will eat him up.

One good thing at least has resulted from this flury. Farmers and renters have taken to looking about them with a view to finding cheaper lands, and naturally northern Minnesota has received its full share of attention. It is the nearest partially developed region to the present location of those who find it advisable to move and the section holding out the greatest promise of permanent prosperity. They are buying lands in this neighborhood for a fraction of what they received for their former holdings and are thus in a position to start in a new location with everything in their favor. The past season has seen former Iowa and southern Minnesota farmers by the hundreds acquire fine lands in this section, and many more are coming in the spring. They are a highly desirable citizens and will be made welcome. It is also certain that they will be glad of having made the change when the greater opportunities here presented are fully realized.

THE DIVIDENDS FROM GOOD ROADS.

(St. Paul Pioneer Press.)

When Minnesota spends $100,000,000 on the 10,000-mile system of paved highway, as contemplated in the Babcock plan, what will she receive for her money?

The experience of New York state may help answer that question. New York has spent $130,000,000 on her roads—she has been a pioneer state in the movement, and has made some very costly experiments. But she has more than 6,000 miles of fine highways. Now then:—

In New York, between 1890 and 1900 farm land values slumped a total of $88,000,000. Between 1900 and 1910, when the good roads were being built, the value of New York farm lands increased a total of $38,758,000! This huge increase attended the expenditure of less than $37,000,000 on good roads. Lands along the roads went up in value from $10 to $30 an acre.

Furthermore, since New York improved her roads, tourists to the average number of 352,000 a year visit that state in motor cars. Figuring that each tourist spends an average of $5 a day, New York estimates that every four days during the touring season, her income from tourists is $7,041,600. When we start on the Babcock system, we shall be making a large investment, but New York has demonstrated how tremendously it pays.

TEN AND 20 YEARS AGO

Twenty Years Ago.

Among those who received from one to six votes for the position of mayor were: F. H. Kratka, C. L. Dobner, Casper Falk, C. A. Robbecke, F. J. Stebbins and George Villis. Carl Kretzschmar was elected, receiving 183 votes. Other officials elected were as follows: Treasurer, J. W. Wallin; alderman-at-large, C. J. Knox; First ward, John O. Aas; Third ward, L. P. Stranahan.

Attorney O. H. Drew of Minneapolis, was in the city looking after property interests. He sold eight residence lots for $650.

The lumbering crews of the milling company were paid off during the week. Many of the men had wages for the entire season coming.

The saw mill was shut down for the season and a large number of the men departed for the lumber woods.

Ten Years Ago.

Nels Johnson, a farmer residing near Warroad, coaxed the kitchen fire along with kerosene. An explosion followed and the house burned so quickly that Mrs. Johnson and five children were cremated.

O. Tessum of Thief River Falls, and V. E. Lindholm of Spooner, opened a flour and feed store in the last-named town.

Wheat was selling for 95 cents per bushel.

W. Smith appeared before the city council and asked that his concern, the Pioneer Sash & Door Factory, be granted free lights, power and water for a period of 25 years. The request was refused.

Fred Sollie of Hayfield, a land owner in the town of Goodridge, was in the city making arrangements to move here with his family.

Resolutions Adopted by American Legion

WHEREAS: The members of Pennington County Post Number 117, American Legion, do not consider it their duty to recall the dead past, or engage in a useless criticism of men or measures that the government as a whole has already found wanting. We realize that all the patriotism of the country was by no means embodied in the military or naval services.

We commend the service of patriotic citizens, in the service as well as out of it; we heartily join in the condemnation of slackers, both in and out of the service. Pro-Germanism, wherever and however expressed, whether openly or slyly, whether by individuals or by organizations, is deserving of the strongest condemnation of them all. Those who failed to support the government in its war against a dangerous enemy failed in the supreme test of citizenship and patriotism.

While adding our condemnation to that of the great body of American citizens, we by no means desire to be considered models of citizenship, or paragons of patriotism. We look forward to continue in the service of our country as good citizens; we shall expect no discharge from that service and shall demand no privileges other than those available to all citizens. Our endeavor is to avoid becoming peace-time slackers, and we shall attempt to shoulder the common responsibilities, duties and obligations of good citizenship.

And it is with this one thought of performing our civilian duties in a manner which we believe is not in excess of the requirements of all good citizens that we state that these who openly or secretly worked against the prosecution of the war like the copperheads of half a century ago, should be marked as men who have no conception of public service and are unfit for the priviliges of citizenship. Therefore

BE IT FIRMLY RESOLVED THAT, We name no person and point to no single individual: We do refer particularly to those who, by their conduct and speech indicated that their sympathies were not with this nation; who quietly or openly and by devious ways sought to prevent the prosecution of the war to its fullest extent or by sneering tongues attempted to belittle the aims of our country and the accomplishments of its armies.

It is our solemnly attained decision that persons of this character, whose actions and utterances, were not so much injurious as they were indicative of their disloyalty and unqualified disinclination to bear the responsibilities of citizen, are not fitted, nor should they be permitted to enjoy the privileges accorded good citizens. We believe that they are not justified in conducting a business establishment of any description, in competition with a similar business conducted by any other person, who by action, speech or deed indicated that he was absolutely loyal to the government; And

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED, THAT, We, insofar as we believe it to be within our domain as good citizens, and not in excess thereof, shall refrain from contributing to the success of any such establishment by our patronage thereof, and shall, at such times and occasions as we deem it necessary and expedient and within our dominion and duties as good citizens, exert and employ our individual influences to prevent the success or prosperity of such individual or individuals, when the prosperty or success of any such individual shall contribute to the loss or failure of any person of good standing in the community whom we have reason to believe worthy of the patronage of good citizens.

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED, That, We again refer to a class of aliens who came to our shores prior to the war, obviously with the intent of embracing citizenship by means of naturalization; who apparently and in some instances by declaration had chosen a new domicile for better or for worse. We refer particularly to that class of individuals who had declared their intentions of becoming citizens, and who, when war came and the government began to select men for its armies, withdrew their declaration papers, renounced their intentions and claimed exemption from military service as aliens.

It is our belief that these persons have made their choice: They have refused the proffered citizenship in a time of dire perturbation, and are now undeserving of its perogatives. They were willing in fair weather to accept the franchise of citizenship, and when the storm arose they scorned its burdens. We firmly maintain that they now belong elsewhere and earnestly urge upon congress to adopt such measures as shall forever bar them from becoming citizens, and that the legislative bodies of the State of Minnesota and other States and that the Congress of the United States shall pass such legislation as is required for the deportation, at their own expense, of such Alien Slackers.

Thief River Falls School News

EDITORIAL

We herewith make our debut as a high school paper. We wish to have some way of telling to the public things that are going on in our schools. We have herein discovered a way of doing that. There are many things which we will want the public to know from time to time and they will be communicated through the columns of our school paper. There will be something from each one of the schools in the city—Knox, Northrop, Central, Washington and Lincoln high school. There will be something interesting about them all at different times.

It has not definitely been decided what we shall call our paper, but next week's issue will be headed with the official title as chosen. This issue will not be a long one. We plan to give this entire page with items concerning our schools that will be interesting for everybody to read. If you wish to know what is going on in our schools, turn to this page, for it will be endeavored to keep the public posted.

We, the students of the Lincoln high school, are putting out the first school paper in the history of the Lincoln High School.

We wish to make people stop to think and realize that we are trying to be an intelligent, industrious and up-to-date group of people. We will boost and advertise our school until every individual in Pennington county will think that "Our High School" is the only high school and the best high school in the state of Minnesota.

November 11, 1919! One year ago the whistles blew and the bells pealed forth the gladsome news that the armistice had been signed and that the war was over. The whole world to-day is celebrating this great event and every man, woman, boy, or girl patriot is doing his or her bit in memory of the heroes of the great war.

The stage in the Lincoln High School was decorated with the Service Flag and the "Stars and Stripes." There was a very fitting program during a part of the morning. The program was begun by the singing of the song "America." The Senior double quartet sang two patriotic selections, after which Mr. Hugh Bottleson of the Medical Corps, gave a very interesting experience while in the service. Mr. Ziegler gave a talk on various parts of the Peace Treaty.

"In Flander's Fields The Lilies Grow," a late war poem, was given in memory of the two gold stars in the service flag. The program was ended by the singing of the "Star Spangled Banner."

OLAF NESET

Jeweler and Optometrist

Convention Report.

(By W. A. Ziegler, Supt.)

The Minnesota Educational association held its meeting at Minneapolis during the last three days of last week. It was the greatest meeting in the history of the organization. The question of tense importance was the matter of teachers' organization. Organized labor has been trying very hard for the last year and one half to get the teachers to form unions to be affiliated with the American Federation of Labor. The teachers have no quarrel with the labor unions. They believe that the labor unions have accomplished a great deal of good, but they feel that the relation of the teachers to the public is different than the relation between other laborers and their employers. They quietly decided, therefore, not to affiliate with the labor organization, but they did decide to form a state-wide organization of their own, this to be affiliated with the national association of teachers. Thus, Minnesota has taken a step in the right direction. If teachers would go out on a strike the way coal miners are doing, little children would be made to suffer. A teachers' organization, as a thing in itself, can do a great deal of more good by not affiliating with labor. It has been very careful to state, however, that this was not antagonistic to organized labor for it was distinctly stated that labor organization had done a great deal of good in their own field.

Teachers have taken a stand that they would quit the profession of teaching entirely rather than to go on strikes, and it is an appalling fact that teachers are leaving the profession in great numbers and it is going to be an extremely difficult thing in another year to secure teachers, because of the fact that so many of them have left the profession to work in other fields where they can get more money.

The spirit that seemed to pervade the entire convention was one of uncertainty as to what would become of the teaching profession. Hope was expressed, however, that in as much as districts are trying to make conditions better for teachers, that there would not be many more leaving the profession and that after all there would be an adequate supply left. Dean L. D. Coffman of the College of Education of the University of Minnesota was elected president of the association for next year. Dean Coffman is distinctly in favor of teachers' organizations and he undoubtedly will do a great deal to hold the profession together. It is a fortunate thing for Minnesota school children that Dean Coffman has been elected to this position.

Florence Fjelstad, Knox; Mabel Johnson, Washington; Margaret Murray, Northrop; Ada B. Whipps, Northrop; Katherine Smith, Northrop; Ida Tandberg, Central; Maud Frissell, Central; Emma Tandberg, Central; Ella A. Evans, Lincoln high school; Amelia Hoorn, Lincoln high school; Cora Emily Houghton, Lincoln high school; Margaret Holmes, Lincoln high school; Gordon Mellby, Lincoln high school; Albert Tommeraasen, Lincoln high school; Walter Schold, Lincoln high school; Fredric Tripp, Lincoln high school; Lula B. Saucer, Lincoln high school; and Supt. W. A. Zeigler.

The Weather

(By Henry Stenglesen)

Weather is a condition of the atmosphere. In summer it causes paterfamilias to distribute boiled shirts, high collars and prespiration promiscuously about the family hearth, and in winter sends him out of a frostbitten brass bed to bestow rosy epithets on the janitor. There are two kinds of weather,—good weather and bad weather. The good weather is found in Patagonia and in the glowing accounts of land agents. The bad weather, according to the wiseacres, is found outside.

There is an enormous amount of weather in the world. In fact this sphere of mud is literally covered with it. It was originally intended weather should be evenly distributed to all parts of the globe, but through some hitch in the proceedings over half of it was unceremoniously dumped on Pennington county and left there. There are also many species and varieties of weather. But since we have a generous sample of each kind found elsewhere and a number of types purely local, we need not go far in our investigations.

Our weather exhibits traits generally attributed to styles or the feminine mind,—changeability and unexpectedness. One moment it may be as hot as a divorce case, and the next it may be cold enough to petrify the chin-whiskers of a walrus. One must always expect the unexpected. It is a sane policy to wear fur coats to picnics and umbrellas to sleigh rides. The fair ones are particularly superstitious in this matter. It can be confidently predicted that summer will again find them heavily bedecked in furs.

As a result of the efforts of our soap box orators and the press, the lesson of preparedness has been well learned. Consequently, the weather equipment of paterfamilias, besides the usual assortment of wearing apparel, umbrellas, and parosals, now includes: Snowshoes, skiis, a collapsible canoe, and a new and original vocabulary with which he explains to the family cat on the stoop his opinion of general conditions.

To tell what the weather is seems to be easy, as is evidenced by the conversations among those who infest the street corners. But to tell what it will be is a problem that the bewhiskered sages of ancient and modern times have fallen flat on. True, science has discovered ways in which ordinary weather can sometimes be foretold a few hours in advance. However, when the learned prophets are asked to forecast our weather they merely jot down "changeable" and feel assured that everything has been told. The Sun Dogs, a species of quadruped, habitat sun, are said to emerge from their kennel and yap when a big blow is impending, but they are regarded with the usual suspicion accorded strange hound dawgs.

Only two people so far have been able to become weather dictators. Moses was rain-maker for awhile but as his showers were only of the garden sprinkler size his authority soon waned. Joshua controlled the weather insofar as he made the sun stand still. Unfortunately, since the coming of prohibition and the closing down of all stills, Joshua's recipe has been lost.

The Rhodes Scholarship: Its Advantages and Disadvantages.

(By Mary Vance.)

The Rhodes Scholarship which provides for a three year course at the University of Oxford, England, for about one hundred and seventy-five students selected from practically all parts of the world, was founded by Cecil Rhodes. In his will he set aside a fund which furnishes each scholar with from two hundred and fifty to three hundred pounds sterling per year with foreign travel included. The selection is generally made on the recommendation of the educational authorities of the various communities. The candidates are required to pass an examination furnished or approved by the University of Oxford or attain a certain standing at some university affiliated with the University of Oxford. Each state or territory in the United States is allowed to have two candidates in residence at one time. Candidates must be unmarried and between the ages of nineteen and twenty-one.

The principal advantages derived from the scholarship are, the opportunity of advanced education along broader lines; the broadening of understanding among the different nations and more particularly the English speaking nations; the development of character, intelligence and moral force of the students and making for better understanding among the various great nations.

The principal disadvantages encountered by the students from the United States are due to the difference between the educational methods followed by the universities of this country and those of England. In England they go more deeply into Latin, Greek and higher mathematics and naturally their entrance examination in connection with this scholarship is rather difficult for the American candidates, especially in the above-mentioned subjects. This is true to such an extent that almost fifty percent of the candidates from this country fail to pass, and although the University of Oxford is much more liberal in the matter of credits to candidates from the United States than to those from sister universities in England, yet students from this country are classed as undergraduates.

Exit Football. Enter Basketball.

(By Milden Boreen.)

The good old oval pig-skin has been placed away to be preserved for future struggles. Our games were few and far between, but what we had were of the best. Our team held its place amongst the best of them, and had not the weatherman decreed differently we might have trod all over some of the finest teams in the state. The lineup was not unusually heavy, but if they lacked weight they made up for it in strategy. The quarterback, which is the pivotman of the team and the directing center, used his head unusually well for a high school man. So we had a great variety of stock, (not intended to be sarcastic about quarterback.) Our defense may not have been perfect, but our offensive made up the difference. To sum up all facts obtainable our team was a team to the man.

Basketball now holds first place in our vocabulary. The boys are now discarding their heavy, burdensome football togs to put on togs of a lighter nature. Basketball is king sport here, because of the length of the winters. Our men are unusually good at handling the ball and unless their knowledge of basketball has decreased or their mental powers lessened, I know of about seven teams that will have raised the white flag of truce before the season is over.

A Writer's Lament.

(By Alyce Berg.)

They tell us to write something witty,
Something that's serious or deep.
They ask for an "ed" or a ditty,
And tell us to not make it cheap.

They rave on about how to write it,
And tell us to do so and so
'Till we feel that we know all about it
And can start in and make it a "go."

We think and we think and then some
But our mind becomes perfectly blank.
All the brilliant ideas that had came
Are gone—in oblivion sank.

They had given instructions for all things,
But one—only one—was left out,
And that was one needed in writing—
What were we to write about?

They tell us to write something witty—
Something that's serious or deep.
They ask for an "ed" or a ditty,
And tell us to not make it cheap.

So we work and we fume and we struggle,
But words do not come to our aid.
We conclude that they don't see our trouble;
That a genius is born—and not made.

Practical Education in High School

(By Henry Aastad)

An incident that shows that practical education is obtained in high school is very clearly shown in the case of the Civics class. This class along with its book study and other work, has in its course a study of the court, and a real court is made and conducted by the members of the class, from the judge to the janitor.

Before the court is made up, there must be a case to try. So various imaginary cases are submitted. These are discussed, and the one decided to be the best in every respect is accepted to be tried. Then the court is chosen, either by the instructor or elected by the class. The judge, lawyers and other members in the court take their places and the jury is tried. So the case proceeds and the trial is held in regular legal order, and when the jury comes out and the verdict is given, it has been as a real trial from start to finish.

But the practical education of it is best shown in the case of the lawyers, who when they have taken part in a trial, are fully able, from this experience, to make a person swear that right is wrong and wrong is right.

Anyway if the class doesn't think they have got a great deal of education from that kind of class work, they will at least have witnessed and know what is meant by contempt of court.

Improvement of Freshmen Class Spirit.

(By Lucile Curtis.)

"The Seniors, Juniors and Sophomores are always having a good time and we never have any fun because —well I suppose its because we are Freshmen," sighed one of these poor benighted creatures, one day when the whole world looked gloomy.

I suppose that's the way all Freshmen feel and I do myself. But let's cheer up. You see, when one stops to think of it, the Freshmen are the better off after all. We have our whole high school career ahead of us and we have the opportunity to begin right and that's something the Seniors, the Juniors, and the Sophomores haven't.

So let's start right. A party is a good way, don't you think so? We can get acquainted, you know and that means a lot to us. Why, I do believe there isn't one of us that could truthfully say that he knew every one of his classmates.

The next step is to get all the members interested in their class. Attending class meetings is very necessary here, but we cannot expect this if our meetings are not interesting and worth while. Now we're down to the point. Why aren't our meetings interesting and worth while? Because we lack the co-operation of every class member. When all the problems and responsibilities of a large class are placed upon the shoulders of a few members, those few lose interest, too.

Perhaps another reason why Freshmen are usually behind their upper classmen in spirit is because they are ashamed of the fact that they are Freshmen. Of course if that's the way we are going to feel we cannot expect class spirit. On the other hand, we ought to be proud that we belong to the biggest, the brightest, and the merriest class in all of Lincoln High School.

Improvement of spirit in the Freshmen class must sound queer to a senior—but not to us. We can do it. By the way, did you ever hear of anything a green little Freshman wouldn't do? We're strictly "fresh" and ready to tackle anything just for the fun of it.

Class Spirit

(By Olive Lonson)

One day when I was in the cloak hall putting on my wraps to go home, I heard some of the Freshmen girls talking about how lonesome they were. Well here is the question. If the newcomers are lonesome we do not have enough class spirit.

Why not have the Freshmen Class meetings so full of pep that no one would want to miss a single meeting? Now I have heard some say "Oh, let's not go to the class meeting. It's nothing important and just a waste of time." But it really is important. There you are alone with all your class mates; you learn their names and get acquainted with them. Later on we can have sleigh ride parties, and what fun will it be if you don't know the people that are there?

We know we do a lot of things that are wrong and ridiculous, but what of that? We all make mistakes sometime. The upper classes always make fun of the "Freshmen." But don't care, for we all have to be Freshmen before we get to be Sophomores, Juniors, and Seniors. And with the teachers and our good president to boost us, we surely can have a class spirit.

Improving Our Class Spirit.

(By Lorrayne Crandall)

There are various ways of improving our class spirit. About the first step to take in doing so would be to try to become acquainted with all our class mates. To know each other is really necessary.

Everybody must have a fair chance in school and it our duty to help each other.

We are Freshmen and have just passed from the grade schools into a higher institution. We realize that there are many of us who do not understand the necessity of being more respectful. We must be more respectful because what we learn to do now we shall do in our life out of school. People must be cautious if they wish to hold a position in the world.

In being more respectful we must learn to behave. We are old enough now so as not to be spoken to at all in classes. About the only way as a class to be more respectful is for each student to do his or her part.

At the present time the teachers are really acting as police men and if we would all work together this would be unnecessary. We should be showing class spirit by showing that this is unnecessary.

Our class meetings are a great help in bringing us together. At these meetings everybody has a chance to express his or her thoughts. If we had more class meetings we should better the class spirit whatsoever. They think that the rest can do the work. Some will go as far as to depend upon others for their school work, which is not right.

This is wrong because it not only hurts the students who do the copying but the others also. When they are found out they are never trusted. Besides, it lowers their mark. The dishonest student spoils the record of the class.

The girls of the Lincoln High School have organized a basket ball association and have already started to practice. The officers who have been elected for the coming year are as follows:—Pres. Myrtle Krohn, Vice-Pres. Viola Lund, Treas. Mary Vance, Sec. Dorothy Lane.

The Captain will not be elected until the team has been picked out. The girls are enthusiastic and are very sure that they have material for a good team.

SOCIETY and Club

Mutual Help Club Meets.

A meeting of the Mutual Help club was held on Saturday evening at the Normal department rooms.

Nearly all of the members of the club were present and the honorary guests were Miss Costello and Miss Carlson, the department instructors and Misses Lindstad, Johnson, Knutson, Lonson, Norquist and Kollberg. The following program was presented:

Remarks and Welcome speech—Miss Costello.

Song—Audience.

A "Smile a While" talk—Miss Carlson.

Victrola selection, "Meditation."

Reading, "Curfew Shall Not Ring Tonight"—Jennie Anderson.

Duet, "Dreamy Moon"—Myrtle Roseland and Helga Quinlog.

Reading, "When the Orchestra Sings"—Knute Nelson.

Selections—Normal orchestra.

Song, "Auld Lang Syne"—Audience.

After the program games were played until a delicious lunch was served on small tables and everyone enjoyed a sociable time.

The next meeting will be held on Dec. 6th, at 8 o'clock, at the same place and a cordial invitation is extended to all rural teachers.

Railroadmen Have Dance.

The dance given at the auditorium last Friday evening by the Firemen and Engineers was well attended and immensely enjoyed by all present. The splendid music furnished by Finloys five-piece orchestra of Grand Forks kept the dancers tripping until a very late hour. Delicious frappe was served in one corner of the hall by the Swanson bakery. At midnight the dancers enjoyed a splendid supper at the I. O. O. F. hall which was served by the ladies auxiliary of Twentieth Century Lodge No. 103 of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen. The success of the dance is due largely to the untiring efforts of Jack Nelson, who had full charge of the arrangements.

Married Today.

F. C. Niclai left Tuesday evening for Little Falls, where he was married to Miss Carine Landahl this morning. Mr. Niclai is one of the best known business men in this section, being proprietor of the Thief River Falls Cigar factory. The bride is also well known having resided here the greater part of the time during the past two years. After a short wedding trip the couple will return to make this city their home, going to housekeeping in the residence now occupied by Theo. J. Liden, which has been purchased by Mr. Niclai.

McDowell Program.

The first program to be presented by the musical division of the Woman's club will be given on Monday evening next. The committee in charge has arranged a McDowell program, the following members taking part:

Paper—Mrs. R. L. Brackman.

Vocal solos—Mrs. L. F. Fisher and Miss Zella Zeh.

Piano number—Mrs. O. F. Mellby.

A Current Event from each member.

Girls' Club Entertained by "B's."

The Girls' Community club met on Monday evening and was entertained by the "B's"—Misses Doris Brumund, Ruth Bamford, Anna Bredesen and Laura Brown. The inclement weather kept a good many of the members from attending but those who were present report a splendid time. Cocoa and wafers were served by the hostesses.

Woman's Club Meets.

The next regular meeting of the Woman's club will be held at the Commercial club rooms on Monday afternoon, Nov. 17. Dr. Maria L. Sanford will be the chief attraction. Miss Sanford is well known all over the state having been associated with the University of Minnesota for many years. It is especially desired that all former university students attend this meeting.

Sagmoen-Wahlbeck.

On Saturday, Nov. 8, at the parsonage of Rev. George Larson of the Zion Lutheran church, occurred the marriage of Rudolph Sagmoen of Rosewood and Miss Ebba Wahlbeck of St. Hilaire. Miss Isabel Sagmoen and Henry Sagmoen acted as witnesses. The newlyweds will make their home on the groom's farm near Rosewood.

Salvationists Wed.

A Hallelujah wedding took place at the Salvation Army barracks in Grand Forks on Monday, when Capt. Oscar Aaserud and Capt. Mabel Strutz were united in marriage by Col. Stephen Marshall. Capt. Aaserud was until a short time ago in charge of the barracks at Thief River Falls and became very popular with many of our people.

In Honor of Mrs. McMellan.

Mrs. O. A. Naplin entertained informally at her home on Knight avenue, on Thursday afternoon in honor of her mother, Mrs. A. C. McMellan, who had been her guest for a week. Twelve ladies were present to enjoy the afternoon which was spent in needlework. A delightful lunch was served at five o'clock.

Eide-Flann.

Olaf Eide and Hazel Flann of this city were united in marriage on Oct. 29, at the parsonage of Rev. George Larson. Because of the illness of Rev. Larson, Rev. H. J. Villesvik, who has been visiting here, officiated. The witnesses were Miss Anna Eide and Ibsen Flann.

Reidl-Molstad.

On Nov. 11, at the municipal court rooms, occurred the marriage of Miss Lena Reidl and Oliver Molstad, both of Marshall county. The ceremony was witnessed by Francis Reidl, sister of the bride, and Albert Molstad, brother of the groom.

Ladies Entertained.

Mrs. E. M. Bennes pleasantly entertained eight lady friends at her home, 807 Knight avenue north, on Thursday afternoon. The ladies spent the afternoon in fancy work, after which light refreshments were served.

Miss Adolphs Gives Party.

Miss Esther Adolphs acted as hostess to twenty of her friends at an informal party given Thursday evening at her home. Games, music and dancing furnished entertainment for the guests. A delightful lunch ended the evening's jollities.

Parcel Social.

A parcel social will be held at the Willowdale school house on Saturday evening, to which the general public is invited. The girls are expected to bring a parcel and sufficient lunch for two.

Dust Cap Social.

A dust cap social will be given at the County Line school house on Saturday evening, Nov. 22. Girls kindly bring your dust caps and lunch for two.

Luther League Entertains.

The Luther League of the Norwegian Lutheran church will meet on Thursday evening, Nov. 20, at 8 o'clock. A good program will be given. The public is invited.

For Mrs. J. Kelly.

Mrs. H. W. Froehlich entertained informally on Saturday afternoon, in compliment to Mrs. J. Kelly of Devils Lake, N. D., who is a guest of her sister, Mrs. E. O. Mogensen. There were sixteen guests present.

The W. C. T. U. will meet on next Tuesday, Nov. 18, at the home of Mrs. Olaf Ramstad, who, with Mrs. Anna Watson, will entertain.

Dinner Party.

Mr. and Mrs. T. L. Melgaard entertained at an informal dinner party on Saturday evening. Covers were laid for sixteen.

"Gift Shop" Re-Opens.

Mrs. Ila M. Reynolds will again re-open The Gift Shop for the holiday season over the Citizens State bank, in the rooms formerly occupied by the Babcock Brothers Land company. A full line of decorated china, art novelties, Christmas specialties and embroideries. Instruction will also be given in this work and in lamp shade making. Phone 394. n13

Mrs. Castle Declines to Dance.

There is a brilliant ball-room scene in "The Invisible Bond," the picture at the Lyceum Theatre, Sunday, Nov. 16th, in which Irene Castle is present and doesn't dance a step! She is too much interested in the whereabouts of her young screen husband, who according to the story has gone for a wild auto ride with a scheming vampire of his acquaintance. It is a tribute to Mrs. Castle as an actress that the audience, too, was more concerned about her domestic tragedy than in her dancing. n13

JOINT RECITAL AT CITY AUDITORIUM

A joint recital by Miss Amy Ellerman, the popular contralto, and the Fleming Sisters Trio, will be given at the auditorium Saturday evening, November 15, under the auspices of the Thief River Music company.

The music company is bringing the famous artists here and there will be no admission charge but all admissions must be accompanied by cards of invitation. The music house has mailed out hundreds of the cards during the week and additional cards of admittance may be secured upon application to the Thief River Music company as long as the accommodations remain.

The recital will begin at 8 p. m., and a large crowd is expected to greet the artists.

Irene Castle Pleasing In "The Invisible Bond"

MOST of us resent instinctively the motion picture that aims to make us think, just as we dislike being "preached at" in church. And there is the same resentment when we watch pictures, all too frequently, that are devoid of ideas and characterless. The happy medium and the screen product that is popular with every class of audience is the well-acted picture telling an entertaining and dramatic story and backed by a worth-while idea that you can carry away with you. "The Invisible Bond," showing at the Lyceum Theatre Sunday, Nov. 16, is that kind of a picture.

If you have always thought of Irene Castle as a graceful dancer and a sure guide to next year's style in gowns, prepare to be disillusioned. She is much more. Though her costumes are as brilliant and varied as ever and will delight feminine eyes, they are but incidental to the important fact that the screen has gained an emotional star of considerable merit in the person of this talented little woman whose chief fame not so many years ago lay in her creation of the "Castle Walk."

Irene Castle is Marcia Crossey, every inch of her. And she has been given a real story of real folks in which to demonstrate her newly discovered talents. It is about a young married couple, wedded four years and reasonably happy. A flirtatious siren, always just in the offing when the husband is handsome and successful, wins the man, who is spoiled and susceptible to flattery, away from the wife. The scenes leading to the woman's decision to divorce her husband are packed with drama. Then comes the sad disillusionment when the husband, now married to his charmer, discovers that like himself she is insistent upon her "personal liberty."

A day comes when one of these men-creatures whom she is accustomed to lure turns upon the coquette. Maddened by her treatment of him, he adopts a ruse and plunges them both over a high cliff in a motor car to their death. Then the great love which husband and former wife have always had for each other is cleansed by the tragedy and they are reconciled.

"The Invisible Bond" is fine entertainment and it is the sort of thought-compelling picture that is well worth seeing. Supporting Mrs. Castle is Huntley Gordon as the young husband, and others in the cast include Claire Adams and Fleming Ward.

BATHING BEAUTIES A GREAT NOVELTY

At last this city is to have an opportunity to see the greatest novelty of the century in motion pictures. After having created more talk than any entertainment growing out of the movies and having enjoyed runs of many weeks in New York and Chicago, "Yankee Doodle In Berlin" and the Original Sennett Bathing Beauties in person are to be seen here. Manager Lawrence of the Lyceum treater has succeeded in persuading Linick-Jacoby Enterprises, under whose banner the film and the young women are traveling, to include his theater in the short tour being made following the New York and Chicago engagements. They will be at the Lyceum next Monday, Nov. 17 for an engagement of 3 performances, 2:30, 7:15 and 9 p. m.

Every one, of course, has seen these young women in the Sennett comedies and, of course, everyone who has seen them on the screen wishes to see them in person. It was because he realized this perfectly natural desire existed, Mr. Sennett decided to allow them to leave his studio for a short tour with his five-part comedy, "Yankee Doodle In Berlin."

The twin attraction may be said to mark another milestone in the development of motion picture entertainment, for while there have been "personal appearances" before, never has there been an elaborate display of beach costuming such as is made in this offering and assuredly there never has been a comedy like this one.

Film Tragedy Costly.

In the movies, before shooting a scene in which anything so valuable as an automobile is wrecked, it is customary to sell the destroyed body to a salvage company. However, Charles Maigne, director of Irene Catle's new picture, "The Invisible Bond," found that it was impossible to make such a deal. The reason was that the automobile was to plunge over a 400-foot cliff near Taughannock Falls, New York, said to be the highest waterfall east of the Rocky Mountains and that there was no chance of rescuing the wreckage after the scene was shot. The picture is a Paramount-Artcraft and will be shown at the Lyceum Theatre Sunday, Nov. 16. n13.

DEER PARK

Oscar Olson and Ole Skreland visited in Hickory one day last week.

S. B. Swanson moved his family from the Highlanding vicinity, last week, to their new home in Hickory.

Geo. Singer, the Rhoda merchant and cattle buyer, left with a carload of stock for St. Paul last Saturday.

R. O. Gordon and Carl Magnel, two of the pioneer residents of Mayfield, were business callers at Oklee last Friday.

Selmer Swenson has returned from a trip down to Staples, going down with an auto, but on account of over a foot of snow near Park Rapids, was obliged to leave his auto and take the train home.

Einar Olson was at Oklee for a load of coal last Saturday.

S. C. Jenson and Sever Groethe and son Sigvold of Mayfield, were Oklee callers last Friday.

Oklee is getting to be qute a poultry market. Several hundred crates have been shipped during the past two weeks.

Frank Lundeen of Deer Park had the misfortune to lose two of his best work horses recently. One got cut in the wire and died from the effects and shortly after the other one stepped on a rusty nail and died of blood poisoning.

M. E. Hyland, one of our pioneer farmers, recently disposed of one of his farms here, to Ben Szimansky for $7,000 and expects to have an auction sale on all of his personal property soon. He intends to make his future home in the State of Washington.

The other day, while at Goodridge, we were informed by A. B. Mandt, manager of the new flour mill, recently built there, that the mill is now in full operation and things are moving along as well as can be expected, with the exception of a few minor details that will soon be adjusted. The flour that has been turned out is highly satisfactory, according to the statement of those that have tried out its merits. One of our merchants informed us that he is going to handle this Goodridge brand, because it is good and not only that, but he says it means a saving of about 80 cents on the barrel, on the purchase price, as against the older milling products.

Thief River Falls School News

EDITORIAL

We herewith make our debut as a high school paper. We wish to have some way of telling to the public things that are going on in our schools. We have herein discovered a way of doing that. There are many things which we will want the public to know from time to time and they will be communicated through the columns of our school paper. There will be something from each one of the schools in the city—Knox, Northrop, Central, Washington and Lincoln high school. There will be something interesting about them all at different times.

It has not definitely been decided what we shall call our paper, but next week's issue will be headed with the official title as chosen. This issue will not be a long one. We plan to give this entire page with items concerning our schools that will be interesting for everybody to read. If you wish to know what is going on in our schools, turn to this page, for it will be endeavored to keep the public posted.

We, the students of the Lincoln high school, are putting out the first school paper in the history of the Lincoln High School.

We wish to make people stop to think and realize that we are trying to be an intelligent, industrious and up-to-date group of people. We will boost and advertise our school until every individual in Pennington county will think that "Our High School" is the only high school and the best high school in the state of Minnesota.

November 11, 1919! One year ago the whistles blew and the bells pealed forth the gladsome news that the armistice had been signed and that the war was over. The whole world to-day is celebrating this great event and every man, woman, boy, or girl patriot is doing his or her bit in memory of the heroes of the great war.

The stage in the Lincoln High School was decorated with the Service Flag and the "Stars and Stripes." There was a very fitting program during a part of the morning. The program was begun by the singing of the song "America." The Senior double quartet sang two patriotic selections, after which Mr. Hugh Bottleson of the Medical Corps, gave a very interesting experience while in the service. Mr. Ziegler gave a talk on various parts of the Peace Treaty.

"In Flander's Fields The Lilies Grow," a late war poem, was given in memory of the two gold stars in the service flag. The program was ended by the singing of the "Star Spangled Banner."

Convention Report.

The Minnesota Educational association held its meeting at Minneapolis during the last three days of last week. It was the greatest meeting in the history of the organization. The question of tense importance was the matter of teachers' organization. Organized labor has been trying very hard for the last year and one half to get the teachers to form unions to be affiliated with the American Federation of Labor. The teachers have no quarrel with the labor unions. They believe that the labor unions have accomplished a great deal of good, but they feel that the relation of the teachers to the public is different than the relation between other laborers and their employers. They quietly decided, therefore, not to affiliate with the labor organization, but they did decide to form a state-wide organization of their own, this to be affiliated with the national association of teachers. Thus, Minnesota has taken a step in the right direction. If teachers would go out on a strike the way coal miners are doing, little children would be made to suffer. A teachers' organization, as a thing in itself, can do a great deal of more good by not affiliating with labor. It has been very careful to state, however, that this was not antagonistic to organized labor for it was distinctly stated that labor organization had done a great deal of good in their own field.

Teachers have taken a stand that they would quit the profession of teaching entirely rather than to go on strikes, and it is an appalling fact that teachers are leaving the profession in great numbers and it is going to be an extremely difficult thing in another year to secure teachers, because of the fact that so many of them have left the profession to work in other fields where they can get more money.

The spirit that seemed to pervade the entire convention was one of uncertainty as to what would become of the teaching profession. Hope was expressed, however, that in as much as districts are trying to make conditions better for teachers, that there would not be many more leaving the profession and that after all there would be an adequate supply left. Dean L. D. Coffman of the College of Education of the University of Minnesota was elected president of the association for next year. Dean Coffman is distinctly in favor of teachers' organizations and he undoubtedly will do a great deal to hold the profession together. It is a fortunate thing for Minnesota school children that Dean Coffman has been elected to this position.

Florence Fjelstad, Knox; Mabel Johnson, Washington; Margaret Murray, Northrop; Ada B. Whipps, Northrop; Katherine Smith, Northrop; Ida Tandberg, Central; Maud Frissell, Central; Emma Tandberg, Central; Ella A. Evans, Lincoln high school; Amelia Hoorn, Lincoln high school; Cora Emily Houghton, Lincoln high school; Margaret Holmes, Lincoln high school; Gordon Mellby, Lincoln high school; Albert Tommeraasen, Lincoln high school; Walter Schold, Lincoln high school; Fredric Tripp, Lincoln high school; Lula B. Saucer, Lincoln high school; and Supt. W. A. Zeigler.

it may be cold enough to petrify the chin-whiskers of a walrus. One must always expect the unexpected. It is a sane policy to wear fur coats to picnics and umbrellas to sleigh rides. The fair ones are particularly superstitious in this matter. It can be confidently predicted that summer will again find them heavily bedecked in furs.

As a result of the efforts of our soap box orators and the press, the lesson of preparedness has been well learned. Consequently, the weather equipment of paterfamilias, besides the usual assortment of wearing apparel, umbrellas, and parasols, now includes: Snowshoes, skiis, a collapsible canoe, and a new and original vocabulary with which he explains to the family cat on the stoop his opinion of general conditions.

To tell what the weather is seems to be easy, as is evidenced by the conversations among those who infest the street corners. But to tell what it will be is a problem that the bewhiskered sages of ancient and modern times have fallen flat on. True, science has discovered ways in which ordinary weather can sometimes be foretold a few hours in advance. However, when the learned prophets are asked to forecast our weather they merely jot down "changeable" and feel assured that everything has been told. The Sun Dogs, a species of quadruped, habitat sun, are said to emerge from their kennel and yap when a big blow is impending, but they are regarded with the usual suspicion accorded strange hound dawgs.

Only two people so far have been able to become weather dictators. Moses was rain-maker for awhile but as his showers were only of the garden sprinkler size his authority soon waned. Joshua controlled the weather insofar as he made the sun stand still. Unfortunately, since the coming of prohibition and the closing down of all stills, Joshua's recipe has been lost.

The Rhodes Scholarship: Its Advantages and Disadvantages.

(By Mary Vance.)

The Rhodes Scholarship which provides for a three year course at the University of Oxford, England, for about one hundred and seventy-five students selected from practically all parts of the world, was founded by Cecil Rhodes. In his will he set aside a fund which furnishes each scholar with from two hundred and fifty to three hundred pounds sterling per year with foreign travel included. The selection is generally made on the recommendation of the educational authorities of the various communities. The candidates are required to pass an examination furnished or approved by the University of Oxford or attain a certain standing at some university affiliated with the University of Oxford. Each state or territory in the United States is allowed to have two candidates in residence at one time. Candidates must be unmarried and between the ages of nineteen and twenty-one.

The principal advantages derived from the scholarship are, the opportunity of advanced education along broader lines; the broadening of understanding among the different nations and more particularly the English speaking nations; the development of character, intelligence and moral force of the students and making for better understanding among the various great nations.

The principal disadvantages encountered by the students from the United States are due to the difference between the educational methods followed by the universities of this country and those of England. In

A Writer's Lament.

(By Alyce Berg.)

They tell us to write something witty,
Something that's serious or deep.
They ask for an "ed" or a ditty,
And tell us to not make it cheap.

They rave on about how to write it,
And tell us to do so and so
'Till we feel that we know all about it
And can start in and make it a "go."

We think and we think and then some
But our mind becomes perfectly blank.
All the brilliant ideas that had came
Are gone—in oblivion sank.

They had given instructions for all things,
But one—only one—was left out,
And that was one needed in writing—
What were we to write about?

They tell us to write something witty—
Something that's serious or deep.
They ask for an "ed" or a ditty,
And tell us to not make it cheap.

So we work and we fume and we struggle,
But words do not come to our aid.
We conclude that they don't see our trouble;
That a genius is born—and not made.

Practical Education in High School

(By Henry Aastad)

An incident that shows that practical education is obtained in high school is very clearly shown in the case of the Civics' class. This class along with its book study and other work, has in its course a study of the court, and a real court is made and conducted by the members of the class, from the judge to the janitor.

Before the court is made up, there must be a case to try. So various imaginary cases are submitted. These are discussed, and the one decided to be the best in every respect is accepted to be tried. Then the court is chosen, either by the instructor or elected by the class. The judge, lawyers and other members in the court take their places and the jury is tried. So the case proceeds and the trial is held in regular legal order, and when the jury comes out and the verdict is given, it has been as a real trial from start to finish.

But the practical education of it is best shown in the case of the lawyers, who when they have taken part in a trial, are fully able, from this experience, to make a person swear that right is wrong and wrong is right.

Anyway if the class doesn't think they have got a great deal of education from that kind of class work, they will at least have witnessed and know what is meant by contempt of court.

Improvement of Freshmen Class Spirit.

(By Lucile Curtis.)

"The Seniors, Juniors and Sophomores are always having a good time and we never have any fun because—well I suppose its because we are Freshmen," sighed one of these poor benighted creatures, one day when the whole world looked gloomy.

I suppose that's the way all Freshmen feel and I do myself. But let's cheer up. You see, when one stops to think of it, the Freshmen are the better off after all. We have our whole high school career ahead of us and we have the opportunity to begin right and that's something the Seniors, the Juniors, and the Sopho-teresting and worth while. Now we're down to the point. Why aren't our meetings interesting and worth while? Because we lack the co-operation of every class member. When all the problems and responsibilities of a large class are placed upon the shoulders of a few members, those few lose interest, too.

Perhaps another reason why Freshmen are usually behind their upper classmen in spirit is because they are ashamed of the fact that they are Freshmen. Of course if that's the way we are going to feel we cannot expect class spirit. On the other hand, we ought to be proud that we belong to the biggest, the brightest, and the merriest class in all of Lincoln High School.

Improvement of spirit in the Freshmen class must sound queer to a senior—but not to us. We can do it. By the way, did you ever hear of anything a green little Freshman wouldn't do? We're strictly "fresh" and ready to tackle anything just for the fun of it.

Class Spirit

(By Olive Lonson)

One day when I was in the cloak hall putting on my wraps to go home, I heard some of the Freshmen girls talking about how lonesome they were. Well here is the question. If the newcomers are lonesome we do not have enough class spirit.

Why not have the Freshmen Class meetings so full of pep that no one would want to miss a single meeting? Now I have heard some say "Oh, let's not go to the class meeting. It's nothing important and just a waste of time." But it really is important. There you are alone with all your class mates; you learn their names and get acquainted with them. Later on we can have sleigh ride parties, and what fun will it be if you don't know the people that are there?

We know we do a lot of things that are wrong and ridiculous, but what of that? We all make mistakes sometime. The upper classes always make fun of the "Freshmen." But don't care, for we all have to be Freshmen before we get to be Sophomores, Juniors, and Seniors. And with the teachers and our good president to boost us, we surely can have a class spirit.

Improving Our Class Spirit.

(By Lorrayne Crandall)

There are various ways of improving our class spirit. About the first step to take in doing so would be to try to become acquainted with all our class mates. To know each other is really neccessary.

Everybody must have a fair chance in school and it our duty to help each other.

We are Freshmen and have just passed from the grade schools into a higher institution. We realize that there are many of us who do not understand the necessity of being more respectful. We must be more respectful because what we learn to do now we shall do in our life out of school. People must be cautious if they wish to hold a position in the world.

In being more respectful we must learn to behave. We are old enough now so as not to be spoken to at all in classes. About the only way as a class to be more respectful is for each student to do his or her part.

At the present time the teachers are really acting as police men and if we would all work together this would be unnecessary. We should be showing class spirit by showing that this is unnecessary.

Our class meetings are a great help in bringing us together. At these meetings everybody has a chance to express his or her thoughts. If we had more class meetings we should better the class spirit whatsoever. They think that the rest can do the work. Some will go as far as to depend upon others for their school work, which is not right.

This is wrong because it not only hurts the students who do the copying but the others also. When they are found out they are never trusted. Besides, it lowers their mark. The dishonest student spoils the record of the class.

The girls of the Lincoln High School have organized a basket ball association and have already started to practice. The officers who have been elected for the coming year are as follows:—Pres. Myrtle Krohn; Vice-Pres. Viola Lund, Treas. Mary Vance, Sec. Dorothy Lane.

The Captain will not be elected until the team has been picked out. The girls are enthusiastic and are very sure that they have material for a good team.

Mutual Help Club Meets.

A meeting of the Mutual Help club was held on Saturday evening at the Normal department rooms.

Nearly all of the members of the club were present and the honorary guests were Miss Costello and Miss Carlson, the department instructors and Misses Lindstad, Johnson, Knutson, Lonson, Norquist and Kellberg. The following program was presented:

Remarks and Welcome speech—Miss Costello.

Song—Audience.

A "Smile a While" talk—Miss Carlson.

Victrola selection, "Meditation."

Reading, "Curfew Shall Not Ring Tonight"—Jennie Anderson.

Duet, "Dreamy Moon"—Myrtle Roseland and Helga Quinlog.

Reading, "When the Orchestra Sings"—Knute Nelson.

Selections—Normal orchestra.

Song, "Auld Lang Syne"—Audience.

After the program games were played until a delicious lunch was served on small tables and everyone enjoyed a sociable time.

The next meeting will be held on Dec. 6th, at 8 o'clock, at the same place and a cordial invitation is extended to all rural teachers.

Railroadmen Have Dance.

The dance given at the auditorium last Friday evening by the Firemen and Engineers was well attended and immensely enjoyed by all present. The splendid music furnished by Finley's five-piece orchestra of Grand Forks kept the dancers tripping until a very late hour. Delicious frappe was served in one corner of the hall by the Swanson bakery. At midnight the dancers enjoyed a plendid supper at the I. O. O. F. hall which was served by the ladies auxiliary of Twentieth Century Lodge No. 103 of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen. The success of the dance is due largely to the untiring efforts of Jack Nelson, who had full charge of the arrangements.

Married Today.

F. C. Niclai left Tuesday evening for Little Falls, where he was married to Miss Carine Landahl this morning. Mr. Niclai is one of the best known business men in this section, being proprietor of the Thief River Falls Cigar factory. The bride is also well known having resided here the greater part of the time during the past two years. After a short wedding trip the couple will return to make this city their home, going to housekeeping in the residence now occupied by Theo. J. Liden, which has been purchased by Mr. Niclai.

McDowell Program.

The first program to be presented by the musical division of the Woman's club will be given on Monday evening next. The committee in charge has arranged a McDowell program, the following members taking part:

Paper—Mrs. R. L. Barackman.

Vocal solos—Mrs. L. F. Fisher and Miss Zella Zeh.

Piano number—Mrs. O. F. Mellby.

A Current Event from each member.

Girls' Club Entertained by "B's."

The Girls' Community club met on Monday evening and was entertained by the "B's"—Misses Doris Brumund, Ruth Bamford, Anna Bredesen and Laura Brown. The inclement weather kept a good many of the members from attending but those who were present report a splendid time. Cocoa and wafers were served by the hostesses.

Woman's Club Meets.

The next regular meeting of the Woman's club will be held at the Commercial club rooms on Monday afternoon, Nov. 17. Dr. Maria L. Sanford will be the chief attraction. Miss Sanford is well known all over the state having been associated with the University of Minnesota for many years. It is especially desired that all former university students attend this meeting.

Sagmoen-Wahlbeck.

On Saturday, Nov. 8, at the parsonage of Rev. George Larson of the Zion Lutheran church, occurred the marriage of Rudolph Sagmoen of Rosewood and Miss Ebba Wahlbeck of St. Hilaire. Miss Isabel Sagmoen and Henry Sagmoen acted as witnesses. The newlyweds will make their home on the groom's farm near Rosewood.

Salvationists Wed.

A Hallelujah wedding took place at the Salvation Army barracks in Grand Forks on Monday, when Capt. Oscar Aaserud and Capt. Mabel Strutz were united in marriage by Col. Stephen Marshall. Capt. Aaserud was until a short time ago in charge of the barracks at Thief River Falls and became very popular with many of our people.

In Honor of Mrs. McMellan.

Mrs. O. A. Naplin entertained informally at her home on Knight avenue, on Thursday afternoon in honor of her mother, Mrs. A. C. McMellan, who had been her guest for a week. Twelve ladies were present to enjoy the afternoon which was spent in needlework. A delightful lunch was served at five o'clock.

Eide-Flann.

Olaf Eide and Hazel Flann of this city were united in marriage on Oct. 29, at the parsonage of Rev. George Larson. Because of the illness of Rev. Larson, Rev. H. J. Villesvik, who has been visiting here, officiated. The witnesses were Miss Anna Eide and Ibsen Flann.

Reidl-Molstad.

On Nov. 11, at the municipal court rooms, occurred the marriage of Miss Lena Reidl and Oliver Molstad, both of Marshall county. The ceremony was witnessed by Francis Reidl, sister of the bride, and Albert Molstad, brother of the groom.

Ladies Entertained.

Mrs. E. M. Bennes pleasantly entertained eight lady friends at her home, 807 Knight avenue north, on Thursday afternoon. The ladies spent the afternoon in fancy work, after which light refreshments were served.

Miss Adolphs Gives Party.

Miss Esther Adolphs acted as hostess to twenty of her friends at an informal party given Thursday evening at her home. Games, music and dancing furnished entertainment for the guests. A delightful lunch ended the evening's jollities.

Parcel Social.

A parcel social will be held at the Willowdale school house on Saturday evening, to which the general public is invited. The girls are expected to bring a parcel and sufficient lunch for two.

Dust Cap Social.

A dust cap social will be given at the County Line school house on Saturday evening, Nov. 22. Girls kindly bring your dust caps and lunch for two.

Luther League Entertains.

The Luther League of the Norwegian Lutheran church will meet on Thursday evening, Nov. 20, at 8 o'clock. A good program will be given. The public is invited.

For Mrs. J. Kelly.

Mrs. H. W. Froehlich entertained informally on Saturday afternoon, in compliment to Mrs. J. Kelly of Devils Lake, N. D., who is a guest of her sister, Mrs. E. O. Mogensen. There were sixteen guests present.

The W. C. T. U. will meet on next Tuesday, Nov. 18, at the home of Mrs. Olaf Ramstad, who, with Mrs. Anna Watson, will entertain.

Dinner Party.

Mr. and Mrs. T. L. Melgaard entertained at an informal dinner party on Saturday evening. Covers were laid for sixteen.

"Gift Shop" Re-Opens.

Mrs. Ila M. Reynolds will again re-open The Gift Shop for the holiday season over the Citizens State bank, in the rooms formerly occupied by the Babcock Brothers Land company. A full line of decorated china, art novelties, Christmas specialties and embroideries. Instruction will also be given in this work and in lamp shade making. Phone 394. n13

Mrs. Castle Declines to Dance.

There is a brilliant ball-room scene in "The Invisible Bond," the picture at the Lyceum Theatre, Sunday, Nov. 16th, in which Irene Castle is present and doesn't dance a step! She is too much interested in the whereabouts of her young screen husband, who according to the story has gone for a wild auto ride with a scheming vampire of his acquaintance. It is a tribute to Mrs. Castle as an actress that the audience, too, was more concerned about her domestic tragedy than in her dancing. n13

Irene Castle Pleasing In "The Invisible Bond"

MOST of us resent instinctively the motion picture that aims to make us think, just as we dislike being "preached at" in church. And there is the same resentment when we watch pictures, all too frequently, that are devoid of ideas and characterless. The happy medium and the screen product that is popular with every class of audience is the well-acted picture telling an entertaining and dramatic story and backed by a worth-while idea that you can carry away with you. "The Invisible Bond," showing at the Lyceum Theatre Sunday, Nov. 16, is that kind of a picture.

If you have always thought of Irene Castle as a graceful dancer and a sure guide to next year's style in gowns, prepare to be disillusioned. She is much more. Though her costumes are as brilliant and varied as ever and will delight feminine eyes, they are but incidental to the important fact that the screen has gained an emotional star of considerable merit in the person of this talented little woman whose chief fame not so many years ago lay in her creation of the "Castle Walk."

Irene Castle is Marcia Crossey, every inch of her. And she has been given a real story of real folks in which to demonstrate her newly discovered talents. It is about a young married couple, wedded four years and reasonably happy. A flirtatious siren, always just in the offing when the husband is handsome and successful, wins the man, who is spoiled and susceptible to flattery, away from the wife. The scenes leading to the woman's decision to divorce her husband are packed with drama. Then comes the sad disillusionment when the husband, now married to his charmer, discovers that like himself she is insistent upon her "personal liberty."

A day comes when one of these men-creatures whom she is accustomed to lure turns upon the coquette. Maddened by her treatment of him, he adopts a ruse and plunges them both over a high cliff in a motor car to their death. Then the great love which husband and former wife have always had for each other is cleansed by the tragedy and they are reconciled.

"The Invisible Bond" is fine entertainment and if is the sort of thought-compelling picture that is well worth seeing. Supporting Mrs. Castle is Huntley Gordon as the young husband, and others in the cast include Claire Adams and Fleming Ward.

BATHING BEAUTIES A GREAT NOVELTY

At last this city is to have an opportunity to see the greatest novelty of the century in motion pictures. After having created more talk than any entertainment growing out of the movies and having enjoyed runs of many weeks in New York and Chicago, "Yankee Doodle In Berlin" and the Original Sennett Bathing Beauties in person are to be seen here. Manager Lawrence of the Lyceum treater has succeeded in persuading Linick-Jacoby Enterprises, under whose banner the film and the young women are traveling, to include his theater in the short tour being made following the New York and Chicago engagements. They will be at the Lyceum next Monday, Nov. 17 for an engagement of 3 performances, 2:30, 7:15 and 9 p. m.

Every one, of course, has seen these young women in the Sennett comedies and, of course, everyone who has seen them on the screen wishes to see them in person. It was because he realized this perfectly natural desire existed, Mr. Sennett decided to allow them to leave his studio for a short tour with his five-part comedy, "Yankee Doodle In Berlin."

The twin attraction may be said to mark another milestone in the development of motion picture entertainment, for while there have been "personal appearances" before, never has there been an elaborate display of beach costuming such as is made in this offering and assuredly there never has been a comedy like this one.

Film Tragedy Costly.

In the movies, before shooting a scene in which anything so valuable as an automobile is wrecked, it is customary to sell the destroyed body to a salvage company. However, Charles Maigne, director of Irene Catle's new picture, "The Invisible Bond," found that it was impossible to make such a deal. The reason was that the automobile was to plunge over a 400-foot cliff near Taughannock Falls, New York, said to be the highest waterfall east of the Rocky Mountains and that there was no chance of rescuing the wreckage after the scene was shot. The picture is a Paramount-Artcraft and will be shown at the Lyceum Theatre Sunday, Nov. 16. n13.

DEER PARK

Oscar Olson and Ole Skreland visited in Hickory one day last week.

S. B. Swanson moved his family from the Highlanding vicinity, last week, to their new home in Hickory.

Geo. Singer, the Rhoda merchant and cattle buyer, left with a carload of stock for St. Paul last Saturday.

R. O. Gordon and Carl Magnel, two of the pioneer residents of Mayfield, were business callers at Oklee last Friday.

Selmer Swenson has returned from a trip down to Staples, going down with an auto, but on account of over a foot of snow near Park Rapids, was obliged to leave his auto and take the train home.

Einar Olson was at Oklee for a load of coal last Saturday.

S. C. Jenson and Sever Groethe and son Sigvold of Mayfield, were Oklee callers last Friday.

Oklee is getting to be quite a poultry market. Several hundred crates have been shipped during the past two weeks.

Frank Lundeen of Deer Park had the misfortune to lose two of his best work horses recently. One got cut in the wire and died from the effects and shortly after the other one stepped on a rusty nail and died of blood poisoning.

M. E. Hyland, one of our pioneer farmers, recently disposed of one of his farms here, to Ben Szimansky for $7,000 and expects to have an auction sale on all of his personal property soon. He intends to make his future home in the State of Washington.

The other day, while at Goodridge, we were informed by A. B. Mandt, manager of the new flour mill, recently built there, that the mill is now in full operation and things are moving along as well as can be expected, with the exception of a few minor details that will soon be adjusted. The flour that has been turned out is highly satisfactory, according to the statement of those that have tried out its merits. One of our merchants informed us that he is going to handle this Goodridge brand, because it is good and not only that, but he says it means a saving of about 80 cents on the barrel, on the purchase price, as against the older milling products.

PRIVATE TO "LOOT;" FALK HOME AGAIN

SERVED OVERSEAS IN DIFFERENT CAPACITIES—SAW MUCH COUNTRY.

Ralph Falk, who was graduated from the local high school with the '15 class, and who enlisted as a private in Company K of the First Minnesota shortly after the outbreak of the war with Germany, and rose in the ranks until commissioned second lieutenant and later first lieutenant, returned to Thief River Falls Monday morning for a visit with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Casper Falk.

Ralph is among the many Thief River Falls boys who made good while in the service of Uncle Sam and his advancement in the ranks is an example of what grit and determination will do. Enlisting at the beginning of the war to take his chance with the rest of the doughboys, Ralph was sent with the First Minnesota to Camp Cody for training. A call for candidates for the officers' training camp was made and he was admitted after having passed all the requirements for entry. He received his commission as a second lieutenant in May, 1918 and left for France in June with the June Automatic replacement draft from Camp Cody. Reaching France, Lieut. Falk was attached to the Third division until July 22, when he was sent to the large replacement camp at St. Aignan to serve on the staff of General Scott and was made assistant adjutant of the first depot division. He was later detailed to the staff of General Cole and served under him nutil after the armistice was signed, and then was sent to Tours to take up the work of secretary of the embarkation board and served in this capacity until the first part of December. He was then transferred to the general staff to take up the work of secretary of the first section and served in this position until January, when taken ill with the flu and sent to Nice to recuperate. After recovery he was made adjutant at the Riviere leave area and later sent back to Tours and then to Paris, where he was on duty, being attached to Col. Tait's staff at the peace conference. He returned to the United States on August 20th and went through the discharge camp at Hoboken on October 17th and since that time has been visiting with friends in New York, Patterson, N. J., St. Paul and Alexandria.

Lieut. Falk had expected to be discharged in France to take up a position with the American embassy as secretary. Lieut. Falk has no definite plans for the future although he has had several fine positions offered him and intends to return to New York the latter part of this month to look into a proposition that he has in view.

While on the other side of the water Lieut. Falk accompanied several relief commissions to Russia, the Balkan states, and visited Tripoli, going across the Mediterranian in an aeroplane.

COUNTY TEACHERS TO MEET NOV. 17-21

LYCEUM THEATRE

Lyceum Theatre Leads in Motion Pictures. Big Specials all Week

Friday, Nov. 14—
The Screen's Funniest Comedienne, DOROTHY GISH, in
"TURNING THE TABLES"

They said she was non compos mentis. Which, being interpreted means: "Funny in the head." So her crooked aunt and her aunt's crooked doctor packed her off to a sanitarium and proceeded to spend her money. Was she funny? She was. She is. But not in the head! And what she did do to Aunty, Doc and that crazy house. Don't dare to miss it. One big long side-achy laugh. Alo Comedy.

Saturday, Nov. 15—
Charming BESSIE BARRISCALE, in
"THE WOMAN MICHAEL MARRIED"
Also Fatty Arbuckle in "A Desert Hero" Funnier Than Ever.

Miss Barriscale wears the most gorgeous wardrobe in which she has ever appeared, alluring bathing suits, gorgeous party gowns and pretty sport clothes. She demanded marriage as a reward for heroism, and he paid. The strangest marriage on record.

Matinee: 2:30. Evening 7:30 and 9:10.

Sunday, Nov. 16—
Queenly IRENE CASTLE, in
"THE INVISIBLE BOND"

Actress, dancer, leader of fashion—in all these roles the name of Mrs. Vernon Castle is a household word. And in all these roles she appears in "The Invisible Bond." But beneath is something bigger, fuller, deeper—the role of Irene Castle as wife and mother. The story of a woman who saw another, in the fast sea of New York, lure away her husband, yet remained true and won in the end. Beautiful scenes, charming gowns, an absorbing drama and a splendid cast. Founded on Sophie Kerr Underwood's novel, "The See-Saw." You'll be mighty glad you came. Extra five-piece Special Orchestra.

Wednesday and Thursday, Nov. 19 and 20—
Wonderful DOROTHY DALTON, in
"L'APACHE"

An amazing vivid picture of the night life of Paris—of the "spenders" in garish cafes, of the strange "half-world" of the fierce Apaches. Two women. One, rich, frivilous, and worse; seeing the sparkle of life in the pleasure plalaces of the Boulevards; longing for love from the man who had tired of her. Another, poor, unfortunate, seeking escape from the Apache 'king' who was blighting her, body and soul. One night, these two women meet. The one, trembling from a wild dance. The other, crushed with shame and disillusionment. When the two men, their "masters," meet, two worlds of Paris rush together! The rest is a story you won't soon forget.

MAY USE FUNDS OF RED CROSS IN HOME WORK

SURPLUS CAN ONLY BE EMPLOYED FOR CIVILIAN RELIEF.

COUNTY NURSE IS NEEDED

SEAL COMMITTEE AND RED CROSS COOPERATE TO SECURE APPOINTMENT.

A public health meeting held in the Athletic club building at St. Paul was attended by Mrs. J. M. Bishop, state director for Pennington county, and County Agent J. J. McCann, director for the sale of Christmas Seals. Mrs. Bishop was chosen as one of the vice presidents of the state directors at this meeting. Plans for carrying on the sale of seals were outlined by Dr. Bradley, of St. Paul, and each county director was required to make a report of the progress of their plans in their respective counties. Pennington county having a population of 9276 is entitled to thirty-one $5.00 health bonds, seven $10.00 bonds, four $25.00, two $50.00 and one $100.00 bonds. The seal sale should be so thoro and complete that it will amount to 10 cents per capita for the population of the county. The larger amount per capita the greater will be the amount retained in the county to carry on the public health work for the following year. The Red Cross organization of each county will cooperate with the Christmas Seal directors in endeavoring to secure a county nurse.

Should Retain Surplus.

There is at the present time a fair surplus in the Red Cross fund in Pennington county and this will shortly have to be remitted to the state organization unless steps are taken to retain it for the benefit of people in the county. To this surplus will be added a portion of the money collected during the Red Cross Roll Call now under way and the total sum will be considerable. Under the rules of the Red Cross the money can only be used in civilian relief work and it has been suggested that a portion of it at least be devoted toward paying the expenses of a county nurse. In this manner the people who donated this money in the first place will receive direct benefit from it, otherwise it will go into the general treasury and be employed in the work carried on by the state and national organizations.

No Time to Lose.

This matter should be attended to at once. A call for this surplus may come at any time and it will have to be complied with unless steps have previously been taken to employ it in civilian relief locally. A trained nurse will soon be in the city to urge upon the authorities and citizens generally the importance of appointing a county nurse, this being the policy followed by a large number of counties in the state.

To Sell Christmas Seals.

A campaign manager has been appointed in each township in Pennington county who will be requested to assist, as much as possible, in the selling of Red Cross Christmas seals. Sales will also be carried on by the school children in the various localities. The township managers are as follows: Black River, Mrs. C. W. Johnson; Bray, Emil Larson; Cloverleaf, Miss Margaret Kotlan; Deer Park, Geo. Singer; Goodridge, Mrs. Geo. Larson; Hickory, H. C. Hanson; Highlanding, Mrs. William Korstad; Kratka, R. M. Johnson; Mayfield, Mrs. L. Rewerts; Norden, John Funnendahl; North, Waldie Christianson; Numedal, Mrs. Chas. Stevens; Polk Centre, C. R. Melin; Reiner, Mrs. Anton Knutson; River Falls, Mrs. Herman Jepson; Rocksbury, Mrs. Paul Englestad; Sanders, Rev. A. K. Lockren; Silverton, Mrs. Harry Woolson; Smiley, A. B. Newton; Star, Mrs. S. Trontegaard; Wyndotte, Isaac Wilson.

For Lieutenant Governor.

Oscar Arneson, St. Paul, has filed for the republican nomination for lieutenant governor. He is the first candidate to file for a state office in advance of the primary election next June. He filed for lieutenant governor, he said, to give other prospective candidates a clear field, so far as he is concerned, for the office of secretary of state, following reports that Secretary Julius A. Schmahl is to be a republican candidate for governor. His private business interest, he added, will not enable him to give his entire time to any state office.

Mr. Arneson has long been identified with the republican party in Minnesota. He was chief clerk of the house of representatives during the last seven regular and three extra sessions.

Free Concert.

Saturday evening, Nov. 15, there will be a concert given at the auditorium at which Miss Amy Ellerman, the famous contralto, will appear jointly with the Fleming Sisters Trio. Admission will be by ticket but these may be had free by applying at the store of the Thief River Music company. Details of this concert will be found in an advertisement on another page.

PURE BRED SALE IN RED LAKE COUNTY

HELD NOV. 19 AND INCLUDES FINE LIVESTOCK OF ALL KINDS.

There will be a great combination sale at Plummer, Red Lake county, Minnesota, Wednesday, Nov. 19, 1919, under the auspices of the Red Lake County Farm Bureau and Breeders' association.

On the above date will be offered 60 head of pure bred Shorthorns, 20 cows, 20 heifers and 20 bulls. This will be a grand opportunity to secure some of the best individuals that will be offered in the northern part of the state this season of both the milking strain and beef type; as this draft is being made from some of the best herds in the valley. In addition to this grand Shorthorn consignment there will be offered many pure bred Holstein and Hereford cattle, Percheron stallions and mares, French draft and Norman stallions, Poland China, Duroc Jersey and Chester White boars and gilts, Shropshire ewes and rams. Beside the pure bred entries the sale will contain 60 grade Shorthorn and Holstein cows and heifers, 200 breeding ewes and many good farm mares.

Watch for posters and catalogues listing same. Address all inquiries to C. C. Lake, County Agent, or Frank Jeffers, President of the Breeders' Association, Red Lake Falls, Minnesota. n13

New P. M. at Grygla.

I. D. Converse, now publisher of the Goodridge Banner, last week formally turned over the affairs of the Grygla postoffice to his successor, J. C. Wilson. Mr. Converse now promises to give all his attention to the getting out of his newspaper, something that has been impossible while he remained in the government employ.

WHAT IS A FARM? UNCLE SAM TELLS

What is a farm?

Foolish question, isn't it? Every man, woman and child in Pennington county knows just exactly what a farm is and can describe one in a moment.

But do you happen to know the interpretation Uncle Sam places on the word "farm" for census purposes? No? Then read how his Bureau of the Census defines the word:

"A farm for census purposes is all the land which is directly farmed by one person conducting agricultural operations, either by his own labor or with the assistance of members of his household or hired employees."

In further explanation of this definition the Census Bureau points out that the term "agricultural operations" is used as a general term referring to the work of growing crops, producing other agricultural products and raising domestic animals, poultry or bees.

From this definition it will be seen that a farm may consist of a single tract of land or of a number of separate and distinct tracts. And these several tracts may be held under different tenures as, for instance, when one tract is owned by the farmer and another is rented by him. Thus if a man who owns 100 acres rents an additional ten acres from some one else and operates both the 100 acres and the ten acres, then his "farm" includes both tracts of land comprising 110 acres.

By the same token when a landowner has one or more tenants, renters, croppers or managers, each different tract of land operated by any such tenant, renter, cropper or manager is considered a separate and distinct farm by the Census Bureau. Or, to give an example, if a man owning 120 acres of land rents 40 acres to a tenant and farms the remaining 80 acres himself, his farm is the 80 acres which he operates, not the 120 acres which he owns, while the 40 acre tract which he rents to a tenant comprises a separate farm to be reported in the name of the tenant.

Another question to be determined is how important does an agricultural enterprise have to be in order to secure recognition in the census as a farm? A small vegetable garden or a chicken yard accommodating a few busy hens will not be allowed to qualify as a "farm" in the census no matter with what pardonable pride and satisfaction the proprietor may view his agricultural enterprise.

But if the garden or chicken yard expands until it covers not less than three acres of ground, or until it requires for its care the continuous services of at least one person, or yields products annually to the value of $250 or more, it comes within the census definition of a farm and will be recognized as such and counted.

The agriculture schedule contains many questions regarding farm values, expenses and live stock as well as the acreage and quantity of crops raised in the year 1919. Census Bureau officials are urging farmers everywhere to prepare for the census enumerator by looking over their books and records so that accurate answers may be furnished to questions.

In this connection the Bureau of the Census emphasized the fact that the information furnished to census takers is absolutely confidential, made so by Act of Congress, and that under no circumstances can any such information be used as a basis for taxation.

"Co-operation between farmers and census officials next January is more necessary and vital than ever before," declares Director of the Census Sam L. Rogers. "The world war and the part that the farmer played in it and will continue to play in the rehabilitation of Europe serve to make the agriculture section of the Fourteenth Decennial Census the most important in the nation's history. Absolute accuracy and completeness in the census returns is the goal toward which every citizen should strive.

$1,400 FOR CLOVER SEED ON 23 ACRES

THIS SUM IS IN ADDITION TO AN EXCELLENT HAY CROP.

Clover is almost invariably a safe and profitable crop in this section, and a man can get more than $60 for the seed secured on each acre of his field. In addition to the hay the last item can be figured as practically clear profit.

A. A. Shoopman, residing in section 28 in the town of Rocksbury, managed things so that this result was obtained. He had 23 acres seeded to clover, cut a fine crop of hay in June and a short time ago threshed out $1400 worth of seed from the second cutting.

Mr. Shoopman first seeded this field to clover in 1916. The following season was unusually dry and the hay crop was cut in June with the idea of securing a seed supply. It was a backward year for hay everywhere but Mr. Shoopman's venture was profitable even at that. Conditions continued discouraging for clover thruout the spring of 1918 and the land was disked and seeded to oats. Last spring, however, the outlook was so promising that it was decided to allow the field to remain in clover rather than plow it up and the result proved the wisdom of this action. A good yield of hay was secured and when the second crop was threshed out a short time ago the seed secured brought $1400 in the market. The result would have been still better had a clover huller been employed in the threshing instead of an ordinary grain separator. The crop was absolutely free from foul seed of any kind and brought a premium because of its general excellence.

Mr. Shoopman's experiance is by no means unusual. Others have made good money during the past year by cutting the feed crop early and permitting the second growth to go to seed. It should be remembered that these results were secured at the close of seasons which have been the most discourging from a clover-growing standpoint of any in the history of the section.

Another feature to be considered in this connection is the effective manner in which clover has cleaned out sow thistle and other noxious weeds. It is the land-cleaner par excellence and effectively kills off everything of a foul nature that may attempt to get a foothold.

Leadership Through Service

A generation ago leadership in any industry was interpreted to mean the ruthless use of power.

Today it is recognized that leadership in industry is attained and maintained only when, through efficiency, an organization is able to render superior service.

A generation ago competition meant getting the business without regard for its effect on the industry.

Today competition means friendly rivalry in supplying the world with superior products at a minimum cost, and getting the business through superior service.

The Standard Oil Company (Indiana) enjoys a leading position in the petroleum industry, and is maintaining this leadership because it recognizes that this position can be measured only in terms of usefulness and service.

It is the ambition of those responsible for the activities of the Company to strengthen this leadership.

The Standard Oil Company (Indiana) believes that an organization can live and prosper only when it puts ideals of service above ideals of profit, which is exactly what the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) is doing. The profits earned are but a measure of the service rendered.

Thus does the Board of Directors of the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) interpret its obligation to the public and to the 4649 stockholders, not one of whom owns as much as 10 per cent of the total stock.

"The GREATEST of them all"

Head and shoulders above the crowd stands Thomas A. Edison!

"Head and shoulders" above the crowd of ordinary phonographs and "talking machines" stands Edison's great contribution to the world's enjoyment—

THE NEW DIAMOND AMBEROLA

No product can be bigger than the brain that evolves it. No other brain in the world today has the inventive ability of Edison's. That fact alone is sufficient proof of the absolute superiority of the Amberola.

But the Amberola can quickly and easily prove its own superiority. Its tone—oh, what a revelation, compared to metallic "talking machines" and shrill-sounding phonographs! None but Edison could work that miracle of tone.

Then the Amberol Records, made for the Amberola alone! They are practically unbreakable and everlasting—what a contrast to the costly fragileness of other phonograph records.

And for range of music—the widest in the world—all the best, all the greatest, all the latest. An endless feast of fascinating melody.

Yet the biggest surprise of all is the price! This wonder phonograph costs less than inferior competitors! There is not a single draw-back to your owning an Amberola right now!

Don't listen to the claims of other manufacturers—listen to their machines. Then come in and compare the matchless tone of the Amberola. Edison's wizardry will win you every time.

We'll expect you in today—now don't forget.

FREE Trial Offer

We will place an Amberola in your home for 3 Days' Trial, which will not put you under the slightest obligation or expense. Come here, select an Amberola and a number of records and we'll send them to your home. At the end of 3 days, if you do not want the Amberola, we'll call and take it away. If you do want it, we'll arrange terms of payment to suit you.

President Proclaims Thursday, Nov. 27, as Thanksgiving Day

Washington, Nov. 6.—President Wilson yesterday set aside Thursday, Nov. 27, as Thanksgiving day in a proclamation, which said the country looked forward "with confidence to the dawn of an era where the sacrifices of the nations will find recompense in a world peace." The proclamation follows:

"By the president of the United States of America: A proclamation—The season of the year has again arrived when the people of the United States are accustomed to unite in giving thanks to Almighty God for the blessings which He had conferred upon our country during the twelve months that have passed. A year ago our people poured out their hearts in praise and thanksgiving through divine aid the right was victorius and peace had come to the nations which had so courageously struggled in defense of human liberty and justice. Now that the stern task is ended and the fruits of achievement are ours we look forward with confidence to the dawn of an era where the sacrifice of the nations will find recompense in a world at peace.

RECONSECRATE THEMSELVES.

"But to attain the consummation of the great work to which the American people devoted their manhood and the vast resources of their country, they should, as they give thanks to God, reconsecrate themselves to these principles of right which triumphed through His merciful goodness. Our gratitude can find no more perfect expression than to bulwark with loyalty and patriotism these principles for which the free peoples of the earth fought and died.

"During the past year we have had much to make us grateful. In spite of the confusion in our economic life resulting from the war we have prospered. Our harvests have been plentiful and of our abundance we have been able to render succor to less favored nations. Our democracy remains unshaken in a world torn with political and social unrest. Our traditional ideals are still our guides in the path of progress and civilization.

FULLER SENSE OF DUTY.

"These great blessings, vouchsafed to us, for which we devoutly give thanks, should arouse us to a fuller sense of our duty to ourselves and to mankind to see to it that nothing we may do shall mar the completeness of the victory which we helped to win. No selfish purpose animated us in becoming a participant in the World war, and with a like spirit of unselfishness we should strive to aid by our example and by our co-operation in realizing the enduring welfare of all peoples and in bringing into being a world ruled by friendship and good will.

"Therefore, I, Woodrow Wilson, president of the United States of America, hereby designate Thursday, the 27th day of November, next, for observance as a day of thanksgiving and prayer by my fellow countrymen, inviting them to cease on that day from their ordinary tasks and to unite in their homes and in their several places of worship in ascribing praise and thanksgiving to God, the author of all blessings and the master of our destinies.

"In witness whereof, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the seal of the United States to be affixed.

"Done in the District of Columbia, this 5th day of November, in the year of our Lord, one thousand nine hundred and nineteen, and of the Independence of the United States the one hundred and forty-fourth.

"WOODROW WILSON.

"By the President:
"ROBERT LANSING, Secretary of State."

Criticism and Citizenship

It is the plain, public duty of every citizen to criticize proposed government measures believed to be harmful.

Swift & Company is in a better position perhaps, than others, to understand the meat packing business in all its relations to public and private interests, even though the others may have been giving the subject a great deal of sincere attention.

Swift & Company is convinced that interference with its legitimate business function by governmental agencies, however well intentioned, would be an injury to every man, woman and child who wants meat to eat, as well as to the men who raise the meat and to those who dress and distribute it.

Maximum service that cannot monopolize because of keen competition and lack of control over sources of supply is furnished at a minimum of profit—a fraction of a cent per pound from all sources.

These advertisements are intended to help you, and to help Congress decide what is best to be done. Mistakes are costly and apt to be harmful in these trying times.

CAPTAIN COOKE FEELS FINE NOW

VETERAN CONDUCTOR PRAISES TANLAC FOR OVERCOMING HIS TROUBLES.

"A few bottles of Tanlac has made me feel just like a new man," was the statement made by Capt. F. M. Cooke, residing at 144 East Winifred St., St. Paul, Minn., recently. Captain Cooke has been a conducter on the Great Northern Railroad for fifteen years, and is one of the most popular men in the service of the company.

"For years," continued Captain Cooke, "I suffered from stomach trouble and had scarcely any appetite, and what little I ate disagreed with me so that I would become terribly nauseated. Gas would form on my stomach and affect my heart so I could hardly breathe. I had terrible headaches that would last for two or three weeks at a time and nearly drive me wild, and I would become so dizzy at times that I would have to grab hold of something to keep from falling. My nerves got in such bad shape I could sleep very little, and I would get up in the morning feeling dull and heavy and all run down.

"Nothing I tried seemed to do me any good, and I kept getting worse all the time. A few weeks ago some one suggested that I try Tanlac and I got a bottle and began taking it, and after taking two bottles I felt a great deal better. I have a fine appetite now, and what I eat agrees with me perfectly. Gas has quit forming in my stomach and I am not troubled with shortness of breath. I never have any more headaches or dizzy spells and can sleep fine, and get up in the morning feeling full of life and energy. I never felt better in my life, and feel at least ten years younger. I am very grateful for what this Tanlac has done for me."

60 MILLIONS GAIN IN CO-OPERATIVES

FARMERS ORGANIZATIONS, EXCEPT STORES, ALSO INCREASE IN NUMBER.

Farmers' cooperative business organizations in Minnesota increased their business $60,450,000 between 1913 and 1917. This is shown by a compilation of figures in a new bulletin on, "Farmers' Cooperation in Minnesota, 1913-1917" by John D. Black and Frank Robotka, of the division of research and agricultural economics, Minnesota college of agriculture. The bulletin shows an increase of 950 associations of various sorts.

Cooperative creameries increased from 613 in 1913 to 643 in 1917, with a growth in business from $21,676,252 to $31,012,200; farmers' elevators, an increase from 270 to 360 in number, and from $24,000,000 to $45,000,000 in business; livestock shipping associations from 115 to 400 in number, and from $6,000,000 to $33,000,000 in business; cheese factories from 34 to 52, and from $637,224 to $986,000; fire insurance companies from 154 to 159 and from $686,732 to $712,606; telephone companies from 600 to 950, and from $900,000 to $1,200,000.

Cooperative stores fell off in number but increased in business. In 1913 there were 115 and in 1917 there were 102, but with an increase in business from $4,250,000 to $6,500,000. Potato warehouses fell off from 20 to 15 but their business increased from $100,000 to $300,000.

ROSEWOOD

Sagmoen-Wahlbeck Nuptials.

At Thief River Falls last Saturday occurred the marriage of Miss Ebba Wahlbeck of St. Hilaire to Rudolph Sagmoen of this place. Miss Isabel Sagmoen acted as bridesmaid and Henry Sagmoen as best man. The newlyweds are both well known young people of this neighborhood, Mr. Sagmoen having been brought into manhood in this community and Miss Wahlbeck has for the last two years been engaged as teacher at the Busy Bee school, north of this place, a position which she still retains. Mr. Sagmoen has for some time past been engaged in farming pursuits near Anita and the happy couple will go to housekeeping there in the immediate future. The entire neighborhood's cordial congratulations are extended.

A. C. Vorseth was at Thief River Falls last Sunday on visiting and business.

Oscar Bergland returned on Saturday morning to visit with his parents for some time.

Axel Bloom left last Tuesday for Hazel where he will assist with the home work at the John Sjoberg farm for some time, Mr. Sjoberg being confined to the Warren hospital undergoing an operation.

Carl Bloom intends to commence baling hay and flax straw for shipping in the near future.

Miss Hannah Helquist left on Tuesday for a couple days shopping and visiting tour to Thief River Falls.

Nels Axelson who has been employed as a farm hand near Angus, this summer, came home last Wednesday and will spend some time with his parents.

Miss Viola Axelson returned to Thief River Falls last Saturday to resume her work at the home of Dr. G. W. Booren, after spending a few days with her parents here.

Mr. and Mrs. Nels Holm of Twin Valley, arrived here last Saturday for a few days' visit with their son, A. S. Holm, cashier at the Farmers State bank.

Thom Holten returned on Friday from Murray county, where he had spent the last two weeks visiting with his parents.

Rudolph, Henry and Isabel Sagmoen and Ebba Wahlbeck left last Friday evening for Thief River Falls and St. Hilaire, where they visited over Sunday.

A. S. Holm has erected a new garage for his automobile.

The Farmers State bank will receive a car of Golden Diamond flour and feed from Gully by next Tuesday and expects to make an attempt in introducing that brand to the people of this community.

Callus? "Gets-It" Will Peel It Off!

Nothing on Earth Like Simple "Gets-It" for Corns or Calluses.

A callus, or thickened skin on the sole of the foot, which often makes walking a misery is of the same nature as a corn. "Gets-It"

Use "Gets-It" and Dance, Even with Corns

removes it as easily as it does the toughest corns. By using a few drops of "Gets-It" on the callus, you will be able to peel it off with your fingers, in one complete piece just as you would a banana peel. It leaves the skin free and smooth as though you never had a callus. You need no more fussy plasters, sticky tape, "packagey" bandages, knives or scissors for corns or calluses. "Gets-It" is the national corn remover, the biggest on earth, used by millions. It never fails. You'll work, play and dance at ease in spite of corns. "Gets-It," the only sure, guaranteed, money-back corn-remover, costs but a trifle at any drug store. M'f'd by E. Lawrence & Co., Chicago, Ill.

Sold in Thief River Falls and recommended as the world's best corn remedy by J. P. Curtis and Lambert's Drug Stores.

Lay a bet on rolling 'em with

PRINCE ALBERT

Rolling your own cigarettes with Prince Albert is just about as joy'us a sideline as you ever carried around in your grip! For, take it at any angle, you never got such quality, flavor, fragrance and coolness in a makin's cigarette in your life as every "P. A. home-made" will present you!

Prince Albert puts new smokenotions under your bonnet! It's so delightful rolled into a cigarette—and, so easy to roll! And, you just take to it like you been doing it since away back! You see, P. A. is crimp cut and a cinch to handle! It stays put—and you don't lose a lot when you start to hug the paper around the tobacco!

You'll like Prince Albert in a jimmy pipe as much as you do in a home-rolled cigarette, too! Bite and parch are cut out by our exclusive patented process. You know P. A. is the tobacco that has led three men to smoke pipes where one was smoked before. Yes sir, Prince Albert blazed the way. And, me-o-my, what a wad of smokesport will ripple your way every time you fill up!

Awaiting your say-so, you'll find toppy red bags, tidy red tins, handsome pound and half pound tin humidors—and—that classy, practical pound crystal glass humidor with sponge moistener top that keeps Prince Albert in such perfect condition!

NAPLIN WINS CASE IN COURT MONDAY

SCHOOL DISTRICT NO. 8 MUST PAY BALANCE DUE PAINTERS FOR WORK.

Judgment in the sum of $240 with interest at six per cent and the costs of the action, was rendered against Dependent School District No. 8, at Goodridge, in favor of Mousley & Glines, local painters, in Municipal court Monday morning.

The action was started by the local painting firm to recover the balance which they claim is due them for services rendered at the Goodridge school house. Attorney Naplin represented the plaintiffs.

C. E. Glines, of the firm of Mousley & Glines, was first called to the stand and told of the proceedings between the firm and Nick Bundlund and C. G. Gulrud, who represented the school board. Mr. Glines stated there was no written contract but that there was a verbal agreement between them to go ahead with the work after the Mousley & Glines bid had been accepted.

The work consumed eleven days, Mr. Glines said, and all material was furnished by them. The sum agreed upon for the job was $525. After the job was completed the painters were also asked to do some additional work in decorating and painting and this amounted to $15 more. Mr. Glines said on the stand that their work was approved by the school board representatives and were given $300 as part payment for the job, fifteen minutes after they were through, leaving a balance of $240.

Word has been received in this city of the death of Mrs. Henry A. Olson at the home of her mother, Mrs. F. Holten, in Kansas City, Kan. Mrs. Olson was formerly Miss Ethel Hibbits, and well known to local people as she resided here a few years ago and was also graduated from the local high school with the class of 1915.

STEINER

Mathias O. Saugen.

On Monday morning, Nov. 3, at his home one and one-half miles west of Steiner, occurred the death of Mathias O. Saugen, after one and a half week's illness. Mr. Saugen was born at Ringsaker, Hedemarken, Norway on June 22, 1864, making the age at the time of his death 55 years, 4 months and 12 days. In 1893 he emigrated to America. He lived for some time at Newfolden, Minn. In 1896 he was united in marriage to his surviving widow. Mr. Saugen was a true Christian man. He was a member of the Rindal church congregation, an active worker, always ready to do his bit for the Master. He was also a good and loving husband and a beloved father. He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Bertha Saugen, seven children, five daughters and two sons, as follows: Inga, Celia, Evelyn, Otto, Melvin, Thea and Bernice, besides other relatives. He also leaves a great host of friends to mourn his loss. The funeral services were conducted from the Rindal church Wednesday afternoon, the remains laid to rest in the cemetery there. P. B. Malberg and Peter Solem of this place were among the pall bearers. The bereaved family has the sympathy of the entire neighborhood and other friends in their sad bereavement.

Arthur Bartson commenced threshing in this community Thursday afternoon after a couple weeks' vacation on account of unfavorable weather.

Miss Alice Solem, a nurse at the Physicians hospital at Thief River Falls, arrived here Wednesday noon to attend the funeral of M. O. Saugen and also to visit the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Peter Solem.

Miss Irene Malberg drove to Thief River Falls Saturday afternoon for a business visit.

People from Newfolden came to the Saugen home Wednesday to attend the funeral of Mr. Saugen.

C. A. Swanson was a business visitor at Thief River Falls last Tuesday.

Fred Copp made a business trip to Thief River Falls Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs. John Christianson of this place have sold their farm with the intention of moving away.

Mrs. Bertha Saugen and son, Otto, were among business visitors at Thief River Falls from this vicinity last Saturday.

GEOLOGICAL MAPS TO SEVEN SCHOOLS

MARIE BLASKA OF ROCKSBURY TOWNSHIP, PRESENTS BEST ESSAY ON "THRIFT."

Seven Pennington county schools will be entitled to the geological survery maps offered for essays on the subject of "Thrift." The best essay was submitted by Miss Marie Blaska, 7th grade, district number 54, Rocksbury township, entitled "The History of A War Stamp," and reads as follows:

"Our country was in war with Germany and we had to send money to our boys 'over there.' We had to see that they had food and clothing. In order to do this we had to have money and this led to the selling of War Savings Stamps. When the people bought these they had to make a pledge to save more and not buy unnecessary things.

"When I was younger I did not really know what saving was because one day when my brother and I went to town we went into the store and got some bananas. We got half a dozen and handed the clerk 50 cents. The bananas were only 25 cents and before he had given us the 25 cents we had gone out of the store. When we came home my mother did not ask us for the change but said I could keep the uatter and buy a thrift stamp, because I only needed one more to fill my card. Then I remembered that we gave the clerk a fifty cent piece and spent 25 cents for bananas and that we should have a quarter back so I went to the store and got my quarter and filled the thrift card with stamps. I never realized what saving was before the war broke out, but the war conditions taught me as well as others to save."

NAMED OFFICER OF STATE HEALTH ASSN.

MRS. J. M. BISHOP NAMED VICE PRESIDENT AT STATE MEETING.

Mrs. J. M. Bishop was named as vice president of the Minnesota Public Health association at the annual meeting held in St. Paul the latter part of last week. Mrs. C. A. Severance of St. Paul, was also named as vice president while Governor J. A. A. Burnquist and Dr. Marion L. Burton were chosen honorary vice presidents. Mrs. Bishop is also a director of the association.

Dr. C. L. Schofield, of Benson, was elected president succeeding Dr. W. B. Beebe.

Less money spent by legislators in the establishment of institutions for the physically and mentally infirm, and more money spent for educational work to prevent these mental and physical infirmities should be the aim of the people of Minnesota, according to Dr. F. B. Moorhead, of the Illinois university, who spoke at the association meeting. He strongly urged the establishing of clinics in the schools with examinations periodically for contagious diseases.

At the annual meeting the reports of the officers were read, showing the growth and finances of the organization. The Red Cross Christmas Seal drive was discussed and the final plans demonstrated by Otto Bradley, state campaign director and Mrs. Severance, state chairman.

During her stay in the Twin Cities, Mrs. Bishop also attended a meeting of the Y. W. C. A., and several sessions of the state educational association.

War Still On Says Judge; Hog Raising Legitimate

A debate over hog raising is waxing warm between Judge Tarrant and City Attorney Quale. His honor butchered his two hogs last week and now has 600 pounds of pork for winter besides his basement is crammed full of products from his wonderful garden, all of this being necessary to keep the wolf away. Judge Tarrant dislikes wolves but likes hogs when they grow fast and get big.

Anyway the debate is on and the city attorney says there is an ordinance against hog raising within the city limits.

During the war the ordinance was disregarded and hog raising became popular. The city council at a meeting August 12, favored the continuance of the war food measure to fight the H. C. L., and assured the citizens they would not be molested by city authorities if the pens were kept in good condition.

"President Wilson urged the raising of hogs and big gardens during the war," says Judge Tarrant, "and technically we are still in a state of war, because Congress has not as yet ratified either the German or Austrian treaties."

OCTOBER UNRULY; MUCH EARLY SNOW

The weather man did not behave well in Thief River Falls during the month of October, according to the report issued by Louis Rayson, meterologist. There is a vast difference in the weather for October, 1918, and that of this year and one has to call on some of the old timers for a precedent.

The mean maximum temperature for October was 44.58 and the mean minimum temperature was 22.9. The hottest day of the month was on the 8th when the temperature reached 78 degrees and the coldest day was the 26th day of October when the mercury dropped down to 11 degrees below, something unheard of for October weather.

In October, 1918, the mean maximum temperature was 54.64 and the mean minimum temperature was 35.87. The hottest day was on October 11 when the mercury reached 75 degrees and the coldest days were October 3 and 31 when the temperature was 25 degrees above.

During October there was a total of 1.26 inches of rainfall compared to 2.58 inches for the same month in 1918. The greatest precipitation in 24 hours during October, 1919, was 46 inches on the 24th. In October, 1918, the greatest precipitation in 24 hours was .97 inches on the 22nd.

There was a total of 6.09 inches of snowfall during October, just passed, compared to .05 inches in 1918, and at the end of October, 1918, there was no snow while there remained 6.09 inches on the ground this year at the close of October.

There were 9 days with more than .01 inch or more precipitation in October, 1919, as compared to eight days in 1918.

During the month just passed there were 17 days that were clear, 1 partly cloudy and 14 cloudy. Miscellaneous phenomena stated there were thunderstorms on the 1st and 4th of October.

BAND WILL GIVE BIG CONCERT SOON

FIRST INDOOR PROGRAM WILL BE GIVEN SOME TIME THIS MONTH.

The Thief River Falls band, under the directorship of D. J. Cordes, will give their first indoor concert at the Auditorium some time during this month, according to present plans of the band boys. A Thanksgiving day concert has been suggested to be given on the afternoon of that day.

The band's music library was increased the first of the week when a shipment of new numbers arrived and in this is included some very fine concert numbers rarely touched by ordinary city bands.

These new numbers are now being rehearsed and the boys are going thru them in astonishing manner. On the program to be given this month will be massed numbers by the band, duets, trios and a vocal and piano solo, if possible.

The exact day will be announced in a later issue of The Times and lovers of good music can look forward to a concert of exceptional merit.

LaBudde is Welcomed.

Gonvick Banner: Two young people to become connected with the Farmers State bank recently are Miss Olga Nettum of Crookston and A. F. LaBudde of Thief River Falls. Miss Nettum is an expert stenographer and previous to coming to Gonvick was for five years stenographer in the office of Supt. Selvig of the University Farm School at Crookston. Mr. LaBudde needs no introduction to the people of Gonvick and vicinity. He has held positions in both Gonvick banks. Leaving here about five years ago he became associated with the First National bank of Thief River Falls and later entered military service. Discharged from the army last spring he returned to his old position in the Pennington county metropolis. He arrived here Monday. Mr. LaBudde's five years of absence from Gonvick has only served to make him a bigger booster for the little Soo city, as was evident by the manner in which he took hold of the band proposition on his first day in town and put over some good work for the organization. Gonvick welcomes "Bud" back to town and is pleased to again count him as one of its citizens.

Property Returned.

The offer of the Commercial club of a $25 reward for information leading to the arrest and conviction of the party or parties, who stole the billard balls from the rooms, has been withdrawn. The balls after being missing for several days showed up the latter part of last week.

PRINCIPALS IN FIGHT ASSESSED $10 EACH

COURT DECIDES THAT BOTH PARTIES WERE GUILTY OF VIOLATING LAW.

A fight that closely resembled the kind seen in the movies of Alaskan frontier days, was related in Municipal court last Thursday and Friday afternoons when the cases of Fred Larson and Bernard Williams, charged with having violated the city ordinance which prohibits fighting, were tried.

The court decided that both parties were guilty of having violated the ordinance and imposed a fine of $10 apiece upon the defendants. The court stated that the fine was more of a warning to both parties.

The case of the City of Thief River Falls against Larson was tried Thursday afternoon, it being necessary to postpone the Williams case until Friday by reason of the fact that it was impossible to secure the main witness before that time. Attorney Boughton represented Larson.

Williams was first called to the stand and told how he had been struck with a slot match box machine on the head, cutting a deep gash in his scalp; how they then "had it out," Larson running to the kitchen and Williams hot after him. Williams stated he did not knock the telephone out of Larson's hands when he attempted to call for the police. Williams then told how they both fell down in the coal room and how Larson grabbed the ax and ordered him out.

Fred Larson was called to the stand by Attorney Boughton and related how it all started, stating that he had asked Williams to get out and that he received a right slap to the jaw in return. Larson said he ran to the kitchen in an attempt to get out but found all the doors locked and in the mix-up that followed both men fell down. Larson said he couldn't recall having struck Williams with the ax.

Mrs. Larson was also called to the stand and told practically the same story as her husband. Margaret Johnson also was a witness for Larson. At the close of Thursday's case the court stated that no decision would be made until the Williams case had been tried.

Hilmer Danielson was the first witness called Friday afternoon and testified to what he saw. Danielson said Williams was struck first with the large slot machine and the fight then started.

Big Deal by Wintons.

Application for incorporation of The Pas Lumber company, with a capitalization of $1,000,000, will be made at Winnipeg, Can., this week by C. J. and D. N. Winton and Alvin Robertson, all of Minneapolis, as the first step in organizing one of the largest lumber companies in the northwest, according to Winnipeg dispatches. The corporation will be formed to handle the business purchased recently from the Finger Lumber company for approximately $1,100,000.

D. N. Winton will be president of the corporation. The other officers will be: C. J. Winton, vice president; Mr. Robertson, treasurer; and A. L. Mattes, secretary and manager. Headquarters will be maintained at Winnipeg.

The property purchased from the Finger Lumber company includes 824 miles of timber limits in the Pas district, one of the largest saw mills in Canada plants and logging equipment. The deal becomes effective immediately and possession is to be transferred within a month.

Many Hear Pastor.

In spite of the raging blizzard Monday evening, there was a large attendance at the Trinity Lutheran church services at which time Rev. S. J. N. Ylvesaker, of Fergus Falls spoke. Rev. Ylvesaker is one of the best known pastors of this denomination in the United States and he showed he was a speaker of great force.

More time for the things you want to do

But it takes more time in some stores than in others.

In our store we save your time by giving you the service which you have a right to expect from your grocer.

And in addition we give you merchandise of the highest quality at honest prices, and cheerfully take back anything that isn't perfectly satisfactory.

An example of the kind of groceries we carry and recommend to you is RYZON Baking Powder.

Here is a baking powder we know you'll like. It produces excellent results and you can always depend upon it. Besides it is pure, clean and economical. And honestly priced at 40 cents a pound.

TEACHERS TELL WHY THEY NOW ASK MORE PAY

PRESENT THEIR CASE TO PEOPLE OF DISTRICT IN OPEN LETTER.

CLAIM LOW SCALE IS PAID

MAKE COMPARISONS WITH SALARIES IN OTHER MINNESOTA CITIES.

Teachers in the public schools of Thief River Falls are asking that their salaries be increased. The claim is made that the compensation here is not sufficient to permit of the best results being obtained in the schools and that it is below the rate maintained in other communities of the same size.

The teachers have decided to take their case directly to the people and have therefore submitted the following open letter for publication in the columns of The Times:

"The teachers in the Thief River Falls schools wish to call to your attention the following facts in regard to the nation-wide movement for better paid teachers.

"Better paid teachers means not only an increase in salary but in addition a force of teachers who will be more efficient and progressive, as they then will be able to spend more time and money for additional training.

"We have noticed that all progressive schools, not only in our own state, but in others, have recognized this movement and have offered substantial increases in salary to their teaching staff.

"We believe that Thief River Falls is a progressive community and as such wishes to make its school, as an expression of their attitude, rank among the foremost in the state. We, as progressive teachers, have made the necessary investigations and thru these we have secured the following information:

Others Grant Increases.

"Bemidji has since the opening of the present school year given a blind raise of $10, regardless of previous salary, setting the minimum for grade teachers at $100. Little Falls has since September given a blind raise of $15, making the minimum salary in the grades $92.50 and the high school accordingly. Fargo, East Grand Forks and Fergus Falls have met the same situation with salary increases. Sauk Center has a minimum grade salary of $90; junior high school principal, $133.50. The Brainerd grade minimum is $85. The minimum for grade teachers at Crookston has been raised from $83.50 to $85, and another $10 raise has recently been voted which raises the salaries to $93.50 and $95.00

Higher Pay Elsewhere.

"As many as eight of the grade teachers who were here last year and have gone to various other parts of the state have been heard from recently and none of them are receiving less than $100 while some get $120 and $125.

"Grand Forks pays the principal of a grade building $1400. Jamestown pays the junior high principal $135, the principal of a four-room building $117, and grade teachers of five years' experience $100 to $105. New Rockford, N. D., pays inexperienced high school teachers $120.

"The state department is now sending out inquiries in regard to wages because of the fact that so many towns have raised their teachers' wages since September that they have been unable to keep correct statistics on file.

A Few Comparisons.

"Now let us compare the salaries of other women employed in Thief River Falls with those received by teachers: Railroad clerks receive $1350, $1272, $1300, $1200 and $1010. Postoffice employes receive a salary of $1272 or more. Stenographers in banks and grocery houses receive from $900 to $1200 per year, and more. Special nurses are being paid $35 per week, board and room in addition.

"In comparison with these note the following: Grade teachers in Thief River Falls receive an annual salary of $720; junior high school teachers and grade principals $765, and high school teachers $945.

Increased Cost of Living.

"Let us now compare the living expenses at the present time with those of last year. We find:

"Room rent has increased from $1 to $3.

"Breakfasts have increased from 15 cents to 25 cents, making a total of $3 per month.

"Meal tickets have increased from $5.50 to $7, making a total increase of $1.50 a month for board alone.

"The total increase in the cost of board and room therefore amounts to from $8.50 to $10.50 per month while salaries were increased from $3 to $6 per month.

"Furthermore, we received ten month's pay last year, which makes our present salary a decrease from last year's.

The Clothing Bill.

"In addition, teachers are expected to be respectably clad and—consider the present range of prices. For instance, a grade teacher would have to use practically her whole salary for three months, except what she pays for board and room, in order to pay for a winter coat—only one garment of a woman's wearing apparel. There are teachers in this city who are now giving their garments their fourth and fifth season of wear.

"Considering all the above-mentioned facts, is it not fair that we ask for and receive an increase in wages large enough to meet the present conditions?"

STORES WILL CLOSE THANKSGIVING DAY

The public is hereby notified that stores in the city of Thief River Falls will be closed all day next Thursday—Thanksgiving Day. In order to accommodate the public the business places will remain open until 11 o'clock on Wednesday evening.

CLOSING COMMITTEE OF MERCHANTS' ASS'N.

LEGION SPONSORS CONCERT-LECTURE

The America First concert company, with Dr. Fritz Osten-Sacken, lecturer, will appear at the auditorium, Thief River Falls, for three entertainments on Nov. 21 and 22, under the auspices of Elmer J. Eklund Post No. 117, American Legion.

Dr. Osten-Sacken needs no introduction to the citizens of Thief River Falls, having delivered an address here during the war. He was at that time urging our people to put forth every effort to bring the conflict to a victorious conclusion, in spite of the fact that he is himself of German birth and education. His speech was one of the noteworthy events of those stirring times. His subject for the coming lecture is "Americanization and the Reconstruction Period," and reports from cities in which he has appeared are to the effect that his message is well worth hearing.

The America First Concert company is headed by Miss Amy Dorith, soprano, formerly prima donna with the Metropolitan Grand Opera company, the other artists in the company being Edna Lee, cello-violinist; Thera Noble, violin-banjo, and Robert H. Souther, pianist-accompanist.

There will be three different and distinct programs presented, the first on Friday evening, a matinee on Saturday and an evening performance the same day. The admission price has been fixed at 50 cents for each entertainment or $1.00 for a ticket admitting to the series. A special rate of 25 cents will be made for all school children for the matinee on Saturday, there will be no reserved seats but tickets may be secured in advance from any member of the post or at Lambert's drug store. Tickets for the matinee will be distributed among the children by City Superintendent W. A. Ziegler and County Superintendent G. M. Gunderson.

L. H. Lawrence is chairman of the committee on arrangements; George Werstlein and E. P. Brevig will look after the distribution of tickets, and John Brumund is in charge of the school arrangements and slides.

A large attendance is expected from neighboring towns, especially those in Pennington county.

JUDGE GILBERT TO DELIVER ADDRESS

HEAD OF SONS OF NORWAY TO TALK ON IMPORTANT ISSUES OF DAY.

Issues now confronting the world in general and particularly the people of America, will be discussed by Judge T. O. Gilbert, of Willmar, president of the grand lodge of the Sons of Norway, at the auditorium tonight.

There will be no admission charged and a general invitation is extended to the public. Judge Gilbert will give the address in the American language and the subjects to be discussed will be of interest to everyone.

The speaker is an orator of renown and is a close student of events and will give his views of the many topics that are being widely discussed at the present time.

LAWRENCE AGAIN LYCEUM MANAGER

SHORT INVESTIGATION CONVINCES HIM THIS CITY IS GOOD PLACE.

A. J. Lawrence last Thursday again assumed charge of the Lyceum theatre. About two months ago he sold his interests to a stock company headed by W. J. Brown and Jordan Penney and began looking around for another location. He had no trouble in finding openings but after investigating a number of alleged opportunities he decided that none were equal to the one he had let go and he opened negotiations for the repurchase of the theatre.

Mr. Lawrence will follow the policy which experience has proven most successful here. The best shows obtainable will be booked, care being at all times taken that nothing of an objectionable nature shall be presented.

HOUSE PROBLEM DISCUSSED AT CLUB MEETING

COMMITTEE APPOINTED TO LOOK INTO MATTER AND REPORT LATER.

MAY BE APARTMENT HOUSE

PLAN IS PRESENTED BY M. V. EVENSON TO BUILD ONE HOUSE TO START.

The erection of a modern and up-to-date apartment house, large enough to accommodate at least twenty families, by the business men of Thief River Falls, was the plan presented by M. V. Evenson at a regular meeting of the Commercial club last Thursday evening when the housing problem came up for discussion.

It was pointed out at the meeting that every week people come to this city with the intention of locating here, but because of the fact that there are no houses available, fit to live in, they are obliged to move out.

Mr. Evenson's plan to meet the housing problem, which is among the many questions that must be dealt with at once to keep pace with the advance of the city, is to organize the businessmen and build a large apartment house capable of housing twenty families.

Committee to Report.

A committee composed of M. V. Evenson, chairman, F. H. Herrick and Math. Barzen was named to look into the question with orders to report on the matter at the next regular meeting.

More Patronage.

If such a plan could be worked out, there would be a nominal return on the money invested, according to Mr. Evenson's theory, while the real return on the money invested would result from the additional patronage to all the stores—a patronage they are now losing. To begin with one house would be built, according to the plan, and more could be built later as the occasion demands. Considerable enthusiasm and interest was shown in the subject and all realized that it was necessary to take steps along this line.

The housing problem in Thief River Falls is another bugbear that has to be dealt with as well as the paving, sewer, water and light problems.

MEMORIAL SERVICES OF ELKS ON DEC. 7

The annual memorial services of B. P. O. Elks Lodge No. 1308 will be held at the Masonic Temple on Sunday afternoon, Dec. 7, at 2:15 o'clock.

Charles R. Middelton, of Baudette, has been secured to give the memorial address. Mr. Middelton is one of the attorneys at that bustling city and is well known to many Thief River Falls people and the lodge feels fortunate in securing his services.

A committee composed of G. Howard Smith, J. W. Hendry and Fred C. Niclai has been appointed to arrange a suitable musical program that will be given during the memorial services.

All members of the lodge and their families are requested to be present besides the general public is invited to attend.

NO SHUT-DOWN IN BUILDING CIRCLES

CONTRACTORS WELCOME SHIFT IN WEATHER AND WORK IS PROGRESSING.

With the advent of warmer weather, contractors who are holding contracts for various jobs in the city are rushing the work along at a rapid pace. Their work has been impeded considerably by the weather but the sudden change is welcomed by them and they are taking full advantage of it.

Bricklayers commenced work the latter part of last week on the new Jung Brothers bake shop and have erected the oven and the laying of though the south and east basement brick for the walls is now progressing in fine shape. At the present rate the structure will be completed in short order.

A large crew of men is employed in excavating ground for the basement of the new Revdahl & Co., sash and door factory, the dimensions of which are 100x50 feet. This is to be a one story brick structure and the work is being rushed. The basement is practically dug and material is on the ground to begin pouring cement as soon as possible.

Workmen on Monday began pouring cement at the Kiewel building, all walls are finished, and bricklaying will be commenced when the walls are in shape to allow this work to start. C. Severson of Crookston holds the contract. A large supply of brick is on hand so there will be no delay when the bricklayers take up the work.

C. M. Carlson on Monday began making changes at the Scandia block in the room formerly occupied by the Cronstrom grocery. Lambert's drug store will be moved to this room on its completion, after which the vacated room will undergo changes and the old store front will be torn out and remodeled for the future home of the First and Peoples' State bank. The basement and walls of the addition to the bank have been completed and bricklayers will soon begin operations.

Workmen are also busy at the high school erecting the boards in the basement preparatory to the pouring of the cement for the walls.

Another Ice Cutter Up.

Charged with having made a cutting in the Red Lake river in the town of North and having failed to erect proper barrier around the opening, as required by law, for safety purposes, Roy Halda was arrested on Thursday of last week on complaint of H. J. Rustad. Halda appeared before Municipal Judge Tarrant and was fined $25, the fine being suspended upon the recommendation of City Attorney Quale. This was the second case last week involving ice cutters.

WINNING LAMBS TO COMPETE AT STATE EXHIBIT

TWO THOUSAND PEOPLE VIEW DISPLAY AT CITIZENS BANK LAST SATURADY

EXHIBIT FINE SPECIMENS

ARRANGEMENTS MADE FOR SECURING 25 THOROUGHBRED RAMS FOR DISTRICT

While the number of entries at the first annual exhibition of the Pennington County Boys' and Girls' Lamb club did not quite reach the figure expected, no fault can be found with the interest taken in the event. Because of bad roads and unfavorable weather there were only 11 entries, but these were of excellent quality and two of them were deemed sufficiently good to warrant their being entered as competitors at the state show held in South St. Paul this week.

All Spring Lambs.

The lambs displayed were all born since March 1, most of them having been dropped in April and May. They showed the effect of care and good judgment in feeding, being well fleeced and weighing up to 120 pounds. All were Shropshires except that exhibited by Alvin Stenberg of Thief River Falls, which was an Oxford. Nothing but grade stock was shown, not an animal being in the registered class.

Now at South St. Paul.

Olaf Ramstad, who has taken a great interest in the securing of sheep for the farmers of this section, accompanied Misses Virgil Denhart and Ruth Satre to the state show, their lambs being sent at the same time. This big exhibit is being held this week and boys and girls clubs from all over the state are entering their pets.

While on this trip Mr. Ramstad will also secure about 25 thorobred rams for distribution among the sheep raisers of the neighborhood.

Will be Repeated.

So successful was this first exhibit that it will be repeated on a larger scale next year. An unusual feature of the show was the fact of its being held in the lobby of the Citizens' bank building, a fact on which the officers of that institution have been highly complimented. Much credit for the success of the undertaking is also due County Agent J. J. McCann and A. J. Anderson, assistant cashier of the bank.

Standing of Contestants.

Following is the rotation in which the awards were made by the judges: Virgil Denhart, Hazel; Ruth Satre, city; Myron Robinson, Goodridge; Helen Satre, city; Ethel Vaughan, Goodridge; Gorman Thompson, Goodridge; William LaFave, city; Mable Sterns, city; Marcus Olson, city; Orton Olson, city; Alvin Stenberg, city.

Diffenbacher in City.

C. L. Diffenbacher, formerly engaged in the plumbing business in Thief River Falls previous to enlisting in the Canadian army in 1914 at the outbreak of the war, arrived Friday evening from Stettler, Alberta, and is a guest at the home of his mother, Mrs. W. F. Edgar. Mr. Diffenbacher will remain here for a short time visiting before going to Arizona, where he will spend the winter for the betterment of his health. He went overseas with the 97th Canadian Infantry battalion but was later transferred to the 5th battalion on reaching France. Mr. Diffenbacher was with the Canadians during the early stage of the war and saw much service, participating in the principal offensives staged by the Canadians and was present when Vimy Ridge was taken. Wounded and gassed, Mr. Diffenbacher was returned to this side in July 1918 and has been residing in Stettler since. His health has been failing as the result of the injuries received at the front and he believes that a change in climate will aid him greatly.

NEW RECORD IS SET AT ANNUAL POULTRY SHOW

SHOW DECLARED GREATEST IN STATE—540 BIRDS ARE BROUGHT IN.

INCREASE OVER LAST YEAR

C. E. BROWN TELLS OF CARE OF CHICKENS AND PRAISES BIG SHOW.

The three-day poultry exhibition at the auditorium staged by the Pennington County Poultry association will come to a close this afternoon and has proven one of the most instructive and interesting events of its kind in the section.

The exhibition, which has been declared to be the greatest in the state, has 540 birds of all descriptions, an increase of 175 birds over the 1918 show.

"The show is 100 per cent better all around, than last year," said A. J. Anderson of the association last evening. Judging of the birds began Wednesday morning by C. E. Brown of the state agricultural college at Crookston.

Big Improvement.

The auditorium is taxed to its capacity by the big exhibition and the coops are splendidly arranged on tables extending from one end of the hall to the other. A great improvement has been noted in the grade of poultry exhibited from that of former years which places Pennington county easily at the top as a poultry raising community in this section of the state.

Fine Array of Coops.

The coops used are the property of both the Pennington and Red Lake county poultry associations, while a number of large wooden coops from the fair grounds have been put into use to house the birds. Entries began coming in fast the opening morning and at the judging yesterday there were 540 birds. There are 35 birds on exhibition in the Boys' and Girls' club work department.

Brown Gives Talk.

C. E. Brown, official judge at the show, gave a short talk on culling and the care of poultry at the auditorium last evening before a good sized audience. G. A. Krueger's prize white rock rooster was placed on the table as a specimen and Mr. Brown pointed out the features of the bird.

In his talk Mr. Brown praised the management of the show and stated it was the best exhibition in the Northwest, and laid special emphasis on the fact that such a fine building had been secured in which to hold the event, as in most cases he said shows were held in buildings that were poorly lighted, which would as a result detract interest. He advised poultry raisers to treat the chickens right and see that the house was kept dry and clean.

Many Fine Exhibits.

The specimens shown at the 1919 show exceed any ever seen in the city, and practically every species in the poultry line are on hand and present a great sight. There are many out-of-town and county exhibitors, G. A. Krueger, of Plummer, having 24 birds alone. Dennis McGinn also is well represented and in the judging this morning was awarded first prize in several instances.

COMMUNITIES MAY BUY ARMY STOCKS

CAN APPOINT COMMITTEES TO LOOK AFTER MATTER FOR NEIGHBORHOOD.

Postmaster John Morgan has been notified that authority has been granted by the Surplus Property Officer to sell to municipalities or community purchasing agencies the supplies, groceries and provisions now on sale at the government retail stores. Any orders received through such channel will be sent by freight for distribution, charges prepaid to point of destination.

This means that the people of any community, city or section may band themselves together and purchase large lots of the goods on sale by the government and that the orders may then be distributed among the purchasers upon arrival. It is promised that immediate shipment will be made.

Further information as to the method to be pursued can be secured by applying to Mr. Morgan, who also has lists of the articles offered.

Carlson Returns Home.

Godfrey Carlson, who entered the military service in August, 1918, returned to Thief River Falls Monday morning after fourteen months' service overseas. Carlson went to France with a replacement outfit and saw service at the front, after which he was placed in the 139th Military Police battalion. The battalion was sent to Rome, Italy, shortly after the armistice was signed and left there for Coblenz, Germany, on April 26, and was stationed at the bridgehead until he sailed from Brest this month. While at Rome, Carlson had a chance to view many historical and famous places among which were St. Paul's cathedral, the Coliseum, ancient walls and other things. While enroute to Coblenz the company stopped off in Pisa, where the boys went through the leaning tower, and also visited Genoa for several hours. Carlson is the last boy of the national army men to return, according to T. P. Anderson, county auditor.

WILL RUN SPECIAL.

In order to accommodate all those residing to the east of this city who may wish to attend the Osten-Sacken lecture and America First concert, the Minnesota Northwestern railway will run a special car to Goodridge after the entertainment on Saturday evening. Particulars concerning this event will be found in another column.

FAREWELL SERMON HERE NEXT SUNDAY

REV. F. J. SELTZ ACCEPTS CALL TO ST. STEPHEN'S CHURCH, ST. PAUL.

Thief River Falls will within a short time lose another pastor who has made the city and surrounding country his field for a long time. Rev. F. J. Seltz of St. John's Lutheran church, has decided to accept the call extended by the congregation of St. Stephen's church, St. Paul. This is one of the large congregations in the Twin Cities, claiming an affiliation of 1000 persons.

Rev. Seltz, who has been pastor of the local church for over 12 years, will deliver his farewell sermon next Sunday and will assume the duties of his new call on Dec. 14.

At a meeting of St. John's congregation held last Monday evening it was decided to extend a call to Rev. W. L. Kohn of Winnipeg, who has been a successful minister in the Canadian city for seven years. The members hope that he may be induced to accept.

MORE TIME GIVEN TO PUT IN SEWERS

An extension in time totaling seven months was given Holt & George, holders of the sewer and water contract, by the city council at a special meeting held Monday evening. The original contract called for the completion of the work by December 1, 1919, but owing to weather conditions making work almost impossible the councilmen believed an extension in time was necessary. As was announced last week, five blocks of storm sewer remains to be laid and there are numerous water connections to be made within the paving district.

Work will be started as early as possible in the spring of the year, the contractors have stated, and with all the necessary material on hand the work will be rushed and completed long before July 1, so as not to hamper in any way the paving work, should it be started early next summer.

To Make Survey Soon.

Scott Laird, who has been appointed by Governor Burnquist to represent the state relief board in making a survey of the Northwestern Minnesota districts damaged by flood last summer, stated this morning that he expects to begin work the latter part of this week. Mr. Laird will interview the county agents in the counties affected and also many of the bankers and later will hold meetings in the various towns and cities to take testimony from the farmers as to the amount of damage on each farm and their present standing.

Ed Sutton Wanted.

"Eddie E. Sutton, your father is seriously sick at Miles City, Mont., and wants you to come home at once." This information was received by Chief of Police Erickson Tuesday and handed to The Times in an effort to locate the young man.

TWO MORE BANKS FOR SHELDON CHAIN

WARBA AND FLOODWOOD ADDED TO LIST OF SHELDON OWNED INSTITUTIONS.

Two additional banks were added to the Sheldon Brothers' chain of banks last week when the Warba State bank and the First State bank of Floodwood, Itasca county, were purchased. Sheldon Brothers also own the First National bank at Grand Rapids, and many other banking institutions, and are heavy stockholders in the First and Peoples State bank of this city, F. P. Sheldon being the president.

A. Orlebeke will be retained as cashier of the Warba State bank while M. A. Adams, who has been cashier of the First State bank of Big Falls, another Sheldon bank, goes to Floodwood to assume the duties of cashier of the newly acquired banking house. W. P. Hicken, the retiring cashier of the Floodwood bank, goes to Duluth to engage in business for himself.

WILL APPRAISE AID NEEDED IN FLOODED AREA

SCOTT LAIRD OF THIS CITY TO INVESTIGATE CONDITIONS OF FARMERS.

MAY HELP PROVIDE SEED

WORK CARRIED ON IN CONJUNCTION WITH COUNTY AGENTS AND OTHERS,

Scott Laird of this city has been named by Gov. J. A. A. Burnquist as special representative and appraiser for the state board of relief, authorized by the recent session of the state legislature to provide necessary relief for the settlers who suffered serious losses last fall in Pennington, Marshall, Roseau and Beltrami counties by reason of unprecedented floods, and in Koochiching county by reason of a severe cyclone.

Work Already Begun.

Mr. Laird has already started to work and is completing arrangements with various officials in the stricken areas. He will keep in close touch with the situation from this time on till seeding has been completed next spring to the end that those who are in needy circumstances resultant from the disasters will not suffer unduly thruout the winter and will have the proper material with which to start anew on their farms when next spring's seeding is in progress.

Continue Until Seeding.

The work will take Mr. Laird away from the city off and on every week for several months but he will gladly do this to continue the boosting for northwestern Minnesota which he has been doing since he came here three years ago, acting as secretary of the Commercial club at that time.

Some preliminary work has already been done in Pennington, Marshall and Beltrami counties by the Red Cross and by County Agents J. J. McCann, John Huseby and Geo. P. Sanders, as well as by Senator Nord of International Falls. A little work has also been accomplished in Roseau county and some in northern Beltrami county.

The state board of relief is composed of Gov. Burnquist, State Auditor Preus and State Treasurer Rines, under whom Mr. Laird will carry on his work.

RED-COATED ARMY OUT FOR BIG GAME

The twenty day drive against big game in the state of Minnesota opened last Saturday and continues until December 5, inclusive. A large army of red coated hunters have hit off for the big woods in quest of their legal quota but so far only one deer has been brought back to Thief River Falls, and that was bagged by C. E. Erickson, an employee at the Hansen-Barzen mill, while over twenty-five deer have been sent through to points south of here. A large black bear was also sent out last night to the Twin Cities. By the end of the week larger shipments are expected. The deer seen at the depot so far are fine specimens and judging by the carcasses of the animals they have had plenty to eat in the big woods.

No moose have as yet been bagged for these "big boys" with the spread horns and chin whiskers are hard to get at.

Licenses have been issued to two women, Mrs. Oscar Hanson and Eleanor Frederick, both of Thief River Falls. Among some of the well-known big game hunters who are out are: "Packey" McFarland, Ed. Wilcox, Frank Rockstad, E. O. Mogensen, W. H. Frederick and Henry Roenhild.

The list of those who have taken out licenses up to noon yesterday follows:

Wilbur Roth, G. A. Stevens, E. E. Kolp, Albert Kolp, L. S. Katter, T. A. Johnson, M. T. McFarland, A. Zelum, Henry Roenhild, Evert Roenhild, E. Wised, A. R. Johnson, Geo. Lindberg, Ole J. Olsen, Frank Rockstad, H. Elling, Carl Joseplin, Henry Halverson, Emil Just, J. Sterhaug, Pedor Peterson, Oscar Hanson, Mrs. Oscar Hanson, L. M. Mitchell, Julius Mossestad, John Sagvold, V. L. Robarge, Geo. Mossestad, E. S. Wilcox, Norman Stenberg, Carl T. Erickson, Oscar Liden, L. H. Lawrence, John Vrod, L. B. George, Ben. Thular, F. Stenerud, P. E. Jaeschke, Chas. Shinder, Carl Edsub, Bernhard Burgraff, Carl Norquist, Thomas Moe, George Swenson, W. H. Frederick, J. Ralston, E. O. Mogensen, W. M. George, C. M. Eyer, W. L. Hall, Eleanor Frederick, Edwin Soderberg, Joseph Soderberg, Sig Myron, John Sternberg, Ole Ihle, Otis Teal, Chas. Teal, Ed. Larson, Ivar Wisberg, C. W. Fruncher, C. W. Nelson, Olaf Myhren, L. Ecklund.

M. McFarland left on Monday evening for Big Fork, where he will try to bag the one deer allowed by law.

SOCIETY and Club

Woman's Club Meeting.

The regular meeting of the Woman's club was held on Monday afternoon at the Commercial club rooms with approximately two hundred in attendance. During the brief business session Mrs. G. Halvorson, chairman of the musical section, announced the McDowell program which will be given on Thursday evening. This is the first of a series to be offered this season.

Mrs. Emil Zeh represented the clean-up committee and presented the silver loving cup to LaBree avenue for being most noteworthy in the recent campaign.

Announcement was made by Mrs. W. H. Froehlich, president, of the appearance of H. Farley of Dayton, O., at the next meeting to be held on December 4. At this time he will tell of the clean-up campaign which took place in his city. His talk will be accompanied by a film illustrating the efforts made during the campaign.

Mesdames Halvorson, Booren and Gullingsrud, accompanied on the piano by Mrs. Oscar Sponheim, rendered a most pleasing vocal selection.

An address by Miss Maria Sanford, one of the leaders in the educational world and for many years associated with the University of Minnesota, was the principal feature of the afternoon. She chose as her subject, "Our Duty to Our Boys and Girls." In order that this duty might be successfully fulfilled, she maintained that the city and home must be beautified and made attractive and clean, wholesome amusements furnished, as cleanliness is the first step to higher intellectual and moral life. She stated that if these things were continued the three primary vices of intemperance, licentiousness and gambling would eventually be starved out.

Miss Sanford emphasized the necessity of building a strong physique as an aid toward attaining intellectual and moral power. She is very much in favor of early retiring and attributes her strength at her 83rd birthday due largely to early hours. She is also of the opinion that one of the curses in the lives of young people is being away from home in the evenings and encouraged mothers to make their children proud to go home early.

At the conclusion of the meeting little Ethel Richards, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Richards, presented Miss Sanford with a beautiful bouquet of white asters. Miss Sanford's visit to this city was an exceptional treat and her speech on Monday afternoon was one which will command serious thought by those who heard it.

Elks Have Party.

The dance given by B. P. O. E. Lodge No. 1308 at the auditorium last Friday evening was one of the most successful and best attended in the history of the lodge. It was "Ladies Night," and the affair was arranged and managed entirely by the fairer sex. The success of the dance was due to the untiring efforts of the dance committee with Mrs. L. G. Larsen as chairman. Man was obliged to do as he was told but was allowed to kick as much as he pleased while the women were given the power to mete out such punishment upon them as they thought was necessary. Charles Van, of Bemidji, favored the dancers with a few vocal numbers during the evening which were well received.

The women in charge of the arrangements had arranged things in an artistic manner which are deserving of special mention. The five piece orchestra was seated in the center of the room, surrounded by an orchard of artificial orange trees. A string of miniature electric lights was attached to each corner tree and attached to wire strung from the south and north wings of the balcony. The same idea was carried out in the corner where frape was served. At midnight a two-course luncheon was served. The music furnished by Ben Lonson's orchestra met with the approval of everyone.

Nielai-Landahl Wedding.

At 4 o'clock yesterday at the parsonage of the St. Francis Xavier, Carine E. Landahl, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henning Landahl, became the bride of Frederick C. Nielai of Thief River Falls. They were attended by Miss Slaine Ruth of this city, and Leo Kloety of Arcadia, Wis., a nephew of Mr. Nielai.

The bride wore a dark brown tricotine tailored suit with chic velour and beaver sailor toque becomingly draped in a French embroidered veil. Her flowers were a corsage of brides' roses and lilies-of-the-valley.

The bride is a well known local young lady, having been raised in this community. The young couple left on the evening train for a short honeymoon. They will be at home at Thief River Falls after December 1.

Miss Peterson Honor Guest.

At three o'clock last Saturday afternoon at the home of Miss Jessie Barnett a delightful luncheon was given in honor of Miss Alma J. Peterson, former principal of the local high school, whose marriage will soon occur. The rooms were artistically decorated in the W. O. W. colors of pink and green. Streamers suspended from the chandelier marked off each place at the table. The color scheme was carefully carried out in the luncheon and the heart shape was used wherever it was possible. One interesting feature of the luncheon was fortune-telling by coffee grounds. The honorary members of the W. O. W. society, Misses Rosa M. Taylor, Zella Zeh and Agnes Wilson, were guests, as were also the Misses Gerda Mortenson, Amelia Hoorn and Katie Dahl. At the close of the afternoon Miss Peterson was presented with a beautiful Sheffield casserole.

Silver Wedding Anniversary.

A large number of the friends and neighbors of Mr. and Mrs. Bernhard Knudsen surprised that worthy couple last Monday evening when they arrived and took charge of the Knudsen home at 693 Horace avenue north. It was the twenty-fifth anniversary of the wedding of Mr. and Mrs. Knudsen and the opportunity for offering congratulations was too good to let slip. The evening was most pleasantly spent in general visiting and an excellent lunch, provided by the visitors, was served. Before leaving the self-invited guests presented their hosts with twenty-five shining dollars—one for each year they have been married—closing a most delightful evening in a very appropriate manner.

Will Present Play.

The Community Girls will assist in raising funds to help in the campaign being carried on by the Young Woman's Christian association thruout the country for the raising of funds with which to carry on the work of the organization. The play, "A Pair of Sixes," which has been a great success in many places, will be presented by the club sometime about the first of December. The details are not yet entirely perfected but it is promised that the event will be one of the big features of the early winter months.

Birthday Dinner.

On Tuesday evening at 309 St. Paul avenue south, Miss Eleanor Holzknecht entertained several of her friends in commemoration of her twentieth birthday anniversary. After a six o'clock dinner was served the remainder of the evening was spent in games and music. At the close of the evening the guests presented Miss Holzknecht with several pieces of ivory. Those present were: members of a club recently organized, whose names follow: The Misses Dagney Svensgaard, Tillie and Freda Ristau, Sena Welo, Elsie Bonlorf, Irene Fuller and Laura Brown.

Birthday Party.

Miss Vivian Olson pleasantly entertained eleven of her friends at her country home in Rocksbury township on Thursday evening. Immediately upon their arrival the guests were ushered to the dining room where a supper had been prepared for them. The remainder of the evening was spent in playing games. The occasion was in honor of Miss Vivian's eleventh birthday.

Abigail Warner Honor Guest.

Miss Melvina Rupprecht gave a party at her home, 608 Duluth avenue, on Saturday evening in honor of Miss Abigail Warner, who has been her guest. An enjoyable evening was spent in games and music after which a delightful lunch was served. There were fourteen guests.

Myrom-Bergquist.

Harry Myrom and Anna Cecelia Bergquist, both of Pennington county, were united in marriage in Municipal court Wednesday afternoon. Judge Tarrant tying the nuptial knot. The newlyweds will reside on a farm in Norden township.

NEW DEPARTMENT IS GREAT SUCCESS

PAGE IN THE TIMES EDITED BY SCHOOL PUPILS PROVES POPULAR.

While it is probable that a majority of the high schools in the state have an editorial staff of some kind whose duty it is to see that the people of the community in which the schools are located are kept more or less in touch with what is going on, it is certain, that nowhere is this idea carried out so successfully as is the case at present in Thief River Falls. An entire page of The Times has been given over to the students and they are certainly taking advantage of the fact.

Last week contained the maiden attempts on the part of the students to disclose themselves as editors. They did so well that their efforts have been the talk of the town ever since. Some of the articles submitted would have done credit to experienced newspaper writers of much greater age than the contributors have as yet attained. The ideas were generally good and the construction decidedly creditable. As they gain confidence a steady improvement will be noted—in fact, it is already quite evident.

It is to be regretted that The Times could not this week find room for quite all the contributions sent in. Owing to the demands upon the paper by other interests it will be impossible to devote more than the one page to this purpose every week, but this should be sufficient to give all an opportunity to show what they can do. It is at least more than any other newspaper in the state has volunteered to do for the budding journalists turned out by the schools.

Attention this week is particularly called to the leading article on the school page. The Thanksgiving story written by Miss Lucile Curtis is decidedly worth the time it takes to go thru it. The idea is good and timely and the style in which it is set forth really charming.

The Times expects to see the school page become one of the most interesting features in the paper and the work should be encouraged in every way possible.

Legion Meeting Nov. 25; Big Smoker 'n' Everything

It will all be arranged by next Tuesday, Nov. 25.

Subject: American Legion Meeting.

Time: 8 p. m.

Place: Evelyn Hotel.

Elmer J. Eklund Post of the American Legion will hold their regular meeting at the above date and place and arrangements have been made to hold one of the most enjoyable gatherings since the organization of the Post.

At this time officers will be elected for the ensuing year which will be followed by a smoker and a program, which is now being arranged by Hal Stanton, Derby Anderson and Bernard Burggraf. The boys will stage a brief athletic show consisting of several boxing matches.

Harold Provencher, who used to dish out "hot stuff" at the front with the 151st Field Artillery, and later to the Germans through the use of their reliable 75's, says beans, goldfish, corned-willy, rice and bacon will be off the bill of fare. All members are requested to be present.

SHORTAGE HAS HIT STATIONERY LINES

SCOTT LAIRD FINDS MANY LINES PRACTICALLY OFF THE MARKET.

Scott Laird of the Laird Specialty Shop has returned from a buying trip to the Twin Cities where he secured a fine stock of holiday stationery and school and office supplies, but not without much effort.

In speaking today of market conditions, Mr. Laird said that it is almost impossible to secure certain staple articles, such as pencils. The large jobbers of the whole country are cleaned up on pencils and the supply is not going to become much larger for several months to come. Retail prices of pencils began climbing upward in September, following advances by manufacturers and jobbers just previously. Today there are very few pencils to be had at retail in the cities for less than five cents each, most of the ordinarily used ones selling for eight cents or two for fifteen cents.

The extraordinarily large attendance of scholars all over the country has completely used up the entire stock of many kinds of school supplies such as note books, tablets, composition and drawing papers, and many of the specially recommended brands of pens and various other articles. Consequently it is hard to secure sufficient supplies in any one line. Manufacturers of some lines are beginning to make promises of delivery after January 1 next on some certain articles but as a rule nothing definite is being held out in the way of promises.

Another Mill Closed.

Mahnomen Pioneer: Northern Minnesota saw mills are dropping out of sight one by one. Little Falls, at one time one of the leading lumber towns of the state, heard its sawmill whistle blow for the last time one day last week. The logs are going fast, and in a few years not even the smell of the fresh pine saw dust will remain. With proper care and protection against waste and forest fires many of these mills could have lasted several years longer.

Notice.

Dust cap social at the Hazel hall on Wednesday evening, Nov. 26th. Bring a dust cap and lunch for two. Everybody welcome.

SHOP EARLY
The Christmas shopper may think it is rather early to begin advertising Holiday Goods, but such is not the case. Many will wish to send presents to relatives and friends living at a distance and it is none too soon to begin the consideration of what these shall be. Besides, the demand for seasonable goods is likely to far outrun the supply and it may be impossible to secure the desired articles later on. We urge that you make your selections now while the stock is complete.

The annual Thanksgiving ball given by the trainmen's Wheatline lodge will be given at the auditorium next Wednesday evening, November 26. Finley's orchestra of Grand Forks has been engaged to furnish music for the affair.

Hospital Notes.

The following have entered the Physicians' hospital since last Thursday: Merle Paulson, Ambrose, N. D.; Wm. Wickstrom, Strandquist; O. E. Jensen, city; Miss Margaret Jorden, city; Mrs. R. O. Bottlesom, city; Mrs. C. B. Bradley, city; Miss Nera Rose, Plummer; George Lindquist, city.

An Unusual Demand.

The power of advertising was perhaps never better illustrated than on last Saturday when Lokoa Brothers conducted a sale on aluminum ware. While it is true that an unusual price was put on the goods, the response was nevertheless astonishing. During the first half hour after the opening of this sale there were 110 persons applied for the articles advertised, which is certainly a record for a single variety. The Times was the only medium employed in giving publicity to this sale and its value as an advertising medium was amply demonstrated.

Nearing Completion.

"The Clinic," which will be the official name of the establishment resulting from the decision of four of the leading doctors in the city to band themselves together for better service to the public, will soon be ready for business. The new quarters, which will occupy the entire east end of the second flood in the Citizens State bank building, are rapidly nearing completion and it is expected that the concern will be able to move in within the next couple of weeks.

Those forming the new medical association are Drs. O. F. Mellby, A. J. Paulson, H. W. Froehlich and L. F. Fisher, all of whom are at present practicing in the city.

COAL SHORTAGE IS AGAIN THREATNING

ONLY ESSENTIAL MANUFACTURING INDUSTRIES CAN SECURE BITUMINOUS.

All supplies of bituminous coal from the docks at the head of the lakes shipped to industries in Duluth and Superior and other points regarded as non-essentials, will be cut off by an order issued yesterday forenoon by E. D. Brigham, chairman, and W. H. Groverman, United States Fuel Administration.

Authority to ship coal to any manufacturing plant or industry must be obtained from Mr. Brigham or Mr. Groverman, fuel administrations at the head of the lakes. The question as to the essential plant is left largely to the discretion of the fuel administrators. The preferred list in that respect includes newspaper offices and factories engaged in essential products, including clothing and certain food stuffs.

Mr. Groverman asserted the fuel situation had grown much more serious than had been looked for in so short a time and in line with orders received by R. H. Aishton, regional director of railroads for the northwest, it had been decided to exercise the closest supervision over the movement of soft coal from now on.

"Cock-and-Bull Story."

SALVATION ARMY BUILDING PROGRAM

THIEF RIVER FALLS AMONG CITIES TO HAVE NEW BARRACKS.

A special from Minneapolis under yesterday's date says that construction of a $200,000 Salvation Army provincial building in Minneapolis, a $100,000 addition to the rescue home in St. Paul and 28 new corps headquarter buildings in Minnesota, North Dakota and South Dakota, aggregating a cost of approximately one million dollars, will be commenced next spring, according to the provincial congress of the Salvation Army. The cities in Minnesota which are to have new buildings include Thief River Falls, Crookston, Bemidji, Brainerd, Mankato, Albert Lea, Red Wing, Two Harbors, Austin, Rochester, Virginia, Duluth, Stillwater and Winona.

MINISTERS TO GET HIGHER SALARIES

METHODISTS START THE GOOD WORK AND OTHERS WILL FOLLOW.

From New York comes the report that ministers—at least Methodist ministers—will not have to strike for higher pay. A general increase in their salaries, in some instances 100 per cent, and establishment of minimum salaries that will provide a living wage has recently been announced by the centenary conservation committee of the Methodist Episcopal church.

In 1907 the average Methodist minister's salary was $526. The minimum established in most districts now is $1,200. Laymen have taken the initiative in raising the salaries.

Districts which individually have taken steps for "a living wage" are: Des Moines, Iowa, and Nebraska conferences $1,500 and parsonage; Southern Illinois conference $1,200 and parsonage; South Dakota $1,400 and parsonage; Portland, Oregon, conference $1,200 to $1,800, and Central $1,500 to $2,000.

An Indispensable.

Some years ago, in a certain flagship, the commander had occasion to find fault with the admiral's cook, and awarded him three days of the punishment known at that period as Ten A. The admiral heard of the affair, and sent for the commander on the quarterdeck. "What do you mean by it?" stormed the incensed admiral. "Please to understand that I can get a hundred commanders like you, but only one cook like him!"

New Insurance Idea.

To stimulate marriage several insurance companies in Great Britain are now issuing what is called marriage insurance. It provides for payment of $2,500 at the expiration of 25 years or earlier, at death of the assured, and, in addition, $500 in respect of each of five children born after the date of the policy who attain the age of twelve years, payable by five installments of $100 each on the twelfth and four succeeding birthdays.

Canadian Farm Live Stock.

The estimated total value of farm live stock in Canada in 1918 was $1,320,760,000; horses, $450,155,000; milk cows, $307,244,000; other cattle, $398,814,000; total cattle, $706,058,000; sheep, $48,802,000; swine, $112,751,922.

Find River Jordan Unclean.

Bathing in the River Jordan, famous in sacred history, has lost its popularity as the result of the discovery by American physicians that it is a dangerous disease germ carrier.

One of the first steps taken by the American Red Cross unit reaching that region was an analysis of the river water, Red Cross headquarters here has been informed. It was found laden with the germs of skin diseases and other maladies. There has never before been restrictions on bathing in the stream, regardless of the physical conditions of the bathers, but the revelations of danger lurking in the Jordan's waters caused the local authorities to place a ban on the unrestricted bathing.

Coffins Rented in Moscow.

Unofficial advices to the state department state that practically all stores in Moscow have been municipalized as a rule without compensation to owners. Eggs are quoted at 11 rubles and matches at four rubles a box. Individual coffins are reported to be no longer used, but are being rented out. The mortality rate is very high, with typhus, grip and erysipelas being especially prevalent and overcrowding the hospitals.

A crew of men is busily engaged in clearing the snow away from the railroad yards in the city. The snow is being shoveled upon flat cars and hauled to the bridge, where it is dumped into the river. The 7.7 inch snow fall of last week and the blizzard that accompanied it caused large drifts to be formed and made walking difficult where the trainmen have to work in making up trains and doing their switching.

NO CHANCE FOR ARGUMENT.

It is doubtful if there can be any question as to the desirabilty of having the city own the power dam in the river at this point. The tendency everywhere in the country is toward having the people own the essential utilities upon which they are dependent and the proposition is fundamentally sound. Consequently, if it were a question of whether the people or a private corporation should own the dam the matter would be easily disposed of.

But the city refused to buy the property—at least has refused to do so thus far, and it is doubtful if a majority in favor of its purchase could be found at this time. It is also self-evident that the present owners cannot long continue the upkeep of the dam and they have indicated their willingness to dispose of it at a reasonable figure. Such being the case, what are we going to do about it? The one thing certain is that the present status of the property is unsatisfactory to all concerned and will become more so with the lapse of time.

The question is not whether the citizens prefer public ownership to private ownership, but whether they prefer to continue operations for four years more with the situation as it now stands. At the end of that time the contract between the owners and the city will expire and a new one will have to be made. It is absolutely certain that the public utilities commission will allow a vastly greater rate to be charged for the power than at present, even though it comes no nearer meeting the requirements than it does right now. If negotiations are entered into looking toward the sale of the property to the city at that time it is more than likely the appraisers will put a price on it that our people will not consider for a minute, seeing that they refused to buy when they could have do so at very small expense.

What will the next move be? It has been stated that by going down the river a short distance a dam might be built of sufficient capacity to take care of all the demands that could be made upon it for many years. But this will mean deliberately throwing away about $100,000 expended on the present property. There is also a question as to whether or not the city would be permtted to build another dam below that already constructed and thus make the latter property valueless.

The thing for the city to do is to buy the dam. If this proves impossible or impractical the only other alternative is to permit its sale to some concern that has the means to improve it to a point where it will meet the demands of the rapidly growing community. The people's interests could be safeguarded by agreements and contracts in such a manner as to leave no ground for fear that they would not during the duration of the arrangement be fairly and justly treated under any circumstances.

Failing willingness or ability to buy the property, it might be just as well that these matters be given some slight consideration.

A TIMELY SUGGESTION.

In another part of The Times today Mr. Martin V. Evenson calls attention to a situation worthy of particular attention at this time. He asserts that people in considerable numbers have decided against becoming residents of Thief River Falls because of their inability to find suitable living quarters here. That such is the fact has been generally known for some time, but Mr. Evenson has evidently given considerable thought to the remedying of the condition and for that reason his recommendations should receive a respectful hearing at least.

His proposal is that a number of business men get together and finance the erection of a modern apartment building to house from 30 to 40 families, loaning the money necessary at a low rate of interest. He believes that the added business brought to the city by reason of the increased population would more than make up to the investors the money they would forego by lowering the rate of interest charged. Any other plan that would bring results would, however, be just as satisfactory.

There is absolutely no question but that Mr. Evenson is right. There is at the present time not a single house or apartment meeting even the most modest requirements to be found in the city. And this is by no means unusual. Houses have been at a premium for at least three years and the situation is growing steadily worse. With the business activity sure to take place in the spring something will have to be done or the city will suffer a loss that may be irreparable.

Everyone would of course prefer that regular homes be built instead of apartment houses. Choice building lots are still to be had at very reasonable prices in desirable locations, and it is certain that everyone would rather see Thief River Falls a city of home owners than flat dwellers. People are shying at building just now, however, and it is probable that the general inclination is to rent rather than own a home. Such being the case they should be accommodated.

The matter is urgent and it is hoped that something will come of the suggestion made by Mr. Evenson.

THE BEST SHEEP AND CHICKENS:

The greatest poultry show in the state comes to a close this afternoon. If you did not visit this exhibition at the Auditorium you missed something worth while. There were between seven and eight hundred entries and all of a quality superior to anything ever displayed in this section.

Another show of almost as great importance, if of less interest just at this time, was held in the lobby of the Citizens State bank building last Saturday. The event was the first exhibit of lambs raised by members of Boys' and Girls' clubs in Pennington county. It is estimated that more than 2,000 persons visited this exhibit. The entries were not numerous but sufficient for a good start. It must be remembered that this was the first exhibit of its kind ever held in the county and the interest shown guarantees that there will be no complaint on the score of numbers at the second annual lamb show.

A particularly interesting feature connected with this last event is the papers presented by the young sheep-raisers setting forth the method pursued in the raising of the animals. Three of these papers are reproduced and a more lengthy account of the show given in another section of The Times today and are well worth reading.

PUBLISHERS FACING RUIN

During the year 1914 and 1915 The Times was purchasing news print paper at a contract price of $2.40 per hundred pounds. At that time about one ton per month was required to meet the requirements. This was for flat stock used on the ordinary press. Roll print for rotary presses could then be bought at a figure considerably below this price.

Recently a shipment of this cheaper roll stock was received by The Times for which $7.50 per hundred pounds was paid, and the price has again advanced since that time. This is a difference of $3.10 for each hundred pounds bought. During the years above mentioned the paper stock going into each issue of The Times represented but $6.80 of the total cost; at the present price it would represented $15.00. This would not be so severe had The Times quit growing when the 2000 point was reached, but it did not. The circulation is now 5000 copies every week, the paper is much larger and cost of the stock used is $90. At the old price this item would have amounted to $28.80 for the 5000 copies.

But the end is not yet reached, according to all indications. There seems to be a determination on the part of the print paper manufacturers to deliberately put as many newspapers as possible out of business. Unless some relief is soon forthcoming a large number of the weaker publications will have to give up the struggle. They simply cannot hold out against the constantly increasing cost of production. Many of the small weeklies and semi-weeklies in the country have made no attempt to keep their rates adjusted to conditions and are in bad shape. Crowding them further will inevitably result in their going to the wall. And it is not the weeklies alone that are up against it, as the following reports from some of the largest cities in the country show:

> New York—Thirteen cents a pound, f. o. b. mill, was asked for print paper here during this week. The price was for car load lots, and was made to one of the largest purchasers of sheet paper in the country. The mill refused to make a price of anything less than thirteen cents.
> Chicago—It is reliably reported here that one of the large daily papers of the city has made an offer of ten cents a pound for 1,000 tons of roll print, and has not found a mill that will take the order. The Chicago papers are being forced to omit a large amount of advertising from every issue because of shortage of print paper.
>
> Washington—Complaints of inability to secure print paper are pouring into government offices here. Newspapers are reporting prices of eight, nine and as high as twelve cents being asked for print paper, and when orders are placed at these prices it is possible to secure only very small quantities, not nearly enough to meet their needs.
>
> Omaha—One of the largest wholesale paper dealers of the country reports print paper prices going upward every day, with a raise in one week of more than $1 a hundred. Many mills are refusing to accept orders at any price, and a forced suspension of many papers is looked for as there is no prospect of any relief in the immediate future.

In commenting on the situation the publishers Auxiliary says: "To avoid immediate disaster advertising rates are being pushed upward, and it is probable that subscription rates will also receive another boost, and what is being done by the big papers will have to be done by the smaller daily and weekly publications all over the nation. The publishers have no choice in the matter if they are to continue publication, and the sooner they realize this fact the nearer they will come to avoiding bankruptcy.

"The paper baron is in the saddle, he has no mercy, and the newspapers of America are to be his victims. The one and only immediate hope for the publisher lies in higher advertising rates and higher subscription price."

PROTECT YOURSELF—SHOP EARLY.

Any reader of The Times who figures on doing rather more shopping to meet the requirements of the holidays than for any other season had better get busy earlier than usual this year. This admonition has become something of a chestnut, it is true, but the warning conveyed is genuine nevertheless.

Prospects are for the greatest Christmas season, from a merchandising point of view, in the history of the country. In spite of high prices people seem to be able to buy things and will probably continue to do so regardless of attempted crusades to halt them. There is likely to be but little trouble so far as selling goods is concerned, the difficulty is more likely to be in getting them to sell. As the shortage becomes more pronounced and the date of the holidays comes nearer it is also more than probable that prices will increase.

For their own protection, therefore, people should do their Christmas shopping early. The stores of Thief River Falls, for instance, will shortly open the season with the finest lines of goods of the character needed that have ever been displayed. These goods were bought a long time ago and there is no telling whether or not more can be obtained when they are gone. If they are to be had at all the indications are that it will be at a greatly advanced figure. Goods purchased now cost more than those secured in the spring and the longer the matter of buying is put off the higher they are liable to go—even admitting that the articles can be had at any price.

The stocks are complete at present and the prices reasonable, all things considered. Such may not be the case later on. For your own protection you should secure what you need without delay.

The probabilities are that the peace pact, together with a modified League of Nations clause, will have passed the Senate before this issue of The Times reaches its readers. All appearances have for some days indicated such result when the matter came to a vote, the time for this being set for today. Everyone will be glad that this matter has finally been disposed of, even tho they may not entirely approve of all the details connected with it. The uncertainty was doing the country no good and the time taken for consideration of the matter by senators prevented their taking up other needed legislation. Whether the country has taken the right course or not only time can tell, but it is certain that the outcome is satisfactory to a very large majority of the people just at this time.

Reports from 218 cooperative creameries in different sections of Minnesota for August, 1919, show that the average price paid for butterfat by these creameries was 62.75 cents. Fifty-two paid from 65 to 69 cents, 116 paid from 60 to 64; 41 from 55 to 59, and nine from 52 to 54 cents. Cream buying stations paid around 53 to 55 cents. Butterfat prices, says A. J. McGuire of the agricultural extension division, will probably be higher the coming winter than ever before. The prices warrant giving the dairy cows extra feed and care, he adds.

Autos Pay For Road Bonds

(Minneapolis Journal.)

If Minnesota should fail to vote the highway bond amendment November 2, 1920, it would be because of sheer apathy, and not because of any well grounded hostility to the measure.

Under the proposed amendment there will be no taxing of lands, no taxing of the poor man, no taxing of anything for State roads, except the motor vehicles, for whose use and behoof the seven-thousand-mile system of State roads will be constructed. This tax will amount to an average of but eighteen dollars on each motor vehicle—the price of one of the cheapest tires—a tax that seems trifling as compared with the value of the highway system. Certainly no owner of a motor vehicle will oppose the amendment.

Far from burdening counties and townships with added road taxes, this bond plan offers relief, in that the entire seven thousand miles of trunk road will be taken off the hands of the local authorities by the State, leaving all local taxes to be applied to the building and maintenance of feeder roads. Already the sum of these local taxes in the State amounts to almost eleven million dollars annually. If this amount were to be expended in building secondary graveled roads at a cost of five thousand dollars a mile, the State at the end of ten years would have 28,850 miles of improved roads, seven thousand of which would be permanently surfaced.

A road system of this extent and quality would serve to develop the internal commerce of Minnesota almost beyond belief. It would add to the income of every citizen by reducing the cost of transportation; a cost that is paid by taking from the receipts of the producer and by adding to the cost of goods to the consumer. And be it remembered that every hour and every dollar unnecessarily spent in carrying produce to market and purchases home, is a dead loss of wealth without salvage or recompense of any description.

To the citizens of Minnesota, except those who own motor vehicles, the seven thousand miles of pavement under the proposed amendment is a pure gift; and to the latter the saving in time and in wear of machines is great enough to make the tax one of the most profitable investments possible.

Gone Are the Days.

(Publishers' Auxiliary.)

An editorial entitled "Editorial Amenities" from the pen of A. F. Enden in the Chippewa (Wis.) Evening Independent interests us. He reviews the progress of the country paper from the period when it was a personal fighting machine to its present high standing in the world of business. The evolution has been so gradual that most of us have failed to realize the wonderful strides taken. Most country weeklies of the present day are obliged to stand or fall purely upon their business merit before the people of the community. The fact that so few have withered and died under the stress of the past two or three trying years, is proof enough of their present stability. Much however, of the zest of the game has departed with the old regime. Never again, as Mr. Enden remarks, will we see "such unlovely terms of opprobrium as 'pusillanimous liar,' 'unmitigated coward' and 'lying whelp.' We confess to a secret admiration for that old word, "pusillanimous" even at the risk of a charge of heresy. Good old standby! It sure was useful. And the most inexperienced printer's devil or "tourist" could spell it right off the reel. The writer was nurtured in a very chaste atmosphere in the old days, and it was not so much used around the shop. But he always envied the boys in the "contemp office, where they threw it around rather recklessly. Our dad did "rear up" on one occasion, however, when the contemp referred to him as "the bovine intellect on the morning edition."

Those were the happy days. But very unprofitable ones. Yes, Brother Enden, we were interested in that editorial. and we believe it should have a good effect upon those of your readers who are sometimes prone to consider the local newspaper the place to stage a neighborhood row.

Peat.

(Duluth Herald.)

If half the claims made for peat by men who have investigated it are true, and if Northern Minnesota were organized to produce peat fuel, Duluth and a large part of the Northwest would be utterly independent of the worst the coal miners' strike could do to it.

Isn't it time something were done at least to investigate and experiment upon the vast stores of peat now standing idle and useless in the Northwest?

If, as many claim, peat can be turned into useful fuel and sold cheaper than coal, isn't it worth while doing it?

If the coal strike goes as far as it might, the Northwest would be glad to get any kind of fuel at any price. In its peat deposits it has billions of tons of fuel right at its doors.

Doesn't the coal strike sharply point the lesson that the peat question ought to be taken up in earnest and at once?

North Dakota Demands Action on Good Roads

(Grand Forks Herald.)

North Dakota does need good roads and the counties are not making the use they might of proffers of the federal aid by which the nation puts up dollar for dollar with the state and conuty for road building purposes. Power is lacking for the people to compel county commissioners, some of whom are very reactionary, to appoint a county road commissioner. Where the commissioners are opposed to the farmer legislature and its plan of highways, they refuse to appoint a county road officer and thus imperil the whole road program.

The farmers of North Dakota have at last found it necessary to engage more actively in county politics and if they are able to install county officers out of their own number, much might be done toward improving road conditions.

Remove the Poles.

(Red Lake Falls Gazette.)

The Thief River Falls council is considering the passage of an ordinance to require the removal of all telephone poles from the streets to the alleys. The ordinance was given its first reading Tuesday night. Red Lake Falls would do well to enact a similar ordinance and rid the streets of the unsightly telephone and electric light poles. They can just as well be placed in the alleys, especially within the business district.

Fine Shows Coming.

In another part of this issue of The Times, the Princess theatre management announces some unusual attractions for the near future. Many of the releases secured are absolutely new, having never appeared outside the larger cities before.

Since the opening of the Princess business has steadily increased and the popular house is well filled every evening. With the new attractions announced, the patronage should be even better. The Princess is a cozy theatre, the management obliging and courteous, and is deserving of the success it is attaining.

Cause of Egg Shortage.

Judge Tarrant wanted to buy some eggs Monday. He went up town and canvassed every store but couldn't get a single egg. He went home, picked up the morning paper, put his feet up against the stove and started to read and made the following discovery which no doubt is responsible for the egg shortage:

The Hen Organizes.

I shall not lay as often as of yore,
Our rooster orders us to organize;
Like everybody else, we're getting wise.
Now for your eggs you will have to be paying more.
I've scratched until my toes are sick and sore,
But now I'll take my little exercise—
Our union has compelled these rural guys
To serve our pickings on a marble floor.

And at our next convention we'll decree
How many shall be hatched, how many stored.
We have demanded better room and board,
A holiday on every other day;
And no wire fences. Chickens shall be free.

The High School Progress

Vol. 1. EDITED BY THE PUPILS OF THE THIEF RIVER FALLS PUBLIC SCHOOLS No. 2

OUR OWN PILGRIMS

(A Thanksgiving Story)

(By Lucile Curtis)

"Hey, paw, can't ye wait? Bessy's lost her doll."

"Wall, I reckon I kin, but you young 'uns had better speed up a bit or we'll leave a couple of ye behind."

After a brief search the beloved doll was discovered under a bush and seven or eight laughing children scrambled onto the canvas covered wagon.

A whole chorus of voices replied that they "thought they were" and the father called to the oxen, and they were off once more.

"Oh paw! paw! Jed aint here." Paw halted the wagon and turned in his seat to see what the trouble was.

"Wall, wall, aint that careless o'me, now! I reckon I should o'counted you kids afore we started. I wouldn't by a long sight be surprised if I'd dropped half o'you young uns here an' there along the road, way from Indiany."

"Here he comes! Here comes Jed! I kin see him 'way off runnin' to beat all," and the freckle-faced little girl pointed to a small speck drawing nearer and nearer until it finally took the shape of a small boy.

"The gal's right. That's Jed sure 'nuff." Wai—ut fer—me—paw!" cried the gasping boy when he drew near enough to be heard.

"Warn't yez goin' to wait fer me, huh paw?" questioned the child when he had at last reached the wagon and was climbing on to it.

"Bless your heart, child. I wouldn't trade a one o' yez children fer all the gold in the universe. A lot o' kids may be considerable trouble, but they're warth it—they're warth it," and the big-hearted man once more called to the oxen and the wagon full of laughing, hooting children rattled along the newly made prairie road.

Cyrus Joslin was an Indiana farmer. He was not content with the quiet life of his native state. Like his ancestors from old England, the spirit of adventure in his blood led him to sacrifice the comforts of home and answer the call of the great, wild West that offered no end of prospects to a would-be pioneer.

One would readily be convinced of the characteristics of Cyrus Joslin by merely looking at him. He was a big muscular man, jovial and serious by turns. One moment his ruddy face was aglow with merriment and his gray eyes twinkling in fun. The next moment his jaw was set in determination and his large, gray eyes looked into the very soul of things. And again his countenance would be with love and tenderness, and the gray eyes would fill with tears. All these moods and many more were proofs of his greatness of heart, his honesty, his powerful will, his rigidness, and his bravery. Altogether he was a man in the true sense of that word.

He certainly was blessed with children, that cannot be denied. He was the father of eight—four boys and four girls. Jim, the oldest, was a big, awkward fellow of fifteen years. Molly, three years younger, was a little busy-body and a great help to her mother. She loved to cook, clean, and even wash the dishes. Nancy, aged ten, was the nurse maid. It was she who took care of all of her brothers and sisters. John, nicknamed Jed, and Maggie, were twins. Paul, the most active member in the Joslin family, was always getting into scrapes and caused poor Nancy more trouble than all the rest put together. Bess and Tommy were the babies, and two dearer ones would be difficult to find.

The government offered Minnesota lands free to any who would homestead them. The Joslins decided to take advantage of this offer, though they realized it would mean hardships and trials. All through the summer Father Joslin and his wife, Sarah, had planned their new home and after harvest, the father departed to northwestern Minnesota and on the banks of Thief River he erected a small cabin and a barn. Then he returned for his family.

On the first day of November in the year 1884, the Joslins said farewell to their old home and all that was dear to them and turned their faces toward the northwest, bound for the great unknown. They took with them their household utensils and provisions to last them over winter. They traveled by rail to Crookston, then a small village, where they bought a canvas-covered wagon, two oxen and a horse, and continued their journey on the winding Indian trails.

Thus they traveled for three days, stopping only in the night to rest. At the close of the third day, when the late autumn sun was sinking below the horizon, a welcome sight greeted the eyes of our weary pilgrims. Far off across the prairies with the tranquil waters of a wide stream flowing besides it, a lowly cabin built of logs loomed into sight and was greeted by a chorus of happy voices.

"Here is home, home!" shouted the Joslins. Then with bowed heads, they offered up a silent prayer of thanksgiving to God.

Then the winter came, and with it the gladsome holidays. Surely there was no family the wide world over more grateful of heart than the Joslins on that first Thanksgiving day in their new home. And Christmas! Why, it was just plumb full of fun, surprises, feasting and everything that goes with that happy day. All the fun was not over after the holidays. There was skating on the Thief river, coasting, sleigh-riding and the eventful trips to Crookston to buy more provisions. Perhaps the most fun of all was on cold winter nights when the fierce north wind was howling around the cabin and when the whole family gathered about the open hearth and told stories, roasted nuts and ate apples that were grown in sunny Indiana.

And so the winter wore on and the warm spring sun melted the snow. Then Father Joslin plowed the land behind the cabin and sowed his seed.

One beautiful April day, a tall man dressed in bright clothes that were artistically embroidered in beads, came to the cabin door. Father Joslin was greatly alarmed upon beholding this highly-colored stranger, but when he looked into the man's copper-colored face he saw no evil there. The Indian, for such it was, told Father Joslin in his best English a very sad story. He was Chief Big Wolf, he said, and he knew that the pale-face meant no harm to his people, but there were men in his tribe that were bitter toward their white brothers, saying that they came only to destroy and take the land away from the Indians. These men had separated themselves from the tribe and established one of their own, making the wicked Red Hawk their chief.

With this warning the big Indian left the now troubled family. Nothing out of the ordinary happened all summer. The crops were harvested and winter came again.

It was a severely cold winter, and the provisions that seemed so plentiful in the fall were diminishing all too quickly. A heavy snow fell, making it impossible to make a trip to Crookston for supplies and for two days the Joslins were without food.

In the midst of all these hardships, Red Hawk and his followers attacked Father Joslin and his family, but the good Chief Big Wolf, hearing of his friends' danger, came to his aid and drove the red devils away. That was the first and the last of Indian troubles for the Joslins and finally by their kindliness they even won the friendship and good will of Red Hawk.

The winter of 1885 was perhaps the hardest but it passed, and likewise many more winters and summers and still Farmer Joslin and his family progressed and were happy. In the meantime a little village was springing up on the prairies, one day to become the prosperous city of Thief River Falls.

Two more children were added to the Joslin family—Tad and Barbana—fondly called Babbie by her brothers and sisters.

In the spring of 1890 a young Norwegian couple with their only child came to make their home on the banks of the Thief river. Their name was Helgeson and they built their cabin home not far from the Joslins. It was hard for the two families to make themselves understood at first, but they finally succeeded and became the best of friends.

One year later, another family from Iowa came to settle and be counted in with the population of Thief River Falls. They went by the name of plain everyday Jones.

Then the fun began. There was dancing, quilting, surprises, birthdays, sleigh-ride, Hallowe'en and every other kind of party. On all holidays and even on many "everydays," the Joslins, the Jones and the Helgesons would get together and have a "high old time" as Father Joslin expressed it. In fact the Joslins wondered how they ever managed to live before these friends came.

Thus the years wore on and a new century dawned upon the old world. The relations between the Indians and the pioneers had been good and so it was that, when at last the tepees disappeared from the banks of the Thief river, many of the settlers felt that they had lost good friends.

The village became a town, and the town a city with a population of near seven thousand, and the Joslins have watched it grow from its infancy to the present day.

* * *

It is Thanksgiving at the old Joslin homestead. The Jones, the Joslins and the Helgesons are together once more. The delicious feast of turkey, cranberry sauce, and Mother Joslins' pies that actually melt in your mouth, has been partaken of. A young man clad in khaki is speaking. Listen! He is telling of the great battle of Argonne Forest—a battle fiercer and more difficult than the one the pioneer must fight. See! He uses a crutch, but he smiles in spite of that for he has learned to be brave in the face of difficulties.

Who is that gray-bearded old man at the head of the table with the serious gray eyes, peering thru spectacles? That is Father Joslin—a little bent, but still hale and hearty.

"Well, folks, I reckon I can't tell yez all jest how grateful this here old heart o' mine feels today. When I recall the first Thanksgivin' day in our new home and all the struggles that were ahead o' us, it doesn't seem as how it could o' all turned out so beautiful in the end. The battles for democracy have been fought and we are the victors. The battles of the pioneer have been fought and he is the victor. The good God has watched over us and helped us in our time o' need and so He will care for His children even to the end."

The dance which the Sophomore Athletic association gave last Monday was a great success. The main purpose of this dance was to raise funds for the Sophomore boys' basket ball outfit.

Heard Maria Sanford.

Miss Maria Sanford spoke to the students of Lincoln high school on Monday afternoon. When she appeared the students stood and sang the first verse of "America." Miss Sanford then gave her interesting message. In her opening sentence she thus addressed the boys and girls: "What are you worth? Not what is your worth in wealth, but, can you see? Can you hear? Can you remember? And can you think? According to this standard, what are you worth?"

Although over eighty years of age, Miss Sanford gave an address which was clear, loud and full of force and life. Her life, as well as her advice, is an inspiration to everyone.

Central School News.

The black cats, witches and jack-o-lanterns evident in the Kindergarten at Hallowe'en are now being replaced by turkeys, ducks and other appropriate Thanksgiving decorations. The children are anticipating the coming holiday with as much enthusiasm as they did the one in October.

The children are now making invitations for the mother's visiting day, which will be next Wednesday, November 26. The mothers will, at this time, be given an opportunity to see the work as it is carried on each day. Since the Kindergarten program follows the seasonal holidays and the child's interests, a special Thansgiving program will not be necessary to make the holiday evident.

The pupils of the seventh grade penmanship class are working hard for a Palmer button to be secured by having the first twenty-five drills accepted by The Palmer company.

The total enrollment in seventh and eighth grades is 183 pupils.

How does South America compare with United States in development? What is the cause for such conditions? What is the Pan-American Union and what problems does it try to solve? The above are some of the questions which are under discussion in the seventh grade geography class.

The eighth grade grammar classes are putting emphasis on their composition work this year; the work consisting of oral and written stories. Some of the titles are the pupils' own suggestions. A number of very interesting compositions have been written and it is hoped that the talent in the classes will be put to use when these pupils become high school students, if not before that time.

The pupils of the eighth grade history classes are studying the growth of the Institution of Slavery in United States, and after some interesting discussion "pro" and "con" the question the majority of the class voted against the Institution of Slavery.

The eighth grade history classes in a recent mock city election cast 28 votes for M. V. Evenson and 27 for John Bratrud as the city mayor.

Former Superintendent Here.

Monday morning the high school students had a pleasant surprise when Mr. Wilson, formerly superintendent of the schools of this city, addressed them.

Although they had never seen him before, he undoubtedly seemed like an old friend to most of them, as Mr. Wilson is well acquainted with the old settlers of this community.

He told the students of the conditions of the schools in this city sixteen years ago when he was superintendent and compared them with the schools we have today.

Mr. Wilson's present home is in Oklahoma. He ended his speech with a hearty invitation to the students to come to Oklahoma.

Opportunity.

(By James Helle.)

"Opportunity Knocks at Your Door," reads the glaring advertisement inducing you to enroll for a correspondence course in Engineering, or one offering stock in oil wells in Oklahoma. Infinite rewards if you will but answer her call. But you must do it now, before it is too late. It is the chance of a lifetime!

What is Opportunity? The dictionary acquits itself be defining it as a "favorable or advantageous chance or opening." In so many words, this seems to be as close an explanation as is possible to arrive at. It is that state which allows you to exert yourself in the direction you might choose. Johnny may have the opportunity to steal cookies from his mother's cupboard, and he also has the opportunity to strengthen his will power by refraining.

Does opportunity come but once, or is she always with us? The former opinion is voiced in a poem by John J. Ingalls. He says:

I knock unbidden once at every gate;
If sleeping, wake—if feasting, rise before
I turn away."

"They do me wrong to say, I come no more.
When once I knock and fail to find you in,
For every day I stand outside your door
And bid you wake, and rise to fight and win."

A young man had just got married and financial problems worried him. He was looking for opportunity. If he could only strike upon some happy chance he thought to himself. One day he discovered that a substantial reward was offered for the capture of an expert "safe cracker" who was operating in the city. His heart beat faster. The description of the outlaw included a pair of feminine looking blue eyes. A few days later, he was hanging onto a strap in a crowded street car. Among the passengers was a lady with large blue eyes and long, dark eyelashes. The car stopped, and our sleuth settled neatly in the lady's lap. At the same time a button in his coat caught in her hair, and removed it from her head. The robber was minus his wig. The young man was sitting in the lap of opportunity. So are we.

Francis Bacon says: "A wise man will make more opportunities than he finds." Even if we can not make them come to us, we can make ourselves fit to take advantage of them when they do come. We are all acquainted with the saying: "Do not leave until tomorrow what you can do today." Nikola Tesla, who gave to the world the alternating current, says: "Do not do it now. Think it over."

America has been called the land of opportunity. I once heard the remark made by a foreigner, that "Europe is all right for the man who has a 'start,' but that this country is the place for him who has nothing to begin with." The field is big and conditions more favorable for him to make use of his abilities. We are not restricted by the caste system of India; an adequate education is within the reach of the majority; and do not have the excessive population of the Orient. It is folly to say that Providence provides the same for all, but we are not prone to look with favor upon the man who says that he has not had a chance.

The great difficulty lies in seeing opportunity. James J. Hill saw the natural resources of the great Northwest, had mental visions of swaying wheat fields, gazed into the great opportunities in developing this region. He then built the railroad. But you must see a thing before you can act upon it.

Austin Phelps will conclude this article for me:

"Vigilance in watching opportunity; tact and daring in siezing upon opportunity; force and persistence in crowding opportunity to its utmost of possible achievement—these are the martial virtues which must command success."

Shall Those Who Cheat in Examinations Be Reported?

(By Betsy Ness.)

The Self-Government association of the Lincoln high school held a meeting last Monday evening after school at which there was a free and general discussion of the points which, if they are adopted, are to be made into resolutions to which each member of the association is going to promise on his or her honor to live up to. At this meeting the question which received almost the least discussion and the most opposition was: "Shall the names of students who cheat during examinations be reported by their honest-fellow students?"

The principal reasons for the opposition to this question were: "I don't want to be a 'tattle-tale'", and, "if the other fellow wants to cheat, why, that's none of my business." Were these the real, truthful reasons, or were they just given on the spur of the moment, or is cheating becoming such a common occurance that we can do it without a second thot, or having our conscience disturbed by such a thing at all?

Our school has been compared to a democracy. In the past we have heard that name applied to our student-body without stopping to think what it meant. Now that we shall be able to govern ourselves, we will begin to realize its meaning. We can think of ourselves as a little nation with government of the people, by the people, and for the people, the same as our own country. Then to return to the cheating proposition. We could compare this offense in our schools to the robbing of a bank. If the robbery should be seen by a loyal citizen, wouldn't he make an attempt to prevent it and to have the thief punished according to the laws of the country? In both cases one offense is just as great as the other, because it all amounts to the same thing, they are taking that which does not belong to them. It seems that the only way in which this can be prevented among certain types of students is by reporting their names, followed by whatever punishment is provided for such a deed.

Miss Peterson, who was principal of Lincoln high school last year, visited for a short time last week.

The rural teachers of Pennington county are having a meeting during this week in Thief River Falls in the gym of the Lincoln high school. A large number of teachers from all over the county are attending and making the meeting a big success.

Take Time to Play.

(By Dagney Tharaldson.)

There is an interesting story told of Napoleon when he was a boy at the military school. It is said he attempted a certain mathematical problem that no teacher or pupil in the school had ever been able to solve. He isolated himself for seventy-two hours, and came out with the problem solved. Now that was not a wise thing to do; if the problem had not given way, in time Napoleon's physical constitution would, and he was seriously endangering his health to work for seventy-two hours upon one problem. Yet the power of concentration and force of will that made it possible for Napoleon to hold his mind for so long a time continuously upon one problem was the force of will and energy of character that swept all Europe with the armies of France and changed the map of the world. And I have often thought if you and I could bring to bear upon the causes in which we believe such energy, character and force of will, what might we not accomplish? We could change, not the map of Europe, but the spiritual aspects of the life of mankind.

High School Days.

(By Harriet Mignon Anderson.)

Within my breast I hold one love
As bright to me as stars above;
And never will this love-light fade—
Better days were never made.

I've lived them now for near four years,
I've cherished many hopes—some fears.
I love those days with all my heart,
For all the joys they did impart.

So, High School Days—the days divine—
Holds first place in this heart of mine.
No matter what to me befall,
Those days will brightest be of all.

The Usual Way.

He worked by day
And toiled by night,
He gave up play
And all delight.
Dry books he read
New things to learn
And forged ahead
Success to earn.
He plodded on
With faith and pluck,
And when he won
Men called it luck.

A Freshman had a run of hard studies and decided to commit suicide. The professor discovered the Freshie a few hours later. He had a rope tied around his waist and was dangling from the banister. "What are you doing?" asked the professor.

"I'm hanging myself," replied the Freshman.

"You can't hang yourself by putting the rope around you waist," said the professor. "You should put it around your neck."

"Oh," replied the Freshie, "I tried it that way, but I couldn't breathe."

Thanksgiving

At this season of general thanksgiving, let us not alone think of the many favors that have been granted us in the year that has past, but give an even more serious thought to the future. We learn by experience, and experience has shown us lately as never before that it is a satisfying and comforting thing to have a little something laid by for the days that may not be so plentiful.

Let us all at this time decide to increase our savings during the year to come. In this way we will have more to be thankful for when the next anniversary of the holiday rolls around.

ASKS JUSTICE ON BEHALF OF INDIAN TRIBE

DEVELOPMENT RETARDED

THINKS TRIBAL FUNDS SHOULD BE DISTRIBUTED AND ALL LANDS ALLOTTED

Thomas H. Beaulieu, accredited spokesman for the Chippewa Indians of Minnesota, opened a campaign in their behalf by an address before the Commercial club in this city last Thursday afternoon. He will visit many other sections in his efforts to arouse public sentiment to a favorable consideration of his views on the subject of the Indian's future, holding that the past and present policy of the government is working an injustice to the people of his race.

Mr. Beaulieu is convinced that sections of the Red Lake reservation should be sold and the money, together with that now in the hands of the department to their credit, should be employed to better the condition of the Indians.

The meeting here was well attended and at its close resolutions were passed urging that Senators Nelson and Kellogg and Congressmen Steenerson and Knutson use their best efforts to procure the relief asked for.

A stenographic report was secured by The Times and the greater part of the address is herewith given:

"I am very glad to be with you today and I sincerely appreciate the privilege of speaking to you. Owing to the fact that we mixed dates with the Crookston people, I have to be there at 6 o'clock this evening, so wrote up to arrange for an hour in which to speak to you before going there.

"A few years ago I had occasion to visit Washington in the interest of my people, particularly with the hope of finding out if it was possible for the departments there to keep their obligation with our people. While there I visited the Department of Justice. One morning I started down Pennsylvania avenue to make inquiries as to where I would find the building and started in that direction. After passing the Army and Navy building, I met a gentleman coming towards me, walking along leisurely, wearing a Prince Albert coat and silk hat and with his hands behind his back, apparently in deep thought. When I got up to him, I said: 'Beg pardon, but could you kindly inform me where I could find the Department of Justice building.' He raised his head and looked at me intently: 'Young man, Department of Justice? There is nothing of the kind this side of the grave.' Well, you will understand how I felt. We had been trying to get justice down there and getting that conclusion from that kind of a source did not help to encourage me very much. However, I find since coming to Thief River Falls and having had many pleasant talks, that the fellowship extended me makes be believe there is justice this side of the grave. Of course it is all coming to one and when you do get it, you appreciate it that much more.

Promises Never Kept.

"In this book is a bill known as the Nelson bill, 51st Congress, Document 247, Chippewa Indians in Minnesota, being a message from the President of the United States relative to the Chippewa Indians, dated March 6, 1890, which was referred to the Committee on Indian Affairs. This finally passed and became a law. This was a treaty between the Chippewas of Minnesota and the United States Government; an instrument issued under a democratic form of government; an obligation sacred between the Chippewas and the United States—and I am sorry to say it has turned out like so much scrap paper. Now you don't like to hear these things. One of the greatest causes that brought about the World War was that Germany treated Belgium's treaty as a scrap of paper.

"We have been patiently awaiting the fulfillment of the treaty of 1889, which provided that all of the Minnesota reservations would be opened, the timber land appraised and sold and all lands outside the White Earth and Red Lake reservations that were not needed for allotment would be opened and settled. In 1900—July 20th—the Chippewa commissioner, through the Indian Bureau, declared that the allotments of the Chippewas of Minnesota had been concluded.

No Value to Anyone.

"Today you have upon the Red Lake reservation, right nearby, some 1500 or 1800 people who have never gotten a foot of land allotted. Thirty years ago the bill in that book provided for that. What are the circumstances? Those people are captives; they are segregated within a certain area from where they can not go out. They own nothing individually. There are today tied up in the five reservations that should have been opened upwards of 5,000,000 acres of fertile land. They yield nothing, they bring no taxes and they bring no yields to the Indian. Still that book says they should have been opened up. As I said it is as a scrap of paper. I want to ask you as citizens whether that is right or wrong. I am not pleading for mercy. I have talked to the officials at Washington many times. The commissioner of Indian Affairs is merely a figurehead—figurehead of shrewd politicians.

"You ask why the Indian problem is not solved. I will tell you. You will say that the black man's problem was solved. They had the Freeman's bill, but the black man had no money in the United States Treasury. But today the Indians of the United States have upwards of a billion of dollars in the United States treasury and I have not a word to say as to the disposition of it. Who has? The Indian Bureau. The officials appropriate that money to support an army of 7,000 employees to govern the Indians, myself included, and I think I can take care of myself. This is the situation, and we want self determination. I read ... in Mike Dowling's speech given here not long ago, (I know him personally), where he says that we should have good American citizenship; that he believed that charity 'should' begin at home in this country and that this country's needs be attended to first. In the past two or three years we have been engaged in a great war to help the small nations of Europe to get freedom and self determination. It is high time we should do something at home to help the Indians—the first Americans—to get their freedom.

Ninety Per Cent Industrious.

And now, as I have said, as we have struggled along there has been harmony in the American people and spirit of consideration that is hopeful. We have at the present time pending a bill introduced by Mr. Ellsworth and one by Harold Knutson of the Sixth district, which provides for the allotment of lands to the Red Lake Indians, and it provides for the segregation of the Chippewa tribe's funds which are now in the United States Treasury. They want something in the shape of humanity. Out of the 12,000 Chippewas in the state of Minnesota, there are over 90 per cent who are industrious citizens, as I have said before. Right over here we have in the cities of Minneapolis and St. Paul over 250 men and women of the Indian people, many of whom are attorneys, doctors and other professional and business men and some of the young ladies work in the banks. They are stenographers, but they are in the same position as I am today. You say they are citizens but they are not in any sense of the word. They should be entitled to the rights that the government for, by and of the people provides. But they say the Indian is incompetent—they bring up this argument: If we pay the Indian he will spend it and get nothing for it. But if you have money of your own, isn't it better for you to spend it yourself than for someone else to spend it for you?

"As I said before, all the 7,000 employees are doing that. They get good, rich salaries, modern homes, lighted, steam heated or some other kind of heat, fuel if necessary, kitchen utensils. They go and get their bedding, etc., from the schools, they have automobiles, chauffeurs—and Mr. Injun pays for it. I pay for it. There is no more justice in that than if the United States should send a man and ask you to support him. Would you do it? I think not.

Indians in the War.

"These are the conditions that exist with us. We ask you whether or not in your big hearts you feel we are right or wrong. During the war the Indians of the United States furnished 11,000 boys who went down there and went across to fight for this country. A large number sleep in France and Flanders fields. They died in the slaughter pens of No Man's land. And for what? For liberty and freedom for those countries. I know of a half dozen boys who went out and fought, who came back crippled and the Indian agent would not pay over the money due them because the board declared them incompetent. They went to the front and, if they were good enough to go over there and fight for a country, they are certainly good enough to be citizens of that country.

"Now that is the position. When we started out telling this to the people, the agents or the hirelings of the Bureau went about saying that if you do that, give them freedom and their money, why heavens and earth you will have the Becker county poorhouse filled with paupers."

"Now gentlemen, I have been living among the Chippewas for over 40 years. I lived with them when they were struggling in the first stages of agricultural life. From that time on I have never known of an Indian of the Chippewas of Minnesota to be in the Becker county poorhouse or any other poorhouse in the United States. They are not that kind. And I want to say further that if it had not been for firewater there would not have been an Indian in the penitentiary, but they got hold of firewater and that brings men of any class down. That is the kind of people we are coming here to ask you to help. As we have done in other places, we have made up some resolutions which we thought would be proper and fit under the circumstance, and I am leaving them with Mr. Smith. If, after I am through here, you feel, as I said before, in your big hearts that the Chippewas—70 per cent of them at least—should get what belongs to them, their rights, we wish that you would endorse these and submit them to the Minnesota delegation in Congress, either Mr. Steenerson, the congressman from the ninth district and with whom I am personally acquainted, or Mr. Knutson of the sixth district. And I want to assure you that every help like that is greatly appreciated.

Blames Department.

"Senator Nelson, who is one of the senators from this state and also one of the oldest in congress, is extending senatorial courtesy in every way. Mr. Kellogg says, 'I know that is right and I want to help you but you know the old custom of senatorial courtesy compels me to defer to Senator Nelson.' He is an old man and has plenty to look after and he says the Indian department will look after the Indians—and that is as far as we can get. The Indian department has spent $600,000 in the last 24 years and what have they done?

"We have also drawn up a series of resolutions affecting the Indian soldier. The bill in congress now provided that as soon as those boys who fought in France or who were in the army return they shall be given free and unrestricted citizenship. I am also leaving these with Mr. Smith and, after you have read them, if you feel in your big heart that you can help, I assure you that on behalf of the Chippewas, I will appreciate it.

"I both speak and understand the American language. A census enumerator for the Chippewa Indians after spending five days was very anxious to get away, and he said, addressing the chiefs: "Is there anything we can tell you? Is there anything we can do for you?' One of the chiefs said: 'We have seen such as you before. I am an old man and have never seen an obligation fulfilled.'

One Honest Commissioner.

"I want to tell you a little joke. One of the commissioners, who was baldheaded, said while speaking to the Indians: 'My friends, I come here to tell you that my heart is right and I feel for the Indians. The president looked for several days for an honest man and at last he found me and now I am here to do good to you and I want to assure you I will do all I can.' An old man got up and said: 'I have listened to everything you said from the Great Father at Washington. I want to say that ever since little boy, men talk like you before many commissioners. I found out they are all liars and the baldheaded ones the biggest of all.'

"Now, I do not have anything personal in this matter, but, as I said before, the greatest obstacle that the Chippewas of Minnesota and other Indians have is that they have great funds in the United States treasury. Of course if this money was divided among the Indians it would mean three, four or five hundred dollars each. A great many would use up theirs but the money would come into circulation—in Minnesota, probably, while the bulk of it now goes to Kentucky or Georgia—it goes south anyway, and does not stay up here. This money is doing no good to the Indians and is going out of the country.

Improved School Conditions.

"We have also done another thing. We have abolished the government school system on the White Earth reservation. When we had that system there were 35 or 40 teachers besides the superintendent to teach 150 boys and girls and they would be in the school about 2½ hours a day. The rest of the time they were doing manual training, raising pigs, cows, etc., and doing no good to the children. We have fought for the public schools for five years because their money has been uselessly spent. There has been an injustice to the people and to the children. But now we have District No. 112 on the White Earth reservation, right under the roofs of the government school and in the shadow of the government agency. Down there we have three teachers now; the attendance is getting so large that they are now thinking of employing four; school is from 9 to 12 in the morning and from 1 to 4 in the afternoon, and they are learning good, sound Americanism. They will be men and women, a credit to themselves and to the United States. They can never do it under the government form of schools. You can never make citizens if you herd children like cattle. They are shut up, never get out, never know anything. It might be all right, but I believe in giving all of the privileges that are necessary to develop physical, moral, mental and religious ability, and you can never do it if you segregate men and women in a certain area and no farther. You cannot do business that way in this country. When you want to make men and women you have to place them in a certain sphere, on a plane of freedom, give them every opportunity possible so that they can develop. You must do away with anything like government strings.

Must Save or Work.

"Give the Indian what belongs to him. When he spends what he has, he knows he must get to work. We have had instances. I could name hundreds of men who spent their money and it was 'root, hog, or die,' and they went to work and now are a good class of men.

"So now, my friends, I would ask you again for your earnest co-operation which will bring about allotment of land to the Indians, open up this allotted land for them, and if there is any land left, have it sold.

Begin Campaign Here.

"You have roads surveyed; you would like to go through there but the reservation stops it. Now as far as I am concerned I am not making any money out of this. I have come here upon my own responsibility, paying my own way and using my own time. So few of my people are able to help themselves, they can not come here and talk and I feel it is my place to ask for them. I came to the White Earth reservation forty years ago. If there were any young ladies here I would not say that as they would think I was an old man. I have spent my time and my means to help bring about better conditions. There are so many unable to help themselves and that is what I want to do. We are going to talk in Moorhead, Grand Forks, Minneapolis and St. Paul, but I thought I would start here because many Indians reside in the ninth district. You are right near by, you understand their conditions, and these are some of the reasons I am here.

Loyal and Patriotic.

"Now, as I said before, I thank you, I appreciate this very much. I have talked with many of your business men today. I am satisfied that you will help us out and I know you will never regret it. We have a good class of people. Many of our boys went into the world war. They didn't ask how much they would get. In the war of the Rebellion, 200 fought in the Ninth and Fourth Regiments and the Second Cavalry. Some of their sons fought in the late war. My friends, every Chippewa in Minnesota is a loyal and patriotic man. There are no slackers among them. They went out to fight and they fought, and the Germans know something about them. They are willing to fight today and that is the kind of people I am asking you to assist and support in order to get for them all that has long been denied. I know you appreciate the situation and I know many of you understand it as well as I do, living so close to the reservation. And now, before parting, on behalf of the Chippewas of Minnesota, I want to thank you sincerely for the courtesy extended to me here today."

Saturday Night's Audience Mystified

Tries vainly to detect difference between art of famous artists and RE-CREATIONS by Edison's new phonograph

Those present at The City Auditorium Saturday night saw Amy Ellerman walk onto the stage. They saw her take her position next to a beautiful cabinet. They saw her lips give voice to the opening lines of Scot's "Douglas! Tender and True." Then suddenly her lips were still—but the song kept flowing on.

How came this? They were hearing Miss Ellerman's voice, yet Miss Ellerman was not singing. The entire audience gasped as it realized that it had been unable to distinguish between Miss Ellerman's voice and the RE-CREATION of that voice by the New Edison.

This was the daring test undertaken Saturday night at The City Auditorium by Thomas A. Edison. He sought to prove that no difference exists between the voice of the living artist and its RE-CREATION by the New Edison. The musically cultured of Thief River Falls were invited to pass judgment. No test could have been more exacting.

Miss Ellerman made comparison after comparison. The Fleming Sisters Trio, which appeared jointly with Miss Ellerman, also made tests with their instrumental selections. The mystified audience tried vainly to catch a difference between the original rendition and its RE-CREATION by the New Edison. No one could tell one from the other.

It was a triumph whole and complete for the New Edison.

The NEW EDISON
"The Phonograph With a Soul"

The instrument used in Saturday night's Tone-Test is the regular model which sells for $285. It is an exact duplicate of the Laboratory Model which Mr. Edison perfected after spending Three Million Dollars in experiments.

The New Edison alone of all phonographs is capable of sustaining this test. Until Mr. Edison knew it would do so, he regarded his work as unfinished.

Ask some one who was present Saturday night. Learn the amazing truth. Then come in and let us prove it personally to you.

TREATY DEADLOCK NOW IS PROBABLE

PRESIDENT TO POCKET PEACE PACT IF RESERVATIONS ARE INCLUDED.

President Wilson will pocket the peace treaty if it contains the Lodge reservations, he told Senator Hitchcock at a conference at the White House on Monday.

"The president has read and considered the Lodge reservations," Senator Hitchcock said, "and he considers them a nullification of the treaty and utterly impossible."

The program outlined by Senator Hitchcock after he had seen President Wilson last week will be carried through in the senate, Senator Hitchcock said. This contemplated defeat of the Lodge reservation attached and offering a resolution for ratification without reservation. With the defeat of this resolution a deadlock would follow and a compromise sought. Senator Hitchcock was with the president for an hour.

The president's decision grew from republican leaders' emphatic statement that there would be no compromise and that the original program of procedure would be adhered to.

"The only result has been to harden our lines," said Senator Lodge.

It was the view of the republican leaders that the senate would probably reach a deadlock who said if the treaty was withdrawn or failed the situation would be chargeable to the administration.

The foreign relations committee reservation excluding the United States from any responsibility in regard to the disposition of the German colonies was rejected today by the senate.

The reservation which was the first of the committee group to be defeated failed to command the support of the mild reservationists of the republican group and also by some republican irreconcilable in addition to administration democrats.

The KITCHEN CABINET

'Tis not in battles of youth we train
The governor who must be wise and good,
And temper with the sternness of the brain
Thoughts motherly, and meek as womanhood.
Wisdom doth live with children round her knees.

VARIOUS AND SUNDRY THINGS.

The secret of successful sponge cakes is in the beating of the eggs and the care not to lose the air incorporated when stirring in the flour. Then the "baking oven judgment never comes to some women in the course of their lives," says Kate Douglas Wiggin.

It is as unreasonable to suppose all women gifted in being good cooks as it would be to expect them to be musicians or artists. Because the majority of women are by necessity housekeepers, it does not follow that they are by that necessity doing the work for which they are especially qualified.

In these days of thin cream which refuses to whip, a solution called viscogen will be useful, which may be made at home and kept indefinitely if well stoppered. Take five ounces of sugar and dissolve in ten ounces of water. Add six ounces of cold water to two ounces of quicklime and let it gradually slake; then strain through a fine sieve, to remove unslaked particles. Combine the two liquids and shake occasionally for two hours. In three hours set the mixture aside to settle, then siphon or pour off the clear liquid. Store in small bottles tightly corked, as the liquid absorbs carbonic acid from the air, thus darkening the color and reducing the strength. Keep either in a dark bottle or wrap the bottle in dark paper. Use one-fourth of a teaspoonful of the viscogen to three-fourths of a cupful of cream, well chilled. Stir well, then beat with an egg-beater as usual.

Kitchen Bouquet.—The browning used for gravies and various sauces may be made at home. Put a cupful of sugar in an iron frying pan over the fire. Stir and shake until it turns a dark brown. Add a half-cupful of boiling water, a clove of garlic, one chopped onion, six whole cloves, a teaspoonful of salt, a dash of tabasco sauce and a saltspoonful of black pepper. Simmer twenty minutes, strain and bottle for use. Use a teaspoonful to flavor and color any meat sauce.

Suffering Caused by War.

The name "barbed-wire disease" is found by Bing and Vischer to have probably originated in Switzerland, and it applies to a very marked functional mental disorder. The symptoms, recognizable in most men confined more than six months behind barbed-wire fencing, are severe in about 10 per cent of all prisoners. Increased irritability appears first, followed by diminished power of concentration, and there is much complaint of loss of memory of persons and places. Insomnia is a secondary symptom. Some prisoners have diminished eyesight, many grow suspicious, all tend to pessimism, some reaching an extreme in several days at a time of speechless torpor. Forgetfulness of words is very striking.

AIR-TIGHT WALL OF IMPORTANCE

Careful Examination of Silos, Followed by Necessary Repairs, Is Big Help.

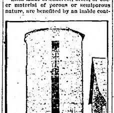
SMALL LEAK SPOILS SILAGE

Inside Coating to Seal Pores and Prevent Action of Juices on Walls Is of Much Benefit—Paraffin Is Promising.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

With the silo-filling season approaching, a careful examination of silos, followed by necessary repairs, will help to improve the keeping quality of the contents. According to studies of the United States department of agriculture, air-tight walls are the chief requirement; in fact, a leak no larger than a small nail hole may spoil several hundred pounds of silage. In case of wood-stave silos the hoops and braces should receive attention to insure close fitting.

Silos made of concrete, brick, or other material of porous or semiporous nature, are benefited by an inside coating of a preparation which seals the pores and also prevents the action of silage juices on the walls.



Newly Constructed Silo—Owner Is Preparing to Fortify With Silage Against Winter and High-Priced Feed.

The coating most commonly used hitherto is coal tar thinned with gasoline and applied with a paint brush. A number of materials of like nature have been considered for this work, but the one showing the most promise is paraffin.

How to Apply Paraffin.

Paraffin may be applied either cold or hot to silo walls. With the cold method, the paraffin is dissolved in a volatile carrier like naphtha until a saturated solution is obtained. Four pounds of paraffin dissolved in one-half gallon of gasoline or naphtha will make one gallon of this solution. The solution is then applied much like paint to the surface of the concrete, which it penetrates according to dryness and porosity. One gallon has a covering capacity of about 200 square feet.

The naphtha soon evaporates, leaving the paraffin in the holes. When applying the paraffin by this method, special care must be taken that there is good ventilation in the silo and that there are no lights or fires nearby. Naphtha is very inflammable, and a serious explosion or fire may result from careless use.

Walls Must Be Warm.

Paraffin may also be applied in melted form. It requires six and one-half pounds of paraffin to make one gallon of the hot paraffin solution. The work should be done on a warm day and the concrete must also be sufficiently warmed by artificial heat so that the paraffin may be thoroughly rubbed in. One gallon will cover about 250 square feet of surface. When this method is followed, a blow torch should be used to warm the walls as the paraffin is being applied, and also to thin and spread the layer of paraffin. Two buckets of paraffin should be used, one to be heating while the other is being applied. The hot paraffin treatment is one of the most successful for waterproofing surfaces exposed to weather, but it requires some experience to obtain successful results.

Use of Hot Method.

Where the hot method is used, divide the number of square feet of silo wall to be coated, by 250 to find the required number of gallons. Multiply this result by six and a half to obtain the number of pounds of paraffin required. For example, to find the paraffin required to coat a silo 14 feet in diameter and 30 feet high:

Diameter (14 feet) x 3.1416 equals 43.98 feet, the circumference of the silo.

Height (30 feet) x circumference (43.98 feet) equals 1319.4 square feet, the area.

Area (1319.4 square feet) divided by 250 equals 5.27, or number of gallons required.

Gallons required (5.27) x 6½ equals 34.25, the number of pounds of paraffin required.

In both cases the cost may be estimated from the local price of paraffin and naphtha. It should be remembered however, that these figures will vary with local conditions.

Receives Good News.

At least one business man in Thief River Falls was made happy yesterday. A long time ago he purchased a block of stock in a Montana oil well paying therefor 10 cents per share. He had about figured that it was another of those punk investments when the news of the big oil strike in the Roundup district was received. As his holdings are right in the middle of this new field he feels as if he might yet realize something on his freak investment.

A Family of Foods.

Local housewives will be interested in "Pillsbury's Week in Minnesota," at the local grocery stores. TAXES FOR 1919 SHOW INCREASE AT ALL POINTS

STATE DEMAND RESPONSIBLE FOR ONE-THIRD OF TOTAL AMOUNT.

CITY RATE IS UP 3.6 MILLS

ST. HILAIRE AND GOODRIDGE HIT MUCH HARDER IN PROPORTION.

The rate of taxation for Pennington county will next year be somewhat higher than in the past, altho the increase outside the municipalities is not great. County Treasurer John Gullingsrud has just issued a table showing the rate in each subdivision of the county and it is found that but few localities have escaped the general upward tendency.

State Tax High.

The tax for state purposes is the highest in history, being 8.1 mills as compared with only 3.5 mills a year ago. This makes the increase for the year greater than the total 1918 tax for this purpose, the principal being the extraordinary expenses incurred through aid to districts stricken by cyclone and flood last summer, soldier bonuses and other items of an exceptional nature.

The increase for county purposes is but 3.5 mills, being 13.5 mills for the coming year against 10 mills for 1918.

Case of the City.

Property owners in Thief River Falls face a total increase of 13.5 mills over the rate a year ago. The advance in the different divisions into which taxes are divided is as follows: State, 8.1 mills; county, 3.5 mills; general city purposes, 3.6 mills; schools, 1.8 mills. The total foots up 89.4 mills as against 75.9 mills last year.

Other Municipalities Hit.

The two villages in the county are rather worse off in proportion than is the city. In St. Hilaire the rate has more than doubled, being 56.8 last year ago and 114.8 at this time. The tax for village purposes advanced from 19 mills to 36.8 mills, while the schools increased from 24.3 to 56.4 mills.

In Goodridge the taxes will be practically 30 mills higher than in 1918, the figures being 64.9 and 94.6 respectively. Increased school cost represents 9.5 mills of this sum and general village purposes 12.1 mills.

In only five instances is a decrease in the rate noted among the cities, villages and townships. These five are Numedal, Polk Centre, Sanders, Smiley and the city of Thief River Falls. A comparison of the figures below shows St. Hilaire to have been hit the hardest, the rate there for purposes under this head advancing 17.8 mills.

Township Rate Compared.

Town	1918	1919
Bray	7.4	7.7
Black River	8.	8.
Cloverleaf	8.1	9.4
Deer Park	12.4	15.8

Wyandotte	9.6	12.1
Goodridge Village	16.5	28.6
St. Hilaire Village	19.	36.8
Thief River Falls	41.9	32.

In Thief River Falls—District No. 18—the increase in the school tax rate is responsible for only a small share of the general advance, being but 1.8 mills. The other two municipalities in the county have been under rather unusual expense during the past year in their educational departments and the advance for Goodridge is 10.5 mills and for St. Hilaire 32.1 mills. Following is the levy for school purposes in all the districts of the county:

Soldier Laid at Rest.

The last sad rites over the remains of George Nelson, U. S. Marine, who died at the marine barracks at Puget Sound, Wash., on November 5, were held at the home of the deceased's parents last Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock. The funeral services were attended by a large number of people, who came to pay their last respects to the dead soldier. The remains were interred in the Langstad cemetery.

Elmer J. Eklund Post of the American Legion had planned on having a firing squad and bugler at the cemetery to render full military honors, but through some misunderstanding in the date the plan failed to materialize. The squad was ready to go out Saturday afternoon when it was discovered the funeral had been held on Friday. The Post will, however, send a firing squad to the Langstad cemetery next Decoration day to pay the departed soldier honor.

CORRECT STORY OF FIRE AT GREENBUSH

OPERATOR WAS NOT TO BLAME, ACCORDING TO OWNER OF BUILDING.

Elmer O. Anderson, proprietor of the building in which was located the Northwestern Telephone company exchange at Greenbush, in a communication to The Times, states that the story of the fire printed in this paper last week was not strictly according to the facts in the case. He submits the following as the true verision:

The fire in the stove was slow in getting started, so the telephone lineman thought he would help things along. He threw in some gasoline, and the fire did not start. He threw in some more gasoline and it did not start. He threw in some more and this time there was action. There was an explosion that threw gasoline all over the interior and in less time than it takes to tell it the whole interior was a mass of flames. The lineman and Miss Sigrud Matheson, the telephone operator, managed to get out. Sigrud's clothes were ablaze but Mike Sersen, who hapened to be passing just then grabbed her and rolled her in the snow and extinguished the blaze. She had a narrow escape, and while she was not seriously burned, the shock was too much for her nerves and she was ill for some time afterward. The alarm was immediately given and it was only a short time until water was turned on the blaze and the fire was under control. The Rinowski building was scorched somewhat, and Jack Von Rohr, who lives upstairs over the Rinowski building suffered some loss from water and smoke. Elmer Anderson had a stock of jewelry estimated at about $2,000 which was practically a total loss, as were also his repair tools and a large number of watches he had on hand to repair. He had let his insurance lapse about three months ago so his loss on stock is total. He only had $100 on the building. The telephone central outfit was a total loss. The telephone crew in charge of Manager Sterns came up from Thief River Falls on the noon train and by Saturday noon had the lines working again. The central will be located temporarily in the Andrew Lubinski confectionery.

To this Mr. Anderson adds the following: "These statements were admitted by Cloutier (the lineman) himself after the fire, but he changed his story after realizing his circumstances. The gasoline he used in my stove he poured from a one-gallon gasoline can with the name 'gasoline' painted on the side of the can in black letters. This can he took from beneath my repair bench in the opposite corner from the stove. This gas was used for repair work only."

"Pussyfoot" Johnson Injured.

Continued improvement was reported last Saturday in the condition of William E. Johnson, commonly known as "Pussyfoot," American prohibitionist, whose eye was injured on Thursday of last week during his involuntary progress in a parade thru the streets of London, England, on the shoulders of students, who had interrupted his prohibition meeting.

"Pussyfoot" Johnson is well known in northern Minnesota and made himself famous during the enforcement of the Indian treaty, when he closed the saloons up in the territory affected by the treaty. He acquired the name "Pussyfoot" in Oklahoma during his fight against liquor.

What a woman told us yesterday

She was telling us why she went out of her way to buy her groceries from us.

"One reason," she said, "is because I'm always so sure of getting things that are good. Besides you people seem to do everything you can to make my shopping easy."

Not all our customers tell us that, but we feel certain that these are the big reasons we have so many patrons and why we've had them so long.

We do try to make buying groceries easy and pleasant and we do try to have the best of everything in the grocery line.

One of the best things we have and recommend is RYZON Baking Powder.

We recommend it because we know it will give our customers perfect results. It's pure and clean, it's always uniform in quality, it's efficient and it's economical. Priced fairly at 40 cents a pound.

FARM LOAN BANK MAY RAISE LIMIT

PRESIDENT QUAMME SAYS MAXIMUM SHOULD BE PLACED AT $25,000.

Two and a half years' trial of the Federal farm loan act, under which the United States has built a rural credits system from nothing into the best and largest in the world, reveals but one major provision which should be changed, in the opinion of E. G. Quamme, president of the St. Paul institution. Mr. Quamme says that the $10,000 limit is a handicap in many instances, and that it should be increased to $25,000.

The Northwest is not greatly interested directly in this proposal, particularly the sections as yet somewhat sparsely settled. However, in the more densely settled sections there is a demand for larger loans.

Mr. Quamme believes, however, that the day of low priced land is past and that farm property even in the more remote regions is due to raise in value to a point where the $10,000 is inadequate. He says:

"The older this section becomes, the greater will be the demand for loans in excess of $10,000. As a country becomes more densely settled, land values naturally advance, and with higher valuations comes the demand for larger loans."

Wants Correct Address.

American Legion mail addressed to Denhard Johnson, C. H. Holem, Henry Erickson, Ernest Philipson and Henry Myrum, all of Thief River Falls, has been returned to G. H. Smith, secretary of Elmer J. Eklund Post, and the secretary is desirous of having the above mentioned men send in their correct addresses.

Leaves For Mining Country.

C. J. Lindquist, who has been drilling wells in the Goodridge vicinity for the past few years, arrived in the city last week to spend a few days with friends. He left on Tuesday evening for Ely, Minn., where he expects to be employed in the mines during the winter. Mr. Lindquist will return in the spring when he will purchase a well-drilling outfit and will drill wells near Gooridge assisted by his brother, Fred.

To All Citizens Who Are Interested in the Upbuilding and Future Welfare of Thief River Falls:

I would like to call your attention to one particular project that is of vital importance to our city at the present time, and that is the housing proposition. There are strangers who want to come to our city—some of them have already been here—but are prohibited from so doing for want of modern accommodations. It is safe to say that one-half at least of the people who wished to come here last fall could not do so because of the lack of modern living quarters—and it will be worse next year.

What the city needs and what will pay well is an up-to-date family appartment building that will house some 30 or 40 families in a strictly modern, big city manner.

If a lot of our own business and professional men would take hold of this matter it could be handled and financed. But it will take too much space to go into this phase of the subject at this time.

What I wish to do now is call the attention of citizens to this most important matter. Shall we sit down and watch opportunity go past our city and then afterwards merely remember that we had the pleasure of seeing this opportunity pass us by because we did not invite it to enter? Would not that be a pleasant thought to reflect on in after years? Let us grasp opportunity by the forelock and be wide awake to our own interests before it is too late.

Thief River Falls is destined to be a city of 20,000 people in a very short time, provided we take advnatage of the opportunities that are now at our doors in different ways.

The next two or three years, with all the improvements now under way and contemplated and all the people who are looking toward the city as a good place to settle, will practically decide what the future of Thief River Falls shall be—at least for a long time to come. But people wishing to come here must be furnished with places in which to live. If they do not find them they will go elsewhere and "the mill will never grind with the water that has passed."

The national convention of the American Legion came to a close in Minneapolis on Wednesday evening of last week, while one member from each state delegation remained for a day as a delegate on the national executive committee after the close of the convention.

No action was taken at the convention on the national bonus to be given to returned soldiers. The decision to leave to Congress "recognition of the financial handicap incurred from military service" and the declaration that the American Legion should be "non-political" were perhaps the most important pronouncements made by the representation of the ex-service men and women.

By a small majority the delegates decided that specific requests for war service compensation should not be approved although demands were made for speedy relief for disabled veterans and government aid for all veterans in securing farms and city homes on easy credit terms.

Franklin D'Olier was elected national commander with a salary of $6,000 per year which he announced he would not accept. Joyce Lewis, of Long Prairie, a crippled veteran of the battle of Chateau Thierry, was chosen one of the five vice commanders.

The next convention will be held at Cleveland, Ohio, Monday, September 27, 1920, the anniversary of the opening of the Argonne drive.

"Gets-It" Peels Off Corns Painlessly

Off They Come Like Banana Skin. 2 or 3 Drops, That's All.

There's a murderous, painful way to get rid of corns, and then there is the peaceful, glorious "peel-it-off" "Gets-It" way. After you have tried "Gets-It" you will say "never Cut It? Quit It! "Gets-It" Peels It! again" to all other methods. This is because "Gets-It" is the only corn-remover on earth that makes corns peel off just like a banana skin. Two or three drops will do the work, without fussing or trouble. You apply it in 2 or 3 seconds. It dries immediately. "Gets-It" does the rest, without bandages, plasters, blood-bringing knives or razors. Get rid of that corn-pain at once, so that you can work and play without corn torture. Be sure to use "Gets-It." It never fails.

Sold in Thief River Falls and recommended as the world's best corn remedy by J. P. Curtis and Lambert's Drug Stores.

HAD TO LIE IN BED MOST OF THE TIME

MRS. BARTELS COULD EAT ONLY MILK AND CRACKERS —IS LIKE NEW PERSON, NOW.

"Of all medicines in the world none can equal Tanlac," said Mrs. Henry Bartels of 786 Van Buren St., St. Paul, Minnesota, the other day.

"I suffered from indigestion so bad that what I ate wouldn't stay on my stomach," she continued, "I had to diet myself for a long time on milk and crackers, and I lost weight rapidly, going from one hundred and thirty-five down to one hundred and nineteen pounds, actual loss of sixteen pounds in about three months time. Gas would form on my stomach, and sometimes rise up into my chest and press against my heart so bad that I could hardly get my breath. I was restless all the time and couldn't sleep good at night. I had awful headaches, and at times I was so dizzy that I couldn't get out of bed in the morning. Finally I got so frightfully run down that I had to lie in bed most of the time, and have my daughter do the housework. I tried everything to build up my system, medicines, treatments, dieting and everything else I knew of but none of them did me any good.

"One day I noticed in the paper about Tanlac, and I decided to try it. And it proved to be the thing I've been looking for, I have taken four bottles now, and it seems like a dream the way I've improved. My appetite came right back, and it's the truth I can hardly get enough to eat now. I don't suffer at all from gas or indigestion, and that has made my breathing like it ought to be, I am never restless or nervous, and can sleep all night long, and when I get up I don't feel tired and drowsey like I used to but feel rested and refreshed. Headaches and dizzy spells don't trouble me any more, and I'm gaining in weight and strength right along. It's wonderful how Tanlac has built up my whole system, and made a new woman out of me altogether. I'm only too glad to tell others about my experience with such a remarkable medicine as Tanlac."

Avoid All Form of Worry.

Worry is the skeleton that befouls many a secret chamber. To be sure it may be difficult to forestall the monster. A moment's unguarded speech may occasion the loss of friendships that can never be regained. A hasty decision may mean the loss of fortune. The indiscretion of friends may put us in jeopardy for the rest of our days. There is occasion enough to be alarmed when such things happen. The mind seems to revert its troubles as water does to its levels. If these things are permitted to remain as the creaking occupants of the mind the result will be worry and mental friction. Like sand in the gears it will wear out the mental power and make people old before their time. You dare not allow your mental life to be sapped by friction.—Exchange.

How Coal Is Tested.

Coal sold on the basis of heating value is tested by the United States bureau of standards by the bomb colorimeter. A thirtieth of an ounce of coal is enclosed in a strong steel capsule, oxygen under high pressure is introduced, and, this bomb being placed in the calorimeter, the coal is ignited electrically. The heating effect is calculated from the rise of temperature of the water in the calorimeter. Coal samples of known heating value have been prepared, and are supplied to persons using the calorimeter to enable them to check their own results.

Wheat Always Preferred Food.

While more people are living in the world today dependent upon rice than upon wheat for subsistence and a greater number of the human family live upon millet than any other cereal food, wheat is the preferred food among the higher civilized peoples. The more progressive peoples of the earth have ever been wheat eaters. Grains of wheat have been discovered in Egyptian tombs of the first dynasty, dating back 4,000 B. C., while bread of wheat has been excavated from the ruins of the prehistoric lake dwellers of Wagner and Robenhausen in Switzerland.

His Mind in the Clouds.

Rev. George Harvest was to have been married to the daughter of Bishop Compton of London, but on the morning fixed for the ceremony forgot all about it and went off fishing. Much indignation was felt by the bride and her friends, and the engagement was broken off. But the reverend gentleman's second engagement was equally unsuccessful. Once more he forgot to come up to the church and lost his expectant bride in consequence.

Another "Origin of Dixie."

Before the Civil war the old Citizens' bank of New Orleans, having the power to issue paper money, provided quantities of bills, most of ten-dollar denomination, having the French word "Dix" on their backs. This money became popular, according to this theory, Louisiana was referred to as the land of the "Dixies." Eventually the term was broadened to include all of the southern states.

High Price Paid for Beefsteak.

The highest price ever paid for beefsteak was probably at Circle City, Alaska, a town that sprung up over night during the Klondike gold excitement. The first beefsteak to reach there sold for $48 a pound. Every one wanted some of it, and so they raffled it off for the benefit of a hospital. Tickets were sold from 50 cents to $2.50 for the privilege of drawing a slice.

The Cautious Elephant.

Ancient chronicles tell us that the Romans sometimes tested their military bridges by sending an elephant out on them and then watching to see whether the cautious beast would cross. Even to this day the natives in India set great store by the elephant's caution.

Really Small Flats.

Verona was much impressed with her first night in a berth on a sleeper, and in relating some of the wonders of her trip, remarked: "Why, Aunt Emma, the flats were so small we couldn't all live together. Mamma and I slept in the first flat and daddy in the second flat."

THOUSANDS PROCLAIM THE MERITS OF PE-RU-NA

Read Their Letters

Mrs. Martha C. Dale, R. F. D. 1, Cannon, Del., writes: "I am entirely cured of chronic catarrh of the stomach and bowels by PE-RU-NA."

Mr. J. Bayer, Glendale, Oregon: "There is no medicine like PE-RU-NA for catarrhal deafness."

Mrs. Kate Marquis, Middleburg, Ohio: "PE-RU-NA cured me of catarrh of the head and throat."

Mr. J. H. Collins, Wesson, Mississippi: "PE-RU-NA makes me feel vigorous and able to work without that tired, weak feeling I usually have otherwise."

Mrs. P. Ludvigsen, Austin, Minnesota: "I got rid of my liver trouble and can eat anything since taking PE-RU-NA."

Mrs. L. Hearing, 283 East 109th St., New York City: "For catarrh of the head and stomach, I have found PE-RU-NA better than any other medicine."

Mr. W. H. Edgar, 49 Cooper St., Atlanta, Georgia: "PE-RU-NA cured me after I had suffered fifteen years with rheumatism."

Mrs. Leona Dodd, R. No. 8, Medon, Tennessee: "PE-RU-NA is a grand medicine for coughs and colds."

So many diseases are due to catarrh and catarrhal conditions, makes PE-RU-NA the best medicine in the world to have on hand for emergencies and general health protection. Thousands of families are never without a bottle of PE-RU-NA or a box of PE-RU-NA Tablets in the medicine cabinet. That is the safe way.

You can buy PE-RU-NA anywhere in tablet or liquid form.

THE UNIVERSAL CAR

Out of the more than 3,000,000 Ford cars now in use, about sixty percent have been sold to farmers. Probably no other one thing has brought to the farm so much of comfort and profit as has the Ford car. It has enlarged the social life, doubled the facilities for marketing, brought the town next door to the farm, multiplied for the farmer the pleasures of living. A family car without an equal in low cost of operation and maintenance. We solicit your order for one now because the demand is large and continually increasing.

Making Snow Pay A Profit

While we could quite handily have gotten along without snow for a time, now that it is here we might better make a profit out of its presence. One way to accomplish this is to do all your heavy hauling during the winter. A team can lug four times as much now as in the spring, and time will be money at that time.

Order Your Building Material Now And Haul It Out Yourself

You will begin saving money right at the outset of your program and will save a great deal more later on for the reason that prices are sure to advance. The man who has the lumber for his building or improvements on his place next spring will be the lucky chap.

Get The Best Material While You Are At It

That is the only kind we handle and you can go ahead with the assurance that you have started out right. Buy now and buy from us is good advice as thousands in this neighborhood can tell you.

Winners in Lamb Contest Tell of Methods Followed

Interesting Papers by Successful Contestants in First Annual Boys and Girls Show.

An important feature of the first annual lamb show of the Pennington County Boys' and Girls' clubs was the papers presented giving a history of the methods pursued in raising the stock exhibited. These papers will be submitted in competition with others sent in by boys and girls from different sections at the state lamb show in South St. Paul on Nov. 19, 20 and 21, as will also the lambs winning the first three prizes. The owners of these lambs will also be given a free trip to this show.

The papers, which are well written and very interesting, are as follows:

SHEEP RAISING.

(By Virgil O. Denhart, Hazel, Minn.)

My father entered my name in the Boys' and Girls' club while attending one of their meetings at Thief River Falls. When he came home he gave me two ewes that he bought some time before. I named them Pet and Pattie and started caring for them immediately.

I did not separate my sheep from the bunch, but fed them with the rest until time for lambing. The sheep were fed hay until lambing time and then fed grain once a day.

Pet had lambs on the first day of May. She had one ewe and two bucks. She saved all three and raised them.

Pattie had a lamb on the 12th of May. It was a beauty and a ewe lamb so I chose it to enter in the contest. I named it Baby. They did very nicely on a pasture of timothy and clover.

About the middle of July I put the lamb and its mother in and began feeding them hay and grain. On the 6th of August I took her away from her mother and took her to the County Fair at Thief River Falls. I kept her there two days. I got first prize in the Boys' and Girls' Sheep contest, also a special prize which in all amounted to $9.00.

I put her with her mother again in the pasture to graze for a while, and then penned her up by herself and fed her until the end of the contest.

My lamb weighed thirty-five pounds when six weeks old. I helped dock my lamb and the others on the 25th of May. After the operation we put on some strong Kreso dip which disinfected them and they healed very nicely. I think it is a good plan to dock lambs when quite young. My lamb at the close of the contest weighed ninety-four pounds.

I got $27.04 for two lambs. $9.00 in premiums and I had 18 pounds of wool from the two ewes at 45 cents a pound, amounting to $8.10, making a total of $44.14. I think sheep raising is a very profitable and pleasant business.

I take my lamb to Thief River Falls to the Boys' and Girls' Sheep contest and if I win I'll go to St. Paul, where I'll learn more about the care of lambs.)

FUDGIE.

(By Ruth Satre, Thief River Falls.)

I was born April 12, 1919, on a very cold spring morning. All the snow had not melted but that did not make any difference to me as I was kept in the barn for a couple of days. When I was about two days old a girl about fifteen years old came into the barn and looked at us. There were several lambs like myself, but she seemed to like me the best and came and petted me. I was afraid of her at first, but it must have been that I was a timid creature like my mother, for my mistress is never unkind to me. My mistress, whose name is Ruth, came out several times each day to see me. She petted and played with me and I became very fond of her.

When I was about a month old, Ruth gave me some oats. I liked it quite well at first. When the grass began to grow, I started to eat that and I didn't care so much for the oats. Ruth was going to school at this time, so I did not see her for many weeks. One morning I heard a familiar call: "Come Fudgie," and I knew it was Ruth who had come home. I felt like going toward her, yet I didn't dare. She offered me some oats, but as my fear was greater than my appetite, I ran away.

The next day I was caught while in a pen and Ruth put some oats into my mouth. She petted and talked to me. After that I began to like the oats, as well as her kind ways, and I gradually grew tame. She fed me about a pint morning and night. When it wasn't too hot, I was out with my mother eating leaves of shrubs and bushes and bunches of grass that the cows had left. Once in a while I would break into the garden, but somehow or other I was never allowed to stay there long.

About the 1st of August I was taken to the Fair. I was there three days and I guessed right there that Ruth had put me in a contest. I didn't like it up there because it was so noisy and so many people came and looked at me and I surely was glad when I got home where it was quiet and peaceful. My mistress is still taking good care of me and I've grown to be a good sized lamb weighing 118 pounds at the age of 7 months.

My only worry now is that if I ever am sold, will I get as good care and kind treatment as I received while I was young.

HOW I RAISED MY LAMB.

(By Myron Robinson, Goodridge, Minn.)

In the fall of 1918 I bought two old ewes. They were good graded ewes bred to a pure bred Shropshire ram. I took the best of care of them because I expected to have their lambs early in the season.

Early in 1919 I heard of the contest in the Boys' and Girls' Sheep club, given by the Citizens State bank, so I decided to join.

The first ewe dropped her lambs on March the 3rd. They were a healthy pair of twins, one a ram and the other a ewe. I selected the ewe because of her build and good markings. Her mother was fed a good measure of ground oats and barley and the best of upland hay. As soon as the lamb began to nibble at the hay, I began to feed her ground feed from my hand. I increased the feed as she grew older and at about two months I gave her all she could eat. As soon as the grass was high enough for grazing in the spring, I turned them into the pasture. I always had plenty of fresh water and salt in the pasture and a shed for them to run into out of the hot sun. The lamb nursed her mother all summer.

After harvest I turned her out on the fields and in the corn. She was a great feeder on corn and has fed chiefly on corn up to the present date.

Resolutions Favoring Sale of Lands on Indian Reservation Adopted by Thief River Falls Commercial Club.

WHEREAS, the Government of the United States under the authority contained in the Nelson Act approved January 14, 1889, entered into an agreement with the Chippewa Indians of Minnesota by the terms and provisions of which the Chippewa Indians ceded to the United States in trust all of their lands embraced within ten reservations in Minnesota, except sufficient land on the Red Lake and White Earth Reservations to make allotments to the Indians residing thereon or that might be removed to the White Earth Reservation and with a further reservation of sufficient land to allot the Indians residing within the ceded territory who desired to take their allotments on the land upon which they were then living; the pine timber on the ceded lands to be disposed of under governmental supervision, the ceded lands to be opened to homestead entry under the homestead laws of the United States, the settlers to pay the Indians at the rate of $1.25 per acre, and the net proceeds derived from the sale of the timber and land to be placed in the Treasury of the United States to the credit of the Indians, the principal fund to bear interest at the rate of five per centum per annum for a period of fifty years, three-fourths of the interest accruing on the principal fund to be paid in cash annually to the Indians and one-fourth to be used annually exclusively for the establishment and maintenance of a system of free schools among the Indians and for their benefit until the free school system of the State of Minnesota was extended so as to provide school facilities for the children of the Indians and the white settlers alike, the principal fund to be ultimately divided among the then members of the Chippewa Tribe and their issue share and share alike; and,

WHEREAS, in utter disregard of said agreement with the Chippewa Indians made in 1889, thirty years have now past, and

(a)—not an allotment has been made to an Indian residing on the Red Lake Reservation, where nearly a half million acres in Beltrami and Clearwater counties, much of which is as rich land as can be found in Minnesota, have been retained in said reservation, remaining idle and unproductive;

(b)—the Fon du Lac Reservation in Carlton county, the Grand Portage Reservation in Cook county, the Leech Reservation in Cass county, embracing large areas of land all of which was ceded to the United States in 1889 have been and are today being maintained;

(c)—a forest reservation containing about 200,000 acres of virgin land has been established in Cass, Beltrami and Itasca counties upon which the greater portion of the pine timber has been removed rendering this vast area valueless as a forest reserve;

(d)—a large forest reserve has been established on the Red Lake Reservation in Beltrami and Clearwater counties rendering that area unproductive and valueless;

(e)—the Indian Bureau of the United States has for thirty years been obtaining from Congress large appropriations out of the trust funds of the Indians upon the assumption that the entire membership of the Chippewa tribe, numbering about 12,000, were incompetent and incapable of managing their own affairs and that it was necessary for the United States to maintain six agencies among said Indians with a large force of employees in order to properly protect and safeguard their property rights where ninety per cent of the Chippewa people are as capable of managing that property as the White people of the State of Minnesota.

(f)—by disregarding and ignoring the agreement which the United States solemnly entered into with the Chippewa people in 1889, the officers, agents and employees of the Indian Bureau have been able to maintain and continue their positions, salaries and lucrative employment which has prevented the development of large sections of the State of Minnesota; have prevented the extension of the public school system of the State to the Indian reservations now being maintained in violation of law, thus preventing them from obtaining proper educational facilities; have dwarfed and stunted the growth of heretofore thriving and prosperous towns; have held practically the entire membership of the Chippewa tribe in a state of bondage; have used the school funds of the Chippewas, amounting to about $75,000 per annum in maintaining Boarding Schools contrary to the intent of the agreement of 1889; have prevented the establishment of new towns at places where they are needed and have caused irreparable injury to the Chippewa tribe, the people of the State of Minnesota and the nation; and,

WHEREAS, By the failure or refusal of the United States authorities to carry out the agreement solemnly made by the United States with the Chippewa people in 1889, a condition exists within large acreas of the State of Minnesota that has become intolerable;

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED, By the members of the Commercial Club of Thief River Falls, and the citizens of the County of Pennington, that they request the Senators and members of Congress from the State of Minnesota to use their utmost efforts to secure the enforcement of the agreement of 1889, made by the Government of the United States with the Chippewa people to the end that the conditions complained of in the preamble of this resolution may be eradicated; and

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED THAT, the Secretary of the Commercial Club of Thief River Falls be, and hereby is, directed to transmit to each Senator and Member of the House of Representatives of the Congress of the United States from Minnesota a true copy of this resolution.

Adoption of above resolution moved by P. W. Mabey and seconded by F. H. Herrick, at a regular called meeting of the Thief River Falls Commercial Club in its Club Rooms at Thief River Falls, Minnesota, on Thursday, November 13th, 1919, at 8:30 o'clock p. m.

"Interests" and the Press.

(Philadelphia Record.)

The Louisville Courier-Journal recently printed in a sarcastic spirit a table or formula by which any newspaper reader can determine at a glance just what "interests" control his favorite journal. For instance, according to this table, if a newspaper ardvocates good roads, it is controlled by the cement manufacturers; if it is against government ownership of railroads, it is dominated by Wall Street; if it favors government ownership, it is also dominated by Wall Street, which desires to exchange its worthless railroad shares for guaranteed government bonds; if it is for prohibition, the soft drink manufacturers have bribed it; against prohibition, the breweries and distilleries have bought it, etc.

It is easy, as the Courier-Journal ironically intimates, to find a dishonorable motive for any policy of a newspaper to which the reader is opposed. But, after all, the people who make such charges do not really believe them. An anonymous scribbler sometimes intimates that the Record is in receipt of regular installments of British gold because it upholds the Covenant of the League of Nations; but this is an easement of his personal animosity to Britain rather than an expression of his honest conclusions.

The newspapers as a whole stand high in the estimation of their readers. The few which are really subsidized are pretty well known and therefore devoid of influence. The opinions of those which are fearless in advocacy of their honest convictions are respected even by those who disagree with them, and the advertising carried in the columns of such newspapers derives character and influence from the reputation and standing of the publishers.

Bank Advertising

(Crookston Times.)

It is believed by bankers generally that the habit of advertising freely and attractively in the newspapers has done much to popularize banks with the public. As a result, a large class of individuals who were formerly disinclined to deal with banks now not only deposit their money but turn naturally to the bank as a reliable business agent.

Newspaper advertising on the part of the banks undoubtedly has done much to remove the cloud of mystery which overawed many a possible depositor in the old days, but it is not only in the newspaper that the up-to-date bank now does its advertising. Its windows are attractive with posters, with terse epigrams on the value of savings, and with piles of little coin banks to encourage the small financier to hoard his pennies and nickels.

Live questions of the day are often taken up by the bank in readable pamphlets and distributed among depositors and throughout the neighborhood. The housewife is given hints on economic house management and more than a hint as to the safe disposal of her resultant savings. The foreigner sees printed in his own tongue the story of what the bank can do for him.

The benefit of this advertising to both bank and depositor is too obvious to need explanation. Any agency which helps to bring the banks and the people into closer contact works, like the quality of mercy, good to him that gives and him that takes.

"Atmosphere"

By DORA MOLLAN

(Copyright, 1919, by the McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

As Mrs. Kent closed the front door after a leisurely survey of the village street, she remarked to her sister Annie that Tom was in sight, so they could put the supper on the table; also that the atmosphere felt quite spring-like.

When Tom had eaten the supper prepared for him by his adoring women folk and had changed into his other suit, he stopped in the sitting room on his way out. Here his mother and aunt sat sewing.

"If you're going to see Mary"—Mrs. Kent laid her work on the table and started to arise—"you can return that cake recipe she lent me."

"Sit down, mother. Why should you jump to the conclusion that I'm going to see Mary Freeman? There are other girls in town."

"But none nicer, Tom," put in precise little Aunt Annie.

"Mary's all right," agreed Tom, "but I stopped to tell you that I'm going to see Deyette Sinclair a while."

"Isn't three times a week rather often to call on a girl you've known such a short while?" asked Mrs. Kent.

"Small town etiquette, mother. Deyette is a city girl. The Sinclairs make a fellow feel at home. There's something about their house—soft lights and all that sort of thing—a certain atmosphere—oh, I can't explain it," finished Tom impatiently.

"You don't need to explain to us, Tom, what constitutes the atmosphere of a true home," quietly interposed Aunt Annie.

"Well, anyway, the whole family doesn't sit around and entertain you, as they do at the Freemans'!" snapped Tom, and departed.

As the front door closed behind him Mrs. Kent picked up her sewing. "I hope this is merely a passing fancy, Annie. That girl is a new type in the village and she fascinates Tom. But I don't like his neglecting Mary. She's such a genuine girl."

"Yes, her complexion will stand the sunlight," added the sister.

In the Sinclair home that evening the atmosphere was saturated with the germs of jealousy and malicious triumph, but to Tom it only smelled of cigarette smoke, and he wondered what caller had preceded him. How could he know that Mrs. Sinclair had been smoking furiously for the last half hour while she railed at her daughter for her extravagance and because she was deliberately trying to "cut out" her mother with the elderly and wealthy Mr. Slater—and at the same time fooling around with an "impecunious fellow" like Tom?

Tom Listened: Enthralled.

When he arrived the shaded lights shone softly. Deyette was charming in a gown that was quite different from the village sort. Tom listened enthralled to her tales of their gay life in the city, and eagerly accepted an invitation to visit them the following winter.

It was the result of that strenuous society life, of course, that had forced them to come to this "charming" little village for a rest. Now wouldn't Tom tell more about his work—and what he hoped to become? Deyette was clever, so she listened with much apparent interest while Tom talked, and sent him away very much pleased.

You could not call Mary Freeman clever. She was just sweet and good and true. Nor would Tom, in describing her home, say that it had a "certain atmosphere." It was, in fact, much like his own—neat and orderly, and comfortable and pervaded by a spirit of unselfish love.

It was this spirit which kept Mrs. Freeman from commenting on Tom's absence in the hearing of her daughter, but it could not keep her from feeling bitterly toward Tom for causing the silent suffering which Mary was striving to conceal.

The Sinclairs had been in town a month, and Tom Kent had formed the habit of dropping in to see Deyette every evening after supper. He had even discontinued stopping in the sitting room to tell his mother where he was bound and to say good-night. Mrs. Kent did not remonstrate with Tom again for neglecting Mary.

She knew that her son could not be managed that way. Aunt Annie's lips were compressed in a straight line most of the time now, and she spoke seldom to Tom. The atmosphere of the Kent home had changed in some subtle manner. Subconsciously Tom felt it, but his infatuation for Deyette filled his mind those days to the exclusion of everything else except business. He knew he must succeed in that if he were to stand any chance with Deyette.

So affairs stood when Tom stopped in the grocery store on his way home from business one night to do an errand for his mother. Mr. Bates, the proprietor, waited on him.

As he tied up the package he leaned across the counter and spoke in a tone too low to be heard by any one else in the store. "Kent, you seem to be on pretty good terms with the Sinclairs. Do you think they are all right—financially, I mean? They owe me a pretty big bill now, and I can't afford to trust them for much more."

"Why, sure," replied Tom. "They just happen to be short of ready cash just now. Mrs. Sinclair was telling me about it the other evening. She said the man who managed their estate was seriously ill and if he didn't improve soon she would have to go to New York herself and look after things."

Mr. Bates seemed reassured and Tom thought no more about the incident until two nights later. Then Mrs. Sinclair brought up the matter of their circumstances again, concluding, "But I don't see how I can go. Really, I haven't even money enough in hand to pay my fare."

"Why, Mrs. Sinclair," exclaimed Tom in an injured tone, "why didn't you ask me to help you out? I have only about a hundred dollars with me—but would that do you any good?" "It surely would," answered Mrs. Sinclair, in a voice which she strove not to make too eager. She thanked him profusely, saying that now she would be able to take the first morning train.

Soon after Deyette pleaded a headache, so Tom left, with the remark that he would see her the next evening. As a matter of fact he never saw either of them again.

Returning home the next evening Tom found his supper on the table as usual. When he had nearly finished his mother asked him if he would mind raking up the lawn. Tom answered that he would do it in the morning if she didn't mind. "I thought perhaps, as you are not going to the Sinclairs' you would do it this evening," Mrs. Kent persisted.

"Where did you get the idea that I'm not going there, mother?" Tom asked.

"Why, it can't be possible, Tom," answered his mother, in her usual mild voice, "that you, their best friend, don't know what is common knowledge in the village today!"

"I don't know what you mean, mother."

"Your friends, the Sinclairs, left town this morning, bag and baggage—and just in time. They owe everybody here, and this afternoon an officer appeared to take them back to New York, with a charge against them for some crooked dealings there."

Mrs. Kent delivered this startling information, then disappeared into the kitchen. Tom went straight to his room and was not seen again that night.

Because the atmosphere of the Kent home was pervaded by unselfish love the Sinclairs' name was never mentioned there again in Tom's presence; unless you except Aunt Annie's remark a year later, when Tom told them that Mary Freeman had consented to marry him at last:

Leisure and Health.

In the first place we should be careful not to confuse leisure with idleness—in truth, they are poles apart. And no less different are they in their influence on the physical well being of man. Idleness is one of the greatest enemies of health; leisure is one of its essential conditions. A very large proportion of the almost chronic state of ill health which is the lot of so large a number of poor people is directly traceable to the absence of true leisure in their lives. It is of the very essence of leisure that one shall be and feel free to exercise just those faculties of the body and mind which call out for exercise. It is in this freedom and this chosen exercise that the pleasure-giving quality of leisure lies; and herein is one of the great values of true education. By all-round and justly proportioned development of the mind, body and emotions we are placed in a position to use leisure wisely and happily.—Scotsman.

Same Faithful Deer.

Wild deer, in the Federal park that protects the great redwood forest, have accustomed themselves to the call of the deputy warden, and will come quickly, early in the morning or late in the evening, when he gives the signal. When they reach him, he throws out pieces of apple to them, or spreads barley in a trough from which they may get the grain. If a stranger approaches while they are being fed, the deer wheel and bound away into the forest until Mr. Weaver calls for them again, and not until then will they come back unless the stranger has disappeared or stopped moving. As many as 14 deer have responded to this call at one time.—From the National Humane Review.

Comparing the Incomparable Nephew

By KITTY PARSONS

(Copyright, 1919, by the McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

Clover Lee was through for the day. She still wore her motor corps uniform, however, when she drove up to the St. Claire hotel, where she had promised to call for her Aunt Mary at four o'clock.

"Could you tell me how to get to Morgan street?"

Clover looked up and saw an army captain with two service stripes and two decorations on his breast, standing beside her long, low car. Besides all this, she noticed that he was very good-looking.

"It's about ten blocks from here," she told him. Then something prompted her to add: "I'm going right by there in a minute and if you care to wait I'll drop you there on my way home."

"That's awfully good of you; I'm sure I'll be more than grateful." And he certainly looked as if he meant it, too.

"So sorry, Clover, but Lucy was telling me some of the wonderful experiences her nephew had—such a wonderful boy! I simply couldn't bear to stop her. But you have company, child—so it's all right, after all."

Clover murmured something about giving some one a lift, but Aunt Mary was rather deaf and still very much overcome by the feats of Lucy's nephew, and she considered it an introduction.

"Delighted to meet you—get in front with Clover—the engine makes my feet burn. Thank you," as he tucked the robe about her.

"Just by way of explanation, my name is Gordon—Phil Gordon," he told Clover when they were finally on their way. "Your aunt seems to think I'm a friend of yours."

Clover Looked Up.

"Aunt Mary's a scream," the girl assured him. "She simply adores every one in uniform from a policeman up. You'll have to be careful."

They laughed together.

"By the way," she added thoughtfully, "her name is Miss Mary Lee."

"Thank you so much—I'll remember it."

"And I don't suppose it would be any harm to tell you that mine is Clover Lee."

"Mrs. or miss?" he queried.

Clover blushed.

"Just miss," she amended. "Where's your home, Captain Gordon?" she changed the subject.

"I haven't much of any just now. I live at a club and my only living relative is an elderly aunt that I came on here to see before I settle down to work."

"My aunt's my only one, too," said Clover. "Queer, isn't it, that we should both be in the same boat?"

"It's something in common anyway."

"Here's your street," announced Clover, with a shade of regret in her voice.

"Well, you've been mighty kind to give me a lift and I'll appreciate talking to you, too. A fellow feels sort of lost when he's been away for over four years."

"Now, captain," proudly interrupted Aunt Mary, who had looked up his rank in her pocket encyclopedia of army and navy insignia, etc., behind his back, "you mustn't leave us like this. Can't you come out and spend Sunday with us? We'd be so glad to have you."

The captain's face brightened perceptibly, but he turned to Clover with a question in his eyes.

"I'd love to have you," she hastened to assure him, and in spite of herself the color flooded her face under his steady, earnest gaze.

Aunt Mary gave him the necessary directions about trains and stations, and with a few words of farewell he was gone.

Two days later Clover dressed herself in a most becoming gown and went to meet the 12:10 train from town. Suppose he shouldn't come after all? she asked herself fearfully. But he was the first person off the train, and the heavy package under his arm turned out to be a five-pound box of candy for—Aunt Mary. Who says the sixty-year-old spinster has had her day?

"Aunt Mary's friend is going to bring her marvelous nephew out here today, and aunty is so excited she doesn't know what she's doing."

"And you?" he asked her.

"Well, never having seen him, I don't know how much I really have to look forward to," she laughed happily.

They fell into easy conversation and Clover felt more at home with him than any one she had ever known. They drove home by the longest road, too. Aunt Mary was delighted with him, and the candy was the last straw in his favor. Lucy's incomparable nephew began to drop a few more degrees in her estimation.

In the afternoon, while Aunt Mary took her daily siesta, Clover and the captain went for a brisk walk. It was snowing a little outdoors and the air was delightfully cold and crisp. They must have walked several miles, and on the way home Clover found it difficult to keep up with the long, regular strides that had weathered so many long hikes. At a turn in the road she fell forward on her knees before Gordon could catch her. In a second he lifted her to her feet, however, but did not instantly release her. For a moment she felt his rough overcoat against her cheek.

"I'm so sorry, little girl—I'm afraid I'm no account at all as an escort." His arm was still very decidedly supporting her shoulders.

"It's just because this stupid soldier is a little weary in the feet—if the troops slow down a little she'll be all right now, captain."

"It'll be easier walking this way, if you don't mind," he told her.

"I don't mind," she answered truthfully.

In a few minutes they reached the house and Aunt Mary flew to meet them.

"Lucy's coming, and the Lowe girls and their brother, and the Grays, too, dear. You children must be tired to death—you've been gone so long. There's tea waiting for you in the library, so run along and I'll tell Susan about the dessert before it's too late."

Clover slipped off her coat and hat and sank down on the big davenport in front of the fire. Gordon followed suit, and sighed contentedly.

"This is the nicest day I've had in four years," he told her honestly. "And I'm not at all sure that it isn't the best one I've ever had, either!"

"You're a most polite and flattering person," scoffed Clover, as she snuggled cozily down among a nest of soft cushions.

"No, I'm not—I mean every word of it—don't you believe me?"

"I don't know—I've known you such a little time."

"Does it seem like such a little while to you?"

"No, it doesn't—oh, I don't know," she stumbled and concentrated her gaze upon the fire. "I think I'd better go and change for supper," she began nervously, scenting danger in the air.

But he caught her hand and nearly wrecked the tea table in his attempt to keep her with him.

"I'm most terribly in earnest; won't you listen to me, Clover? Of course I haven't known you long, but I love you—I can't help it. Have I any chance?"

"Would the ghost of a chance satisfy you?" teased Clover.

"Well, if I haven't, at least I won't bother you any more."

"But I want to be bothered," she whispered almost inaudibly.

After that she didn't say anything for a long, long time.

"What will Aunt Mary say?" he asked her at last.

"As long as I'm not marrying the incomparable nephew it won't make much difference, I guess. And of course we've known each other for forty-eight hours—too—that's a long time in these times, you know."

"A lifetime," he assured her.

"Here she is!" cried a portly lady from the doorway. "Why, Mary, upon my word, if it isn't Phil! Then, he didn't lose the address after all! You dear children—how are you?"

"Why, Aunt Lucy, I never expected to see you here—why didn't you tell me you knew Clover?"

"Why didn't you tell me you did, instead of taking that paper with her address and pretending you'd never heard of her before! You sly boy—just what I told you about him Thursday, Mary."

"I wanted to surprise you, Aunt Lucy," he lied to her cheerfully. Then he took a slip of paper from his pocket and handed it to Clover. On it was written her own name and address.

"And I never even opened it till this minute," he whispered in her ear.

"Don't ever tell them," she begged him softly.

"Why, Mary," exclaimed Aunt Lucy, "he kissed her!"

"Perhaps we'd better go," suggested Aunt Mary nervously.

"He's still kissing her," added Aunt Lucy.

"Then I'm sure we'd better go," cried Aunt Mary pulling her reluctant friend toward the door.

"Didn't I always tell you he was a darling?" insisted Aunt Lucy when she had recovered her breath.

"You certainly did, Lucy," agreed Aunt Mary generously. "And now I'll admit that I really agree with you for the first time!"

Wild Animals in Banff.

Although Banff, Alberta, is a hustling village during the summer and is thronged with tourists, wild deer from the mountains are to be seen daily on the streets and at night stately elk leap from the roads in the bushes to escape approaching automobiles. If a Banff cottager expects to eat his own "garden truck" he builds a deer-proof fence around his patch. The grounds of Brett hospital are open from the street and the other night a half-dozen mule deer made a raid upon the flower garden. Banff is the capital of Rocky Mountain park, and shooting game within the park limits is forbidden by law. The deer, being unmolested, have become very tame, and even a bear now and then pays a friendly visit to the village. Not long ago a bicyclist, speeding down one of the side streets at night, hit a dark object and turned a somersault or two before he hit the macadam. Sitting up, he looked around and discovered a bear hitting the trail for home as fast as four legs could carry him. Although tame and somewhat obtrusive, the deer, elk and bear do not relish too close an acquaintance with man, and have proved themselves to be not only picturesque but perfectly safe neighbors.

Was Out of Small Change.

Chen Chi Eat, wealthy Chinese importer and exporter of Panama and Hongkong, was short of small change when he proceeded to settle for the transportation of himself, wife and three children, who had been booked to leave San Francisco for the Orient on the liner China. He tendered a certified check for $300,000. When General Passenger Agent H. N. Thomas asked if that was the only sort of change he had, Chen exhibited another check. It was for an even $500,000. Thomas never smiled as he asked if the patron wished gold in change. Chen said this would suit him, but when four men started to pull a big truck from the Bank of Canton, Chen decided that a certificate of deposit would be better. He has made a fortune in Panama hats and is going to Hongkong to establish a new agency.

Get the Drop.

A certain stingy son of Erin, upon seeing another Irishman just going to drink a glass of whisky, exclaimed:

"Hould on Pat; let an ould friend have a drop, the last taste in the wurrld."

His friend passed the glass, and the stingy one emptied it. Pat was naturally annoyed, and said:

"Bedad, I thought you said you only wanted a drop?"

We may guess his feelings when he received the reply:

"The drop I wanted was at the bottom."

Essay on Forest Protection Written by St. Hilaire Girl

Gudrun Grimsrud Awarded First Prize by the Minnesota Forestry Association---Article Secures Position of Honor in Contest.

For the purpose of stimulating interest in the conservation of the state's rapidly disappearing forests, the Minnesota State Forestry association, of which Daniel Shaw of Thief River Falls, is a member, hit upon the idea of offering prizes for the best essays on the subject written by boys and girls. In the July-August number of The North Woods, official bulletin of the association, a number of these essays are reprinted with the announcement that one of the first prizes of $5 goes to Gudrun Grimsrud of St. Hilaire, a 13-year-old school girl. Her contribution is given the position of honor, being first among the four published. The subject assigned by the forestry board was "Why Should Trees and Forests be Planted and Protected in Minnesota?" and Miss Grimsrud's essay on the subject is as follows:

"Trees should be planted and protected in Minnesota because we have so few forests left. Fires have destroyed so many forests, and extravagant cutting shows in the few forests that remain.

"There is great danger in being left without forests. If there are no forests there will be no windbreaks against hot winds in summer and cold winds in winter. The soil would have no protection from gravel and sand which are carried now on valley lands. The soil would have no protection from erosion on hilly lands. Without forests, there would be no leaf mold on the ground, to check rapid off-flow of water which causes floods in the rivers. There would be no wood for fuel in homes and factories if there aren't trees. There would be no wood for telephone posts, pillars in mines, bridges, houses, boxes, sidewalks, furniture, and for ship-building. There would be no pleasant woods to use for summer and health resorts. And the birds and animals would have no woods for their homes. When our forests are gone, it will be necessary to build of brick and stone, which costs more. This may force many people into tenement houses, thus having an important social effect. Trees grow very slowly for the first ten years, then grow faster for several decades, then slower again. It takes, therefore, a long time before a tree is large enough to be of value. We should protect our present trees so they will last until the trees which are planted, will be large enough to use.

"The state is at present paying fifty thousand dollars a year to protect its forests. Two-thirds of this is used in fire control. It is now necessary for each forest ranger to cover from twenty to thirty townships. If the bill now up before the legislature passes, it will yield three hundred and thirty thousand dollars annually. This would provide one ranger for four townships, so they could do much better work in saving forests from destruction. Such a fund would also start more planting of forests.

"We must continue planting trees if we are to supply the demand. The present trees won't last long if they are to be cut down at the rate they have been. Many forests could be grown on scrub land which is of little value for farming. The people can help the state by planting trees on scrub land in that way, getting a valuable crop from land which could not be used for farming profitably. There are vast tracts of swampy land, useless for farming as it is, in Northern Minnesota. If the government would drain this land, and plant trees on it, in some years there will be large tracts of forests for use. If the state would give trees free, to farmers to plant on their land and take care of, these farmers would in some years have wood enough for their own use and they wouldn't have to call the state for wood. A very good way to interest our citizens in trees would be to follow the suggestion to plant trees in avenues and groves in memory of those who have died in this war. Any community can well afford to do this in memory of these brave men.

"The public schools should give a course of study in Forestry to interest the boys and girls who are growing up now. The state could send more literature about forests to the schools. The observance of Arbor Day is a good way to help in planting and protecting trees in Minnesota."

Long Distance Calls and Operating Expense

Long distance telephone calls can be handled with much greater speed when conversation is not required with a particular person but when anyone at the telephone called will talk.

Also, the operating cost and use of wires involved in handling a long distance call for a particular person is much greater than for a message where the person will talk with anyone answering the telephone called.

A lower rate is now offered to telephone users who place long distance calls for anyone at the telephone wanted rather than for a particular person.

A "report charge" is made to cover a portion of the expense we incur when a long distance call is placed but which is never completed.

STEINER

The heavy snow that fell here last week commencing Sunday made a stop in the threshing, as well as other work. The threshing was going on at the farm of Mrs. Mathea Berg when the snow came. Some farmers in this community have not threshed yet this fall and most all have their flax unthreshed.

C. A. Swenson drove to Steiner one day last week on a business trip.

Mrs. P. Liden and son, Julius motored to Thief River Falls Sunday where they attended the services.

Arne Solem called on G. L. Leisner last Wednesday afternoon on a business visit.

Emil Bloomberg, accompanied by a friend, both of Rosewood, were business visitors at the home of C. A. Swanson, of this place.

S. R. Rogers transacted business at Steiner Tuesday.

We are now having fine weather again. The snow is melting.

The auction sale at the farm of John Christianson Tuesday was well attended bw people from both near and far. The sale commenced at noon. Sheriff W. J. LaBree, from Thief River Falls was auctioneer, while Oscar Sponheim, also from Thief River Falls, acted as clerk.

Arthur Bartleson is intending to commence threshing again this week. His first place will be the farm of Mrs. Mathea Berg.

Farmers of this community have been hauling grain to Steiner recently.

ROSEWOOD

Mrs. Henry Carlson and two children arrived on Monday morning from Thief River Falls to visit for a few days with Mrs. Carlson's parents, Mr. and Mrs. O. Lappegaard.

Miss Clara Pederson left on Friday evening for her home at Thief River Falls, where she spent Saturday and Sunday.

Misses Gladys and Olivia Swenson left last Friday for Thief River Falls where they will visit for some time at the Mrs. Nyhus and S. Brandon homes.

Martin Westby of Goodridge, spent a few days of last week here to visit with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. I. M. Westby.

Carl Johnson of Wadena, Sask., Canada, spent a few days of last week at this place to visit with the E. P. Johnson relations. He returned by way of Hallock last Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Nels Holm returned to their home at Twin Valley by way of Warren last Wednesday after spending a few days to visit and attend business here.

Mrs. A. C. Vorseth and daughter, Miss Elsie, left Friday evening for Thief River Falls to attend the musical course at the auditorium on Saturday evening and to visit among relatives over Sunday.

E. Petterson left Saturday evening for Thief River Falls to attend the musical concert at the auditorium, and to visit over Sunday.

There will be a basket social at the Busy Bee school, four miles north of town next Saturday evening, Nov. 22, to which the pleasure seeking generation is cordially invited.

Miss Hannah Helquist visited with her friend, Miss Ella Nelson, in town on Sunday afternoon. They were seen walking along the roads.

Postmaster Herbert Carlson and Sigrud Rafteseth, spent Sunday evening at the former's parental home in town of Norden.

Nels Axelson returned home last Thursday after having spent several days at Thief River Falls and other places.

A. C. Vorseth entertained splendidly a number of young folks at his home last Sunday evening. His wife and daughter were absent at Thief River Falls.

Enoch Nelson of Anita was in town one day last week on business.

Mrs. John Bloom left last Monday for Warren where she spent the day visiting, returning home in the evening.

A clothes pin social will be given at the Rosebank school house on Friday evening, Nov. 21, under the auspices of the local teacher, Miss Clara Pederson.

Peder Sagmoen drove up from Goodridge last Saturday with a team of horses he had sold to his brother, John, at this place. He returned on Sunday. Mr. Sagmoen intends to cut out the farming business at Goodridge soon, and go back to Slayton, where he was employed some years ago, and where his wife's folks reside.

ERIE

Andrew Hanson and Mr. Kately have been braving the snow storms putting the telephone lines back into working order.

Alfred Aubol returned Wednesday evening from St. Hilaire where he had been snowed in for a few days, getting "caught right" in the recent blizzard with his Ford.

The Vake family has moved to the Neptune vicinity, where Mr. Vake is to operate a saw mill during the winter.

Edward Torgerson disposed of his half share in the Fordson tractor to his partner, L. B. Johnson. The latter also rented Torgerson's farm in eastern Star. Mr. Torgerson leaves shortly for Grygla and intends to make the farm he owns near that place his future home.

Rev. Bjornson confirmed a class of eight at the Erie Ekelund church last Sunday.

Gilmour Tharaldson, also known as "Tom Peekins," arrived a few days since from the Iron Range, where he had been employed in the mines during the past summer and fall. "Tom" is now engaged as salesman at the North Erie store.

Mr. and Mrs. Magnus Anderson were pleasant callers at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Olaf Kompelien last Thursday.

Kristian Skaaren leaves this week via Cottonwood, this state, for New York City, where he expects to board a steamer the 28th of November, bound for Norway. Mr. Skaaren intends to spend the larger part of the winter in the old country ere his return. Mrs. Skaaren and children, Mary and Jessie, accompany as far as Lyon county to reside with relatives during Mr. Skaaren's absence.

Gertrude Bergerson is back from Thief River Falls, where she held a position as waitress for some time past.

The newly erected Hruby-Stengel garage and oil station has improved the looks and efficiency of the North Erie hamlet to quite an extent.

H. C. Scribbs has been so busy helping with threshing, toting and sundry odd jobs that news items have been grossly neglected for the past few weeks. He's also taken incidental turns playing the role of "scene shifter" in the "Leon Time, Coon Time; Hotte-Molly Show." But now, after all, he promises to reform again both as regards reporting and general behavior.

"Shorty" Halvorsen will have charge of the Skaaren farm this winter.

STEINER

Service Through Organization

THE only difference between big business and little business lies in the number of units of effort and the character of service rendered.

The laboring man is in business for himself. He renders a service by selling his time, energy and skill.

Big business is the grouping together of a great many units to render a greater service by co-ordinating the efforts of the individuals and selling the results of their combined time, energy and skill.

Up to a few years ago the general public did not understand the ideals of service underlying big business. What it did not understand it distrusted and naturally condemned.

When the Allies decided to organize their armies on the basis of big business—for a common service—they began to get results, and the world saw the benefits to be derived from intelligent organization.

The objective of the Company is to manufacture the greatest number of useful products from crude petroleum, to distribute them so that they are available to all and to sell them at a minimum price.

The methods by which the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) renders these services embrace the truest financial democracy, the most advanced merchandising practices and extensive scientific research.

These are intended to expand the usefulness of the Company as a public servant, by maintaining the quality of petroleum products manufactured at the highest standard, by making an adequate return to those who are investing their money or their time in the business of the Company and enabling the public to secure their requirements of such products at a minimum of expense.

It is this spirit of co-operation animating the Board of Directors which enables the Company to discharge its complete obligation as a public servant in a manner satisfactory to its patrons.

POLK COUNTY WILL ISSUE ROAD BONDS

QUARTER OF MILLION DOLLARS TO BE EXPENDED UNDER BABCOCK PLAN.

Bonds for $250,000 will be issued in the near future by Polk county for road work on the Babcock highways in 1920. The bonds were voted by unanimous vote of the county board at a special session held last week.

For several months agitation for better roads in Polk county has been fostered by enthusiasts and boosters of the Red River valley. The county board answered the strong sentiment for good roads by voting the bonds.

Polk county at the present time does not owe a penny, having paid up the last bonds this year. With a demand for better roadways and highways the county commissioners saw that necessary money for road work could not be obtained by lot levy without exhorbitant taxes resulting.

The period of years over which the bonds will run, the rate of interest, the date of issue and the date of maturity will be decided later by the board.

By the bond issue Polk county will be entitled to tens of thousands of dollars from the federal government for road improvement in addition to the amount expended by the people.

Civil Service Examination.

An open competitive examination under the rules of the U. S. Civil Service Commission for the position of clerk (male and female) and carrier in the post office at Thief River Falls, will be held on Saturday, Dec. 13, 1919, commencing at 9 o'clock a. m.

Applications for this examination must be made on the prescribed form, which, with necessary instructions, may be obtained from the commission's local representative, Targe S. Brokke, secretary Civil Service Board, at the post office, or from J. W. Shoemaker, St. Paul, Minn.

All persons wishing to take this examination should secure blanks and file their applications at once in order to allow time for any necessary corrections and to arrange for the examination.

City Council Proceedings

Council chambers, Thief River Falls, Minnesota.

A special meeting of the city council was called to order by O. L. Ihle, president at eight o'clock p. m., Nov. 17th, 1919. Roll call: members present: Froseth, Benson, Brumund, Ihle. Members absent: Olson, Brandon.

Alderman Brumund, seconded by Alderman Froseth, introduced a resolution granting Holt and George an extension of time to complete the sewer and water connections as per contract of September 30, 1919. See resolution.

On motion duly seconded, the council adjourned.

O. L. IHLE,
President of the Council.

Attest:
A. H. AKRE,
City Clerk.

RESOLUTION.

At a special meeting of the city council held Nov. 17th, 1919, Alderman H. Brumund, seconded by Alderman C. Froseth, introduced the following resolution and moved its adoption:

BE IT RESOLVED, by the City Council of the City of Thief River Falls, Minnesota, that

WHEREAS, the City did on the 30th day of September, 1919, duly award a contract to Holt & George for the making of certain sewer and water connections and the construction of certain storm sewers within the City of Thief River Falls, and, according to such agreement, said work was to be done and completed on or before Dec. 1st, 1919, and

WHEREAS, owing to the unseasonable weather conditions that have existed and do exist, it is impossible to complete such work by the time specified.

NOW THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED, that the said contractors, Holt and George, be and hereby are, granted an extension of time within which to finish said work, until July 1st, 1920, without such extension in any way waiving or affecting any of the other features or provisions of said contract.

Roll call: Aldermen voting yes; Froseth, Benson, Brumund, Ihle. Aldermen voting no: none. Resolution declared passed.

O. L. IHLE,
President of the Council.

Approved Nov. 21st, 1919.
G. A. PENNEY,
Mayor.

Attest:
A. H. AKRE,
City Clerk.

KIDNEYS WEAKENING? LOOK OUT!

Kidney troubles don't disappear of themselves. They grow slowly but steadily, undermining health with deadly certainty, until you fall a victim to incurable disease.

Stop your troubles while there is time. Don't wait until little pains become big aches. Don't trifle with disease. To avoid future suffering begin treatment with GOLD MEDAL Haarlem Oil Capsules now. Take three or four every day until you are entirely free from pain.

This well-known preparation has been one of the national remedies of Holland for centuries. In 1696 the government of the Netherlands granted a special charter authorizing its preparation and sale.

The housewife of Holland would almost as soon be without food as without her "Real Dutch Drops," as she quaintly calls GOLD MEDAL Haarlem Oil Capsules. They restore strength and are responsible in a great measure for the sturdy, robust health of the Hollanders.

Do not delay. Go to your druggist and insist on his supplying you with GOLD MEDAL Haarlem Oil Capsules. Take them as directed, and if you are not satisfied with results your druggist will gladly refund your money. Look for the name GOLD MEDAL on the box and accept no other. In sealed boxes, three sizes.

MOVIE TO SHOW TROUBLES OF THE MERCHANT

PRACTICAL IDEAS IN EFFICIENCY TO BE THROWN ON SCREEN DEC. 5.

INVITE OTHER MERCHANTS

PICTURE WILL BE ACCOMPANIED BY EXPERT LECTURER FROM DAYTON.

A three real feature, brim full of ideas relating to the retail business will be thrown on the screen at the Commercial club rooms, Thursday, December 4, at 8 p. m. at the third social meeting of the Merchant's association of Thief River Falls.

The movie is accompanied by W. H. Farley, an expert lecturer from Dayton, Ohio, who will lecture with the pictures. By aid of stereopticon slides he will deal with the following subjects: 1, retail failures and their causes; 2, store organization; 3, effective newspaper advertising and what it does for the merchant; 4, window display; 5, clerks' efficiency; 6, selling methods; 7, credit business; 8, system in retail business.

W. H. FARLEY

This lecture was secured through the courtesy of the National Cash Register company, of Dayton, Ohio, and has received the highest commendation from business organizations wherever it has been shown.

Build Better Trade.

Every successful merchant in business at the present time is utilizing every means possible to help him advance and build up a better trade. Realizing this, the Merchants association of this city has secured one of the most instructive, educational moving pictures ever put on the screen, entitled, "The Troubles of a Merchant and How to Stop Them." Starting out the picture shows an old-style store building, high windows preventing a good display of goods, bad arrangement of stock, lack of proper management and no system, which makes the clerks indifferent—resulting in the proprietor's becoming almost a failure. The scene changes. The merchant concludes to adopt system—the store takes on an attractive appearance, goods are displayed so they will attract attention, the clerks become more valuable through courteous and prompt attention to the trade. In fact there is such a transformation that new customers are attracted to the store, and the merchant again becomes prosperous.

All Invited—No Charge

There will be no charge for admission and every business man and clerk in the city should take advantage of this unusual offer. The Merchants association extends an invitation to all the merchants and their clerks in surrounding towns to be their guests on that night.

Miss Indian Summer Here; Old Man Winter On Leave

Exit, Old Man Winter.
Enter, Miss Indian Summer.

Miss Indian Summer, whose annual visit to this section of the country is anxiously awaited about this time of the year has been long delayed, but she arrived bright and early Sunday morning, while Old Man Winter was seen taking a hasty departure through the back door. The sun came out strong and with a warm south wind blowing the snow drifts were reduced considerably.

For a long time old-time residents were afraid this fair Indian maiden had slipped up on her visit this year, but they state positively now that this sort of weather will continue for two weeks. Peter Eberhardt, pioneer resident of this city, clung to his prediction in spite of the blizzard on Monday of last week, when practically everyone else agreed there would be no Indian summer in 1919, and his prediction has come true.

ARTISTS' RECITAL PLEASING AFFAIR

AUDITORIUM IS PACKED TO CAPACITY—GUESTS OF MUSIC COMPANY.

Music lovers of Thief River Falls were given a treat last Saturday evening at the Auditorium when a joint recital was given by Miss Amy Ellerman, celebrated contralto, the Fleming Sisters Trio, and Calvin Coxe, tenor, under the auspices of the Thief River Music company.

By the time the recital began the auditorium was filled to its capacity. There was no admission charge while all admissions had to be accompanied by the card of invitation sent out by the Thief River Music company.

The opening number was given by Miss Ellerman with Edison's re-creation of her voice, and was followed by three numbers by the Fleming Sisters Trio. All the numbers were so well received that the artists returned with an encore in many instances. The rendition of Hungarian Dance No. 5, by Brahms, by the Fleming Sisters and Barcarolle, Tales of Hoffman by Offenbach in which Miss Ellerman, Mr. Coxe and Miss Ethel Fleming appeared, accompanied by the Edison re-creation of a performance by the concert company, appealed particularly well to the audience.

The recital was a musical treat to live long in the memory of local people and a return engagement by the artists would find a still larger audience on hand to greet them.

Show Well Received.

The great health film, "The End of the Road," which was shown at the Princess theatre Monday night under the auspices of the Woman's club, proved a surprising success. The club found it necessary to charge an admission fee in order to clear expenses, but the attendance the first evening was so great that a sufficient surplus remained to enable the ladies to run the film for one matinee and another evening free of charge. Over 1000 persons saw the presentation at the three performances, the best record yet made by a city the size of Thief River Falls in the state. The ladies are highly pleased over the reception given this great educational film, believing that it indicates an interest in such matters on the part of our citizens that is decidedly gratifying. The club is also greatly under obligations to Manager Brumund of the theatre, for the courtesies shown and assistance in making this presentation a success.

ANNOUNCEMENT

We take great pleasure in presenting to the people of Thief River Falls a list of the stars and pictures that will be shown at The Princess. First on the list we have William Farnum in all his new pictures. May Marsh, who starred in the "Birth of a Nation; Tom Mix, who has them all beat for action; Edith Storey, called the Bernhard of the Screen, J. Warren Kerrigan, Alyce Joyce, Earl Williams, Viola Dana, Harry T. Morey, May Allison, George Walch, H. B. Warner and Harry Cary, the rough riding hero.

Next we have contracted with The Realart Picture Company for their new pictures. This is a new company which is producing only special high class Pictures. The first picture produced will be released next month with beautiful Alice Brady in "Sinners." Next comes dainty Mary Miles Minter in "Anne of Green Gables." Following this we will have Constance Binney in "Erstwhile Susan." We also have Zasu Spitts, who starred in the "Turn of The Road" and "Better Times", and the new pictures of Nazimova; considered the most brilliant star on the screen. It will be our continuous aim to add other Stars when ever we have the opportunity.

We absolutely guarantee every picture with these stars. They will please you, especially when presented at The Princess, with the new Idealite curtain and comfortable seats. We also want to call your attention to the fact that The Princess is the only theatre in the city equipped with a modern Ventilating System, which keeps the air pure and sweet. To parents we wish to say you need not hesitate to let your children come to our matinee. They are safe at The Princess. The theatre is equipped with a fire-proof booth built for two machines and there is no danger from fire. The children will always be treated with the utmost courtesy. For the kiddies we have Billy West, Charley Chaplin's double; and Harold Loyd, together with all the new Strand, Sunshine and big V comedies.

We take this opportunity to thank the public for the splendid patronage that we have received and hope to have the pleasure of entertaining you with our future programs.

Special Attractions

On Saturday The Princess will present one of the best comedy dramas ever filmed. It is entitled "Come Again Smith," and features one of the best known stars of the moving picture world, J. Warren Kerrigan. This is a five part play, telling of a human derelict who made good. He had to "show" his old man—and he did.

A Billy West comedy, "Ship A 'Hoy," will fill out this exceptional bill.

This will be an evening running strong to comedy, but it will be of the very best to be found anywhere.

LEGION ELECTS NEW OFFICERS FOR NEXT YEAR

SCANLAN CHOSEN TO HEAD LOCAL POST, SUCCEEDING J. J. McCANN.

CENTRALIA LETTER READ

RESOLUTION FAVORING GIVING INDIAN SERVICE BOYS CITIZENSHIP PASSED.

What was without a doubt one of the most enjoyable gatherings of Elmer J. Eklund Post No. 117 of the American Legion ever staged since its organization, was held Tuesday evening at the Evelyn hotel dining room at which time officers for the ensuing year were elected. The election resulted as follows:

After the minutes of the previous meeting had been read the first order of business was the presentation of a resolution favoring the giving of Indian boys, who served in the World War, unrestricted citizenship. In the resolution it was pointed out that during the war the Indians furnished 11,000 boys who went out to fight for the United States, a large number of whom today are sleeping in France. The resolution was given to G. H. Smith by T. H. Beauleau, who gave an address at the Commercial club two weeks ago in the interest of the American Indians. The resolution was passed unanimously.

Centralia Communication.

A communication from the American Legion post at Centralia, Wash., was read asking every post in the United States to take action with regard to the outrage that occurred in that city on November 11, when four former service men were shot down in cold blood by radicals. The Centralia post asked that a resolution of sympathy be adopted by the local post and sent to the families of the men who were killed, and also urged that the post demand legislation from representatives in Congress that "will remove from the body politic those who through violence or force seek to change the government, made by our fathers, and which we offered our lives to preserve and protect." A committee composed of Attorney H. O. Chommie, Lawrence Hermanson and L. H. Lawrence was named to frame a resolution Wednesday morning and which will be adopted at a special meeting.

Change Orchestra.

It was reported at the meeting that considerable dissatisfaction has been evinced by Legion members over the securing of an outside orchestra for the New Year's dance and a vote was taken on the matter which resulted in the changing of orchestra from an outside troupe to local talent. There were arguments for and against, but the majority of the members believed that if the money was made in Thief River Falls it ought to be spent here and not carried outside.

Boxing and Pie Contests.

L. C. Neilson, who handles hundreds of dollars daily at the First National bank, demonstrated that he could also handle pie in an efficient manner and won first prize in the four-cornered pie eating contest. Neilson made a clean sweep of his allotted amount in jig time although it took considerable coaxing before he could be secured to go into the race.

Grabteria Lunch.

At the close of the boxing match Secretary Smith announced that lunch would be served via the "grabteria" route while a special menu was posted for the benefit of those who did not wish to partake of the regular lunch. The special consisted of bully-beef, stewed prunes, bacon, and syrup, beans, rice, and a cup of "mud."

Julien Provencher, of the Evelyn hotel, made a hit with the men as a result of the excellent lunch he had prepared. Flowers for the table were presented with the compliments of Martin Bothun of The Flower shop. After the men had partaken of the lunch several members were called upon for short talks.

SPECIAL PROGRAM AT WOMAN'S CLUB

CHRISTMAS ACTIVITIES WILL ALSO BE TAKEN UP ON MONDAY.

A meeting of more than usual interest and importance will be held by the Woman's club at the commercial club rooms next Monday afternoon. Among the special numbers to be presented will be a paper on "Community Service," by Mrs. L. G. Larsen, and general club news notes by Mrs. J. M. Hardesty.

At this meeting there will also be a report on the progress thus far made with the community Christmas program. Communications are expected from all the different organizations who are anxious to have a part in this undertaking and it is probable that a general plan of procedure will be mapped out. The ladies wish it understood that this is not a Woman's club enterprise alone, but that every organization in the city—both of men and women—is invited and expected to get right aboard the band wagon and help put the thing across. It is realized that it is a big job, entailing a great deal of work as well as expense, and the club is only too glad to be able to share it with others. One thing to be understood is that none are barred. This is just what the name implies—a community Christmas undertaking—and any and every person residing in Thief River Falls is included among those whose help will be welcomed.

In case there is any organization that has not as yet taken official action with regard to this plan and can possibly do so before Monday afternoon it will help keep correct tab on matters if a notification of their willingness to participate is sent to the Woman's club before that time.

DOCTORS ATTEMPT TO SUPPRESS PLAY

CLAIM PRESENTATION OF "PAIR OF SIXES" WILL HURT THEIR BUSINESS.

All the local physicians and surgeons combined recently in an effort to secure by some means or other the elimination of all affairs in this vicinity which tend to reduce the public's need for professional aid.

They base their procedure on the well known fact that anything causing people to laugh and thoroughly enjoy themselves is nature's best cure for all ills to which the human body is heir. They claim that two or three hours of fun and laughter will make this city so healthy for the rest of the winter that they will be forced to close their offices.

All of the local doctors called a meeting as soon as they heard that the Elks in conjunction with the Community Girls were going to stage that funniest of all stage successes, "A Pair of Sixes," on the 12th of December in the Auditorium. When interviewed after the preliminary meeting several of the doctors said that they had seen this play produced in Chicago and that they had suffered so much from "hysteria funniensum"—which in plain United States means "they split their sides with laughter," that they were mortally afraid of such an epidemic touching our city.

When pressed further for details they reluctantly admitted that it was more than probable that there would be a great deal of weight gained by everyone going to see "A Pair of Sixes," because in their opinion it would be impossible for anyone to attend and not be convulsed with laughter when they witnessed the antics of the society butler, the Swedish maid, the so-called business men and all of the other lovey-dovey cooers. Their only hope is that this will not reach to more than 1250 people, this being the utmost capacity of the Auditorium.

GOOD PRICE PAID FOR GRADE CATTLE

H. P. RUED DISPOSES OF 11 HEAD OF HOLSTEINS. FOR $1,800.

An average price of $163 per head for 11 head of grade Holsteins is pretty good for native cattle, even in these days of exceptional prices for live stock. That is the average amount received by Hans P. Rued of Silverton township for three mature cows, five two-year olds and three yearlings last week. The purchasers are John Bennett, J. P. Augustine and F. P. Holst, who recently moved onto farms near Holt, coming from Goodhue county.

The highest price paid for any animal was $260, one of the mature cows bringing this figure.

Disposing of these animals takes the last of the grade stock out of Mr. Rued's herd and he will hereafter devote his attention entirely to purebreds.

SOLDIERS' PARCELS MUST GO BY DEC. 8

Postmaster John Morgan has been notified by the war department that all Christmas parcels for members of the American expeditionary forces now in England, France and Germany must, in order that they may be delivered to the members by Christmas, reach Hoboken, the post of embarkation, not later than Dec. 8. This means that such parcels will have to be sent from Thief River Falls not later than Dec. 4 in order to insure delivery with any degree of certainty.

The packages must not exceed seven pounds in weight nor be larger than 72 inches in length and girth combined. The words "American Expeditionary Forces" must be plainly written as must also the words "Christmas Parcel," together with the sender's name and address. Any shipment not complying in every particular, with these specifications will be refused.

BILL CARLISLE HERE? POLICE RECEIVE WORD

POSTAL MAILED AT LOCAL POST OFFICE SOME TIME YESTERDAY AFTERNOON.

PREVIOUS VISIT ADMITTED

CARLISLE HEARD OF IN ST. PAUL—WRITES LETTER TO NEWSPAPER EDITOR.

Is Bill Carlisle, escaped convict and train bandit, the Jesse James of the West, in Thief River Falls?

Chief of Police Erickson received a postal yesterday afternoon at 3 o'clock with the following written upon it:

"Just hit town. You were not in your office when I called. You'll remember me as the man who locked the deputy sheriff in the jail here. Just traveled a thousand miles without a stop. Am taking in the town. Some town, too. Wishing myself lots of luck. You've got my number.

BILL CARLISLE.
Former Convict No. 2883."

The postal was mailed at the local post office about noon or later and is written in a fairly good hand.

Deputy in Jail.

A jail delivery occurred in this city a few years ago when a suspicious character was held here for jumping a board bill, and it will be recalled the prisoner made his escape after Deputy Sheriff Midderigh had entered the jail with his meal, locking the deputy in the jail while he made his get-away. It is thought this may have been Carlisle, who recently escaped from the state prison in Wyoming and later held up the Union Pacific's Los Angeles limited and who has been at large ever since. Chief Erickson states the picture reproduced in the daily papers of Carlisle answers the description of the man held here several years ago.

Going North.

St. Paul police are making an investigation as to whether or not Carlisle is at the capital. Chief Erickson has a picture of the train bandit wanted by Wyoming officials and a big reward is offered for his capture.

BANKERS CHOOSE OFFICERS MONDAY

The Pennington County Banker's association held their annual meeting in the city Monday evening and the following officers were elected:

President, H. S. Dahlen; vicepresident, Robert MaGinn; secretary and treasurer, Thomas H. Smith, Mavie.

The business meeting was held in the directors' room at the Citizens State bank immediately after the banquet was over at the Brumund hotel.

There were over twenty-five people present at the banquet, including bank officials and employees. Every bank in the county was represented with the exception of the two St. Hilaire banks and the officials and employees from the down river city were unable to reach Thief River Falls via the auto-route owing to the inclement weather.

Edgar Sells Pool Room.

W. F. Edgar, who for the past eight years has been operating the Club Cigar store and pool room at 211 Main avenue north, on Tuesday disposed of his business to H. O. Fields, of Grafton, N. D., the new owner taking possession immediately. Mr. Edgar stated today that he intends to remain here during the winter if his health improves, otherwise he will leave within a short time for Hot Springs, Ark.

Mr. Fields is an experienced businessman and has been proprietor of a confectionery store at Grafton for several years and has also conducted a feed store at that place.

Rev. Kvale to Preach.

There will be preaching services next Sunday forenoon and evening at the Trinity Lutheran church, Rev. O. J. Kvale of Benson, delivering the sermon. Rev. Kvale stands high in the councils of the church in the West and is one of the best known pastors of the denomination in the state.

PRAISES WORK OF ELKS' LODGE HERE

GRAND LODGE OFFICER URGES BUILDING OF HOME AT ONCE.

Deputy District Exalted Ruler Robertson of Minneapolis, representing the grand lodge of Elks, was in the city last Friday on official business connected with the organization. He delivered an address at the meeting of the local lodge in the [illegible] large number of members being present. Mr. Robertson complimented No. 1308 very highly on the splendid record made during the past year, particularly in the matter of increasing the membership, stating that he considered it proportionately the best in the state.

The next important step to be undertaken by the organization in this city, according to Mr. Robertson, is the erection of an Elks' home. He stated that while it was undoubtedly a fact that building at this time would cost a lot of money, he did not believe there would be any reduction in the price of material or labor for at least five years and that the lodge might better go ahead at once. That this view met the approval of those present was very evident and the building project received a decided boom by reason of his visit.

The members of the America First concert company, which was playing an engagement in the city, arrived at the club room at the conclusion of the auditorium engagement and favored those present with a number of greatly appreciated musical selections. Lunch was served at midnight.

FINE PROGRAM FOR CHRISTMAS IS UNDER WAY

GIGANTIC CHRISTMAS TREE DOWNTOWN; DINNERS FOR THE POOR PLANNED.

ALL LODGES TO TAKE PART

COMMITTEES TO BE APPOINTED FROM EACH LODGE TO CARRY OUT IDEA.

Tentative plans have been made for one of the biggest Christmas celebrations ever held in the city of Thief River Falls.

The program this year will be carried out on a bigger scale than ever before and every lodge, club, society, business organization and the Salvation Army will work hand-in-hand towards the successful carrying out of one of the best Xmas festivals ever attempted.

There will be the usual municipal Christmas tree placed in the downtown section of the city, according to plans made, and free dinners will be distributed to the needy while on Christmas day nuts and candy will be given away to children at the big tree.

Appoint Committees.

Committees from the Commercial club, Merchants' association, Elks' lodge and Woman's club have already been appointed to begin their part of the work connected with the program. Other organizations asked to lend their aid in staging the celebration will hold their meetings the latter part of this week or the first of next week. When the committees are all organized and chairmen appointed, a meeting will be held of all committee chairmen and the work of each body will be reported. From this representation a Christmas committee will be named and also a Christmas chairman. This group will have charge of all arrangements and permanent plans will be arranged by them, and they will decide what part each organization shall take.

FAIR ATTENDANCE AT TWO CONCERTS

Although the attendance was not what had been expected, the two lecturers given by Dr. Fritz Osten-Sacken and the concerts given by The America First Concert company at the auditorium last Friday and Saturday under the auspices of Elmer J. Eklund Post No. 117 of the American Legion, were fairly well attended.

Both the entertainments proved of unusual interest and merit and everyone was well satisfied. The lecture and concert scheduled to be given Saturday afternoon was cancelled for the reason that the attendance was not large enough.

Dr. Osten-Sacken, formerly a German nobleman, who came to this country because he objected to conditions surrounding the people in the land of his birth, delighted the audience in two brilliant addresses. His address on Friday evening was along the lines of 100 per cent Americanism and he brought out his points in an interesting manner.

On Saturday evening Dr. Osten-Sacken confined himself to Reconstruction problems following the close of the war. The speaker advocated the elimination of class distinction. He compared quarrels between nations to that of small family differences and believed that if there were an understanding between the parties this could be settled in an amicable way. Dr. Osten-Sacken pointed out the value of a Community house where the people could be brought together in a social way.

The America First Concert company rendered excellent programs at each performance, their program being made up of numbers that pleased every taste.

MOVIE-LECTURE AT CLUB ROOM NEXT THURSDAY

SOCIAL MEETING OF MERCHANTS ASSOCIATION DEC. 4th TO BE HUMMER.

TO EXPLAIN ADVERTISING

FILM WILL SHOW TROUBLES OF A MERCHANT AND IS HIGHLY RECOMMENDED.

Great interest is being manifested by the merchants and salespeople of Thief River Falls in the coming of the merchandising lecture which is brought to this city by the Merchants' association, and which will be shown free of charge next Thursday evening, Dec. 4th at 8 o'clock in the Commercial club rooms.

The lecture, which will be given through the courtesy of The National Cash Register company, Dayton, Ohio, contains the results of that concern's 34 years of experience in dealing with merchants in all parts of the world, and is the most comprehensive lecture of its character on the road today.

Advertising Pays.

W. H. Farley, expert lecturer, will tell by means of stereopticon slides and motion pictures the causes of failure in retail business, and explain some of the latest methods in storekeeping. One of the features of the lecture will be that part devoted to newspaper advertising. The writing of newspaper advertisements, their value to the retail merchant, and the necessity for advertising continually will be taken up, and explained in detail. In a like manner the question of window display, perfection of a store organization, and other interesting topics will be discussed.

Three-Reel Film.

In addition, the three-reel feature film, "Troubles of a Merchant and How to Stop Them," will be given for the first time in Thief River Falls. This film has been shown before conventions, commercial bodies, and other organizations from coast to coast and has been declared to be the best exposition of the troubles of the average retail merchant ever given.

Story of Merchant.

The film tells an interesting story of Mr. White, a merchant who has been brought to the verge of bankruptcy through out-of-date business methods. The reasons for his lack of success becomes apparent as the film unfolds the story. His clerks are indifferent. His goods are arranged in a poor manner while his system is completely disorganized. Other troubles also beset him, and, as a consequence, the merchant was in despair.

Suddenly a change comes in his career, and through the installation of modern business methods and also advertising, he becomes prosperous. The manner in which he turned the tide in his favor will prove an interesting and educational story to everyone.

Much enthusiasm has been created in other cities where the lecture has been given, and it is expected that a capacity audience will greet Mr. Farley and the picture next Thursday evening.

All merchants and salespeople are invited to attend, and a special invitation is extended to merchants and their salespeople in surrounding towns and as Thief River Falls is the farthest point north that the picture will be shown it will be well worth while for the merchants between here and the boundary to take advantage of the engagement here and it will be well worth their time.

SHERIFF LOCATES 2 MEN WANTED HERE

Sheriff W. J. LaBree left Tuesday evening for Waterville, this state, and Superior, Wis., to bring back two men, who he had located, and who are wanted here to answer to certain charges, which have been brought against them.

The sheriff located Fred Niorinze at Waterville, this state, the first of this week, wanted here to face a serious charge brought against him by a young girl.

The second man wanted and who was located at Superior, Wis., the first of the week is Adolph Lanski, wanted here to face a charge of wife desertion. Banski has stated that he will not fight extradition but will proceed to this city with the sheriff. Lanski left his wife during the middle of last summer, according to Sheriff LaBree.

The Dairymen's Meeting.

There will be a good sized delegation from Pennington county at the sixteenth annual convention of the Red River Valley Dairymen's association at Crookston, Dec. 10th and 11th. This association is a pioneer in [illegible] dairying [illegible]

At every meeting addresses and discussions of great value take place. A. J. Clover of Wisconsin, C. H. Eckles of Minnesota and other leading experts will be present both days. The evening's program promises to be full of "pep." It is rumored that a bevy of the Valley's most beautiful Milkmaids will honor the convention by their attendance. Better go to this meeting and take your wife along, too.

New Pump Installed.

A new pump has been installed near the Great Northern depot at the well which has provided the water supply for a large number of families for a long number of years. A petition signed by many residents near the depot was sent in to the city council at a recent meeting but they city dads took no action on it and believed if they repaired one they would be called on to keep all public pumps in condition. A subscription list was circulated among the people who make use of the well last Friday and enough money was secured to purchase a new pump.

SUPREME COURT DISMISSES APPEAL

RULES ORDER NOT APPEALABLE IN CASE OF QUALE VS. CITY.

The supreme court of Minnesota last Friday dismissed the appeal taken from an order of Judge Grindeland in the case of Theodore Quale, city attorney of Thief River Falls, against G. A. Penney, as mayor, defendent.

The court ruled as follows:

"The respondent in this a mandamus proceeding moved for judgment on the pleadings. The court filed an order granting the motion and directing judgment to be entered accordingly. Relator appeals from the order. No judgment has been entered. The order is not appealable. In ordinary actions no appeal lies from an order granting or denying a motion for judgment on the pleadings. It is not perceived why a different rule should obtain as to like orders in mandamus proceedings.

"The appeal is dismissed."

GILBERT ADDRESS IS WELL ATTENDED

AMERICANISM IS KEYNOTE IN TALK BY WILLMAR JUDGE AT AUDITORIUM.

Americanism was the keynote in the address given by Judge T. O. Gilbert, president of the Grand Lodge, Sons of Norway, of Willmar, at the auditorium last Thursday evening. There was a large attendance and his address pleased everyone.

During his discourse Judge Gilbert explained the workings of the Sons of Norway lodge and told of their attitude toward the government and that America was always first in the minds of everyone.

He also brought out the fact that while the immigrants are heavily indebted to the United States it must not be forgotten that the country is also indebed to the immigrants, who have crossed the ocean to take up their duties on this side and who have been instrumental in the settling up of the great Northwest. These pioneers had many hardships, he explained, but they lived through them and have made it one of the great sections of the United States.

His talk was interesting and he gave it in a manner that held the attention of all those present.

200 INDIANS PLAN TO HELP IN FIGHT

TRIBESMEN OF MINNEAPOLIS WANT PRESENT AGENCIES ABOLISHED AT ONCE.

Directly in line with the arguments presented in this city a short time ago by T. J. Beaulieu is the action of the Society of American Indians of Minneapolis. In a recent meeting the members declared that Minnesota Indians are on the warpath against the present government of Indian reservation and agency system and are strongly organized to combat these conditions, which they term a yoke on the neck of the Indian. They adopted bylaws for their chapter and heard Charles E. Drew, Minneapolis member of the national advisory board of the organization, outline the object of the society.

"It is the hope of this organization to abolish the government Indian agency and the reservation system, which are yokes on the neck of the Indian," said Mr. Drew. "We want to be a part of the 'doors' in this nation and feel that our present restrictions hinder our advancement."

New Night Patrolman.

Fred Stenarud will take up the duties of night patrolman on the police force within a few days relieving Jerry Kelly, who is ill at his home. Bernt Wold is substituting for Kelly for the remainder of the month and Stenarud will go on the first of December to finish Mr. Kelly's term. Patrolman Kelly has proven an able officer at all times but on account of his health is unable to continue with his duties.

BUILDING-LOAN ASSOCIATION IS IDEA APPROVED

WOULD PRESENT OPPORTUNITY FOR WAGE EARNERS TO SECURE HOMES.

PREPARED TO START NOW

COMMITTEE ON APARTMENT PROPOSITION HAS ALREADY BEGUN WORK.

Thief River Falls business men who have for some time realized that the city was being held back by reason of there not being sufficient modern residence houses to meet the demand, are prepared to do anything within their power to remedy the troubles realizing fully that this is a matter that should be attended to without delay, they have already started on a campaign which is sure to bring relief if carried out.

There is a strong movement on foot to get behind a building and loan association, officered by Thief River Falls men and having the city as its field. The plan under which these organizations operate is considered one of the best ever devised for enabling men of limited means to secure a home, and the surprising thing is that one has not been in operation in the city for years. Other communities, many of them much smaller than Thief River Falls, have successful building and loan associations, and there is no doubt whatever but that the idea would work out satisfactorily here.

Would Help Wage Earner.

One reason for this oversight may be found in the unstable quality of the population while the city was in the "saw mill town" class. Such industries appeal particularly to the single men and floaters and while a large percentage of the citizens were to be thus regarded the need for convenient homebuilding machinery was not so apparent. With the passing of the mills, however, a different class of citizenry must be reckoned with—one that requires the best to be had in order to find the city an acceptable place in which to live.

It is this class that the building and loan association would help. Many of the men now without homes of their own are holding down good jobs and intend to become permanent residents. With the terms made so that they could be met without hardship these same men would gladly put the money they are now paying out for rent into places of their own. The plan employed by these associations makes this easily possible, many cities in the older parts of the state owing their stability and prosperity to the fact that far-seeing men made it an object for people to own their homes. This is the solution that many of our public spirited citizens are now working to bring about.

The Apartment House.

The plan submitted at a recent commercial club meeting for the erection of an apartment house sufficiently large to accommodate 30 or 40 families, has been very well received and it looks decidedly as if the proposition would be a go. M. V. Evenson, Math Barzen and F. H. Herrick, appointed as a committee to take the matter up with other business men with a view to gaining their financial support, have been assured that this will be forthcoming. Mr. Evenson left the first of the week for Minneapolis on a mission connected with the project and he will probably have something of interest to report upon his return.

At any rate, everybody seems agreed that something must be done to provide more living quarters before spring, and that is a long step in the right direction.

Fire Tuesday.

The fire department responded to a call sent in Tuesday morning from the O. A. Westin residence, 411 Riverside avenue, where a small blaze was discovered in the kitchen floor, directly under the range. A hole about six inches in diameter was burned in the floor as the result of the boards igniting from the hot base. The stove was moved forward and it was discovered that the blaze had a good start. The damage is estimated at $25.

Lodge of Sorrow Dec. 7.

Impressive memorial services will be held by B. P. O. Elks lodge No. 1308 at the Masonic Temple on Sunday, Dec. 7, in honor of the departed brothers. Charles R. Middleton, attorney at Baudette, has been secured to give the memorial address. A committee composed of G. H. Smith, Fred C. Niclai and J. W. Hendry has been named to arrange a suitable musical program to be given at 2:15 p. m.

Legion Buttons Here.

A supply of American Legion Buttons have arrived at the office of G. Howard Smith, over the Citizens State bank, and Legion members may obtain them by calling and paying 25c.

Meeting Hour Changed.

The regular meeting of the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen will be held next Sunday evening, instead of in the afternoon as usual.

SOCIETY and Club

Six O'Clock Dinner.

Hugh Bottelson entertained at a six o'clock dinner last Thursday at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Bottelson, the guests being five of his '15 classmates. After dinner whist was played at two tables. The guests were Francis Burns, Lawrence Hermanson, Ralph Falk, Ward Long and Ben Bothum.

Sleighride Party.

One of the enjoyable events of this season was a sleighride party given Friday evening with Earnest Barzen as host. About twelve couples enjoyed the ride in and about the city for a couple of hours, when the party repaired to the I. O. O. F. hall, where the remainder of the evening was spent in dancing.

Wiener Roast.

Last Sunday evening a wiener roast was held on the river bank about one mile south of this city. Those present were Mr. and Mrs. Alf Borry, Vincent Borry, Jessie Barnett, Frances and Clara Dahl, Clarence Bean and William Clay.

Mrs. Zeh Entertains.

Mrs. Emil Zeh entertained a few of her lady friends at her home last Saturday afternoon. The afternoon was spent in needlework, at the conclusion of which a dainty lunch was served.

Sundsdahl-Bjornaraa.

Henry Sundsdahl and Miss Gertie Bjornaraa, both young people from Erie, Pennington county, were married Monday afternoon at the court house by Judge of Probate Ira C. Richardson.

Thanksgiving Dinner Party.

Mr. and Mrs. R. M. Sheldon are today entertaining the First and Peoples State bank force at a Thanksgiving dinner at their home.

In Honor of Mrs. Husby.

A number of the most intimate friends of Mrs. G. H. Husby were entertained at the J. Jonas home on Friday evening. The event was in the nature of a farewell as Mrs. Husby leaves in the near future for the West, where she will remain during a greater share of the winter months. The guests busied themselves with needlework until a late hour when they partook of a dainty lunch.

Holm-Erickson.

The many friends of Miss Thelma Holm and Clarence Erickson, both of this city, will be surprised to learn of their marriage, which took place last Wednesday evening at the home of Judge N. W. Tarrant. The bride has, during the past year, been pianist at the Lyceum theatre, while the groom is salesman in the clothing store of E. O. Mogensen. Miss Margaret Jorgenson and George Brink attended the couple. The newlyweds are both popular young people in this city and their host of friends shower them with the best wishes for a happy future. Mr. and Mrs. Erickson intend to reside here for a while at least.

Dorn-Buskirk.

On Wednesday afternoon at the Presbyterian manse in this city occurred the marriage of Miss Amy Buskirk of Brooks, Minn., and G. Herman Dorn of Jordan, Scott county. Rev. S. M. Kelly of Red Lake Falls performed the ceremony in the presence of Mrs. Kelly and Walter Buskirk. The bride's gown was of pale blue georgette crepe trimmed with satin.

Community Girls Meet.

The regular meeting of the Community Girls' club will take place on Monday, Dec. 8th at the Commercial club rooms. There will be an out of town speaker sent out by the state at this meeting and all members should avail themselves of the privilege of hearing her.

Madeline LaBree Hostess.

An informal gathering of ten girls took place on Friday afternoon at the home of Miss Madeline LaBree. Music and games formed the amusement of the afternoon. At about 4:30 o'clock a delicious lunch was served.

Miss Evenson Entertains.

Miss Lena Evenson entertained a number of her girl friends at her home last Tuesday evening. The chief diversion was sewing and fortune telling. At eleven o'clock a delicious lunch was served by the hostess.

Dinner Guests.

Mr. and Mrs. G. C. Streeter will entertain Mr. and Mrs. Helm of Red Lake Falls at Thanksgiving dinner today.

Have You Heard
The AEOLIAN-VOCALION
Playing the New Vocalion Record?

SUCH music has never come from a phonograph before. It has never been considered possible to attain such richness and delicacy—such reality of tone in instruments of this type. Designed originally as a Talking Machine, the phonograph had been brought to a high state of development, mechanically, before the advent of the Aeolian-Vocalion, four years ago. With the introduction of the Vocalion, however, the public was made acquainted with a new and superior type of phonograph—a phonograph which was not only mechanically in advance of other instruments, but which, musically, was so far ahead of anything hitherto known as to be in a class quite by itself.

And now from the great music house responsible for the perfection of the phonograph as a musical instrument, there has recently come a new and better type of record. This record, made under an exclusive and more scientific system, produces astonishing musical results. Instead of the slightly metallic effects hitherto characteristic of phonograph performances, it produces clear, rich tones of great depth and beauty, which are marvelously similar to the natural tones of different instruments and voices.

You have only to come and hear this great combination. Your own musical ear will verify our claim that the Vocalion playing the Vocalion Record is the finest phonograph music ever produced.

The Vocalion has many other distinctive features of advantage —among which may be mentioned:

The Graduola Tone-Control

Showing how the Graduola is operated

All phonograph makers provide means for controlling the phonograph's tone, but the Graduola—an exclusive feature of the Vocalion—is the only method that not only perfectly controls tone without impairing its qualities, but gives the performer the opportunity to put in true musical expression. With the Graduola, it is actually possible to play the phonograph, shading and coloring the music to suit one's personal taste.

The Efficient Automatic Stop

Among the many devices for automatically stopping the phonograph, there is none so effective as the Vocalion Automatic Stop. Simply placing the needle in the last groove of the record and pressing a button at the side of the turntable, causes the instrument to stop when the record ends. The device then remains "set" to stop at that point until changed for a record of another length.

Setting the automatic stop on a Vocalion Record

The New Universal Tone-Arm

Tone-Arm Playing lateral cut Record

In this feature of the Vocalion is found a perfect means of supplying what is now recognized as an absolute necessity in the modern phonograph—viz: a practical method of playing all makes of records. Many different companies are now making records, and unless these can all be played, all the great artists cannot be heard. Moreover, this new Tone-Arm not only plays all records, but plays them at their best.

Beauty of Case Design

The Vocalion does not stop at musical superiority, nor at perfection of mechanical detail. As is the case with all Aeolian instruments, the Vocalion cases are planned and executed by the most expert designers and artisans; the result being a new standard of phonograph beauty. The exquisite new Period Models, while comparatively moderate in price, are without doubt the most artistic and unusual phonographs ever produced.

Vocalion Prices are: Upright Models from $50 to $350. Period Models from $240. Other phonographs taken in exchange.

THANKSGIVING DAY.

In spite of high prices, vexatious strikes, Bolshevik propaganda and a large number of other undesirable things, the American people have every reason for being thankful today. Most of us have thus far somehow managed to meet the expense of existance in spite of the fact that it has often required close figuring; the strikes cannot continue forever even tho there is no immediate prospect of settlement in some instances; the Bolshivists are being dealt with according to their deserts, and everything else is coming out all right. The general situation throut the country is not all that could be desired, but we should remember that it might be a great deal worse, and be duly thankful anyway.

However, things are good or bad only by contrast. When we note the conditions in others parts of the world there is surely every reason why the American citizen should give thanks. His country is still the greatest and best on earth. In spite of everything he knows that it will come out all right in the end. The privilege of harboring such faith is in itself a boon not vouchsafed to many peoples at this time.

Thanksgiving was not intended to be a hilarious holiday. Rather should the occasion be one of peaceful contemplation. If thus employed our people will find that they have many things for which they should be truly grateful.

TEACHERS' SALARIES.

In a communication appearing in The Times last week the teachers in the public schools of Thief River Falls presented an argument to prove that their pay should be increased. It is likely that any fair-imnded person perusing that article will conclude that they are right.

Teachers everywhere are underpaid, the statement applying to those employed in Thief River Falls perhaps a little more generally than is the case with some nearby communities just at this time. This is nothing to the city's credit.

The wages paid teachers in our public schools are shamefully low. From no other class of persons is so much expected and to but few is less attention paid. Because they are slow to take any steps in their own behalf it seems to be assumed that they are satisfied. Rather than raise any kind of rumpus after they have once entered upon their duties for the term teachers put up with a great deal that no one else would stand and only show their disapproval by refusing to renew their contracts for another season.

At the present time almost any kid with a couple years of high school can go out and get a job paying more money than his former teacher receives. A cub serving his first month as call boy at a railway terminal is better paid than a teacher in one of our grade schools. Men digging excavations for water mains receive more per month than an instructor of our youth who has spent years in costly preparation in order to meet the exacting requirements of the position. Anybody who can do anything has the teacher beaten a mile.

This is not right and the only wonder is that that the persons who follow the teaching profession have stood it so long without rebelling.

In this connection it should be understood that school boards are seldom to blame. In Minnesota communities the levy for school expenses are fixed at the annual meeting in July and in order that taxes may be kept down little or no provision is made for any sum greater than that which under ordinary circumstances would be necessary. For this reason, no matter how willing a school board may be to raise wages, it is often found that there is no money available with which to meet an increase. Consequently the teacher makes out to get along somehow until the end of the term and then accepts a contract to work somewhere else.

The situation is by no means peculiar to Thief River Falls. It is the same almost everywhere. Many communities have, however, acknowledged the absolute unfairness of asking teachers to remain at the salary called for in their agreement after conditions over which they have no control have made such salary admittedly inadequate, and have valuntarily granted an advance. This city should do likewise without delay. It is possible that there would be some slight objection to such procedure from those who believe that the saving of a few dollars is of greater importance than that the standing and efficiency of our schools should be protected, but it would be certain to meet the approval of all fair-minded people.

HELP THEM BUILD HOMES.

There should be a home-managed building and loan association in Thief River Falls. These organizations do more to assist persons of limited means to get a start toward owning a home than any agency thus far devised, and this is what is needed here at this time.

Flat buildings are all right as far as they go. To relieve the present shortage in living quarters the erection of at least one building of this kind is perhaps the best thing that can be suggested. But the aim should be to encourage more home-building. In no manner can this better be accomplished than by the assistance of a building and loan association.

The man who builds his home under the plan offered by one of these organizations pays for it with the money he would be laying out for rent under other circumstances. It is like putting a certain sum in the bank every month with the intention of building as soon as there is a sufficient accumulation, with this difference: the man has the use of his building all the while he is paying for it.

Every ten years or so the ordinary renter pays for the house in which he lives. The building and loan plan makes it possible for him to own what he has paid for at the end of that time instead of keeping right on paying for more buildings and never owning any of them.

The members of the American Legion residing in Pennington county have the right idea. They decided to give a dance for the benefit of their post and had concluded to secure the services of a certain out-of-town orchestra for the occasion when the matter was reconsidered. As a result the music for this as well as any dance which may be given in the future will be furnished by home players. It was very properly figured that only by the right kind of support can an orchestra be built up and maintained in the city and that going out of town is a poor way of encouraging home industries. Besides it was pointed out that the orchestra in this city contained a number of ex-service men and it would not be showing exactly the right spirit toward them to give outsiders the preference. A little more of the same kind of reasoning in other quarters is badly needed.

It looks as if that apartment house idea was a winner. Thief River Falls business men have signified their willingness to back the project to the limit of their ability, realizing that in order to have people come here to reside suitable living accommodations must be provided for them.

The newspaper publisher who can contemplate the price of print paper and still find something to be thankful for today is not only a prize optimist but must also have other interests upon which to draw for a livelihood.

A "baby beef" critter exhibited at the boys' and girls' show in South St. Paul the other day sold for 76 cents a pound. Present prospects are that any kind of beef may be worth that much by the time this particular calf is full-grown.

One Thief River Falls bank has reached the million dollar class, its footings aggregating this sum, according to the report sent in. Ten years ago this same bank reported footings of $287,733. That's moving right along.

TEN AND 20 YEARS AGO

Twenty Years Ago.

Mr. and Mrs. U. G. Richards and daughter, Ethel, left for Eau Claire, Wis., to attend the funeral of Mrs. Richard's father.

Editor and Mrs. H. E. Mussey of the Press celebrated the diamond anniversary of their wedding on Nov. 25, a large number of their friends and neighbors being present at a party given in their honor.

W. I. McCrum left to take up his residence on his farm in the Red Lake country.

The mill company began the driving of piles for the new horse barn to be erected on the east side of the river.

The lots on the corner of First and LaBree were purchased by Dakota parties who announced that they would soon begin the erection of a business block.

A. O. Fladeland, postmaster at Grygla, was a visitor in the city. He reported that there was a considerable movement of settlers toward that section of the country.

Ten Years Ago.

The ordinance granting a franchise to the Northwestern Telephone company received its third reading. The rates agreed upon were as follows: Individual lines to business houses, $3; two-party business lines, $2.50; individual residence lines, $2; two-party residence lines, $1.50.

At a meeting of the congregation of St. John's Lutheran church it was unanimously decided to request Rev. F. J. Seltz to remain. He therefore declined the call issued to him by the congregation at Niagara, N. D.

The Thief River Falls Cooperative creamery received 45,156 pounds of cream during the month of October for which an average price of 36 cents per pound was paid.

Julien Provencher purchased lots No. 7, 8, 9, 10, 11 and 12 in block No. 35, original townsite, and intended to erect thereon a modern hotel at a cost of $50,000. The lots were secured from W. A. Kratka.

Rubin Olendo Haug.

Rubin Olendo Haug, age 11 years, 1 month and 4 days, son of Mr. and Mrs. Carl D. Haug died at the home of his parents three miles north of Thief River Falls last Saturday, death being due to a ruptured appendix, after a brief illness.

Left to mourn his loss are his parents, two brothers and sisters.

Funeral services were held yesterday afternoon and the remains were interred in Greenwood cemetery.

THANKSGIVING DAY.

In spite of high prices, vexatious strikes, Bolshevik propaganda and a large number of other undesirable things, the American people have every reason for being thankful today. Most of us have thus far somehow managed to meet the expense of existance in spite of the fact that it has often required close figuring; the strikes cannot continue forever even tho there is no immediate prospect of settlement in some instances; the Bolshivists are being dealt with according to their deserts, and everything else is coming out all right. The general situation thruout the country is not all that could be desired, but we should remember that it might be a great deal worse, and be duly thankful anyway.

However, things are good or bad only by contrast. When we note the conditions in others parts of the world there is surely every reason why the American citizen should give thanks. His country is still the greatest and best on earth. In spite of everything he knows that it will come out all right in the end. The privilege of harboring such faith is in itself a boon not vouchsafed to many peoples at this time.

Thanksgiving was not intended to be a hilarious holiday. Rather should the occasion be one of peaceful contemplation. If thus employed our people will find that they have many things for which they should be truly grateful.

TEACHERS' SALARIES.

In a communication appearing in The Times last week the teachers in the public schools of Thief River Falls presented an argument to prove that their pay should be increased. It is likely that any fair-imnded person perusing that article will conclude that they are right.

Teachers everywhere are underpaid, the statement applying to those employed in Thief River Falls perhaps a little more generally than is the case with some nearby communities just at this time. This is nothing to the city's credit.

The wages paid teachers in our public schools are shamefully low. From no other class of persons is so much expected and to but few is less attention paid. Because they are slow to take any steps in their own behalf it seems to be assumed that they are satisfied. Rather than raise any kind of rumpus after they have once entered upon their duties for the term teachers put up with a great deal that no one else would stand and only show their disapproval by refusing to renew their contracts for another season.

At the present time almost any kid with a couple years of high school can go out and get a job paying more money than his former teacher receives. A cub serving his first month as call boy at a railway terminal is better paid than a teacher in one of our grade schools. Men digging excavations for water mains receive more per month than an instructor of our youth who has spent years in costly preparation in order to meet the exacting requirements of the position. Anybody who can do anything has the teacher beaten a mile.

This is not right and the only wonder is that that the persons who follow the teaching profession have stood it so long without rebelling.

In this connection it should be understood that school boards are seldom to blame. In Minnesota communities the levy for school expenses are fixed at the annual meeting in July and in order that taxes may be kept down little or no provision is made for any sum greater than that which under ordinary circumstances would be necessary. For this reason, no matter how willing a school board may be to raise wages, it is often found that there is no money available with which to meet an increase. Consequently the teacher makes out to get along somehow until the end of the term and then accepts a contract to work somewhere else.

The situation is by no means peculiar to Thief River Falls. It is the same almost everywhere. Many communities have, however, acknowledged the absolute unfairness of asking teachers to remain at the salary called for in their agreement after conditions over which they have no control have made such salary admittedly inadequate, and have voluntarily granted an advance. This city should do likewise without delay. It is possible that there would be some slight objection to such procedure from those who believe that the saving of a few dollars is of greater importance than that the standing and efficiency of our schools should be protected, but it would be certain to meet the approval of all fair-minded people.

The man who builds his home under the plan offered by one of these organizations pays for it with the money he would be laying out for rent under other circumstances. It is like putting a certain sum in the bank every month with the intention of building as soon as there is a sufficient accumulation, with this difference: the man has the use of his building all the while he is paying for it.

Every ten years or so the ordinary renter pays for the house in which he lives. The building and loan plan makes it possible for him to own what he has paid for at the end of that time instead of keeping right on paying for more buildings and never owning any of them.

The members of the American Legion residing in Pennington county have the right idea. They decided to give a dance for the benefit of their post and had concluded to secure the services of a certain out-of-town orchestra for the occasion when the matter was reconsidered. Only 22 Shopping Days until Christmas. Think of it!

The Christmas Store

We wish to announce to the trade that we are now all prepared and ready for the greatest Christmas in history. Never have we made such elaborate preparations. The buying of our holiday goods for this season commenced away back in last March, and ever since that time, we have bought whenever and from whomever we could, in order to get the largest selection of the most desirable new things, offered in our leading American markets. The result is that now, when Toys, Dolls, Tree Trimmings and almost anything in Holiday Goods, are not procurable at any source, we have the goods—the finest and largest selections Thief River Falls ever saw. And it is now ready for you. We earnestly advise you to buy NOW. Please do not wait until the eleventh hour. Buy it now. If you do, you'll get the best of attention and service. You'll get what you want most, instead of later taking what you can get. Remember the shortage last year. The same thing will happen again this year. We plead with you—"Do Your Christmas Shopping Early."

Our Basement Store is Crowded with Good Gifts

Toys, Dolls, Tree Trimmings, Trains, Automobiles, Kiddy Kars, Doll Carriages.
And the greatest new game of them all—"Capture the Kooties."

The High School Progress

Vol. 1. EDITED BY THE PUPILS OF THE THIEF RIVER FALLS PUBLIC SCHOOLS. No. 3

Knowledge of Speaking.

(By Celilla Lubinski)

It is well worth while for any man to learn to speak in public. In no better way can one make one's influence felt than through public speech. He who can stand before his fellows, give adequate expression to his thoughts and failings, is likely to be in the long run a power in his community.

There are many advantages to be derived from the practice of public speaking. In the first place, it affords the very best kind of mental discipline. It trains in constructive thinking. The ability to think oneself into and through a subject, is worthy of a man's best efforts.

There is a tendency for most people to be careless and slovenly in their speech. Especially students attending High school, who are often called upon to give a short address or emphasize class spirit, do not speak distinctly, so that every vowel and every consonant is properly enunciated; so that every word and every syllable can be heard even by those on the outskirts of an audience. Vowel and consonant sounds are either slurred or incorrectly given.

Most of us will have occasion to use the English language a long time, and the sooner we get a proper mastery of it, the better. It does not matter whether it be in conversation, in business, or in public; a clear, distinct, confident, and cultivated speech is one of the greatest assets any man can have.

The Good Ship "Prowler."

(By Milton Booren)

It was in 191.. when this ship was christened the "Prowler". It has been a staunch and sturdy craft of the past, and has survived many a fierce storm.

Each year a new one is constucted, while the Senior engineers endeavor to make its lines more graceful. It is a four masted schooner, built for the purpose of carrying a cargo of reminiscences. It is the finished product of the Thief River Falls High School Ship Building Association, while its cargo is distributed in the direction of the four winds.

When it first slid from its stays of the printing press, its owners were surprised by its unique design. Following the first completion, crafts of similar design, but of more graceful lines are constructed. This ship cannot be propelled by wind, the only fuel that can be used is material. This ship has a fine intellectual crew, but can they sail the ship themselves? Certainly not! We, the Shipbuilding Association must furnish the fuel, which is material. The fuel comprises snapshots, jokes, stories, etc.

Will we let the "Prowler" remain in dry dock and warp from the lack of fuel? This ship which has previously brought great glory to herself and the school?

Have you ever heard the coxswain, who is the brainy man of the rowing crew? He counts, one, two, three, etc., miss a stroke, make a splash, and where are we?

Let's pull together!

Will we? I'll say we will!

Class Spirit

(By Lloyd Lonson)

Class spirit is a term that can easily be defined if one will take time to notice the class of 1923.

Now, how do we get class spirit? That is easy to see. One person does not take the part of all in our class. Having each person closely connected with the affairs of the class will help class spirit. If pupils notice that certain bunches are doing the work of all, they will think that "someone else can do it," but this is not the way to feel, and each and every one should take a hold of the wheel and push. I think if this is done there will not always be some trying to "buck," what the class is trying to put through.

The new comers in our class should also have some work to perform. By doing this they will feel more at home and not like strangers.

When our class gets to running smoothly you look for class spirit in the class of 1923.

The High-School Carnival.

(By Edna Alexander.)

In the year of 1919, the high school of Thief River Falls had a carnival a few weeks after school started. The object of this carnival was to help get the athletic boys out of debt. They had it on a Friday evening. It was a very nice evening and a great number of people were present. They charged five cents to get into the high school. The place was decorated very nicely, and they had almost everything you can think of. They had great signs up all over, at every show. They had candy stands every place you looked, and they surely did sell lots of candy. They could have sold more if they had had more to sell, but so very many brought it—that was the worst part of it. They had all kinds of different shows. The following are some of them: "Ziegler's Follies," the swiming match, the Four in One Show, in which you saw a wild lady from Africa, a monkey, the tallest man in the world, and the fattest woman in the world. Another place that was fun was "The Honey-Moon Trail." First when you got in there, they would ask you if you wanted a kiss, if you said yes, you would get a candy kiss; then when you went a little farther, there was a ghost that would come out and scare you. Then there was a bed spring that would bounce you up and down. The next thing was the shute. They had little round poles to climb up on, then you would sit down and slide. Sometimes you would land on your feet when you got down, and sometimes otherwise.

Then there was the boxing match, which was between two boys, LaBree and Norquist. There were statues consisting of five girls. There were about four fortune-telling stands, and the "Dolls of All Nations." They also had the fishing pond. Here you paid ten cents to get something. They also had "the most fascinating person in Thief River Falls." It was the mirrored reflection of each one who entered to see. They also had a penny show which was a joke. You had to pay a penny to get in, a penny to have your fortune told, a penny to see a monkey (that was to look into a mirror), a penny to get some candy and a penny to get out. That was about a five-penny show, instead of a "one penny" show.

I did not tell you about "Ziegler's Follies," so will tell you now. There were a whole lot of girls that came out and sang a sailor song. Then after that another bunch came out, and sat around on the floor. They were dressed as Japanese. They also sang a song. It was all playing and singing by the Juniors and Seniors. The Ziegler Follies girls repeated their performance about four times during the evening in the large assembly room. They had a big crowd every time they showed it.

The high school had ticket selling stands on each floor; one down in the basement, one on the second floor and one upstairs. Each ticket cost a nickel, and you could buy as many as you wanted. There were over half the school students in this carnival. The carnival was carried on very successfully, and every one did his or her part.

The high school made over three hundred dollars clear. It got the athletic boys out of debt, and more—they had enough to buy a new outfit for each one of the boys that play.

The Value of Failures.

(By Henry Stengelsen)

Does the world owe a debt of gratitude to the unsuccessful man? This query is not the product of a deranged intellect; nor does the interrogater wish to create the erroneous impression that his mind is habitually wandering among philosophical subjects. It is, however, a question worth mental debate, and the true answer may be somewhat unlooked for.

One who has attained the goal of his ambition whether his wagon is hitched to a star or a kerosene lamp, is immediately lauded. He is held up before our eyes as a model into a semblance of which we strive to rough hew ourselves. The one who has failed in his attempt remains unnoticed, and still he may have sacrificed as much and placed an equal amount of intelligent labor in his efforts.

To obtain the desired object the successful man needs, among other necessities, a clear knowledge of where danger lies and how to avoid it. This knowledge is supplied by the great number of unfortunate failures. It is said, "The wise man profits by a fool's mistakes." Should not the fool receive some recognition for providing the mistakes by which a wise man profits?

The value of the successful man to the world cannot be overestimated; that of the unsuccessful man is always underestimated. Unconsciously the latter acts as a danger-signal; a buoy to guide vessels away from dangerous rocks, and to these buoys the former owes the successful termination of his voyage.

—Wesley Pierson, accompanied by his sister, Miss Alberta, both of St. Hilaire, visited with friends in this city the latter part of last week and over Sunday, returning to their home on Monday afternoon.

Notice to Retailers

A private exhibition of the moving picture entitled "The Troubles of a Merchant and How to Stop Them" will be shown to the business people of Thief River Falls, Minnesota, in the Commercial Club Rooms, Thief River Falls, Minn., at 8:00 p. m. Thursday, December 4th, 1919, under the auspices of The Merchants Association of Thief River Falls.

Mr. W. H. Farley, of Dayton, Ohio, a noted lecturer on modern business methods, will explain the pictures, which deal with the following subjects:

1. Retail Failures and Their Causes
2. Store Organization
3. Newspaper Advertising
4. Window Displays
5. Clerks Efficiency
6. Selling Methods
7. Credit Business
8. System in Retail Stores

Much enthusiasm has been created in other cities where the lecture has been delivered, and it is expected that a capacity audience will greet Mr. Farley and his pictures.

This event has been made possible through the courtesy of the National Cash Register Company of Dayton, Ohio.

The Merchants Association of Thief River Falls, Minn., extend an invitation to the merchants and sales people in the city and all surrounding towns. The admission will be free.

What other phonograph dares this test?

Did you ask some one about the Edison Tone-Test recital given in this city recently? The startled audience heard Amy Ellerman's living voice flood the packed house. It then heard the New Edison* match that voice, even unto its finest variation of shading and feeling. It heard the Fleming Sisters Trio repeat the experiment with their instrumental selections,—and again the New Edison matched every quality of harmonized violin, 'cello and piano. Any one who was present will tell you:

The art of the living artist and its RE-CREATION by the New Edison can not be told apart.

It is no idle phrase that you can enjoy Case, Middleton, Hempel, Matzenauer, Spalding—in your own home. The New Edison brings all that the great artist can bring, except his physical presence. It is the phonographic triumph of the age.

The NEW EDISON

"The Phonograph with a Soul"

Come in and hear this wonder for yourself—the Three Million Dollar Phonograph that RE-CREATES the very soul of music.

SUSPECT IN WATCH MYSTERY RELEASED

POLICE UNABLE TO LOCATE CONFEDERATE OF MAN ARRESTED FOR THEFT.

Lambert Delperdang, arrested late last Thursday afternoon by Police Chief Erickson, charged with having stolen a gold watch at the Brudvick boarding house, the property of Mrs. Loren Dillon, was released from the city jail Saturday morning. The prisoner told a baffling story and there being no evidence against him, he was given his freedom.

According to O. P. Nelson, clerk at the boarding house, Delperdang had a confederate and the two men were seen conversing together at the Citizens State bank corner shortly after the robbery. Nelson stated in the court rooms Friday morning that Delperdang's accomplice when last seen was heading off towards the Soo railroad yards and the belief of local officials is that Delperdang gave the watch to his partner, who then "beat it."

Nelson stated in the court room that Delperdang had taken his meals at the boarding house for a week and also lodged there for the same length of time and that whenever he went up to his room, he would stop and look into the room used by Mrs. Dillon. Nelson said on the day of the robbery he happened to be in his room, and heard some one come up the stairs and then stop when he reached the top of the stairs and then went into Mrs. Dillon's room and stayed for about two minutes and then went out into his own room. Nelson said he watched who came out of the room and said it was the prisoner, and instead of going out the front door sneaked through the side door and went up town, taking his belongings with him and leaving them at the Evelyn hotel.

Chief Erickson was notified and Delperdang was arrested near the Soo depot but the chief failed to find the watch on the man after a thorough examination at the jail. The chief believes Delperdang gave the watch to the other man, whom he was supposed to meet in Bemidji.

Delperdang stated he came to Thief River Falls from Glasgow, Mont., and had been employed here digging sewers.

"What are you, an I. W. W. or Bolshevik?" asked the court.

The prisoner said: "I ain't nothing; never thot of stealin' nobody's watch or stuff."

At a hearing Saturday morning the prisoner denied ever having entered the room and said he didn't know who the other man was. He denied having seen a watch and said the watch he owned was "the one he had at the beginning or the one he purchased in Glasgow."

Annular Eclipse of Sun.

The surface of the sun was partially covered by the shadow of the moon on last Saturday beginning before sunrise and continuing until 8:58 a. m. The eclipse could be seen plainly and those who stopped to gaze at the sun declared someone had bitten a chunk from it. The maximum eclipse was reached at 7:28 a. m., according to Professor Beal of the department of astronomy, U. of M., when about two-thirds of the sun's disk was shadowed by the moon in an annular eclipse.

"The eclipse is annular and not total, because at this time it happened the moon was so far from the earth its apparent size was too small to cover the sun's disk," Professor Beal declared.

December 3, 1918 the annular eclipse was visible in South America and the tropics, but Saturday's eclipse was the first since 1908 in the United States and will not occur again until 1930, according to Prof. Beal.

AUTO TRUCKS HELP GENERAL BUSINESS

LOCAL DEALER SAYS SUCH EQUIPMENT ADDS STANDING TO ESTABLISHMENT.

"Automobile delivery trucks are not only good advertising in themselves but they make all other advertising effective," says Geo. S. Streeter, local dealer in Chevrolet passenger and commercial cars.

"A merchant may spend great sums of money advertising the superior quality and value of his goods, and the courteous attention his customers receive. But the profit he receives from this advertising is limited by his ability to take advantage of the demand it creates.

"A merchant's publicity impresses many people besides his own customers. These people would buy his merchandise if it were not inconvenient for them to visit his store.

"Unless he can deliver goods to all these people, therefore, the most valuable effect of his advertising—the effect on prospects—goes to waste. He does not enjoy the full return he is entitled to from his advertising expenditure.

"On the other hand a light delivery truck enables the merchant to take the fullest advantage of the demand his advertising creates. More than that, it makes it even more profitable.

"It gives him something more to talk about. His advertising can not only tell about his goods but his ability to get them home to all who want them. It impresses his public with the greater convenience of dealing with him rather than with merchants nearby who have not such a delivery system.

"And a light delivery truck not only makes his other advertising more profitable but is valuable advertising in itself.

"It stands for service. It is proof wherever it goes that the merchant whose name it bears has his customers' convenience always in mind.

"It proves he wants to serve these customers in the most efficient way. That is what customers appreciate. And their appreciation is what he advertises to win."

A ST. PAUL MAN GAINS 20 POUNDS

CARLSON ALSO GETS RID OF THIRTY FIVE YEARS TROUBLES WITH RHEUMATISM.

"I only weighed one hundred and thirty-three pounds when I commenced taking Tanlac, but now I tip the scales at one hundred and fifty-three, which gives me a gain of twenty pounds," said J. W. Carlson, who lives at 90 Phelen Creek, St. Paul, Minn., the other day.

"I am sixty years old now," continued Mr. Carlson, "and up to the time I commenced taking Tanlac I had been suffering from rheumatism since I was a young man about twenty-five years old. During that time I had the very best of treatment, and tried many different kinds of medicine, but I never got any permanent relief until I got hold of Tanlac. I was in such bad shape last year that I was laid up for three months in a stretch. I also suffered from stomach trouble so bad that what I ate would sour and cause me to be bloated up with gas for hours at a time. Very often I would have raging headaches and was so restless and nervous at night that I never got any real good sleep. All these troubles together finally got the best of me, and not long ago I had to give up and go to the hospital for awhile.

"That was the condition I was in when I commenced taking Tanlac, and I really didn't think that I would ever be any better. Well, sir, the way Tanlac knocked that rheumatism out is simply wonderful. Why, I never have a sign of it any more, and the same with the stomach troubles. I can eat just anything I want and I never suffer a particle afterwards. I eat a lot, too, for I have such a ravenous appetite that I am actually hungry all the time. My strength has come back to me, and it beats the world how I am gaining in weight. In fact, Tanlac has completely overcome my troubles, and I never felt better in every way in all my life before. It gives me pleasure to recommend Tanlac, for it is certainly a real medicine, and will do just what they say it will do."

FORMER RESIDENT OFFICIAL AT BOUT

"CURLEY" ULRICH CHOSEN FOR THIRD MAN IN RING AT MIKE-MIKE FIGHT.

"Curley" Ulrich, former resident of Thief River Falls, who during his residence in the city conducted a gymnasium in the old Evenson block, destroyed by fire a number of years ago, refereed the championship fight between Mike O'Dowd and Mike Gibbons in St. Paul last Friday evening. Ulrich is well known to many local people and a number of his proteges in boxing are still here.

Ulrich, who is one of the three official boxing referees of the Minnesota Boxing commission, was chosen to act as third man in the ring in the fight between Middleweight Champion O'Dowd and Gibbons on last Thursday after representatives of both boxers had been in deadlock on the question for several hours. It was decided that if O'Dowd was disqualified by a foul, he would not lose his title.

Much interest in the match was manifested by local fight fans and the result of the bout is popular. Thief River Falls people got a peep at Gibbons on Homecoming day while many of the ex-service men of the county were under his tutelage at Camp Dodge, where he was employed as a boxing instructor during the war, it having been decided by war department officials that knowing how to handle one's mitts is as essential as using the bayonet correctly.

O'Dowd went to France as an enlisted man and was in active service with the A. E. F. until the war closed, after which he met the best boxers of his weight the army could produce.

The Times had hoped to furnish local fight fans the complete returns of each round, but inquiry into the matter revealed the fact that neither the Postal nor Western Union Telegraph companies had made arrangements to give the returns to outside cities.

Roy Sells Farm.

St. Hilaire Spectator: A deal was completed this week whereby County Commissioner J. S. Roy sold his fine farm south of town to Emery Hallamech of Nobles county, Minn. The purchaser will move here with his family next spring and will take possession then. The Roy farm is one of the best improved farms in this locality as well as one of the best producing farms in the county. Mr. Roy has not fully decided where he will go, but his present plans are for moving into town and making this place his home.

Miss Olga Olson, who teaches near Erie, was in attendance at the teachers institute held here last week.

NEGLECTING THAT COLD OR COUGH?

Why, when Dr. King's New Discovery so promptly checks it

It's natural you don't want to be careless and let that old cold or cough drag on or that new attack develop seriously. Not when you can get such a proved successful remedy as Dr. King's New Discovery.

Cold, cough, grippe, croup does not resist this standard reliever very long. Its quality is as high today as it always has been—and it's been growing steadily in popularity for more than fifty years. 60c. and $1.20 a bottle at all druggists. Give it a trial.

Constipated? Here's Relief

Not that often harmful, always violent and temporary help that comes from harsh purgatives, but the comfortable, gratifying, corrective regulation of stubborn bowels so pronounced in Dr. King's New Life Pills.

Tonic in action, they promote free bile flow, stir up the lazy, thoroughly but gently cleanse the system of waste matter and fermenting foods, and give you keen zest for hard work and healthful recreation. All druggists—25 cents.

Corns 'Tween Toes? Use Easy "Gets-It"

Any Corn or Callus Comes Off Peacefully, Gloriously. Never Fails.

It is easy for "Gets-It" to reach "hard-to-get-at" corns, and better yet, it is easy to remove them, because "Gets-It" makes them come right off just like a banana peel. You can try to dig or drag out your corns with a knife, or slice them with a "bloody" razor, or use bandages and tape and wrap up your toe into a package, but that's the "treat-'em-rough," painful, foolish way. Use 2 or 3 drops of "Gets-It"—that's the peaceful, sure, common-sense way that never fails. You reach the corn easily with the little glass rod in the cork of every "Gets-It" bottle. It does not hurt the true flesh. Try it, trot and smile! It's a blessing; never fails. "Gets-It," the only sure, guaranteed, money-back corn-remover, costs but a trifle at any drug store. M'f'd by E. Lawrence & Co., Chicago, Ill.

Sold in Thief River Falls and recommended as the world's best corn remedy by J. P. Curtis and Lambert's Drug Stores.

Organization Through Co-operation

The Standard Oil Company (Indiana) attributes to organization its success in discharging its obligations as a public servant.

The business of the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) is a highly specialized branch of industry, where complete co-operation is necessary to insure maximum efficiency.

Every one of the 22,000 men and women who make up the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) family must have a thorough, broad-gauged understanding of the benefits to be derived from organization.

In addition each must have an intensive training which makes him a specialist, and enables him to complete his part of the work and pass it on to others without delay or lost motion.

The result is a family of highly trained individuals, tense and keen to render to the public the utmost in service.

But Standard Oil Company (Indiana) organization goes further. To give a single illustration:

When a manufacturer has two machines, identical in construction, but not equal in production, he calls on the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) for expert assistance and advice.

A competent engineer goes over the problem and after thorough investigation, finds the lubricating oil necessary to cope with conditions surrounding the inefficient machine, and to bring it up to full capacity.

Thus does the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) organization extend to industry generally, a service resulting in a combination to promote trade that production may be increased and the utmost in service given to the public.

Will You Let Thomas A. Edison Entertain You—In Your Home?

That is what happens when an Amberola comes into your home. The wizardry of Edison—the Master Product of his Master Mind—furnishes you with years and years of entertainment—all the best music of all the world—reproduced in a superior way that none but Edison could accomplish.

EDISON'S NEW DIAMOND

AMBEROLA

Among the large number of phonographs and "talking machines" on the market, the genius of Edison makes the Amberola stand out as the one perfect instrument for your home.

Thousands of families in the U. S. A. have purchased phonographs hastily, without careful comparison—and as a result they are repenting their choice at leisure.

You can safely trust the phonograph that has been perfected by the greatest inventor of the age. Choose the Amberola, and you will never regret your selection. The longer you possess an Amberola, the more you will appreciate its marked superiority over ordinary phonographs and "talking machines."

Its marvelous, pure tone will afford perpetual delight to yourself, your family, your friends. No metallic sound or shrillness—common phonograph faults—nothing but pure melody in every note from your Amberola.

No needles to change, with constant bother and expense. The genuine Diamond Point Reproducer of the Amberola is permanent.

And the wonderful Amberol Records are practically unbreakable and everlasting. You can handle them quickly, carelessly—yes, drop them—without fear. (You know how easily other phonograph records are broken.) And on these Amberol Records you have all the world's best music—the greatest singers, the latest songs and dances—to select from.

We will gladly demonstrate the superiority of the Amberola to you at any time. Come in today, tomorrow—bring the family along.

FREE TRIAL In Your Home

We will place an Amberola in your home for a 3 Days' Trial which will not put you under the slightest obligation or expense. Come here, select an Amberola and a number of records and we'll send them to your home. At the end of 3 days, if you do not want the Amberola, we'll call and take it away. If you do want it, we'll arrange terms of payment to suit you.

Ten Cent Chicken Is Prize Winner

Crookston Boy Takes Prize at Pennington County Poultry Show with Bargain Counter Fowl.

It was only a ten cent chick several months ago. Now its a prize winning White Leghorn, says the Crookston Times.

Arthur Kirsch exhibited his well-bred Rhode Island white chickens at the Pennington county show at Thief River Falls. In the group of prize winners he put a white leghorn rooster, which looked good. It was purchased when a chick at the Woolworth's ten cent store several months ago. Notwithstanding that it was not an exhibition bird it was rated high, scoring 92 out of a possible 100 points. The Rhode Island whites won their share of the prizes but Mr. Kirsch is particularly proud of the Leghorn.

Quist Starts Action.

Action has been started in Municipal court by W. H. Quist against Olaf Thompson over one brown Guernsey cow. Quist left Thief River Falls about two years ago and before going left his cow in the custody of Olaf Thompson and had an agreement with Thompson that he was to receive all the milk and cream during this time. Quist returned to the city recently and was surprised to find that Thompson demanded $30 before he would release the animal. Quist refused to do this and immediately got busy and obtained possession of the cow through a writ of replevin.

OLD AGE STARTS WITH YOUR KIDNEYS

This being true, it is easy to believe that by keeping the kidneys and digestive organs cleansed and in proper working order old age can be deferred and life prolonged far beyond that enjoyed by the average person.

For over 200 years GOLD MEDAL Haarlem Oil has been relieving the weakness and disability due to advancing years. It is a standard old-time home remedy and needs no introduction. GOLD MEDAL Haarlem Oil is inclosed in odorless, tasteless capsules containing about 5 drops each. Take them as you would a pill, with a small swallow of water. The oil stimulates the kidney action and enables the organs to throw off the poisons which cause premature old age. New life and strength increase as you continue the treatment. When completely restored continue taking a capsule or two each day. GOLD MEDAL Haarlem Oil Capsules will keep you in health and vigor and prevent a return of the disease.

Do not wait until old age or disease have settled down for good. Go to your druggist and get a box of GOLD MEDAL Haarlem Oil Capsules. Money refunded if they do not help you. Three sizes. But remember to ask for the original imported GOLD MEDAL brand, in sealed packages.

PRINCE ALBERT

Copyright 1919 by R. J. Reynolds Tobacco Co.

NEVER was such right-handed-two-fisted smokejoy as you puff out of a jimmy pipe packed with Prince Albert! That's because P. A. has the quality!

You can't fool your taste apparatus any more than you can get five aces out of a family deck! So, when you hit Prince Albert, coming and going, and get up half an hour earlier just to start stoking your pipe or rolling cigarettes, you know you've got the big prize on the end of your line!

Prince Albert's quality alone puts it in a class of its own, but when you figure that P. A. is made by our exclusive patented process that cuts out bite and parch—well—you feel like getting a flock of dictionaries to find enough words to express your happy days sentiments!

Toppy red bags, tidy red tins, handsome pound and half-pound tin humidors—and—that classy, practical pound crystal glass humidor with sponge moistener top that keeps the tobacco in such perfect condition.

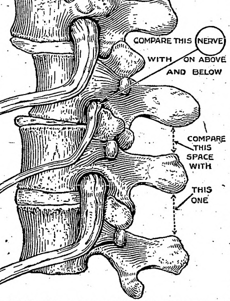
Impinged (Pinched) Nerves Causes Disease



Here is shown a section of the spinal column with three nerves emerging from between the vertebrae (small bones of the spine). It will be noticed that the second vertebra (reading from the top) is out of alignment or, to use a Chiropractic term, subluxated. This causes an impingement (pinching) of the second nerve, and consequently the life force which should flow through that nerve to some particular organ, is interrupted. That organ, not receiving its full quota of life force, suffers from Dis-ease (lack of ease) and will continue to so suffer until the pinching is relieved. THIS IS WHERE THE SCIENCE OF CHIROPRACTIC COMES IN. The Chiropractor with his bare hands only, adjusts the subluxated vertebra into its normal position so that it is in alignment with the other vertebrae; the pinching of the nerve is thus relieved, the life force flows uninterruptedly to the organ involved, and Health is the result.

ROSEWOOD

Myrom-Bergquist.

Before Judge Tarrant of the Thief River Falls municipal court, occurred last week the marriage of Harry Myrom to Miss Annie C. Bergquist, both residing about four miles south of this village in Norden township. Both are young people well known in the vicinity and will make their future home on a farm in Norden.

Henry Whitehead arrived Monday from Fordville, N. D., and will visit for a few days with friends here, later to return to the southern part of this state, where he is now residing. His two children, Edna and Albin, who have spent the summer at the Mosbeck brothers' home here, will accompany him home.

Swen Swenson was at Warren on Monday to attend to matters of business.

P. Flodstrom of Viking is visiting for a few days at the Hellquist home.

Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Helquist and family and Miss Hannah Helquist of Thief River Falls, spent Sunday with the Helquist young people, north of town.

Cashier A. S. Holm and wife passed Sunday at Thief River Falls to visit.

Mrs. Johanne Nyhus, Mrs. Inga Berg, Misses Gladys and Olivia Swenson, arrived on Wednesday morning from Thief River Falls, the latter, after spending a few days visiting at that place and the former to visit with relatives and friends here for two days.

Miss Annie Uland left last Wednesday for Minneapolis, where she will be employed in a hospital this winter.

Misses Ida and Emma Sorenson returned on Wednesday morning from a couple days' business visit at Thief River Falls.

The clothes pin social at Rosebank last Friday evening and the basket party at Busy Bee, last Saturday evening, were quite satisfactory both in regard to the financial outcome and the pleasure. A. C. Vorseth acted as auctioneer at Rosebank where a netting of about $26 was realized, while Roscoe Batten cried the Saturday sale where about $60 was gathered. Parlor amusements and dancing formed both evening's diversions.

Miss Loretta O'Brien arrived from Thief River Falls last Friday morning and will be employed at the J. Batten home in sewing work for some time.

Miss Lyda Batten arrived home on Friday from her school work at Thief River Falls and will spend the week-end with her parents.

A new safe weighing several tons is being installed at the Farmers State bank this week. Business is prospering daily and the cashier, Mr. Holm, is in the best of spirits regarding the work.

Miss Clara Nelson left last Thursday evening for Thief River Falls, in company with little Harry Ranum, who was suffering from toothache and had to have a tooth pulled.

A week's series of Evangelical meetings will commence at the Congregational church in town on Wednesday evening, Dec. 3 at 8 o'clock under the direction of the local minister, Rev. W. Drotts of Viking, who will be accompanied by Rev. A. A. Andreen of Grand Forks and others.

Mrs. Carl Stromberg from Dakota Junction, spent Wednesday visiting with her parents in town.

Mrs. T. Hellem left last Wednesday for Viking, where she will visit with Mrs. S. S. Nordgaard for some time.

Miss Lillie Holsen, who teaches school west of Viking this year, spent the week-end with Mrs. Carl Mellem, south of town.

Mrs. O. M. Holson of Warren arrived here last Wednesday evening to visit with the Carl Mellem family over Sunday.

Miss Mabel Lappegaard, who has spent the last two weeks with her sister, Mrs. Henry Carlson at Thief River Falls, returned home on Thursday morning.

Mrs. Henry Carlson returned to Thief River Falls last Wednesday evening after a visit with friends and relatives here since Monday.

Mrs. Peder Sagmoen and children, Walter and Percival, of Goodridge, visited with the Sagmoen relations in town, from Saturday until Monday.

Olof Lappegaard returned Thursday after spending some time on business in Pennington county.

Miss L. Taggert returned on Thursday evening from Warren, where she spent a few days in dental interests.

John Sjolsvold, Emil Helquist, Dave Mosbeck, William Sorenson and Ole Dahl have made business calls to Thief River Falls during the week.

Isabel Sagmoen left on Monday evening for Thief River Falls, where she will visit with her sister, Mrs. S. Benson, for a couple days.

Rev. Werner Drotts of Viking, was in town, between trains, last Thursday to conduct the Y. P. S. meeting which was held at the Congregational church that evening.

No "Wet" Christmas.

Plans for a "wet" Christmas last Friday miscarried. United States will still be in a state of war with Austria, even if Congress disposes of the German treaty when the lawmakers convene again, it was pointed out by Attorney General M. A. Palmer. President Wilson will not wish to promulgate peace in the face of this situation, it was believed even though the German treaty may be disposed of.

THE UNIVERSAL CAR

The Ford car can well be called the "peoples car," because there are more than 3,000,000 of them in daily operation. That is about four to one of the nearest follower in the motor car industry. This would not be so if the Ford car had not for sixteen years proven its superiority in service, in durability, and in the low cost for operation and maintenance; this would not be so if the Ford car was not so easy to understand, so simple in construction that anybody and everybody can safely drive it. If you come once—you'll come again

It's always hard to go into a grocery store the first time. You never know what's in store for you.

You wonder what the clerks will be like, what kind of groceries will be for sale, will they deliver your purchases or will you have to carry home an unwieldy parcel? Don't have any doubts about our store.

Come in and see us. We guarantee that there won't be any "ice to break."

We do everything you expect a real service grocery store to do for you and a little more, and the goods we have for sale are the kinds of things that you want to put on your table. There's nothing on our shelves that we think might displease a customer. Anything we sell we can safely recommend.

We studied baking powders and we can truthfully say that this is one of the best powders for home baking we've ever seen.

It's pure and clean. It's always uniform in quality. It's economical—because less is required and because the price is low. A full weight pound costs but 40 cents.

I Am "Granny" Chamberlain

"Granny" Chamberlain

Everybody's friend when they have coughs and colds and their children have croup and whooping cough.

Most everyone knows me. I have been going from home to home for nearly fifty years—always welcome, too, for I never fail in their hour of need.

I have helped young mothers whose babies were choking with croup, and been the comfort of parents whose children tramp to school through the wet winter weather. Many a cold and attack of bronchitis I have warded off, and thousands I have helped through the anxious moments of whooping cough. I have come to the aid of mothers and fathers when they had colds and influenza, and have been a relief to old folks suffering from bronchitis and asthma.

I have had a most varied experience; I go everywhere—among the rich and the poor, in cities and the country.

Now don't forget "Granny" Chamberlain! You will see me often now, for I am going to tell you of my experience and what can be done in your home with

VALLEY CROP SHOW BIGGER THAN EVER

CORN WILL HAVE PROMINENT PLACE AT CROOKSTON IN FEBRUARY.

That the 1920 Red River Valley Winter shows will surpass anything of a like nature ever staged in the Northwest is plainly apparent at this early date. Committees representing various sections of the valley have already drawn up the premium list for the grains and potatoes. Six thousand of these premium lists or advance classification lists have been mailed out to interested farmers and county agents. This will give all parties contemplating the showing of grains and potatoes an opportunity of preparing their exhibits early. The winners in all shows are the ones who pick out their choicest grains and prepare them early. Later on they can go over it again and improve it. Clean grain of uniform size and weight which has good color always stands a good chance of winning. Potatoes free from all bruises and diseases such as scab and black scruf should be picked and set aside in a cool dry place.

This has been a banner corn year and the persons showing corn must pick carefully ears of uniform size and shape as well as ears having straight rows, well filled butts, deep kernels and above all ears of a length that will mature in the region where grown. The best way to know whether you are planting the right type and size of corn is to send down your best ears to the show and compare them with some of the old-timers who grow corn every year and always get a crop.

In addition to the grain and potato exhibits, meetings will be held where some of the best speakers of the country will give addresses. The live stock show and sales will be double the size of last year. The cooperation of every Minnesota farmer is needed to make this the banner winter show ever held. Prepare exhibits now and make plans to bring the entire family to Crookston February 9-13, 1920.

THE COURT DECIDES SINGER OWES BILL

JUDGMENT RENDERED AGAINST DEFENDANT IN SUM OF $31.44 AND COSTS.

The case of C. Gustafson & Son versus Stephen Singer, came up in Municipal court last Saturday afternoon and judgment in the sum of $31.44 together with the costs of the action has been rendered against Singer.

The $31.44 is the alleged balance due the firm of Gustafson & Son, according to the complaint, for goods purchased between May 20, 1918, and February 5, 1919.

Dave Gustafson was the only witness for the plaintiff and testified that he had a verbal agreement with Singer regarding the furnishing of a large amount of twine for the season of 1918 and promised to give Singer a 10 per cent discount if the bill was paid on or before October 5.

In the defendant's answer it is stated that he purchased the twine in ignorance of the price paid by Gustafson and states, that he overpaid Gustafson & Son $300. On October 4th Singer paid $870 on the bill which Gustafson claimed was $1881.4, leaving a balance of $31.44. Singer also disputed another item on the bill, that being a shipment of packing which he claimed he never received or ordered.

The dispute arose over the price charged by Gustafson but the court decided that money was due Gustafson & Son and decided in their favor. Attorney Naplin represented the plaintiff.

Sweet Shop Owner Dead.

John Nott Black, owner of "sweet shops" bearing his name in both this city and Grand Forks, died suddenly in the latter city last Thursday. Death was due to diabetes from which he had been a sufferer for a number of years. He was 46 years of age. The store in this city has been in charge of Misses Margaret Eichammer and Lottie Austin, both of whom left on Friday to attend the funeral, which took place Saturday. Just what changes in the business the death of Mr. Black will necessitate is not known, but it is understood that the Thief River Falls place will continue under its present management.

WINS NINTH PLACE AMONG 33 ENTRIES

VERGIL DENHART, HAZEL, WELL UP TOWARD HEAD AT LAMB SHOW.

Virgil Denhart of Hazel, Ruth Satre of Thief River Falls, and Myron Robinson, Goodridge, returned last week from South St. Paul, to which city they had gone as representatives of the Pennington County Boys' and Girls' Sheep club. These three were the winners at the exhibition held in this city on Nov. 15 which entitled them to a free trip to the big state show.

The lamb exhibited by Virgil Denhart was awarded ninth place in a total of 33 entries, being the only contender for place taken to the show from this county. This is an excellent position to gain at the first attempt, less than one-quarter of the total number of exhibitors having a better animal on display.

A. J. Anderson and J. J. McCann, who had charge of this contest on the part of the boys and girls, are well satisfied with the result. As a first attempt it was one of the best in the state. The show will be an annual event hereafter and it is predicted that next year there will be at least fifty entries at the county show.

One club member from another section of the state exhibited a "baby beef" for which 76 cents per pound was paid on the hoof.

ERIE

E. A. Tanner added two wolves to his hunting record during the last two weeks.

PLAN TO ERECT NEW CREAMERY BUILDING SOON

STRUCTURE TO COST $45,000 IS BEING CONSIDERED BY DIRECTORS

NEED LARGER QUARTERS

EXCELLENT FINANCIAL CONDITION MAKES SUCH MOVE EASILY FEASIBLE

The Thief River Falls Co-operative Creamery association is planning on the erection of a new butter factory at a cost of approximately $45,000 in the spring. With the added equipment needed in order to make the new plant second to none in the state the total outlay is estimated at between $50,000 and $60,000.

While on a trip to the cities recently, L. Haselrud, butter maker at the plant, was instructed to visit a number of the newer creameries in other sections in order to acquaint himself with the approximate cost of constructing such a building as is needed here at this time. He visited Owatonna and Waseca, at both of which cities creameries have been built within the last year or two. He has submitted his report and it has been most favorably considered by the board.

Larger Quarters Needed.

The present plant is no longer adequate to handle the business of the creamery. Should the next year show an increase in the business proportionate to those immediately preceding, difficulty will be found in handling the output to the best advantage. According to present indications the total will run to $320,000, an increase of nearly $90,000 over the business of 1918. As an indication of the rate at which this institution is forging ahead it might be stated that this increase is just about equal to the total business in 1914. During this same six-year period the total business shows an increase of just $230,000, the average being $38,500 per year. This is more than $100 for every day during the entire six years.

Very Bright Prospects.

It has for some time been evident that larger quarters would have to be provided, but the directors hoped to be able to hold the matter off until 1921. They seem to have reached a decision that this is not possible, however, and are prepared to go ahead as soon as weather conditons make such action possible. The new creamery will in all likelihood be located at the northeast corner of Second street east and Atlantic avenue, right across from the present site. This property was acquired some time ago and has been used as an office by Secretary Peter Engelstad. The old building would probably be converted into a storage plant.

Record of Growth.

The patrons of this creamery are very proud of the record the institution has made, there being few in the state able to claim greater progress. The following figures, showing the business for each year since 1914, will give some idea of what the future possibilities of the plant are: 1914, $90,000; 1915, $120,000; 1916, $120,000; 1917, $159,300; 1918, $232,000; 1919, estimated, $320,000.

ASKED FOR $1200; IS AWARDED $150

ARNE VIK REFUSES TO CONSIDER SUM OFFERED FOR LAND.

Whether or not the commissioners of Pennington county will be compelled to pay out more than they consider proper for laying out a road over the corner of a man's land may be tried out in the courts. Arne Vik, residing just south of St. Hilaire, refuses to consider as adequate the sum awarded him as damages caused by such proceeding on the part of the county authorities.

Vik some time ago asked for an injunction prohibiting the county from building the road through his farm, although this is claimed to have been rather benefited than damaged by the highway. The tract isolated by the road would have been very small and the board figured that $150 would amply cover the damages, if such there were. Vik, however, through his attorney, Hans O. Chommie, demands $1200.

The commissioners refuse to come across with any such sum. The next move is up to Mr. Vik and the expectations are that it will be a law suit.

Will Show Health Film.

"The Public Health Nurse," a moving picture film dealing with the work of this important official, will be shown at the Princess on Friday evening, Dec. 19, under the auspices of the Pennington County Health association, collaborating with Miss Lois Saucer, local public nurse. The same film will be shown at the Goodridge theatre on Thursday evening.

This picture is one of great educational value and every person in the county should make it a point to see it. Further details concerning this presentation will be given later.

Graveling Contract Let.

The county commissioners at their meeting on Tuesday let the contract for graveling a piece of road just east of Hazel to P. W. Roark. The contract price is based on delivery of the material at Hazel and is for the following amounts: For the first mile, 95 cents per yard; longer distances, 48 cents per yard per additional mile.

The commissioners did not have a great deal of business before them at this meeting and another will be held on Nov. 29 and 30, at which time there will be important ditch matters to consider.

Bloodhounds Wanted.

Chief of Police Erickson is in receipt of a letter from the police head at St. James, this state, asking if it is possible to secure several bloodhounds from this section of the country to be used in running down robbers. Chief Erickson notified the St. James chief that there were no dogs of this kind to be found here. The down state police head in his letter stated that the numerous robberies and holdups in that city made it necessary to use a new system in running the thieves down and believed bloodhounds could be used to good advantage.

NO REDUCTION FOR TELEPHONE USERS

STATE COMMISSIONER SAYS INCREASED RATE IS STILL WARRANTED.

Minnesota telephone users must continue to pay the war time service rate and charges pending establishment of a permanent rate next year in the state wide investigation under orders made public on Monday by the state railroad and warehouse commission.

Facts at the recent hearing on the temporary rates as shown by exhibits presented by the telephone company and verified by the commission's accountants, the order states, clearly indicates that there has been such an increase in operating expenses of the companies that the present rates so far do not more than take care of the increased expense.

Accordingly the commission approves the higher government fixed rate now existing and a temporary schedule subject to change by the commission as operating conditions may warrant. The companies are required to file monthly statements of operating revenues and expenses to guide the commission in its possible future action.

Emphasis was placed on the announcement that this proceeding was supplemental to the general investigation which the commission is conducting to determine reasonable rates for service throughout the state. The orders follow the recent hearings on the order to show cause why the present rates should not be revised on December 1, when the federal rate orders terminate.

Continuance of the war-time rate, even on a temporary basis, was opposed by representatives of several cities, Thief River Falls being among those represented.

Ringham Returns.

Clarence Ringham, graduate of the local high school with the '17 class, returned to Thief River Falls last Friday after two years' service in Uncle Sam's navy. During the war Ringham was doing ground aviation work in England and after the signing of the armistice was sent aboard a destroyer for patrol duty in the Mediterranian. While on duty in that part of the world Ringham had a chance to visit Constantinople, Turkey, and was very much impressed with the city. He has also visited Tripoli, Tunis, Greece, Armenia and other countries and considers his experience a big education. Like the rest of the boys who ventured from the shores of America, he is satisfied that there is only one great country in the world and that country is the good old United States. Ringham enlisted in 1917, shortly after the outbreak of the war.

ELKS EXPECT TRIP TO BAUDETTE SOON

SECURE PERMISSION TO HOLD INITIATION IN NORTHERN TOWN

Some time early in January, Baudette is going to be favored with an invasion of Elks. The lodge members from Thief River Falls are going to be there in force, chartering a special train for the purpose of making the trip.

The occasion will be rather unusual. One of the rules laid down for the guidance of Elks lodges is that no initiations shall take place outside of a regularly constituted lodge room, but this ruling has been abrogated temporarily and the herd members from this city will take into the bosom of their family a large number of fawns in Baudette who are desirous of affiliating with the lodge here. In order to make this possible it was necessary to secure a special dispensation from the grand exalted ruler, and L. R. Johnston, the local E. R., has been working on this for some time. Because of the unusual conditions surrounding the case the permission has been granted and the Elks will go from here for the purpose of taking the Northerners into the fold.

It is expected that a large delegation will make the trip.

NONE WILL LACK HOLIDAY CHEER FOR CHRISTMAS

GOODFELLOWS ARE PLEDGED TO SEE THAT SANTA CLAUS VISITS ALL.

EVERYBODY LEND A HAND

COMMITTEES ALREADY AT WORK WITH NEVER A DOUBT OF SUCCESS.

The coming Christmas season is going to be the greatest in the history of Thief River Falls. Not a man, woman or child is going to get by without in some manner sharing in the joyful occasion. The Goodfellows will see to that.

At a meeting held in the Commercial club rooms last evening the Community Christmas Celebration proposal took form and substance. There were present representatives from the Woman's club, the Community Girls, Rebekahs, Eastern Stars, Elks, Merchants association, Commercial club, Salvation Army, Locomotive Firemen and Engineers, Commercial Travelers and other organizations, and committees were appointed to go ahead with the plans.

Tree and Program.

A monster Christmas tree will be erected at the corner of LaBree avenue and Third street. Here the bags of goodies and other things will be distributed to the children of the city and country. The program will be put on at the Auditorium. The affair will cost at least $500 and all organizations will appoint a financial committee within their own ranks to secure the funds. Besides those represented at the meeting the following have given notice of their intention to interest themselves in the matter and will be ready for work in a day or two: Masons, Eastern Stars, Odd Fellows, Rebekahs, Conductors, Engineers, Firemen, Railway Clerks, American Legion, Sons of Norway. In fact there is hardly a person in the city who has not signified his or her intention of helping to make this the greatest Christmas observance in the history of Northwestern Minnesota.

Baskets to the Needy.

The celebration will take place on the afternoon of Christmas day. After the distribution at the tree has been made committees will seek out any needy persons in the city and provide them with baskets of good things. Bags of candy, popcorn and fruits will be given to any children who may be staying at the hospitals or ill at their homes. Mrs. E. O. Mogensen has been assigned to secure the names of any person and the address of any family needing aid or who may be in any danger of being overlooked by Santa Claus. Anyone knowing of such case will confer a favor by reporting the fact to her. The Salvation Army and Social Welfare committee of the Woman's club will have charge of the distribution of baskets, the Salvationists also being assigned the duty of looking after the school collections.

Committees Appointed.

Carl Christofferson has been made general purchasing agent; W. W. Prichard, Jr., will look after the securing of a suitable tree; City Electrician Ole Legvold will see to its lighting; Mrs. H. W. Froehlich and the Woman's club have the program in charge; Miss Marie Nelson and the Community Girls will fill the bags; H. W. Protzeller is in charge of the special distribution; E. O. Mogensen will make any special arrangements necessary with Santa Claus; C. W. Vorachek and E. P. Brevig are to look after the banks distributed about the city, and G. Howard Smith has charge of the publicity end of the enterprise.

Everybody Hustling.

By the close of the present week everything will be running along in fine shape and the committees will have their respective tasks well in hand. There is something for everybody to do and it will be done with enthusiasm.

GOODRIDGE HOLDS SPECIAL ELECTION

CITIZENS WILL DECIDE ON PURCHASE OF ELECTRIC LIGHT PLANT.

On Saturday, Dec. 13, the people of Goodridge will decide whether or not they wish to purchase the electric light plant in that village for the sum of $2250. This price includes everything connected with the production of current except the engine and belt.

Included as part of the proposal is a contract with the Goodridge Milling company concern for the furnishing of power with which to operate the plant and a stipulation that the cost of current shall not be more than 15 cents per kilowat hour with a minimum monthly charge of $1.00.

In case of purchase the village agrees to install the machinery in the building of the milling company.

HIGH LIGHTS IN THE PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE

Makes no Reference Whatever to Failure of Senate to Pass Peace Treaty—Greater Rural Development Urged.

President Wilson sent his message to both houses of congress on Tuesday. The full text of the document will be found on Page 7 of The Times today. Following are some of the principal recommendations made:

Readjustment of the tariff system, if necessary, to meet changed world conditions and make the system conform with the fact that the United States is "the greatest capitalist in the world."

Recognition and relief for soldiers of the world war particularly in the way of government farms as proposed by Secretary F. K. Lane.

Proper measures to foster the dyestuffs industry built up during the war to keep the United States independent of foreign supply.

An enlarged program for rural development, in recognition of the farmer's part in the war.

Measures which "will remove the causes" of "political restlessness in our body politic."

DOCTORS OCCUPY FINE QUARTERS ON SAME FLOOR

NEW ARRANGEMENT INSURES PUBLIC BETTER SERVICE AT ALL TIMES.

ARE NOW FULLY EQUIPED

EVERY DETAIL CONNECTED WITH OFFICES STRICTLY UP-TO-DATE.

Thief River Falls now has the finest and most modern medical offices of any city its size in the state. Four local physicians this week moved into adjoining quarters in the Citizens' State bank building and will hereafter, so far as equipment, waiting room, library, operating rooms and laboratory are concerned, conduct their business from one central office. This is an arrangement followed by physicians and surgeons in the larger cities and has been found to be of great convenience to the public in general.

Dr. O. F. Mellby, Dr. A. J. Paulson, Dr. H. W. Froehlich and Dr. L. F. Fisher are the medical men who have taken this advanced step. They will continue their personal practice of general medicine and surgery, but each will in addition specialize on the line to which he has heretofore given the greatest amount of attention. The combining of the libraries, examination and operating facilities of all four will give each one a more complete equipment than any one would in all probabilities possess, thus adding to the ability of each to meet any requirement that might arise.

Tasteful Arrangement.

The offices occupy the entire east end of the second floor. A glass door gives entrance directly off the stairs to the spacious waiting room around which are grouped the private offices of the doctors. Those of Dr. Fisher and Dr. Mellby face on Third street, while those of Dr. Froehlich and Dr. Paulson front on LaBree. Between the rooms of Drs. Mellby and Froehlich is located the treatment and examination room, a large apartment which will when fully arranged, be the most completely and efficiently equipped place of its kind in this section.

Located between the offices of Dr. Froehlich and Dr. Paulson is the principal operating room. Here are seen the numerous instrument cabinets and other paraphernalia incident to an institution of this character.

Next to the office of Dr. Paulson is a dark room which will be specially fitted up for such examinations as require the application of strong electric light.

In the northwest corner is the library. This is also a large room, furnished in the latest style, the light and general facilities for research and study being the main object sought in its selection. The bookcases are all of uniform design and the entire arrangement most tasteful throughout.

A small apartment adjoining the library will be used to house the X-ray transformer and for general storage purposes.

Twelve Rooms in All.

There will be but one telephone in the main waiting room, the individual offices being connected by interior phones. One stenographer and one bookkeeper will be stationed here and someone will be in charge at all times.

Attending Stock Show.

Olaf Ramstad left yesterday morning for Chicago, where he will attend the annual show of the National Live Stock Breeders associatoin. It is probable that he will get on the track of some fine animals for sale in other sections and will be able to call the attention of local breeders to many things of advantage to them upon his return.

COUNTY AGENTS DISCUSS RELIEF IN FLOOD AREA

MEET IN THIS CITY TO FORMULATE PLAN OF DISTRIBUTION.

MANY CLAIMS UNFOUNDED

GREAT CARE WILL BE EXERCISED IN GRANTING OF STATE AID.

Scott Laird, special appraiser for the state board of relief, met Monday night in County Agent J. J. McCann's office with the following agents: John Huseby of Warren, representing western Marshall county; George Sanders of Grygla, representing eastern Marshall and western Beltrami counties; O. M. Olson of Roseau, representing Roseau county; and J. J. McCurdy of Baudette, representing northern Beltrami county.

These various men discussed the situation of the flood sufferers as it now exists and many interesting matters were brought to light in an attempt to devise ways and means to carry on the distribution of additional relief for the people who lost so severely last summer by reason of the heavy floods.

Unfounded Claims.

Nearly 200 families are worthy of monthly aid to maintain themselves throughout the winter and to keep their horses and live stock to start anew next spring. Then again there are others who are more comfortably situated and who are well able to carry their own losses, but some of these people have been loud in their protests of the manner of distribution of the aid so far extended. They apparently think they should be paid for their losses outright, regardless of the justification of their claims.

Will Investigate Carefully.

Over 50,000 acres of land were so badly inundated last summer that in many cases the people lost everything they had but the clothing on their backs. It is these people who must be cared for throughout the winter and given a start again next spring. Lists are being prepared for Mr. Laird's use and the distribution of such aid as the state may give will be only after careful analysis of the demands therefor have been made.

Immediately following the floods the Northern Division of the Red Cross sent representatives to the flooded section and started to render aid to the unfortunate settlers, and since then has distributed about $4,000 in Marshall county alone. A similar amount will probably be sent shortly by the Red Cross in Roseau county.

Many Already Helped.

In addition to the work of the Red Cross the county agents of Marshall county have been distributing aid to those who are in most urgent need thereof. The commissioners of that county appropriated the sum of $20,000 shortly after the flood for relief and the action was legalized by the special session of the state legislature.

Many Will be Helped.

However, these sums will not last but a few weeks more and then the state aid will have to be drawn upon. It is for this purpose that Mr. Laird was named as appraiser and he had the preliminary meeting here Monday night to devise ways and means of ascertaining just what aid it would be necessary to distribute. The county agents are preparing for Mr. Laird a card index list of all those who are considered to be in need of this aid and on the complete data being assembled next week, he will lay the matter before the governor, state treasurer and state auditor, who comprise the State Board of Relief, and undoubtedly a certain sum will shortly be available to distribute among those who are in need of clothing or food for their families and livestock to the end that they may be able to get through the winter and start anew in the spring.

HOLIDAY PROGRAM OF WOMAN'S CLUB

MEN ARE PARTICULARLY INVITED TO BE PRESENT ON DEC. 15.

The meeting of the Woman's club held at the commercial club rooms last Monday afternoon was one of the best of the season. The attendance was very good and the program most pleasing. Particularly is this true of the paper on "Community Service" presented by Mrs. L. G. Larsen, the text of which appears in another part of The Times today. The remarks of Mrs. J. H. Hardesty under the head of General Club Notes were interesting and timely.

The next meeting will be held on Monday, Dec. 15 at the club rooms. This is a special session to which the men of the city are particularly invited and will be held in the evening instead of in the afternoon as usual. The general program will be in charge of the musical section of the organization and will be of the usual high order.

A matter of more than usual importance will be the discussion of the community Christmas program celebration. The club requests all other organizations to assist in making the affair the greatest of its kind ever attempted. There will be reports from those who have had this matter in charge and a general line of procedure will be outlined for all.

Drug Store Moved.

Roy Lambert is this week moving his drug store into the section of the Scandia block formerly occupied by the Cronstrom grocery store. The place has been refitted and remodeled throughout, a beautiful new front installed and the appearance of the premises generally improved. When everything is in place Mr. Lambert will have one of the best locations in the city.

Work of remodeling the room vacated by Mr. Lambert will be begun at once. The First and Peoples' State bank people, owners of the block, will make a number of decided changes in the place before finally occupying it. The entire front will be removed and replaced by one of colonial design. An addition will be added to the rear of the building to contain the vault and a number of other changes made.

TAKES OUTPUT OF COIN BOX FACTORY

TWIN CITY CONCERN WILL BE DISTRIBUTING AGENT FOR LOCAL PRODUCT

The Times Printing and Manufacturing company this week entered into an agreement with St. Paul parties for the handling of all sales of the Lonson coin box, of which the local concern is the patent owner and manufacturer.

The demand for these boxes has become so great that a general shipping point more central than Thief River Falls has become a necessity. The utility is one used by banks particularly and by large business institutions generally. Since the first box was put on the market some five years ago it has steadily grown in favor, being at present shipped to every state in the Union. It provides a more modern and improved method for handling, storing and shipping coins and is something that found a market ready as soon as launched.

The boxes will be manufactured in Thief River Falls the same as heretofore but will be sent to St. Paul in car lots and distributed to the trade from that point.

A GREAT HELP TO LOCAL CHARITIES

Ever since its organization seven years ago the Elks lodge of this city has produced annually some event which would allow all the people of the city to aid the members in performing their Christmas charities. During this time the constant endeavor has been to give the public an entertainment that would be worth many times the price of admission. All of the proceeds have been used in charitable work.

This year the Elks have combined with the Community Girls in producing one of the best stage successes of recent years, "A Pair of Sixes." This funniest of all farces will be presented by the best local talent obtainable, under the guidance and direction of Mrs. Pitkin. It will be staged at the Auditorium on the night of December 12. The prices for seats, 50c, 75c and $1.00, are so low that everyone in the city should certainly attend this splendid production.

YOUNGSTER TAKES ICY BATH IN RIVER

GETS OUT WITHOUT ASSISTANCE BUT DOES NOT HIMSELF KNOW HOW.

Going thru the ice in the deepest part of Red Lake river in mid-winter, getting out all by himself and apparently none the worse for his experience is the record made last week by Allan, the nine-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. L. D. McAdams.

The youngster was playing on the ice in the neighborhood of the Soo railroad bridge. At this point a vast amount of snow has been dumped by the train crews, this surplus having been taken from about the depots and around the yards. It is a very handy place to get rid of the stuff. The weight, however, must have proven too great, with the result that the ice under the pile gave way. Young McAdams happened to be in the neighborhood and must have stepped into the snow drift with the result that it gave way, letting him down to his neck into the icy water. He scrambled out somehow—he does not know how he accomplished it—and made for home, a very chilly boy.

If he went thru and into the river his escape was remarkable. The probabilities are, however, that the weight of the snow lowered the ice to such an extent that the water ran over the surface to a depth sufficient to immerse a nine-year-old boy and that the bottom still remained solid. However that may be, the incident should prove a warning to keep away from the railroad bridge. There are plenty of other places on the river for boys to amuse themselves.

FARLEY TALKS TO MERCHANTS HERE TONIGHT

LATEST IDEAS IN RETAIL MERCHANDISING TO BE THROWN ON SCREEN.

LECTURE WITH PICTURES

W. H. Farley, expert lecturer, brought to this city by the Merchants' association, will give his lecture together with moving picture and stereopticon slides at the Commercial club rooms tonight at 8 o'clock.

Invitations have been extended to merchants and their clerks in towns surrounding Thief River Falls and it is thought there will be a large outside attendance. There is no charge whatsoever.

The retail merchandising film, "Troubles of a Merchant and How to Stop Them," which has been prepared by The National Cash Register company, is declared to be one of the most comprehensive expositions of the reason for retail business failures ever prepared, and has been shown before commercial bodies, conventions and other organizations the country over. This feature film which will be shown for the first time in Thief River Falls has been prepared by the Essanay people for The National Cash Register company at a cost of approximately $30,000. Expert actors were employed for every character and it is said that every scene contains a lesson for retail merchants and their salespeople.

W. H. FARLEY

Advertising Ideas.

By means of stereopticon slides, the lecture deals with the value of advertising to the merchant, tells him how to prepare advertisements, and also explains in detail the best methods of window display, how to solve delivery problems, perfect a store organization and other interesting ideas.

Grocer Discouraged.

The film tells the story of Mr. White, grocer, who was discouraged and disheartened because of his lack of success. The story shows the indifference of his clerks, his bad store system, his poorly arranged stocks and other causes of his troubles. How he finally arose to success and prosperity through the introduction of modern methods into his store will be shown in the three reel film.

Many Good Ideas.

Numerous ideas of importance to merchants and clerks will be brought out during the lecture. In other communities where it has been shown, it has met with great enthusiasm. It is expected that every business man and clerk in the city will avail himself of the opportunity offered and that a large attendance will result. The lecture and pictures will bring to the merchant, clerk and professional man one of the most fascinating stories on retail merchandising and retail store efficiency ever presented.

TRIAL OF B. BACKE BEGINS AT WARREN

CHARGED WITH GRAND LARCENY ARISING FROM BANK TRANSACTIONS.

The trial of Bertil Backe, charged with grand larceny, began in the district court at Warren yesterday, before Judge Andrew Grindeland.

The charge of grand larceny against Backe arose as the result of certain business transactions made by Backe while cashier of the Farmers State bank at Holt. The case is one of long standing, and would have come up sooner had not Backe been serving in the United States army. He sailed from New York on Nov. 12, 1918, and spent a few months in France, arriving in this country again about June 2, 1919.

Attorneys Hans O. Chommie and E. M. Stanton have been retained by Backe.

END OF WORLD PREDICTED FOR PRESENT MONTH

EVENT SCHEDULED FOR DEC. 17 BUT NO GENERAL PREPARATION MADE.

LITTLE INTEREST SHOWN

AFTER THE TWELFTH OUR CITIZENS WILL CARE BUT LITTLE ANYWAY.

Every night during the past week the most gorgeous electrical displays have been observed in the skies. People who have lived in this vicinity for many years say that they have never before seen such awe-inspiring spectacles. The heavenly disturbances have been on such a vast scale as to attract the attention of leading astronomers all over the world.

Wonderful Happenings.

It is very evident that something out of the ordinary is transpiring in the universe, of which the world we live upon is such a small particle. This brings to our minds very forcibly the predictions made several weeks ago by several eminent scientists that on the 17th of December there would be such a catastrophe among the planets that our own world would be completely obliterated.

Bigger Event First.

But why worry? Even tho the end of the world is to come this month, it won't be here until the 17th, and that is five whole days after the 12th—the date on which the Elks and Community Girls present that funniest of all farces, "A Pair of Sixes." If you are one of the fortunate who are able to secure a seat for this production you will enjoy it to such an extent that a mere trifle like the end of the world being only five days away will be completely forgotten. But heed our warning. Don't wait too long to get your tickets. They are going fast. As a matter of fact the advance sale of tickets for this production bids fair to surpass anything heretofore known in this city.

LOCAL GIRL HAS NARROW ESCAPE

MISS VERA BRABENDER AMONG YOUNG PEOPLE IN ICE-BOAT ACCIDENT.

Returning at night on an iceboat after a trip on one of the lakes near Ely, five young people, among whom were Miss Vera Brabender of this city, were plunged into the icy waters as a result of the iceboat running into an opening in the lake.

News of the accident has been received here by several of Miss Brabender's friends and the young lady states they were exceedingly fortunate in escaping as luckily as they did.

According to her story the opening in the lake could not be detected on account of darkness and they hit the water all of a sudden, half a mile from shore and were forced to remain in the icy waters for 45 minutes before help reached them. Yelling at the tops of their voices for assistance, the attention of people on shore was attracted and through the use of a rope the young people were rescued. Part of the iceboat remained on top of the water, enabling the victims to hold on but when help reached them they were chilled through and their limbs were getting numb.

The many friends of Miss Brabender in the city are glad to hear she escaped, as did the others of the young folks. She is a graduate of the local high school with the '15 class and well known here. She left for Ely last fall to teach a term of school in that city. Her parents are now residing in Grand Rapids, having removed to that place from Thief River Falls about two months ago.

Another Armenian Drive.

T. H. Liden, Pennington county chairman of the Committee for Relief in the Near East, returned this week from the Twin Cities where he attended a conference of those interested in this work. A feature of the session was an address by Gen. Messop Nevton Azgapetian, an Armenian diplomat. The latter called attention to the terrible plight of his people, claiming that they did not get back to their land in time to secure any crop for the present year and are facing starvation. There are still 500,000 dependants who must be cared for if starvation is not to be their lot and it is feared that because of privations this number will be cut to 300,000 before aid can reach them. The above figures do not include 260,000 orphans left without support of any kind.

A campaign for the relief of these people will soon be announced.

JOHN AOS SELLS STOUE TO BENSON

PIONEER RESIDENT AND MERCHANT DISPOSES OF BUSINESS MONDAY.

After being in business for 19 consecutive years at the corner of Third street and Main avenue, John Aos on Monday disposed of his dry goods store to Martin Benson, who has been conducting a grocery store adjoining the Aos store for several years. The grocery store was purchased from Mr. Aos by Mr. Benson when the former decided to eliminate this department from his store and conduct a purely dry goods business.

Mr. Aos is one of the pioneer residents of Thief River Falls and is the second oldest businessman in the city, being outnumbered for the number of years in business by Rasmus Oen.

Mr. Benson is also an old resident of the city and was an employee of Mr. Aos before he went into business for himself. For the past four years he has been a member of the city council and has served faithfully during his period as a council member.

Mr. Aos will continue to make his home in the city, he stated Monday. The building and property at the corner of Third street and Main avenue is owned by Mr. Aos.

Offices Are Moved.

Two tenants of the Scandia block changed location without leaving the building this week. The Union Dentists have taken the quarters made vacant when Dr. Froehlich moved to the Citizens' building, while Attorney H. O. Chommie has moved into the rooms formerly occupied by Dr. H. G. Heiber.

MAY STOP SENDING OF GIFT PARCELS

WARNING OF CUT IN SERVICE IS SENT OUT BY DEPARTMENT.

Postmasters have received warning of the possibility of a serious cut in the postal service within a short time. Because of the shortage of coal it may be found necessary to curtail the railway service, in which case the congestion caused by Christmas parcels would be such as to practically tie up terminal offices. Fear is expressed that 50 per cent of the trains now running will have to be taken off in which case it would be a physical impossibility to take care of the enormous Christmas parcel business.

Postoffice patrons could help the office force very largely if they would mail letters and parcels oftener and earlier, says Postmaster John Morgan. The general practice is to hold all mail until just before trains leave, causing a tremendous amount of work to be done in a very short time. During rush seasons it may sometimes happen that all the mail brot in at the last minute cannot be gotten out at all, causing delay and annoyance. The liability to error is also much greater when the work has to be rushed thru in this manner. It would mean better service if the public generally would remember these things.

Hospital Notes.

The following patients entered the Physicians' hospital since last Thursday: Viola Axelson, city; Luther Loken, city; Peter Bjorken, Germantown; Mrs. O. P. Stokke, city; Merril Thomas, Middle River; Grace Bakke, St. Hilaire; Mable Malafa, city; C. Childs, Brooks; E. Grahm, Bronson.

Buys Stephen Garage.

Otto Sunsdahl, son of Ole Sunsdahl of Erie, has become part owner of a garage at Stephen. With his partner, Emil Anderson, he will engage in the automobile and general garage business in the Kittson county town. The price paid for the property was $5,000.

HEALTH BONDS AND SEALS GOING FAST

ONE RURAL DISTRICT REPORTS SALE OF 3,000 ON THE FIRST DAY

Pennington County has been asked to sell 90,000 Red Cross Christmas Seals during the 1919 campaign. The stamps sell at one cent each and should be placed on all mail sent out from now until Christmas time. The Health Bonds are sold for $5, $10, $15, $20 and $25 each to those who do not wish to have a large number of seals on hand. Each township in the county has a campaign manager who is to have charge of the campaign in his township. One rural district on the first day of the campaign reported the sale of 3,000 seals and one $25.00 health bond.

SOCIETY and Club

Hazel Cutter Married.

The following clipping, taken from the Minneapolis Journal, will prove of interest to the many residents of Thief River Falls who are well acquainted with the contracting parties:

"Some four years ago, a young man from Oregon breezed into the Sunday department of The Minneapolis Journal and asked for a job. He got it.

"A few weeks afterward, the same young man hurriedly resigned and started for the Canadian border.

Today, DeWitt Lyons Harry, son of G. Y. Harry, federal conciliator of the United States department of labor, Washington, came into The Journal office to announce that he had been married to Miss Hazel Jane Cutter, daughter of the late Marcus C. Cutter of Minneapolis, and Mrs. Dora Cutter, 3432 Second avenue south.

"Harry, after leaving The Journal, enlisted in the Twenty-seventh City of Winnipeg battalion, Canadian Infantry. He won the Distinguished Conduct Medal in the field. He was wounded three times. He went through the battles of Third Ypres, Passchaendele, Vimy Ridge, Mount Kemmel, First and Second Arras, Amiens, Drocourt-Queant switch, Cambria, Valenciennes and Mons. He was discharged on June 6 of this year.

"Harry and his bride, who was secretary to Professor J. J. Flatcher of the University of Minnesota, leave tonight for Winnipeg and then for his Portland, Ore., home. He is doing magazine work and camera work for national weekly publications."

Farewell Parties for Rev. Seltz.

The Bible Class of the German Lutheran church gave a farewell party for Rev. Seltz and family in the church basement on Friday evening of last week. Games were enjoyed and refreshments served to fifty. Rev. Seltz was presented with a purse of $10.00 as a token of regard.

On Saturday afternoon the Mesdames G. W. Booren, H. B. Roemhildt, A. P. Fox and H. W. Froehlich entertained at the home of the latter in honor of Mrs. F. J. Seltz, who is leaving the city in the near future. The event was a complete surprise to Mrs. Seltz and was in the nature of a linen shower. Yellow Chrysanthemums were used in decorating. At 5 o'clock a turkey dinner was served to over fifty ladies. Mrs. Seltz was the recipient of many useful and beautiful gifts.

The members of the German Lutheran congregation gave a banquet in the church basement on Monday evening. About one hundred were present. Hans Anton acted as toastmaster and delivered a splendid talk. Many responses were made by the various members. Rev. Seltz was given a large purse while he in turn presented each family in the congregation with a family group picture. A beautiful bouquet of two dozen roses was presented to Mrs. Seltz.

On Wednesday evening a farewell party was held at the home of Mrs. Louise Robbecke. A purse amounting to twenty-five dollars was tendered Rev. Seltz.

In Honor of Mrs. Shrapel.

Mrs. Minnie Shrapel was the honor guest at a farewell party given by the Lady Maccabees at the home of Mrs. E. B. Bakke, 428 Riverside avenue. During the evening Miss Thora Hanson rendered several vocal selections which were greatly enjoyed. Mrs. J. H. Hermanson presided at the piano. Roses and ferns formed the chief decorative feature. A very fine lunch was served at midnight. In behalf of the local chapter Mrs. Sands presented Mrs. Shrapel with a lodge pin as a token of their high esteem. About thirty ladies were present to enjoy the evening.

Legion Dance Dec. 31.

Elmer J. Eklund Post No. 117 of the American Legion will give their second dance of the season at the auditorium New Year's Eve, December 31. G. H. Husby, chairman of the dance committee, is busy arranging the affair and tickets will soon be on sale. Every detail of the dance will be looked after in an efficient manner in order to make it a success. The music will be furnished by a local orchestra.

Peterson-Brurud.

Miss Gena Peterson, daughter of O. M. Pederson, residing on a farm east of this city, was married to Millard Brurud of Neilsville on Nov. 28, at the Zion Lutheran parsonage, Rev. Geo. Larson officiating. The couple was attended by Miss Clara Gullingsrud of this city and Oliver Ankland of Neilsville. Mr. and Mrs. Brurud left on the same day for Neilsville, where they will reside on the groom's farm.

Miss Zeh Entertains.

Day-Knox.

A quiet wedding was solemnized on Thanksgiving day at the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Talley of Mavie, when their daughter, Marian, became the bride of Joseph E. Knox, son of Mrs. Agnes Knox of Forest Grove, Ore.

The ceremony was performed at high noon by Rev. R. L. Barackman, pastor of the Presbyterian church. Lohengrin's wedding march was played by Miss Grace Day, sister of the bride. The couple was unattended. The bride's gown was flesh colored crepe-de-chine and georgette crepe and she wore a corsage boquet of sweetheart roses. The house was decorated with pink and white chrysanthemums. Following the reception a three course dinner was served. Mr. and Mrs. Knox left on the flier for Hill City, Minn., and will be at home at Denton, Mont., after March 1, 1920.

The bride is from Pembina county, North Dakota, while the groom is from Pennington county. Mr. and Mrs. Anton Carlson and Mr. and Mrs. Carl E. Carlson were witnesses.

Corns Come Off Like Banana Peel

"Gets-It" Leaves Toe Smooth As Your Palm. Never Fails.

Ever peel off a banana skin? Well, that's the way "Gets-It" peels off any corn or callus. It's a picnic. Nothing else in the world will do it

"2 Drops of 'Gets-It,' Good-bye Corns!" but "Gets-It" because of the new secret principle in the "Gets-It" formula. "Gets-It" does away forever with "contraptions," "wrappy" plasters, ointments that rub off, blood-letting knives, and scissors that snip into the "quick." "Gets-It" [illegible] a pain. It takes but a second [illegible] to use "Gets-It." There's no [illegible] or trouble. It dries immediately. You put your stocking right back on again. Your corn will come off painlessly in one complete piece. That's common-sense. It never fails. "Gets-It," the only sure, guaranteed, money-back corn-remover, costs but a trifle at any drug store. M'f'd by E. Lawrence & Co., Chicago, Ill.

Sold in Thief River Falls and recommended as the world's best corn remedy by J. P. Curtis and Lambert's Drug Stores.

Opening of TOYLAND

There are wondrous sight in this bright land;
The children come in a joyful band,
To tell Old Santa each heart's desires,
And choose from the Toys what one admires.
There's a Doll for Jill, whose big brown eyes,
Will dance with joy when she sees this prize.
And a buggy too—well, my goodness me!
How happy some girlie is going to be.
I can hear Jack now, with rum-tum-tum,
Leading the p'rade with that bright red Drum.
And any day it happens to rain,
There's fun indoors with this 'lectric Train;
In Noah's Ark you are sure to find
All birds and Beasts you can bring to mind.
There are Sleds and Skates for hill and pond
On days Jack Frost waves his magic wand.
To help wee folks learn their A B C's,
These Books and Blocks have pictures that please.
There are Boats to sail and Engines to toot,
Cork loaded Guns that go pop! when you shoot.
I'm sure you will find any Toy you wish
From Rocking Horses to celluloid Fish,
For Toyland is crowded with all of those things
That keep children SO GOOD!—they almost grow wings;
Old Santa himself will be waiting to hear
The hopes and desires of each little dear.
So have mama bring you as soon as can be,
To pick out the things for your own Christmas Tree.

A SERIOUS SITUATION.

While merchants in all lines of business are having trouble in securing stocks, it begins to look as if the newspaperman would be up against it the hardest. His situation is also very different from that of most people. When his supply of paper is cut off he is through. There is no substitute. He cannot miss an issue without practically putting himself out of business.

Unless some relief is fortheoming quickly hundreds of small papers will have to suspend publication. The Publishers' Auxiliary, a leading trade journal for newspaper men, last week sent inquiries to paper houses in many cities of the country and was advised that stocks on hand would supply the different sections not longer than 30 days at the most. This applies to papers using flat stock, the situation being somewhat better for those using rolls.

Wholesalers refuse to quote prices at all and will not promise delivery at any certain time. None are soliciting orders for news stock and only offer to do the best they can under the circumstances.

The large dailies are having almost as interesting a time as the smaller papers. In the case of the former, however, the situation is not so serious as they are able to get a certain amount of stock by paying the price for it. Their advertising rates are made to conform to the higher cost and the ultimate consumer foots the bill. Very few weeklies are in a position to do this without seriously impairing their revenue, but will have to come to it sooner or later. Things have gotten to a point where it is simply impossible for them to continue under the old rates, and in some cases it will be impossible for them to keep going no matter what the rate is because of their inability to secure paper.

One of the most important industries in the country is being crippled and many men will face financial ruin unless the situation changes for the better. There is seemingly nothing that a publisher can do to protect himself. He is absolutely at the mercy of the paper mill owners.

BUY CHRISTMAS SEALS.

The Red Cross Christmas Seal campaign is on. Minnesota is expected to raise a quarter of a million dollars through the sale of these little tuberculosis fighters and will, as usual, go over the requirements.

The purpose of these seals has become so well known that it is almost a disgrace to send a letter or parcel out during the campaign without attaching one thereto. It means so little to the sender and so much in the aggregate; the plan offers everyone such an easy opportunity to help along one of the most important undertakings ever launched, and the results are so certain that the person who neglects to buy a supply of seals and use them is acting the part of a slacker in the most important war in which humanity has ever engaged.

Get a supply of these little stickers and use them on everything.

HEED THE WARNING.

There are only about seventeen shopping days left before Christmas. These will be busy days at all stores handling holiday goods, the windup coming with the usual rush. To avoid disappointment and save worry the careful shopper will make selections now. The stores of Thief River Falls never began the season with a larger or finer line of appropriate wares, but the demand is going to be great and the probabilities are that there will be a shortage long before Christmas.

This is a matter of less importance to the merchant than to the public generally. It does not make a great deal of difference to him whether he sells his goods now or on Christmas eve so far as the purely business part of the transaction is concerned. But he has other things to consider. He dislikes very much to have customers call for something he cannot furnish and cannot get. He knows that when his present supplies are gone the chances for getting more in time to do any good are very slim, even though he is able to get them at all, which is doubtful. It is almost entirely to prevent disappointment on the part of the public that he urges early buying.

Then there are the clerks to consider. For about two weeks just before Christmas they work harder than at any other time of year. The last few days in a busy store are decidedly strenuous, even under the most favorable conditions, and toward the end of the season the salespeople cannot give to each individual purchaser the attention possible at an earlier date. Furthermore, when Christmas comes these servants are so played out that they can find no joy in the occasion.

By shopping early you will be protecting yourself, assisting the merchant and making life easier for the clerks.

ONE WAY TO HELP.

It is the intention of the Elks and Community Girls that no family in Thief River Falls shall get by without realizing that Christmas is here this year. They have taken upon themselves the responsibility of seeing that there shall be no actual want anywhere within the confines of the city on that one day at least, having also provided a little something besides actual necessities, especially for the children.

This kind of thing takes money and instead of getting it by the usual method of solicitation these two organizations are going to give a show. There is no need for our telling you that it will be a good show. The Elks and Community Girls couldn't put on any other kind if they tried.

"A Pair of Sixes" is the title of the piece. From what we are able to learn the girls will be in charge of the actual presentation, the Elks acting as fiscal agents and general boosters. The latter have charge of all the adevrtising and other preliminary work, part of the proceeds going toward the charities in which they are particularly interested.

It is going to cost a dollar to go to this show, but it will be worth twice that amount. An appeal for patronage could be made on the merit of the performance itself, but when the purpose is also considered it should prove well nigh irresistable. It is not often that an attraction can pack our big auditorium to the doors, but then again occasions such as that scheduled to take place on the 12th are of rare occurance and the capacity of the place should be tested.

THE FIRST GUN.

The first gun in the 1920 presidential campaign was fired on Tuesday when the South Dakota Republican convention endorsed Gen. Leonard Wood for president. President Wilson was endorsed by the Democrats. It was pointed out that even if the President refused to again become a candidate it would leave the field open for further indorsecmnt at the convention in March.

Col. Wood has been the most active among the Republican aspirants and the action of South Dakota is not surprising. He has many supporters in this section of the country and other states will no doubt declare for him later on. Being early in the field does not signify much when it comes to presidential selections, however, and any number of things may happen before the national conventions next July. Among the most likely are that neither Wood nor Wilson will be the men finally decided upon.

Card of Thanks.

We wish to take this means of expressing our sincere thanks to the Pennington county members of the American Legion post for naming the organization after our beloved son and brother—Elmer J. Eklund, who was killed while fighting for his country in France in July, 1918. We regard the naming of the Post in his name a great honor to us and we appreciate it in every sense of the word. —Anton Eklund and Family.

Thief River Co-Operative Creamery Association

TEN AND 20 YEARS AGO

Twenty Years Ago.

There was just enough snow in northern Minnesota to make the ground white for Thanksgiving.

The first final proof of homestead land on the reservation northeast of Bemidji was made at the land office in Crookston. The tract was opened to settlement in May, 1896. The homesteader sold the timber on his claim for $3,300 cash.

Loggers faced an unusual expense by reason of the low water in the river. Instead of being able to send supplies to the lumber woods by boat they were compelled to take them in by team, a process being vastly more expensive.

Mrs. Milton Forder of Rollis was here on a visit to the family of her daughter, Mrs. E. E. Zeh.

The river froze over during the night of Dec. 2. This was the latest freeze-up recorded in years.

There was a fight between a number of white men and Indians at the point, the rumpus being caused by too much poor whiskey. The U. S. Marshal was expected to investigate the matter.

Ten Years Ago.

Dennis Kavanaugh purchased the lots just east of the Soo cafe and announced his intention of erecting thereon a modern business block.

H. Fant, the original owner of the Thief River Falls telephone system, was in the city calling on old friends for a couple of days.

Mrs. J. B. Smith sustained a badly bruised shoulder when falling on the icy sidewalk near her home.

At a meeting of citizens the expression against granting a franchise to the Northwestern Telephone company was unanimous.

One business man was offering to sell 18 pounds of granulated sugar for $1 with every $5 order of other goods.

A concert by the Thief River Falls band was one of the events promised for the holidays. The organization had 28 members.

Fire did damage amounting to $13,000 at Plummer when the general store of J. C. Schmitt was destroyed.

The Most Interesting Part of a Newspaper

(Crookston Times.)

Much as the editor would like to have his readers feel that the editorial column is the best part of the paper, strict regard for the truth compels him to state that it is not. Perhaps the most useful, informative and interesting part of the paper, day by day, week by week and year by year, in its advertising.

Experiments have often been tried with adless papers. They never worked. People do not want to read adless papers. This is particularly true of women, who are the purchasing agents for the family corporations.

But it is also true of the man who wants a better job, and the man who wants a more skillful employee. It is true of the woman who wants to know the most advantageous way to purchase a new suit for herself or linoleum for the kitchen, and it is true of the man who is thinking of substituting a course in physical training for cocktails as an appetizer. It is true of the student who wants to know when she can hear good music, and of the young man who wants to know what show to take his girl to.

It is true of the man who is ready to buy a big, powerful automobile or tractor; it is true of the young couple who are only beginning to think of the time when they can invest in an ancient flivver.

It is true of economists who want to know the state of the labor market; and of builders and ministers and small boys.

Art, manufacturers, human interest, science, invention, thrift, fire-prevention, education, religion, old clothes, are all recorded in the advertising pages. Dig up the files of thirty years ago and compare them with those of today. Human progress is there writ large for him who runs to read.

Papers without advertising would be dull indeed.

Want to be Americans; Boleslaw Szymanski Files

The season for new Americans in Pennington county has opened.

On Wednesday of last week Boleslaw Szymanski, farmer, residing near Hazel, came in and filed his petition with Clerk of Court Eklund for the naturalization hearing that is to be held at the court house February 27, 1920, before R. K. Doe, naturalization officer. Szymanski arrived in the United States November 8, 1907, and was a former subject of Emperor Nicholas II before his overthrow, but in his petition Szymanski renounced all allegiance to the newly formed Republic of Poland. T. G. Rome and Martin Hyland, both of Hazel, are witnesses for Szymanski.

Evern O. Watne, farmer, of Eric, Christopher S. Larsen, and Christian Arneson, both of Thief River Falls, also have filed their petitions with Clerk Eklund, for the hearing on February 27. All three of these men came from Norway to the land of their choice.

Anyone taking out citizenship papers must have resided in the United States for five years and in the state one year before petitions can be filed.

Turn Country School Grounds Into Parks

(Minneapolis Journal.)

As good roads systems grow and tourists travel increases, the demand arises for wayside resting places where travelers may refresh themselves or camp for the night. Already many neighborhoods, with commendable foresight, are preparing such accommodations, setting aside groves or planting with this end in view.

The evolution of the rural school offers a rare opportunity for the establishment of such roadside parks. Within the next twenty years, if due progress is made in school consolidation, nearly all one-room country schoolhouses will be closed, and the little plots of land on which they stand will be available for other purposes.

Here are roadside parks, or park sites, to be had for the taking, from four to eight in every township, the most of them well located, partially planted and supplied with wells. A little more planting now, and a fair degree of cultivation, will make of these abandoned school sites, the very roadway parks the new highway system is demanding.

CITIZENS STATE BANK
Resources over Three Quarters of a Million

A Good Indication

A MEMBER of this firm was stopped on the street by a young man the other day with the request that an estimate be made for him and a friend as to the approximate cost of building a home in the spring. Both these young men were tired of renting and had decided to own their own home.

This young man did not know that it is part of our business to render assistance in such cases. He figured that our sole purpose was the selling of lumber. He was shown that it is a pleasure for us to be consulted in matters of this kind even tho nothing nothing comes of it finally. It shows that people living in the city are beginning to realize that paying for someone else's property is an unsatisfactory proceeding and are anxious to become owners themselves.

To such we extend every assistance. We have plans and will cheerfully make estimates as to the cost. For this service no charge is made. It is a pleasure to give aid in such laudable undertaking---and there is no obligation of any kind attached.

If we can help you---and the probabilities are that we can as we have helped a great many during the years we have been doing business in Thief River Falls---you have only to command us.

Railroad News Notes

U. S. CONTROL FOR 2 MORE YEARS ASKED

BROTHERHOOD OF ENGINEMEN WANTS GOVERNMENT TO HANDLE ROADS.

Continuance for at least two years of government control and operation of the railroads was urged by Timothy Shea, acting president of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers and Firemen, in an address at the annual dinner last Friday night in New York of the Academy of Political Science. He asserted that to hurry the railroads back to private ownership would "be a public calamity."

Shea spoke for four railroad brotherhoods, the allied shopcrafts and the American Federation of Labor. Alluding to the anti-strike provisions in the Cummins bill, he asserted the "sword of treachery" can be seen beyond.

"The chief executives of the railway labor organizations," he declared, "have become convinced—and their conclusions are based on active evidence—that the pending anti-strike legislation is the indirect outcome of a conspiracy to reduce the wages of railroad employes below their present inadequate levels."

Conductor Dies Suddenly.

Harry Brengman of Crookston, conductor for the Great Northern and well known in this city, died suddenly late Saturday on a freight train of which he was in charge, between Ebro and Fosston. The cause of his demise was heart failure and he was 32 years of age.

The deceased is survived by a wife and three small children, two girls and one boy, the oldest of whom is eight years and the youngest five. Mrs. William Lobb, a sister, also resides in Crookston.

Brengman could not be placed under the care of a physician. He died before the train reached Fosston.

Mr. Brengman formerly held a freight run out of Crookston to this city and is well known here by many railroad employees. Funeral services were held yesterday afternoon from the First Methodist church, Rev. L. V. Stiles, officiating.

G. N. to Move Tracks.

The state railroad and warehouse commission last week granted the Great Northern railroad permission to remove its tracks and passenger and freight stations from the village of Hibbing, to carry out the project of moving the village of Hibbing to Alice so the iron ore underlying the village can be mined.

Because of the immense value of the property lying within Hibbing's city limits and the corresponding taxes accruing, Hibbing has been called "the richest little village in the world."

The Great Northern started using the Mesaba railroad tracks in coming into Hibbing last week.

Sept. Profits $3,391,419.

Net profits derived by the government from operation of the railroads in September were $3,391,419, according to the final figures for the month made public the latter part of last week by the railroad administration. The net operating income was $77,744,395, while the government guarantee aggregated $74,352,978.

Operating revenue totaled $492,442,654, an increase of $9,765,687 over the same month a year ago. Operating expenses increased to $393,854,580, or $28,931,647 higher than September, 1918.

Legislation to Reduce Cost of Living Urged on Congress by the President

WILSON URGES BUDGET SYSTEM

President Asks Tax and Tariff Revision In Annual Message To Congress.

TREATY VIEWS LATER

Railroad Situation Also to Be Discussed In Future Message—Curbs On Radical and Mounting Costs Are Asked.

Following is the full text of President Wilson's message to the Sixty-sixth congress:

I sincerely regret that I cannot be present at the opening of this session of the Congress. I am thus prevented from presenting in as direct a way as I could wish the many questions that are pressing for solution at this time. Happily, I have had the advantage of the advice of the heads of the several executive departments who have kept in close touch with affairs in their detail and whose thoughtful recommendations I earnestly second.

In the matter of the railroads and the readjustment of their affairs growing out of federal control, I shall take the liberty at a later day of addressing you.

Budget System Urged.

I hope that Congress will bring to a conclusion at this session legislation looking to the establishment of a budget system. That there should be one single authority responsible for the making of all appropriations and that appropriations should be made not independently of each other, but with reference to one single comprehensive plan of expenditure properly related to the nation's income, there can be no doubt. I believe the burden of preparing the budget must, in the nature of the case, if the work is to be properly done and responsibility concentrated instead of dividend, rest upon the executive. The budget so prepared should be submitted to and approved or amended by a single committee of each House of Congress and no single appropriation should be made by the Congress, except such as may have been included in the budget prepared by the executive or added by the particular committee of Congress charged with the budget legislation.

Another and not less important aspect of the problem is the ascertainment of the economy and efficiency with which the moneys appropriated are expended. Under existing law the only audit is for the purpose of ascertaining whether expenditures have been lawfully made within the appropriations. No one is authorized or equipped to ascertain whether the money has been spent wisely, economically and effectively. The auditors should be highly trained officials with permanent tenure in the Treasury department, free of obligations to, or motives of consideration for this or any subsequent administration and authorized and empowered to examine into and make report upon the methods employed and the results obtained by the executive departments of the government. Their reports should be made to the Congress and to the Secretary of the Treasury.

I trust that the Congress will give immediate consideration to the problem of future taxation. Simplification of the income and profit taxes has become an immediate necessity. These taxes performed indispensable service during the war. They must, however, be simplified, not only to save the tax payer inconvenience and expense, but in order that his liability may be made certain and definite.

Income Tax Revision Sought.

With reference to the details of the [illegible]venue law, the Secretary of the Treasury and the Commissioner of Internal Revenue will lay before you for your consideration certain amendments necessary or desirable in connection with the administration of the law—recommendations which have my approval and support. It is of the utmost importance that in dealing with this matter the present law should not be disturbed so far as regards taxes for the calendar year 1920, payable in the calendar year 1921. The Congress might well consider whether the higher rates of income and profit taxes can in peace times be effectively productive of revenue and whether they may not, on the contrary, be destructive of business activity and productive of waste and inefficiency.

There is a point at which in peace times high rates of income and profit taxes discourage energy, remove the incentive to new enterprise, encourage extravagant expenditures and produce industrial stagnation with consequent unemployment and other attendant evils.

America Creditor Now.

Before the war America was heavily the debtor of the rest of the world and the interest payments she had to make to foreign countries on American securities held abroad, the expenditures of American travelers abroad and the ocean freight charges she had to pay others, about balanced the value of her pre-war favorable balance of trade. During the war America's ports have been greatly stimulated, and increased prices have increased their value. On the other hand, she has purchased a large proportion of the American securities previously held abroad, has loaned some $9,000,000,000 to foreign governments, and has built her own ships. Our favorable balance of trade has thus been greatly increased and Europe has been deprived of the means of meeting it heretofore existing. Europe can have only three ways of meeting the favorable balance of trade in peace times; by imports into this country of gold or of goods, or by establishing new credits. Europe is in no position at the present time to ship gold to us nor could we contemplate large further imports of gold into this country without concern.

America "Greatest Capitalist."

The time has nearly passed for international governmental loans and it will take time to develop in this country a market for foreign securities. Anything therefore which would tend to prevent foreign countries from settling for our exports by shipments of goods into this country could only have the effect of preventing them from paying for our exports and therefore of preventing the exports from being made. The productivity of the country greatly stimulated by the war must find an outlet by exports to foreign countries and any measures taken to prevent imports will inevitably curtail exports, force curtailment of production, load the banking machinery of the country with credits to carry unsold products and produce industrial stagnation and unemployment. If we want to sell, we must be prepared to buy. Whatever therefore, may have been our views during the period of growth of American business concerning tariff legislation we must now adjust our own economic life to a changed condition growing out of the fact that American business is full grown and that America is the greatest capitalist in the world.

No policy of isolation will satisfy the growing needs and opportunities of America. The provincial standards and policies of the past, which have held American business as if in a straight-jacket, must yield and give way to the needs and exigencies of the new day in which we live, a day full of hope and promise for American business if we will but take advantage of the opportunities that are ours for the asking. The recent war has ended our isolation and thrown upon us a great duty and responsibility. The United States must share the expanding world market. The United States desires for itself only equal opportunity with the other nations of the world and that through the process of friendly co-operation and fair competition the legitimate interests of the nations concerned may be successfully and equitably adjusted.

Soldier Relief Advocated.

"We must see to it that our returning soldiers are assisted in every practicable way to find the places for which they are fitted in the daily work of the country. This can be done by developing and maintaining upon an adequate scale the admirable organization created by the Department of Labor and placing men seeking work; and it can also be done, in at least one very great field, by creating new opportunities for individual enterprise. The Secretary of the Interior has pointed out the way by which returning soldiers may be helped to find and take up the land in the hitherto undeveloped regions of the country which the federal government has already prepared or can readily prepare for cultivation and also on many of the cut over and neglected areas which lie within the limits of the older states; and I once more take the liberty of recommending very urgently that his plans shall receive the immediate and substantial support of the Congress."

Dyestuff Protection Urged.

In the matter of tariff legislation, I beg to call your attention to the statements contained in my last message urging legislation with reference to the establishment of the chemical and dyestuffs industry in America.

Among the industries to which special consideration should be given is that of the manufacture of dyestuffs and related chemicals. Our complete dependence upon German supplies before the war made the interruption of trade a cause of exceptional economic disturbance. The close relation between the manufacture of dyestuffs, on the one hand, and of explosives and poisonous gasses, on the other, moreover, has given the industry an exceptional significance and value. Although the United States will gladly and unhesitatingly join in the program of international disarmament, it will nevertheless be a policy of obvious prudence to make certain of the successful maintenance of many strong and well-equipped chemical plants. The German chemical industry, with which we will be brought into competition, was and may well be again; a thoroughly knit monopoly capable of exercising a competition of a peculiarly insidious and dangerous kind.

Farmers' War Work Praised.

"During the war the farmer performed a vital and willing service to the nation. By materially increasing the production of his land he supplied America and the Allies with the increased amounts of food necessary to keep their immense armies in the field. He indispensably helped to win the war. But there is now scarcely less need of increasing the production in food and the necessaries of life. I ask the Congress to consider means of encouraging effort along these lines. The importance of doing everything possible to promote production along economical lines, to improve marketing, and to make rural life more attractive and healthier, is obvious. I would urge approval of the plans already proposed to the Congress by the Secretary of Agriculture, to secure the essential facts required for the proper study of this question, through the proposed enlargement programs for farm management studies and crop estimates.

Attention Called To Unrest.

I would call your attention to the widespread condition of political restlessness in our body politic. The causes of this unrest while various and complicated, are superficial rather than deep seated. Broadly, they arise from or are connected with the failure on the part of our government to arrive speedily at a just and permanent peace permitting return to normal conditions, from the transfusion of radical theories from seething European centers pending such delay, from heartless profiteering resulting in the increase of the cost of living, and lastly from the machinations of passionate and malevolent agitators. With the return to normal conditions this unrest will rapidly disappear. In the meantime it does much evil. It seems to me that in dealing with this situation Congress should not be impatient or drastic but should seek rather to remove the causes. It should endeavor to bring our country back speedily to a peace basis with ameliorated living conditions under the minimum of strictions upon personal liberty that is consistent with our reconstruction problems. And it should arm the federal government with power to deal in its criminal courts with those persons who by violent methods would abrogate our time-tested institutions. With the free expression of opinion and with the advocacy of orderly political change, however fundamental, there must be no interference, but towards passion and malevolence tending to incite crime and insurrection under guise of political evolution there should be no leniency. Legislation to this end has been recommended by the attorney general and has been enacted. In this direct connection I would call your attention to my recommendations on August 8th, pointing out legislative measures which would be effective in controlling and bringing down the present cost of living which contributes so largely to this unrest. Only one of these recommendations has the Congress acted. If the government's campaign is to be effective it is necessary that the other steps suggested should be acted on at once.

Continued Food Control Asked.

I renew and strongly urge the necessity of the extension of the present food control act as to the period of time in which it shall remain in operation. The Attorney General has submitted a bill providing for an extension of this act for a period of six months. As it now stands it is limited in operation to the period of the war and becomes inoperative upon the formal proclamation of peace. It is imperative that it should be extended at once. The Department of Justice has built up extensive machinery for the purpose of enforcing its provisions; all of which must be abandoned upon the conclusion of peace unless the provisions of this act are extended.

During this period the Congress will have an opportunity to make similar, permanent provisions and regulations with regard to all goods destined for interstate commerce and to exclude them from interstate shipment, if the requirements of the law are not complied with. Some such regulation is imperatively necessary. The abuses that have grown up in the manipulation of prices by withholding of foodstuffs and other necessaries of life cannot otherwise be effectively prevented. There can be no doubt of either the necessity or the legitimacy of such measures.

As I pointed out in my last message, publicity can accomplish a great deal in this campaign. The aims of the government must be clearly brought to the attention of the consuming public, civic organizations and state officials, who are in a position to lend their assistance to our efforts.

You have made available funds with which to carry on this campaign, but there is no provision in the law authorizing their expenditure for the purpose of making the public fully informed about the efforts of the government. Specific recommendation has been made by the Attorney General in this regard. I would strongly urge upon you its immediate adoption, as it constitutes one of the preliminary steps to this campaign.

Cold Storage Curbs Requested.

I also renew my recommendation that the Congress pass a law regulating cold storage as it is regulated, for example, by the laws of the state of New Jersey, which limits the time during which goods may be kept in storage, prescribe the method of disposing of them if kept beyond the permitted period and require that goods released from storage shall in all cases bear the date of their receipt. It would materially add to the serviceability of the law, for the purpose we now have in view, if it were also prescribed that all goods released from storage for interstate shipment should have plainly marked upon each package the selling or market price at which they went into storage. By this means the purchaser would always be able to learn what profits stood between him and the producer or the wholesale dealer.

We should formulate a law requiring a federal license of all corporations engaged in interstate commerce and embodying in the license, or in the conditions under which it is to be issued, specific regulations designed to secure competitive selling and prevent unconscionable profits in the method of marketing. Such a law would afford a welcome to effect other much needed reforms in the business of interstate shipment and in the methods of corporations which are engaged in it, but for the moment I confine my recommendation to the object immediately in hand, which is to lower the cost of living.

No one who has observed the march of events in the last year can fail to note the absolute need of a definite program to bring about an improvement in the conditions of labor. There can be no settled conditions leading to increased production and a reduction in the cost of living if labor and capital are to be antagonists instead of partners. Sound thinking and an honest desire to serve the interests of the whole nation, as distinguished from the interests of a class, must be applied to the solution of this great and pressing problem.

The failure of other nations to consider this matter in a vigorous way has produced bitterness and jealousies, antagonism, the food of radicalism. The only way to keep men from agitating against grievances is to remove the grievances. An unwillingness even to discuss these matters produces only dissatisfaction and gives comfort to the extreme elements in our country which endeavor to stir up disturbances in order to provoke governments to embark upon a course of retaliation and repression. The seed of revolution is repression. The remedy for these things must not be negative in character, it must be constructive. It must comprehend the general interest. The real antidote for the unrest which manifests itself is not suppression but a deep consideration of the wrongs that beset our national life and the application of a remedy.

Congress had already shown its willingness to deal with these industrial wrongs by establishing the eight-hour day as the standard in every field of labor. It has sought to find a way to prevent child labor. It has served the whole country by leading the way in developing the means of preserving and safeguarding lives and health in dangerous industries. It must now help in the difficult task of finding a method that will bring about a genuine democratization of industry, based upon the full recognition of the right of those who work, in whatever rank, to participate in some organic way in every decision which directly affects their welfare. It is with this purpose in mind that I called a conference to meet in Washington on December 1 to consider these problems in all their broad aspects with the idea of bringing about a better understanding between the two interests.

Unrest Shows Need of Action.

The great unrest throughout the world, out of which has emerged a demand for an immediate consideration of the difficulties between capital and labor, bids us put our own house in order. Frankly, there can be no permanent and lasting settlements between capital and labor which do not recognize the fundamental concepts for which labor has been struggling through the years. The whole world gave its recognition and endorsement to these fundamental purposes in the league of nations. The statesmen gathered at Versailles recognized the fact that world stability could not be had by returning to industrial standards and conditions against which the average workman of the world had revolted.

It is, therefore, the task of the statesmen of this new day of change and readjustment to recognize world conditions and to seek to bring about, through legislation conditions that will mean the ending of age long antagonisms between capital and labor and that will hopefully lead to the building up of a comradeship which will result not only in greater contentment among the mass of workmen but also bring about a greater production and a greater prosperity to business itself.

To analyze the particulars in the demands of labor is to admit the justice of their complaint in many matters that lie at their basis. The workman demands an adequate wage, sufficient to permit him to live in comfort, unhampered by the fear of poverty and want in his old age. He demands the right to live and the right to work amidst sanitary surroundings, both in home and in workshop, surroundings that develop and do not retard his own health and well-being; and the right to provide for his children's wants in the matter of health and education. In other words, it is his desire to make the conditions of his life and the lives of those dear to him tolerable and easy to bear.

League Shows Way, He Says.

The establishment of the principles regarding labor laid down in the covenant of the league of nations offers us the way to industrial peace and conciliation. No other road lies open to us. Not to pursue this one is longer to invite enmities, bitterness and antagonisms which in the end only lead to industrial and social disaster. The unwilling workman is not a profitable servant. An employe whose industrial life is hedged about by hard and unjust conditions, which he did not create and over which he has no control, lacks that fine spirit of enthusiasm and volunteer effort which are the necessary ingredients of a great producing entity. Let us be frank about this solemn matter. The evidences of world wide unrest which manifest themselves in violence throughout the world bid us pause and consider the means to be found to stop the spread of this contagious thing before it saps the very vitality of the nation itself.

Do we gain strength by withholding the remedy? Is it not the business of statesmen to treat these manifestations of unrest which meet us on every hand as evidences of an economic disorder and to apply constructive remedies wherever necessary, being sure that in the application of the remedy we touch not the vital tissues of our industrial and economic life? There can be no recession of the tide of unrest until constructive instrumentalities are set up to stem that tide.

"Labor Not Commodity."

Governments must recognize the right of men collectively to bargain for humane objects that have at their base the mutual protection and welfare of those engaged in all industries. Labor must not be longer treated as a commodity. It must be regarded as the activity of human beings, possessed of deep yearnings and desires. The business man gives the best thought to the repair and replenishment of his machinery, so that its usefulness will not be impaired and its power to produce may always be at its height and kept in full vigor and motion.

No less regard ought to be paid to the human machine, which, after all, propels the machinery of the world and is the great dynamic force that lies back of all industry and progress. Return to the old standard of wage and industry in employment are unthinkable. The terrible tragedy of war which has just ended and which has brought the world to the verge of chaos and disaster would be in vain if there should ensue a return to the conditions of the past. Europe itself, whence has come the unrest which now holds the world at bay is an example of stand-patism in these vital human matters which America might well accept as an example, not to be followed but studiously to be avoided. Europe made labor the differential, and the price of it all is enmity and antagonism and prostrated industry. The right of labor to live in peace and comfort must be recognized by governments and America should be the first to lay the foundation stones upon which industrial peace shall be built.

Entitled to Reasonable Return.

Labor not only is entitled to an adequate wage but capital should receive a reasonable return upon its investment and is entitled to protection at the hands of the government in every emergency. No government worthy of the name can "play" these elements against each other for there is a mutuality of interest between which the government must seek to expand to safe-guard at all cost.

Right To Strike Inviolate.

The right of individuals to strike is inviolate and ought not to be interfered with by any process of government, but there is a predominant right, and that is the right of the government to protect all of its people and to assert its power and majesty against the challenge of any class. The government, when it asserts that right, seeks not to antagonize a class, but simply to defend the right of the whole people as against the irreparable harm and injury that might be done by the attempt by a class to usurp a power that only government itself has a right to exercise as a protection to all.

In the matter of international disputes which have led to war, statesmen have sought to set up a remedy arbitration for war. Does this not point the way for the settlement of industrial disputes, by the establishment of tribunal, fair and just alike to all, which will settle industrial disputes which in the past have led to war and disaster? America, witnessing the evil consequences which have followed out of such disputes between the contending forces, must not admit itself impotent to deal with these matters by means of peaceful processes. Surely, there must be some method of bringing together in a council of peace and amity these two great interests, out of which will come a happier day of peace and co-operation, a day that will make for more comfort and happiness in living and a more tolerable condition among all classes of men. Certainly human intelligence can devise some acceptable tribunal for adjusting the differences between capital and labor.

Hour of Test and Trial.

This is the hour of test and trial for America. By her prowess and strength, and the indomitable courage of her soldiers, she demonstrated her power to vindicate on foreign battlefields her conception of liberty and justice. Let not her influence as a mediator between capital and labor be weakened and her own failure to settle matters of purely domestic concern be proclaimed to the world.

There are those in this country who threaten direct action to force their will upon a majority. Russia, today, with its blood and terror, is a painful object lesson of the power of minorities.

It makes little difference what minority it is, whether capital or labor, or any other class, no sort of privilege will ever be permitted to dominate this country. We are a partnership or nothing that is worth while. We are a democracy, where the majority are the masters, or all the hopes and purposes of the men who founded this government have been defeated and forgotten. In America there is but one way by which great reforms can be accomplished and the relief sought by classes obtained, and that is through the orderly processes of representative government. Those who would propose any other method of reform are enemies of this country.

America will not be daunted by threats nor lose her composure or calmness in these distressing times. We can afford, in the midst of this day of passion and unrest, to be self contained and sure. The instrument of all reform in America is the straight road of justice to all classes and conditions of men. Men have but to follow this road to realize the full fruition of their objects and purposes. Let those beware who would take the shorter road of disorder and revolution. The right road is the road of justice and orderly process.

Coal miners in the Musselshell county field, meeting at Roundup, Montana, voted formally not to return to work, in compliance with instructions sent from Washington by District President Henry Drennan. Miners in the Carbon county region also voted not to return to work.

PUBLIC ROADS

EQUIPMENT FOR ROAD WORK

Tractors, Rollers, Concrete Mixers and Other Implements to Be Returned From France.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

At the request of the department of agriculture, the war department has ordered to be returned from France as soon as possible a large quantity of engineering equipment to be distributed by the department of agriculture, through the bureau of public roads, to the states for use in the construction and maintenance of federal aid highways. The equipment will be distributed to the states without charge, in accordance with recent legislation empowering the secretary of war to turn over to the secretary of agriculture surplus military equipment not needed for military purposes but valuable in highway construction work. The equipment will be apportioned on the basis of the allotments in the federal aid road act, in the same way that 20,000 army motortrucks are now being distributed by the bureau of public roads at the request of the state highway department.

The equipment which the secretary of war has been requested to return from France includes about 1,500 caterpillar tractors; about 400 road rollers, steam and gas driven; and a large number of concrete mixers, road graders, elevating graders, rock crushers, industrial locomotives, industrial railway track, dump cars, steam shovels, hoisting engines, electric motors, and quantities of smaller equipment.

In his letter requesting the return of this equipment the secretary of agriculture said:

"The highway construction program which the federal government and the states propose to begin immediately is the largest public undertaking contemplated in the near future. It offers an immediate field for the employment of labor and the use of materials that will help to stabilize business along a number of lines. The work has been expanded so suddenly that it has not been possible to make adequate provision for furnishing the necessary equipment, and previously all the available supply was absorbed by the demands of the war department. . . .

Traction Engines and Trains.

"I am sending you this list as a result of a conference which I have just held with the executive of the American Association of State Highway officials, at which it was represented that the various states are very anxious to secure additional equipment of the kind indicated.

"I am thoroughly in sympathy with the efforts that are being made by the war department to aid returning soldiers in securing employment, and I am convinced that, if the equipment and supplies listed are made available, it will facilitate highway construction and thereby stimulate the employment of labor."

GOOD ROADS HELP SCHOOLS

Before Improvement Average Attendance Was 66 in Eight Counties—76 Afterwards.

A survey made by the government of the effects of good road building on school attendance in eight counties shows that before the roads were improved the average school attendance was 66; with 76 after the roads were improved.

Autos Hurry Development.

The advent of the automobile in the country districts was the quickener that put the spark of life in the good roads movement.

Good Roads Demanded.

Good roads are demanded as an essential to the proper extension of national and local development.

"Big Stick" That Produces.

A live road club in a community is the "big stick" that produces good roads.

LANSKI HELD OVER TO GRAND JURY

ALLEGED WIFE DESERTER ARRAIGNED BEFORE JUDGE TARRANT MONDAY.

Adolph Lanski, brought to this city last Saturday by Sheriff LaBree from Superior, Wis., to face a charge of wife desertion, was bound over to await the action of the grand jury in February, when he was arraigned before Municipal Judge Tarrant Monday afternoon.

When asked to enter his plea, Lanski had nothing to say and upon the recommendation of County Attorney Quale he was bound over. Unable to give a bond, Attorney Quale recommended that Lanski be allowed to go upon his own recognizance for appearance before the grand jury in February.

Lanski was also told that if he supported his family between now and February and if better relations could effected in the family, recommendations would be made by the county attorney to the district court in the settling of the matter.

Social Welfare Meeting.

The Social Welfare section of the Woman's club will meet at the rooms of the Red Cross auxiliary next Monday afternoon for the purpose of sewing for the needy of the city. There is a large amount of work to be done by this branch and the women of the city are urged to be on hand. A 10 cent lunch will be served.

Quist Case Dec. 16.

The case of W. H. Quist against Olaf Thompson will come up before Judge Tarrant in Municipal court on December 16. As was announced in last week's edition, Thompson demands $30 from the plaintiff for the care of a cow during the plaintiff's absence from the city. Quist obtained possession of the cow on his return to the city recently through a writ of replevin. It appears the two men had an agreement whereby Thompson was to receive all the cream and milk from the animal for its care. When Quist came to get the cow last week Thompson demanded $30 in addition.

Oen Store Host.

The annual White House coffee demonstration and free lunch at the Oen Mercantile company's store was held last Friday and Saturday afternoons and a large number of people were served. According to advice from the large coffee factories, coffee will go much higher and many people bought large amounts of coffee at the demonstration.

The lunch consisted of sandwiches, cookies and coffee. A large sign on the wall informed the visitors that the bread was made from Viyo flour, a Thief River Falls product.

Masons to Elect.

At the regular meeting of Northern Lodge No. 208, A. F. & A. M., to be held next Monday evening, the annual election [illegible] will take place. This is one of the most important meetings of the year and it is especially desired that all members be present.

Last Parcel Day.

This is the last day Christmas parcels may be mailed for members of the American Expeditionary Forces now in England, France and Germany in order that they may be delivered to the soldiers by Christmas. The parcels must be at Hoboken, N. J. not later than December 8. The packages must not exceed seven pounds in weight nor be larger than 72 inches in length or girth combined. The words American Expeditionary Force must be written upon the package as must also the words "Christmas Parcel", together with the sender's name and address.

Don't Make Your Own.

Paul A. Hemmy of the U. S. Revenue office, Milwaukee, has issued a remarkable ruling with respect to home made wine or any other home made intoxicant. He states that under the law revenue officers can enter the home and the government can start suit to have the house and premises declared a common nuisance and sold to pay a fine which may result. A fine of from $100 to $1,000 is provided or imprisonment for from 30 days to a year.

Reason For High Clothes.

The question has been asked—"Why is the high cost of men's clothing?"

The answer was given by Fred Levy, President of the National Association of Retail clothiers:

High pay to the workers and reduced hours.

"The employers are not complaining of the high pay," he said. "Wages, however, have been increased 175 per cent since the beginning of the war. But production is far below normal. This is due to the drastic decrease in working hours demanded by the employees. Formerly they worked 54 hours a week; now it is 44 hours a week, and in New York they are asking a 44 hour week, not to mention another substantial pay increase."

Local Notes

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Case, who have been visiting at the C. M. Rolland home for the past month, left on Wednesday evening for Detroit, Minn. where they will visit for a short while with friends, after which they will be guests of the former's mother, Mrs. Elizabeth Case. At the conclusion of their visit at the latter named place they will leave for Cotter, Ark., where they will spend the winter Mr. and Mrs. S. R. Robinson ar- months. rived Saturday evening from their home in Oslo and visited at the F. H. Herrick home. Mr. Robinson returned to his home on Monday morning while Mrs. Robinson remained.

GETS HAND CAUGHT IN POWER MANGLE

GIRL NARROWLY ESCAPES LOSING ARM THROUGH HER OWN CARELESSNESS.

Miss Ellen Quirk, a young woman employed at the Evelyn hotel, sustained a badly bruised arm on Sunday forenoon when she attempted to warm her hands on a revolving mangle in the laundry of the hotel. The girl had just come in from outdoors and placed her hands on the rear side of the revolving ironing machine to warm them. She kept placing the palms against the rolls and allowed them to travel around as far as possible without getting caught before removing them and starting at the bottom again. On one trip around she permitted her fingers to remain too long with the result that her arm was dragged between the rolls. Miss Ida Bergland, in charge of the laundry, with rare presence of mind, instantly threw off the power or the probabilities are that the pinioned girl's arm would have been torn out of the socket.

The arm was pulled through in such manner that it could not be released until portions of the machine had been removed. This took some time and had the usual amount of heat been applied to the rolls at the time of the accident the result would have been most disastrous. Dr. Jacob Biederman was called and found that while the arm was badly squeezed there were no bones broken.

The mangle is protected so that it is impossible to get caught in this manner while operating it from the proper side and the accident is chargeable to pure carelessness.

CITY DADS REJECT WHITE WAY BIDS

CHANGE IN CURRENT LOOMING UP IS CAUSE FOR REJECTION BY COUNCIL.

Because of a possible change in the current in Thief River Falls—from the present 220 direct to the 110 alternating—the council last Friday evening at a regular meeting rejected the bids for White Way work to be done in the city and for the re-laying of the cable.

Bids were called for about two months ago and at a recent council meeting a delegation from the Commercial club appeared to discuss the present light and water problems, suggesting that the current be changed. As a result the council took no action on the bids, which were laid on the table. As the bids were accompanied by certified checks of $1,000, the council had to dispose of the matter. When the matter of changing the current is taken up after an engineer has gone over the work of estimating the cost and making recommendations, new bids will be called for.

Should the current be changed the White Way program will be bigger than ever, according to the engineer, who has pointed out the extra work the job will require.

Nierinze Case Dismissed.

The case of the State of Minnesota against Fred Nierinze was dismissed in Municipal court Monday afternoon, upon the recommendation of County Attorney Quale. Nierinze was arrested at Waterville, this state, by Sheriff LaBree the latter part of last week, the complaining party being Hilda Lena Kissler. The couple were united in marriage by Judge of Probate Ira Richardson Monday, which resulted in the case being dismissed.

DENTAL CLINIC FOR CHILDREN DEC. 18

STATE SPECIALISTS WILL CONDUCT FREE EXAMINATIONS AT AUDITORIUM.

A dental clinic will be held at the Auditorium in Thief River Falls on Thursday, Dec. 18, under the auspices of the Pennington County Public Health association. Specialists in the care of children's teeth are being sent out by the State Dental society for the purpose of calling the attention of parents to the danger lurking in neglect of the teeth. This is one of the most important undertakings ever launched in the state and one from which a great deal of good is bound to result. All children ranging from five years to high school age will be examined and advice given where this is found necessary.

LION IS SEEN NEAR CITY, BOY CLAIMS

P. NESS, 6 MILES SOUTHWEST OF CITY, TAKES SHOT AT ANIMAL.

A large lion, believed to have escaped from some circus or carnival, was seen by Peter Ness, residing on a farm 6 miles southwest of Thief River Falls, Monday morning.

Ness brought the news in Tuesday afternoon and also had the evidence to show that the lion had been in this vicinity by exhibiting a footprint on a large chunk of snow. Ness stated the lion ran by the farm house and he was about 9 rods from the animal when he took a shot at it with a shotgun. Frightened, the animal made off through the woods while Ness pursued on horseback, until he lost track of it. Ness stated the lion was of good size and said it was the kind usually seen with circuses and he is of the opinion that the beast escaped from some circus. The footprints on the hard snow were large and each paw showed four toes and a heel.

Ness said he was going to organize a hunting expedition and make a search for the animal.

Fair Crowd at "Olle's" Show.

The entertainment given by Olle I. Skratthult, the Swedish comedian, and his popular company at the auditorium on Monday evening was fairly well attended. The folkdances given by the Swedish National dancers of Chicago proved very interesting while Werner Noreen and Andy Granlund showed they could handle an accordeon with great skill. The players were dressed in Swedish national costumes. Olle entertained the crowd by telling jokes which evoked much laughter from the crowd.

GIRLS' CLUB, ELKS WILL STAGE PLAY

"A PAIR OF SIXES" TO BE PRESENTED ON EVENING OF DECEMBER 12.

The real big show of the early winter season will be staged on the evening of Dec. 12 at the auditorium. There have been other performances in the city lately—all of them very good—but this is going to be something altogether different. The Community Girls and the local Elks' lodge will on that date put on "A Pair of Sixes," a comedy of a strictly high order.

Both these organizations figure on taking an active part in the municipal Christmas celebration planned for the city and the proceeds from this entertainment will go toward defraying the expenses incurred in undertaking such program on a larger scale than ever before. The show proper will be in charge of the Community Girls while the preliminaries and boosting is to be looked after by the Elks. It is a winning combination and one that should produce results if anything can.

No details with the exception of selecting the date and name of the play have as yet been perfected, but both organizations have committees at work and these are overlooking nothing that is in any way calculated to help make a success of the venture.

Charged With Forgery.

Orton N. Olson was brought into Municipal court Monday afternoon on a charge of forgery in the first degree. Olson is a youth, 16 years of age, and under the 1917 laws he must be tried before a juvenile court. There being no such court in Pennington county the case was referred to Judge of Probate Ira C. Richardson. The complaining party is J. F. Condrey, of Polk county, who claimed that on July 19, 1919, Olson forged the name of Andrew M. Olson to an endorsement on a draft issued by the First National Bank of Hallock and drawn on the Central National bank of St. Paul, payable to A. M. Olson for $147.50.

In the hearing Tuesday afternoon before Judge of Probate Richardson, County Attorney Quale recommended that the lad be allowed his freedom on probation with the understanding that he is to report to the judge every three months. The court approved of this and Olson went home with his father.

MRS. W. F. DECKER WILL GIVE ADDRESS TO COMMUNITY GIRLS CLUB.

Mrs. W. F. Decker of Minneapolis, state chairman of the Young Woman's Christian association, will give an address at the Commercial club rooms next Monday evening, Dec. 8, under the auspices of the Girls Community club.

Members of the club are looking forward to the meeting with a great deal of interest and it is certain that Mrs. Decker has an important message to deliver in connection with Y. W. C. A. work.

The Girls Community club extends a hearty welcome to everyone whether they are members or not and especially the Woman's club.

SUBMIT REPORT ON HOUSING SITUATION

JOINT MEETING OF COMMERCIAL CLUB AND MERCHANTS NEXT THURSDAY.

M. V. Evenson, F. H. Herrick and Math. Barzen, the committee appointed to investigate the housing situation in Thief River Falls, will report their findings at a joint meeting of the Commercial club and Merchants' association in the club rooms next Thursday evening.

Mr. Evenson recently returned from a trip to Minneapolis during which he secured plans for an appartment house capable of accomodating some 30 families. He has the plans and specifications at hand and will present them to the members of the two organizations.

The matter of financing the erection of some such building will doubtless come up for discussion and as this is perhaps the most important feature connected with the proposed enterprise the suggestions advanced will be of great interest.

The subject is of the greatest interest and it is hoped that there will be a big turnout.

A FEW SUGGESTIONS FOR HIS CHRISTMAS

The Store of the Christmas Spirit

Christmas Shoppers---particularly those who are looking for something appropriate for the menfolks---are often at a loss in deciding just what would be most appropriate and welcome. This is especially true where ladies are the purchasers. Right here is where our experience comes to the rescue. "Women Shoppers for Men's Things" will find that at this store their position has been appreciated and and their wants anticipated. Never in our business history have we provided so liberally for the holidays. Realizing fully that this was likely to be a "Useful Gift Christmas," we stocked up heavily on articles appropriate for gifts which at the same time contain the element of utility. Presents of this kind are always the most welcome.

We urge you to buy early. While our stock is most complete now, it is certain to be low on certain lines before Christmas. It may be impossible to secure more goods of the same kind, or if they can be, at a considerable advance in price. Do your trading early, no matter where you buy, and avoid disappointment.

GIFTS for MEN

The gift supreme for a man is one of our fine Suits or Overcoats. We have them in a large variety, the latest styles and at all prices.

Hats of all descriptions, including the stylish and durable Velours.

A wide variety of the latest Neckwear.

Military Hair Brushes Smoking and Shaving Sets

Driving Gauntlets and Mittens.
The largest and finest line of Bath Robes in the city.
Pullman Slippers for travelers.
Mackinaws and Sweaters.
Shoes and Rubbers.

Hundreds of other articles both appropriate and useful. This line cannot be appreciated without an inspection. We will make you welcome.

GIFTS for BOYS

In this department we are particularly well equipped to meet the demands of the season. We carry everything in boys' wear and it is all of the best procurable.

Boys' Suits and Overcoats---a large line of wearables suitable for all occasions.

Boys' Bedroom Equipment, consisting of Blanket, Bath Robe and Slippers. A present with which any boy will be delighted. Sizes from two years up.

Shoes and Rubbers for boys of all ages.
Gloves and Mittens for every purpose.
Boys' Fancy Dress Shirts.
Appropriate Neckwear for the young man.
Sweaters in all colors. V-necks and Sweater Coats.
Boys' Caps for dress and general wear.
Children's Slippers in many designs and at all prices.
Underwear and Nightwear for the boys.

Of Special Interest

We have just received a line of genuine Sealskin Caps for men which will make an ideal present. These Caps are of the finest quality and made up in different designs. Nothing more welcome or appropriate could be selected for a gentleman and in no class of goods can greater actual value be found. Ask us to show you this line of Caps. We know they will please you.

Few things are more appreciated by men folks than a Bathrobe or a Smoking Jacket at Christmas time. We can please every fancy and suit every purse.

Buy early and avoid the disappointment almost sure to follow the putting off of this important matter. Come in now while the line is complete. Make your selection for delivery later if you wish. A small deposit will insure your getting the article decided on at the time you want it.

The High School Progress

Vol. 1. EDITED BY THE PUPILS OF THE THIEF RIVER FALLS PUBLIC SCHOOLS No. 4

The Bread Making Club.

"No—we are not dead, although many of our friends thought we were because no one had heard of us this year, but we are glad to let everyone know we are here and stronger than ever before."

Last week we re-organized and elected the officers for the following year. They are: Shirly Anderson, president; Lutrella Paulson, vice president; Lucille McGinnity, treasurer; Myrtle Myrom, secretary; Miss Rosa Taylor, advisor.

We are sixteen old members and twenty-two new members. Never in the history of the club has it been so large and we feel confident that this year we will do more than ever before.

The B. M. C. has sent representatives to the state fair for the last five years and the girls have always had the highest average which could be attained. One year our club sent six members to the fair and all the girls had an average of 93% or above.

The club is a very active organization and does many things which are of much help and value to the school. The close of each school year the club presents the school with some pieces of silver-ware which matches the set they already have.

There are great opportunities awaiting the club and we are ready to take advantage of them.

Parents' And Teachers' Association.

The Parents' and Teachers' association will meet in the high school on Thursday evening December 4th. The president and vice-persidents for the various schools met in the superintendent's office in the High School and arranged for a program. The matter of recreation for school people will be discussed. There are requests that some wholesome entertainment should be furnished for our children, in order that they will not have to be compelled to secure entertainment in questionable places.

The tendency of extending our school curriculum to meet the needs of life will also be discussed somewhat. The law under which the expansion occurs is known as the Smith-Hughes law. Something has already been said about the Smith-Hughes law, but it covers a very extensive field. It will be explained somewhat so that the people of Thief River Falls may know what it is.

Entertainment numbers will be provided by the pupils of the grades. Let us hope that a large attendance of parents and school patrons will be present.

Hot Lunches In All Schools.

This week on Monday to all the children who take their dinners in school, a hot dish was provided to be eaten with the lunch which they brought from home. The dish is being prepared by one of the restaurants in town and delivered to each building in specially constructed containers which keep the dish boiling hot. About 150 children were served the first day and they voted it a great success. The charge is to be five cents a day for each pupil. It is especially desired to furnish the dish free to all who can't pay for it. Children are not to pay by the day, but a clerk keeps record of the children served and at the end of the month the bill will be sent to the parents. If there are any that feel that they can not pay, the school board will not urge them to do so.

High School Mechanics Erecting Frame of the New Shop.

Last Thursday and Friday was vacation for the school children, but the boys enrolled in the high school mechanics course are so enthusiastic about their work that they came back on Friday and worked all day as all day Saturday, erecting the window frames and cutting timbers for the building. Only blizzards will keep these enthusiastic boys away from their work. The Smith-Hughes idea is very favorably received by these young men and it looks as though this will be a most popular feature of the local schools. In the next few years this department will draw boys from a very large surrounding territory, who will want to come here and learn in our public school the element of some trade.

Visiting Day Wednesday December 10.

Next Wednesday December 10 has been designated as visiting day in our schools. It is the wish of the teachers that every parent should visit the school to see what the teachers are doing to their children in class work. There will be no special program of and kind, but the regular daily work will be carried out, the same as on every other day, so that the visitors may have an exact sample of the kind of work being done in our schools. Wednesday, December the 10th, is the day.

Central School News.

The Geography classes in the seventh grade are studying the Panama Canal this week.

The pupils of the seventh grade grammar class have been interested in the results of the contest which was held last week. Each pupil was striving to write the best composition on "Thanksgiving." Of the four divisions Winnifred Wengler's was the best. Others whose compositions were well written were: Hilda Ness, Dale Ziegler, Liv Vistaunet, Muriel Loken, Maurice Holzknecht, Orden Ihle, Thelma Christensen, Agnes Remmem and Richard Zeh.

The eighth grade pupils had their class party last Wednesday at the Central school. The most interesting features of the entertainment were the umbrella gram, 30 yd. dash, motor race and the travel race. Refreshments consisting of cocoa, sandwiches, pickles, ice cream and cakes were served at ten o'clock.

Paper Towels Again.

It has been possible to secure paper towels again for our schools. During the war, paper was so scarce that it was necessary to use the old cloth towels. These have been discarded and paper towels installed again and liquid soap has also been provided. This will be a hard blow for the germs that have been lurking around the building.

Minnesota Health Laws.

There have been a great many inquires regarding State and School laws that have to do with contagious diseases.

The following is an extract taken from Public Health Laws of Minnesota.

A PERSON HAVING A COMMUNICABLE DISEASE AS: Anterior Polionyelities (Infantile Paralysis,) Cerebro-spinal Meningitis, Chicken Pox, Diphtheria (Laryngeal Croup; Membranous Croup), Erysipelas, Measles, Ophthalmia Neonatorum (Eye infection), Rabies (person exposed to, etc.,) Scarlet Fever (Scarlatina, Scarlet Rash,) Smallpox, Trachoma (Eye infection), Tuberculosis, Typhoid Fever, Whooping Cough.

Or any other transmissible affection, (influenza, tonsilitis, mumps, conjunctivitis, impetigo contagiosa, itch, ringworm, etc.) or a parasitic infection (lice or other vermin), or any person residing in a house which any such disease exists, or has recently existed, shall be excluded from attending any public, private, parochial, church or Sunday school, until the health officer of the sanitary district concerned shall have given his permission for such attendance.

Lula B. Saucer,
School Nurse.

High School Enrollment Reaches 421

Thirty new seats were put into the high school assembly room during the Thanksgiving vacation. It has been necessary to put the seats together in sections of three each, in order to accommodate the unusually large enrollment. The enrollment now has reached 421. Eighteen of these have for some reason or other dropped out of school since the beginning of the year. Some of the eighteen have moved out of town. That leaves an actual solid enrollment of 403 who are here every day taking work.

Special Editors To Be Chosen.

About the next issue of our high school paper will be edited by specially chosen editors, who will attempt to introduce life, snap and enthusiasm into our local page. We want to make this page more than just a chronicle of school essays. Watch for it next week.

Next Lyceum Course December 20.

The next course of our Lyceum is the Schoerer Concert Company. This company is made up of musicians from the Minneapolis Symphony Orchestra that will appear here on December 20 for the third number of our Lyceum Course.

"Thrift."

(By Agnes Oftedahl.)

"Is my money to work for me or for somebody else?"

This is a question which you and I, the average wage earner, immediately decides in his or her own favor and as quickly casts aside with the qualification: "But my living expenses are such that I have no money to put to work."

The state of mind which produces this answer is resultant from the unsystematic and unbusinesslike habit of looking at the bottom of the pay envelope for savings.

The successful man or woman is the man nor woman who has saved steadily; who has never let his or her earnings pass through his hands without "holding out" something for himself. The person who lays aside money for business ventures, is the person who takes the first dollar out of the pay envelope for himself. "What difference does it make," you say, "whether you save at the first or last of the month.?"

You decide to begin to save next month, when history repeats itself. But when you save the first dollar out of the envelope, you have the dollar; you have it to work for you, and have lost nothing that you miss.

The best motto: "Save first; spend afterward," has been chosen to keep in mind that the first dollar out of the pay envelope is never missed. Put it into War Savings and Thrift Stamps and it will increase itself without care from you.

You sow an act, and you reap a habit. You sow a habit and you reap a character. You sow a character, and you reap a destiny!

Little Thanks.

(Ethel Conklin.)

Mary dropped her pencil and exclaimed impatiently: "Wish that tiresome composition for English were written. Guess I'll read for a while and maybe I'll think of something to write."

Taking a magazine she turned its pages aimlessly. In a few minutes she hesitated and then with a half-interested air cut from a page, a word puzzle which promised to disclose a well known proverb. Listlessly she followed the directions, folding on this line and that until a queerly shaped paper lay before her. Then, behold! There, in a well formed sentence of large letters, she read: "Better do it than wish it done."

Amazedly she exclaimed to herself: "Tis as if that puzzle had been written purposely as a lesson for me. Now I know what I shall write about. I'll have 'Better do it than wish it done,' as the theme of my composition."

Having made this decision, Mary took her pencil and, thinking and writing by turns, it was not long before she had completed her work. With a sigh of relief, she read the paper and laid it away.

The composition was submitted to Miss Morris, the English instructor. Simultaneously, Mary forgot the existence of the work in the joys and cares of school life.

Several years went by. Mary went from high school through college. She worked enthusiastically and diligently, always with one aim before her. What this aim was she did not disclose until her course at college had been completed.

One day she called on Miss Morris, her former teacher and friends.

"Oh, Miss Morris," she began excitedly, "there is a vacancy in one of the city newspaper offices and that is the kind of position I have always desired. I though perhaps, that as a friends of the family, you would send a recommendation for me."

"Certainly," Miss Morris consented. "I think, however, I'll let you recommend yourself." Upon Mary's perplexed questioning, she refused to enlighten her as to the meaning of these mysterious words.

Mary secured the position and in a short time proved herself successful in the new work. She was promoted several times in a few months and at last was intrusted to one of the most responsible positions in the office.

When on a vacation to her home the following summer she again visited her friend, Miss Morris. After she had been there for some time Miss Morris asked with an amused smile: "Have you never wondered what the recommendation consisted of that I sent for your last year?"

Mary laughingly replied: Yes, I must admit I have been curious to know. You spoke so strangely that day I have never been able to understand what you were alluding to."

composition you wrote on the proverb: 'Better do it than wish it done.' At that time I laid it aside with some other papers I wished to keep. When you asked for a recommendation, I merely sent that thinking that such an example of your work so long ago would be the best recommendation possible."

An Inspiration.

(By Ethel Conklin.)

We all need the finer and better things in life, those things which so deeply impress us that the thought guides and influences our future actions. That which produces such an impression we may truthfully call an inspiration.

It was this sensation of being uplifted that we had when Miss Sanford stood before us in the high school assembly room. She, who has done so much for not only our state, but for the entire country, could not fail to endow those around her with the spirit of patriotic zeal and enterprise for which she is so honored in American hearts. Her unqualified work at the University has been of great value to the state. Besides this her unbounded work in war activities has raised admiration and respect thruout America.

The theme of her speech was the seriousness connected with high school life. She impressed all that it is in school that students prepare themselves for the future. To all she imparted the desire to be ambitious, to be able to accept the best opportunities offered. She showed the responsibilities of school life, and the necessity that these things should occupy first place. Pleasure follows duty.

She asked us all to be aware of this one fact: "You are writing your own recommendation." Her kindly words, spoken from long experience and association with human nature, should be remembered and the lesson she taught accepted. Her talk should, indeed, be an inspiration to each one of us.

"Self-Control" and "Individuality"

(Dagny Tharaldson.)

Two of the things which our high school students lack are "self-control" and "individuality." Many of the weaker ones are led by the stronger ones or "leaders," because they do not exercise self-control, and can be easily swayed. One should stand up to his ideas and prove his own individuality. For instance, at the class meeting, a subject may come up and the president asks the members what they think about it. Many sit dumbly in their seats and think: "Someone else can talk. Nobody would care what I said anyhow." Now this is a great mistake on the part of that person. If every one should think the same, where would we be? There always are certain people in the various classes, one group, there may be two or three, who always stick together, and think they are the principal ones and that the rest of the class should agree with whatever they bring up and step right into line and follow them. If more individuality were shown in our meetings, if each one would state his own ideas there would be more class spirit.

A person who exercises self-control and individuality shows it in his face. As he or she grows older, people will say: "That person has back-bone of his own—you can see it in his face."

Stick to your own ideas—don't be swayed by others too easily; develop an individuality of your own.

The Fiftieth Boy.

(Fred Erickson.)

About one boy in fifty who sees an orange peeling or banana skin on the sidewalk will kick it off to save some person from slipping and falling. Forty-nine boys will see that the blanket has slipped from a horse standing tied to a post on the street on a cold day. Forty-nine will simply see the blanket lying on the ground and the horse exposed to the cold, but the fiftieth boy will come along, pick up the blanket, and cover the horse.

It is the fiftieth boy that men are looking for. He is the boy that business houses desire for positions of trust. It is the fiftieth boy who steadily climbs the ladder of success. He gets to the top, not because he is lucky or because he has pull, but because he has had his eyes open to see the thing which ought to be done, and then goes ahead and does it without waiting to be told.

Boys with sharp eyes are always in demand. Boys who need not to be continually reminded of their tasks, are still more in demand. But the boy who is always on the lookout for a chance to do a good turn for someone else is the rarest find of all.

Each boy must decide for himself whether he will be the fiftieth boy, or simply one of the forty-nine.

What Can One Girl Do For a School.

(Anna Wedul.)

A girl can do various things to better a school. One way is to be independent.

There are altogether too many girls in school who depend upon others to do their work. In order to have a successful school we must do our own work, each and every one of us, and have it done on time.

If all of us should neglect our work any say "I'll go over to this girl and see if she has it, maybe I can get it copied from her," what would become of our school? How many would graduate when seniors?

To my opinion no one would ever got as far as to be a senior if everyone copied and cheated during the first part of school life.

If everyone did his or her work and did it on time I think that we all would be much happier, even the teachers. We can't blame them if they get cross once in a while because it takes a mighty lot of patience to sit and correct papers hour after hour.

So let us try our very best and see if we can rid the report cards of their D's and F's, as they do not look proper there.

We'll find if we try our very best in this that it will not only help us, and better our school, but it will also better our class spirit.

Are You a Waster of Time?

(Pearl Shetler.)

Are you a waster of Time? Do you know how many seconds, minutes, or hours you have thrown away? Time is a valuable resource to you, so why waste it? In our school lives we have lost more than one golden hour, studded with diamond minutes. You can offer no reward for its return, it can never be found. It is lost forever. "Never leave for tomorrow what you can do today," is a familiar phrase. Have you thought of what it means? Then you say: "Wait a minute." Have you counted the number of times you have said it? "Time waits for no man," is true to the word. If Time should wait for you or me where would we be?

The waster of time, besides wasting or losing it, is casting to the winds, Opportunity and Wealth. High positions have been lost because of a waste of Time.

Are you a waster of time? If you are, why be one?

Behind Time.

(Mildred Loftness.)

The best laid plans, the most important affairs, the fortunes of individuals, the prosperity of nations, honor, life itself, are daily sacrificed because somebody is "behind time." There are men and women who always fail in whatever they undertake, simply because they are "behind time." If there is one error that should be avoided it is being behind time.

Persistency.

(Agnes Oftedahl.)

Like a freight train getting under way.

The engine snorts once, whoof! No motion. Only the wheels spin.

Whoof! again. Still no motion.

Whoof - whoof - whoof - whoof! You can see it getting ready to start; you can feel the momentum coming.

Choo-choo, choo-choo, choo-choo! It begins to creep, it begins to rumble, it begins to go as fast as a man can walk, as fast as a man can run, as fast as a horse can race, and presently the long train is rattling across country 20 miles an hour.

Persistency does it.

If the locomotive gave one heave and stopped, it might pull the train half an inch. But getting up momentum is what does it. After the first slow efforts of the train it almost goes of itself. It is easier to keep on going than it is to stop.

Saving is like that. Once the momentum is gained, the investment keeps on of itself. One comes to the point where interest on savings rolls in faster than the savings from earnings.

Democrats Killed Treaty is View of Senator Kellogg

[illegible] REPUBLICANS ONLY ASKED COUNTRY'S INTERESTS SAFEGUARDED.

Senator Frank B. Kellogg returned to his home in St. Paul after the adjournment of congress. In a statement given to the press of the state he makes the following explanation of his position and that of other mild reservationist senators on the peace treaty:

"I regret exceedingly that the treaty was not ratified with reservations. Many of the Republicans worked earnestly from the start to accomplish this object. These reservations, which were adopted by a large majority of the Senate, were prepared, not by the members of the foreign relations committee, but by the friends of the treaty, and were fair, reasonable, protected American rights and American interests, and did not destroy the treaty nor the League of Nations.

"At the end, the American League to enforce Peace, including Mr. Taft, President Lowell of Harvard, and the men who so earnestly worked for the treaty, endorsed every one of the reservations and advised the ratification of the treaty with the reservations, and made only one suggestion, which was that the form of the preamble be changed, and if that had been satisfactory to the Democrats, we would have been willing to agree to it. The only difference on this point was, instead of having it accepted by our Allies by exchange of notes, to have the acceptance by acquiescence.

"For months the friends of the Treaty on the Republican side advised the President and the Democratic leaders that reservations, in substance like those passed, would have to be adopted, not only to ratify the treaty, but to make it safe and satisfactory to the American people. But they have all insisted, as the President has, that the Treaty must be taken without the dottin of an 'I' or the crossing of a 't'.

"The Republican friends of the Treaty stood day after day and voted against every single amendment to the Treaty which would necessitate sending it back to Germany, and only voted for reservations which would not require it to be sent back to Germany, and which would not change the Treaty as between other nations, but would leave it as it is, simply reserving certain rights to the American people.

"In the main these reservations are what the President claimed the Treaty meant in any event. If that was so, they had no reason to object to them except the President's arbitrary attitude that what he had done must not be changed or defined. As a matter of fact, in my judgment, some of the articles would bear the construction which the President placed upon them, and it was the plain duty of the Senate of the United States to make the meaning clear.

"I know that many members on the Democratic side who voted against the Treaty favored these reservations and believed in them and voted as they did because the President dictated it. The talk on the last night of the session about a compromise came with bad grace, because they knew the reservations had to be framed and voted on in the Senate before the Resolution of Ratification could be voted on at all, and not afterwards, and the only time a compromise could be had was before a Resolution of Ratification was proposed, which had to be one calendar day after the reservations had been agreed to, and during all that time, they refused to entertain any compromise whatever and stood for the President's uncompromising attitude. As late as Tuesday morning the Republican friends of the Treaty had a meeting and notified Mr. Hitchcock, the Democratic leader, that if he had any propositions to make he should make them before the Resolution of Ratification came to a vote, and he declined to make any.

"Senator Nelson and I have from the beginning, with other Republicans, done all we could to insure the prompt ratification of the Treaty and the League of Nations, with protection to the interests of the United States. As a matter of fact, the Republicans Americanized the Treaty; the Democrats killed it. We believe that the greatest good can come to this people and that we can reach our highest destiny through a spirit of American nationalism. We must realize that we are differently situated from many of the nations of Europe. Many of them are of different races existing under different commercial and social conditions, and what would protect them would not protect us. All of the valuable obligations necessary to an effective League of Nations were preserved. The agreement for arbitration, the obligation not to go to war without first having submitted the question to arbitration or to the discussion of the Council and the League, and all the machinery for the adjustment, conciliation and settlement of disputes remains. Does any man propose that this country should agree to go to war in defense of any nation on the face of the earth at any time without the vote of the people's representatives in Congress? Does any man propose to submit our domestic questions to the arbitration of a League made up of foreign interests? Do we propose to open the doorways of immigration to the flood of objectionable elements of Europe? Do we propose to allow any international convention to reduce American labor to the level of European labor, or to submit such questions to a meddlesome tribunal of socialists or near-socialists? Does any man propose that our immigration laws and our domestic institutions shall become subject to settlement by contending factions in European tribunals? Who is willing to do this? I for one, am not."

SLEIGHS MUST BE OF UNIFORM WIDTH

WILL HEREAFTER CORRESPOND TO GAUGE OF WAGONS AND AUTOMOBILES.

This winter is the last season for the use of sleighs and bobs of the usual narrow widths, according to a law passed last winter. A number of the farmers living in different parts of the county have already changed their sleighs to correspond with the width that will be required after January first, 1921, and find the move a satisfactory one.

The last session of the Minnesota legislature passed a law to govern the width of sleighs. The section of the law that governs such vehicles is here quoted in full, in order that those interested may ascertain what is necessary.

"Section 1, Standard Gauge of Sleighs 4 feet 6 inches. On and after the first day of January, 1921, it shall be unlawful for any person, firm or corporation in this state to sell any new or first hand draft sleigh to any person or persons residing in the state, for use therein, unless the runners of such sleigh shall measure from center to center not less than four feet six inches. And on and after such date it shall be unlawful for any person or persons to use upon any of the public highways of this state, any sleigh, after said first day of January, 1921, unless the runners shall measure from center to center four feet six inches."

Penalties for the violation of this act are provided and fines ranging from five to twenty-five dollars set for such violation.

A number of the road overseers and others in Pennington county have expressed general satisfaction over the prospects of this law. It is claimed that it will make the work of keeping roads open for automobile travel much easier, as sleighs of this width will break open a rut for cars to follow. Some of the vehicle dealers of Thief River Falls and other towns in the county have already received sleighs of the new width and will dispose of a number of sets this winter.

While it is true that making the necessary change will involve some slight expense, the advantage of having all vehicles the same width is so obvious that no trouble is expected in securing general compliance with the new law.

NOTORIOUS INDIAN AGENT LOSES EYE

"PUSSYFOOT" JOHNSON, INJURED IN LONDON, UNDERGOES OPERATION.

"Pussyfoot" Johnson, who made himself famous in Northern Minnesota during the enforcement of the Indian treaty, when he spilled large quantities of booze within the Indian territory and closed up scores of saloons, had his right eye successfully removed in London, England, last Friday.

Physicians in attendance explained in a bulletin issued after the operation that the removal of the eye was necessary to save the left eye and also that the pain could not have been relieved otherwise.

"Pussyfoot" Johnson's eye was injured on November 13, when he was dragged from the platform upon which he was speaking by students. At first it was thought his eyesight might be saved but his case ended more seriously than expected.

Mr. Johnson acquired the nickname "Pussyfoot" while he was on duty in Oklahoma as an Indian agent. The story goes that a certain notorious Oklahoma saloonkeeper, the boss of the town, had stated on many occasions that no one could close him up and he would shoot the first one who attempted the trick. Johnson tackled the job and it is said he tip-toed quietly into the saloon one day while the keeper had his back turned and getting the "drop" on him put the man under arrest, ruined all the liquor in the place and closed it up.

SCHOOLS, CHURCHES TO HELP SELL SEALS

SPECIAL CAMPAIGN BEING CARRIED ON THIS WEEK THRUOUT COUNTRY.

Surgeon General Rupert Blue has issued an appeal to observe Christmas Seal Day in the schools and in all places of worship in the United States, Dec. 5, 6 and 7. The Surgeon General, who is deeply concerned with the spread of tuberculosis in the United States, calls upon the people of the country to buy Red Cross Christmas Seals and to aid in the fight being conducted by the National Tuberculosis association against the white plague. The appeal follows:

"Over one hundred and fifty thousand Americans die annually from tuberculosis. This is an appalling waste of life when we consider that tuberculosis is classed as a preventable disease. Moreover, because this loss of life occurs almost entirely in the ranks of the young adult population, health authorities the world over have come to consider the control of tuberculosis as still the most pressing health problem confronting them. Every year the National Tuberculosis association by selling Red Cross Christmas Seals raised a considerable sum of money to be used in a nation-wide campaign to combat tuberculosis. This year a special effort is being made to interest school children in this work and Dec. 5, 6 and 7 have been designated as days on which the seals are to be sold in the public schools, synagogues and churches. Because of the seriousness of the situation, I trust that the campaign this year will be particularly successful.

Siren Going Back.

Because the siren fire alarm has not come up to expectations as a noise-producer, the apparatus will be shipped back this week to the factory. After the several try-outs, councilmen who heard it say it was not loud enough and have therefore rejected it. Fire Chief Midderigh states that the old whistle will undergo several changes and after the improvements have been made believes it will fill the bill.

Slips—Breaks Rib.

Dan Linnehan, former sheriff of Red Lake county before the county was divided, broke a rib last Sunday evening at Plummer when he slipped while boarding a Soo freight and fell against the caboose step. Arising Mr. Linnehan went into the caboose and rode to this city and it was not until Monday morning that he discovered he had broken a rib, when getting out of bed at the Brumund hotel. Mr. Linnehan attended the show Sunday evening and said he felt a sort of a pinching effect in his side when he breathed. Monday morning when examined by a physician it was discovered he had broken a rib. He left for his home in Red Lake Falls Monday afternoon. Mr. Linnehan who is engaged in buying cattle, had shipped a car load of cattle from Plummer on Saturday and was returning to his home by the way of Thief River Falls.

Chamberlain's Cough Remedy
Croup
"I don't think there is a more anxious time for parents than when their children have croup. Without they are prepared with Chamberlain's Cough Remedy they must wait for the doctor and listen to the choking, metallic cough and watch their little one gasping for breath.
You know the great danger of croup is the formation of a false membrane in the larynx, and until this is expelled relief cannot be obtained, and the spasmodic choking continues. Give Chamberlain's Cough Remedy in frequent doses. It will loosen this membrane and cause the child to expel it by vomiting.
"Granny" Chamberlain
Chamberlain's Cough Remedy
is an absolutely safe and certain remedy for croup, and if given as soon as the child becomes hoarse, or even after the croupy cough appears, it will prevent the attack."
Yours for Health—"Granny" Chamberlain

A PLAIN STATEMENT

THE cost of producing a newspaper like the Thief River Falls Times has about quadrupled during the past few years. Every publisher in the country—big and little—is feeling the pinch and is taking steps to protect himself. The usual way to accomplish this is through a raise in subscription rates.

WE HOPE TO AVOID SUCH ACTION

We wish to contiue sending the paper to our subscribers at $2 per year. This can be done only if subscriptions are paid promptly. Along about the first of the year a large number of subscriptions expire and if the money for these is received when due it will enable us to continue sending the paper at the old rate, otherwise the price will have to advance to $2.50 per year within a short time.

Report on Doings at the Teachers Institute Held Here Last Week

Attendance the Best in Many Years---Americanization Occupies Important Place. Many Speakers Present.

The Pennington county institute which had been in session for a week, closed its successful meeting Friday.

It was one of the largest institutes held in this county for several years. The attendance was ninety-six which included sixty-six rural teachers and the present normal training class of the Thief River Falls high school.

The work especially emphasized was problem teaching of geography, and sight and silent reading. The instructors, Misses Osborn and Kavanaugh, were two very competent ladies and gave a great deal of helpful and inspiring information to all.

A splendid co-operative attitude was shown by all. On Wednesday evening a little social was held in the high school gymnasium for all in attendance and those who took part in the program. Games were played and light refreshments served.

Besides the instructors and Mr. Gunderson, the assembly was also addressed by several other prominent speakers. Mr. Wilson, former superintendent of schools of Thief River Falls, gave an interesting talk along educational lines and extended a cordial invitation to all to visit Oklahoma.

Monday all were given an opportunity to hear Miss Maria Sanford. She emphasized the importance of seeing, hearing, thinking and remembering.

J. J. McCann discussed "Boys' and Girls' clubs." He expressed his willingness to help in every way possible with this work.

Miss Taylor spoke of the necessity of having hot noon lunches in rural schools.

Mr. Williams gave an address about "Thrift." He brought very forcibly to all the need of saving and of buying Thrift Stamps and War Savings Stamps.

Supt. Ziegler gave an interesting talk on the need of "Teachers' Organizations," and also the scientific tests.

Miss Shelland, assistant rural school inspector, talked on rural school work and gave many helpful suggestions to the teachers.

Attorney Quale explained the various school laws regarding the duties, restrictions and rights of teachers.

Health work was especially stressed. Dr. A. J. Paulson gave a very helpful talk on defective sight, hearing and on enlarged tonsils and adenoids, and of detecting any of the ailments.

The need of a county nurse and of clinics for examination of children were also emphasized. It was decided that a nurse was to be hired if possible.

The Teachers' Patriotic League was organized with Miss Osborn presiding. The following officers were elected for the coming year:

The officers for the different committees are:

Improvement Committee—Miss Costello, chairman; Miss Carlsen, Mr. Gunderson.

Health Committee—Elfa Wertstein, chairman; Alma Welo, Minnie Linstad.

Patriotic Committee—Borgot Iverson, chairman; Mabel Engen, Lena Gullingsrud.

The county has been divided into club districts, each district having a leader and a definite place to meet. In this way the people of the rural districts will become more interested and be brought more closely in touch with the school work. Prominent speakers will be secured to speak at these meetings.

The Little Citizens League is to be organized in every rural school. Americanization is to be especially featured so as to make the girls and boys fit citizens.

ROSEWOOD

Thanksgiving Surprise.

A delightful thanksgiving surprise party was tendered Mr. and Mrs. B. P. Sagmoen at their home in the east end of town last Thursday evening when eighty-six of their friends and neighbors quietly assembled in town and at about 8:30 p. m., marched up to their home and with a volley of shouts of surprise brought the inhabitants to the scene. The evening was very agreeably spent in listening to music, singing and conversing with friends, and at 11 o'clock a dainty lunch which had been brought along by the ladies was served. An envelope containing about $50 was presented to Mr. and Mrs. Sagmoen in remembrance of the event. The party was arranged by Mr. and Mrs. Benhard Ranum and Nina Anderson.

Mr. and Mrs. Helmer Larson and daughter, Helen, of Battle Lake and Miss Peterson, arrived here last Wednesday to spend Thanksgiving at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ben Peterson, south of town. Mr. Peterson is a brother-in-law of Mr. Larson. They returned on Thursday evening.

Mrs. John Erickson and children, Helen and Marven of Sanborn, N. D., are spending a week here as guests of Mrs. Erickson's parents, Mr. and Mrs. B. P. Sagmoen, and other relatives.

John Bloom is confined to the Warren hospital this week to undergo an abdominal operation, which proved successful, and he is expected home in a few days.

George Olson returned last week to Wanaska after spending a few weeks here to visit with the A. Axelson folks.

The third annual meeting of the Rosewood Livestock Shipping association will be held at the Rosebank school building on Saturday, Dec. 13 at 2 p. m.

Mrs. Jens Severson and son, Selmar of Thief River Falls, spent a few days this week at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Vorseth.

Peder Sorenson was at Warren, between trains, last Friday on business.

Selmer Haugen and Iver Wesby, Jr., left on Monday morning for Viking, where they will spend the day on business.

Mrs. Anton Gulseth of Viking, arrived here on Saturday evening for an over Sunday stay with her brother, G. J. Nordhagen, south of town.

Mrs. O. M. Holson and daughter, Miss Lilly, left last Saturday for Viking, where Miss Lilly is employed after spending the Thanksgiving holidays with the C. Mellom family here.

Thor Sevaldson left on Thanksgiving for Warren where he will be employed for some time.

Mrs. O. Johnson of Warren spent part of last week visiting with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. B. Sevaldson, west of this place.

Mr. and Mrs. A. S. Holm left on Wednesday evening for Thief River Falls, where they will attend a directors meeting of the Roswood Farmers State bank.

Postmaster Herbert Carlson left last Wednesday for Thief River Falls to visit for a few days with his relatives and friends.

Wrong LaCount.

Ralph LaCount, who has been indicted by the Hennepin county grand jury for being implicated in the murder of his wife, and who is claimed to have resided in Thief River Falls at one time, has never made his home here, according to information brought back to this city by Sheriff LaBree. The sheriff while in Minneapolis last week visited the county jail and had an interview with the accused man and LaCount stated he had never been in Thief River Falls at any time. Several years ago there were several LaCount families in the city but the man held in the Hennepin county jail is not even related to the LaCounts who formerly resided here.

WOMEN'S WOES

Thief River Falls Women are Finding Relief at Last.

It does seem that women have more than a fair share of the aches and pains that afflict humanity; they must "keep up," must attend to duties in spite of constantly aching backs, or headaches, dizzy spells, bearing-down pains; they must stoop over, when to stoop means torture. They must walk and bend and work with racking pains and many aches from kidney ills. Keeping the kidneys well has spared thousands of women much misery. Read of a remedy for kidneys only that is endorsed by people you know.

Mrs. Chas. Alexander, 216 Conley Ave., Thief River Falls, says: "Last fall I had been picking berries and when I got home, I was suddenly taken with a bad attack of kidney complaint. The pains across my back kept me from doing my work and such a thing as doing my washing was out of the question. I often got dizzy and was afraid to walk across the room. My kidneys didn't act as they should and I felt miserable. One of my neighbors suggested Doan's Kidney Pills and I got some at the East Side Drug Store. I got entirely over the trouble and I have felt fine ever since."

Price 60c, at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mrs. Alexander had. Foster-Milburn Co., Mfgrs., Buffalo, N. Y.

"I KNOW NOW WHY PEOPLE PRAISE IT"

ST. PAUL WOMAN AFTER SUFFERING 32 YEARS GAINS 14 LBS. BY TAKING TANLAC.

"I have taken only two bottles of Tanlac but they have entirely stopped my thirty-two years of suffering and almost made a new woman out of me," said Mrs. Julius Hoenhause, of 462 Clinton Ave., St. Paul, Minn., recently.

"For thirty-two years I suffered from stomach trouble and chronic indigestion," she continued, "and at times even the pressure of my clothes against my stomach would hurt me. I had to be very careful about what I ate and even then it was hard for me to retain anything on my stomach and sometimes I was so nauseated I would have to give up and go to bed before I could get relief. I suffered no end of misery from gas, and many and many a night I slept hardly a wink because of the pains in my stomach. For months at a time I was off in weight as much as ten pounds and if I gained it back I didn't gain in strength but felt as weak and draggy as ever, if not more so. I spent hundreds of dollars and used all kinds of medicines but got no relief, and I was beginning to think I would have to go on through life and never get rid of my old troubles.

"But a good friend of mine who knew what I had gone through heard about Tanlac and suggested that I try it, and today I feel thankful to that friend and even more thankful to Tanlac for I can honestly say it is the best medicine I have ever taken. My stomach is in fine condition now and no matter what I eat it digests and I don't suffer any more after eating. I'm gaining in weight and strength right along, in fact, I've gained fourteen pounds already and weigh more than I ever did in my life. I sleep fine every night and I've gone back to doing all my housework by myself and I don't feel a bit overtired after I get through, either. Since I've taken Tanlac and it has helped me so wonderfully I can understand why so many people are coming out and saying it is the finest thing they have ever seen."

Kretzschmar Coming Home.

Carl Kretzschmar, who is serving in the United States navy, will arrive in Thief River Falls about December 15 for a visit with his mother. Kretzschmar was with the fleet that was reviewed at New York last week by Secretary of the Navy Daniels. He enlisted in Uncle Sam's sea forces shortly after war was declared.

THE MOST DANGEROUS DISEASE

No organs of the human body are so important to health and long life as the kidneys. When they slow up and commence to lag in their duties, look out! Find out what the trouble is—without delay. Whenever you feel nervous, weak, dizzy, suffer from sleeplessness, or have pains in the back—wake up at once. Your kidneys need help. These are signs to warn you that your kidneys are not performing their functions properly. They are only half doing their work and are allowing impurities to accumulate and be converted into uric acid and other poisons, which are causing you distress and will destroy you, unless they are driven from your system.

Get some GOLD MEDAL Haarlem Oil Capsules at once. They are an old, tried preparation used all over the world for centuries. They contain only old-fashioned, soothing oils combined with strength-giving and system-cleansing herbs, well known and used by physicians in their daily practice. GOLD MEDAL Haarlem Oil Capsules are imported direct from the laboratories in Holland. They are convenient to take, and will either give prompt relief or your money will be refunded. Ask for them at any drug store, but be sure to get the original imported GOLD MEDAL brand. Accept no substitutes. In sealed packages. Three sizes.

December 16 and 17

Will Be

DE LAVAL SERVICE DAYS

For the benefit of our customers and users of DeLaval Cream Separators we have established a DeLaval Service Day.

On this day we shall be glad to have any DeLaval user bring his complete separator to our store for a thorough and careful inspection and adjustment, which will be made free of charge. Should any parts, due to unusual wear or accident, need to be replaced, this will be done, the only charge being for the price of the new parts used. No charge will be made for the service.

A DeLaval representative will be with us to assist with this work. Bring in your DeLaval Separator that day and receive the benefit of their advice on the care and operation of the machine, as well as the free service. It is our wish, and that of the DeLaval Company, that every user of a DeLaval Separator get the maximum of service at the minimum of cost, and we therefore urge you to avail yourself of this free and useful service.

Report on Doings at the Teachers Institute Held Here Last Week

Attendance the Best in Many Years---Americanization Occupies Important Place. Many Speakers Present.

The Pennington county institute which had been in session for a week, closed its successful meeting Friday.

It was one of the largest institutes held in this county for several years. The attendance was ninety-six which included sixty-six rural teachers and the present normal training class of the Thief River Falls high school.

The work especially emphasized was problem teaching of geography, and sight and silent reading. The instructors, Misses Osborn and Kavanaugh, were two very competent ladies and gave a great deal of helpful and inspiring information to all.

A splendid co-operative attitude was shown by all. On Wednesday evening a little social was held in the high school gymnasium for all in attendance and those who took part in the program. Games were played and light refreshments served.

Besides the instructors and Mr. Gunderson, the assembly was also addressed by several other prominent speakers. Mr. Wilson, former superintendent of schools of Thief River Falls, gave an interesting talk along educational lines and extended a cordial invitation to all to visit Oklahoma.

Monday all were given an opportunity to hear Miss Maria Sanford. She emphasized the importance of seeing, hearing, thinking and remembering.

J. J. McCann discussed "Boys' and Girls' clubs." He expressed his willingness to help in every way possible with this work.

Miss Taylor spoke of the necessity of having hot noon lunches in rural schools.

Mr. Williams gave an address about "Thrift." He brought very forcibly to all the need of saving and of buying Thrift Stamps and War Savings Stamps.

Supt. Ziegler gave an interesting talk on the need of "Teachers' Organizations," and also the scientific tests.

Miss Shelland, assistant rural school inspector, talked on rural school work and gave many helpful suggestions to the teachers.

Attorney Quale explained the various school laws regarding the duties, restrictions and rights of teachers.

Health work was especially stressed. Dr. A. J. Paulsen gave a very helpful talk on defective sight, hearing and on enlarged tonsils and adenoids, and of detecting any of the ailments.

The need of a county nurse and of clinics for examination of children were also emphasized. It was decided that a nurse was to be hired if possible.

The Teachers' Patriotic League was organized with Miss Osborn presiding. The following officers were elected for the coming year:

The officers for the different committees are:

Improvement Committee—Miss Costello, chairman; Miss Carlsen, Mr. Gunderson.

Health Committee—Elfa Werstlein, chairman; Alma Welo, Minnie Linstad.

Patriotic Committee—Borgot Iverson, chairman; Mabel Engen, Lena Gullingsrud.

The county has been divided into club districts, each district having a leader and a definite place to meet. In this way the people of the rural districts will become more interested and be brought more closely in touch with the school work. Prominent speakers will be secured to speak at these meetings.

The Little Citizens League is to be organized in every rural school. Americanization is to be especially featured so as to make the girls and boys fit citizens.

Will Be
DE LAVAL SERVICE DAYS

For the benefit of our customers and users of DeLaval Cream Separators we have established a DeLaval Service Day.

On this day we shall be glad to have any DeLaval user bring his complete separator to our store for a thorough and careful inspection and adjustment, which will be made free of charge. Should any parts, due to unusual wear or accident, need to be replaced, this will be done, the only charge being for the price of the new parts used. No charge will be made for the service.

A DeLaval representative will be with us to assist with this work. Bring in your DeLaval Separator that day and receive the benefit of their advice on the care and operation of the machine, as well as the free service. It is our wish, and that of the DeLaval Company, that every user of a DeLaval Separator get the maximum of service at the minimum of cost, and we therefore urge you to avail yourself of this free and useful service.

COMMUNITY SERVICE

Paper Read by Mrs. L. G. Larsen at Meeting of Woman's Club of Thief River Falls.

Community service—

This subject is so broad and covers so many phases that to adequately handle any one of them would require an infinite amount of time, for we have community kitchens, schools, gardens, parks, lyceum courses and sings until it appears as if the whole world might be turned into one great community.

Whence came this spirit which seems to throb through every vein and artery of industry in the United States? For years our hearts and minds carried across the waters to that mighty conflict which was tearing Europe asunder, utterly unconscious of the fact that here at home we were to face the greatest reconstruction period which our country has ever known, involving industrial and political problems the solution of which would tax the keenest minds of our greatest leaders before we could settle down to the quiet harmony of pre-war times.

Unconsciously thru this turmoil there has been springing up among us a sponstaneous democratic movement which has been termed community growth or development, inspired by the great common cause which had drawn people together. The greatest factor of all was the Red Cross work which brought together every class of people—high and low, rich and poor, earnest thoughtful—people from country and city alike with no thought for aught else than adding their little mite to the great cause of suffering humanity. There are none of us who worked in the Red Cross rooms but know that our lives have been enriched by coming in contact with some hitherto unknown woman in our neighborhood or distant corner of the county, and who, more is the pity, have passed since the signing of the armistice from our horizon, again leaving us to feel that:

Around the corner I have a friend,
In this great city that has no end.
Yet days go by and weeks rush on
And I never see my old friend's face.
For life is a swift and terrible race.
He knows I like him just as well
As in the days I rang his bell
And he rang mine. We were younger then—
Now we are busy, tired men.
Tired of playing a foolish game
Tired of trying to make a name.
"Tomorrow," I say, "I will call on Jim"
Just to show I am thinking of him.
But tomorrow comes and tomorrow goes
And the distance between us grows and grows,
Around the corner—yes miles away.
Here's a telegram, sir, "Jim died today."
And that's what we get and deserve
in the end—
Around the corner a vanished friend.

Is there not some form of community service which would keep us in contact with these neighbors around the corner both far and near? Perhaps the nearest step towards this is community singing, which was inspired by the demand for singing armies. Since it has been proven that music and song was such a large factor in maintaining the morale of our army, then why would the same not be true of our industrial army? I believe if the heart of every worker in factory and mine could be filled with the spirit of good music there would be little room for the doctrines of I. W. W'ism, Socialism, Bolshevism and all the other isms which fill their very souls with hatred towards all forms of organized government. We are fortunate that this phase of community work is being developed in our midst, and hope the movement will grow until we have, not only a singing Thief River Falls, but a singing Pennington county as well.

The Liberty loan drives, thrift campaigns, etc., have brought us face to face with the fact that a great responsibility rests upon us individually and collectively, for this work is many-sided, affecting public health, housing, work, play, religion, conduct of politics, education of youth and the Americanization of the alien. In fact there is no time of our lives from birth until death that is not touched by this movement hence the necessity for strong physical and mental development, as we in the Middle West are not confronted by the serious problems of the congested east, yet the children, like the poor, we have with us always. Hence the child welfare movement which is developing so strongly and successfully in our midst. And who of us can fail to understand that this term, child-welfare, stripped of its trimming, means public, family and social welfare, the final success of which lies in our united efforts to make our city cleaner, more beautiful and more healthful, and the children, our future citizens, morally, mentally and physically fit to assume the responsibilities of the community when our tasks are finished.

Last June a wonderful stride was taken towards procuring a community picnic ground or park, in the form of a written, (or was it a verbal) resolution, but like many other pretty bubbles it burst in the air. Shall we sit with idle hands and let these opportunities go by? Shall we erect no monument to our boys sleeping under the poppies or to the boys who sacrificed so much that democracy might live.

The heroes of all wars have been honored in some way. Statues of cold, lifeless stone for the living, plain marble shafts for the dead. We in Pennington county proved to the world that we could go over the top magnificently when asked. Can we not go over the top once more and erect a fitting monument to our heroes in the form of a community house—a building beautiful architecturally and throbbing with life,—not one or two days in the year but three hundred sixty-five days. Such a building would become the headquarters for all factions and classes and become the center of all our social activities. Perhaps with such a building in our midst, properly equipped, the problem of our boys and the pool-halls would be solved. Here in this democratic building we could enlist the enthusiastic co-operation of our rural friends who, perhaps least of all, have adapted themselves to the fast changing industrial conditions. The question of good roads, noxious weeds, drainage, Sears, Roebuck and Montgomery Ward catalogues are not one-sided. Perhaps all communities are doing one or two things well, but we must have a well-balanced movement which takes in all interests of the community, and brings about the development of each in a businesslike manner. When a community has, thru organization, enlisted all its citizens in enthusiastic cooperative efforts, in wise planning and efficient accomplishment, then and not till then will the progress and welfare of our community be assured and instead of indifference, prejudice, misunderstanding and cross purposes, we shall have courage, spirit, cooperation, fairness, kindness, acquaintance, understanding, cordiality, loyalty and toleration, for community service is:

Strong that no human soul may pass
Its warm, encircling unity;
Wide to enclose all creed, all class.

This shall we name community service be that all or each around to know the common good shall strive, and in striving reach a broader human brotherhood.

American Legion Dues.

Changes in the dues to the American Legion have been made and are as follows: National dues will amount to $1 and includes a year's subscription to the national weekly. State dues will be 25c and local dues will be 50c for the year 1920. All members who joined prior to November 11, 1919, will be credited with 25c national dues and 25c towards the state dues. New members will pay $1.75 for the year 1920 and will receive the magazine for a year. Old members will pay $1.35 for 1920. Dues for next year should be forwarded to Secretary G. Howard Smith before the first of January.

License Transferred.

Permission to transfer the unexpired pool and billiard room license of W. F. Edgar to H. O. Fields was granted by the city council at a regular meeting last Friday evening on account of a change of ownership in the business. Fields acquired the pool room from Mr. Edgar last week.

PUBLIC FORUM

Editor Times. Dear Sir: In your last week's paper there appeared an article with the heading: "Help Them Build Homes." This article is very misleading as it entirely ignores the Red Lake Building association which was organized in the city of Thief River Falls on Dec. 30th, 1903, and is still alive and doing business.

The first Board of Directors elected were: Andrew Stenseth, J. M. Bishop, H. O. Rolleg, D. B. Bakke, T. L. Melgaard, W. A. Wright, Lars Backe, C. A. Fuller, and O. J. Schei. D. B. Bakke is the only one left of these original directors, and he is also secretary of the association.

At first it was rather a struggling proposition, but the association finally overcame all hardships and difficulties and has been gaining steadily in strength, and today it may be stated that they are in a position to give assistance to anyone who wishes to build a home. Anyone who desires to know the methods and the ways of doing business of this association may call at the office of the secretary every Friday after 4:00 P. M., and Saturday until 10:30 a. m.

The Association is proud to state that all persons having had loans with us have always been handled in a very satisfactory way. We charge no bonus or extra charges which cannot be said by any person having had dealings with other associations.

Yours truly,
D. B. BAKKE,
Secretary.

Bonus Office in East.

Adjutant General W. F. Rhinow, chairman of the state soldiers' bonus board, accompanied by six newly appointed aides, will leave probably the last of this week for Washington to establish offices of the board convenient to those of the War Department. The branch will collect information from war department records necessary to enable the bonus board to pass upon claims.

DAVID BACKUS GETS HIS SIXTH AWARD

FORMER RESIDENT RECEIVES FOURTH DECORATION FROM FRANCE AND U. S.

When the Medaille Militarie was pinned upon the breast of Lieut. David H. Backus, former resident of this city, now residing at Wichita Falls, Texas, recently it marked the sixth citation for bravery he has received thus far for his services in the World War.

He was accorded four citations by the French government, two of a personal nature and two on occasions when the entire unit was decorated. He received two citations from the American government for bravery.

The two personal French citations were signed by Marshal Petain, for which he received the Croix de Guerre and the bronze star. The two American citations were signed by General Pershing carrying the Distinguished Service Cross and the bronze oak leaf.

Backus enlisted with the French army and served with a French unit until America entered the war. He then was transferred to the American forces. A few days before the signing of the armistice Lieut. Backus was recommended for a captaincy by his colonel.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Backus, 578 Holly avenue, St. Paul, and has been making his home in Texas since returning from France, being interested in the oil business in the Lone Star state.

While in Thief River Falls Mr. Backus conducted a land office and was a member of the local hockey team when they won the championship of the Northwest at the St. Paul Winter carnival, defeating the best teams in the state.

Ford
THE UNIVERSAL CAR
There are more than 3,000,000 Ford cars in daily service throughout the world, and fully eighty per cent of these are Ford Touring Cars. There are many reasons for this, not the least of which is the simplicity in the design of the car, so easy to understand; likewise it is easy to operate; and mighty inexpensive compared to other motor cars. On the farm, in the city, for business and for family pleasure, it is the car of the people, and the demand is increasing every day. Let us have your order promptly if you want one.

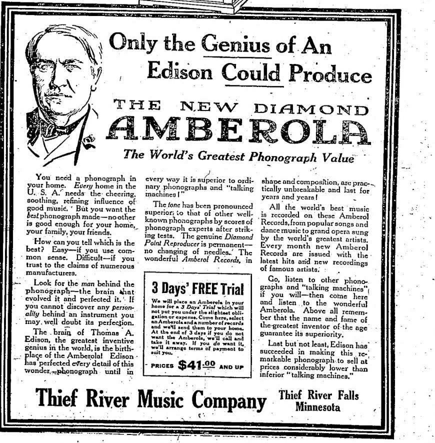
Every week some new phonograph appears on the market
Any good workman can build a "Talking Machine"—



Only the Genius of An Edison Could Produce
THE NEW DIAMOND AMBEROLA
The World's Greatest Phonograph Value

You need a phonograph in your home. Every home in the U. S. A. needs the cheering, soothing, refining influence of good music. But you want the best phonograph made—no other is good enough for your home, your family, your friends.

How can you tell which is the best? Easy—if you use common sense. Difficult—if you trust to the claims of numerous manufacturers.

Look for the man behind the phonograph—the brain that evolved it and perfected it. If you cannot discover any personality behind an instrument you may well doubt its perfection.

The brain of Thomas A. Edison, the greatest inventive genius in the world, is the birthplace of the Amberola! Edison has perfected every detail of this wonder phonograph until in every way it is superior to ordinary phonographs and "talking machines"!

The tone has been pronounced superior to that of other well-known phonographs by scores of phonograph experts after striking tests. The genuine Diamond Point Reproducer is permanent—no changing of needles. The wonderful Amberol Records, in shape and composition, are practically unbreakable and last for years and years!

All the world's best music is recorded on these Amberol Records, from popular songs and dance music to grand opera sung by the world's greatest artists. Every month new Amberol Records are issued with the latest hits and new recordings of famous artists.

Go, listen to other phonographs and "talking machines" if you will—then come here and listen to the wonderful Amberola. Above all remember that the name and fame of the greatest inventor of the age guarantee its superiority.

Last but not least, Edison has succeeded in making this remarkable phonograph to sell at prices considerably lower than inferior "talking machines."

3 Days' FREE Trial
We will place an Amberola in your home for a 3 Days' Trial which will not put you under the slightest obligation or expense. Come here, select an Amberola and a number of records and we'll send them to your home. At the end of 3 days if you do not want the Amberola, we'll call and take it away. If you do want it, we'll arrange terms of payment to suit you.

PASS ON VALIDITY OF BONUS DEC. 19

THREE DISTRICT JUDGES ACCEPTED TO ACT AT HEARING ON LAW.

Supreme court hearing in the appeal in the test case of the Minnesota soldier's bonus law will take place Friday, Dec. 19, at 1:30 p. m.

Three district judges were accepted yesterday to replace the three supreme court judges disqualified to act because of their relationship to service men who would become beneficiaries under this law.

Payments of claims under the law, should it be held constitutional, could not start before January 15, bonus officials say.

It is possible that court may confer after the hearing and file its written decision later.

Symbols of Service

FROM your seat in the train as you journey through the Middle West, you see at almost every station you pass the great, white storage tanks of the Standard Oil Company (Indiana). These bulk stations are maintained to insure prompt delivery of petroleum products to the people in that community. To them these tanks are Symbols of Service.

As you motor over the highways and byways of the countryside, you pass the dark green tank wagons of the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) busy delivering petroleum products from the bulk stations to the farmer's tank. To the farmer these are Symbols of Service.

At convenient points in city, town and hamlet you find attractive service stations, beautifying ugly corners. These are maintained for your convenience and to give service. They are Symbols of Service.

You stop at a railroad crossing to let a train pass. In it are a number of tank cars, hurrying forth from the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) refineries to replenish the stocks at bulk stations. Aside from their usefulness as carriers, these also are Symbols of Service.

The Standard Oil Company (Indiana) is a service organization, and wherever you may see its name or a piece of its equipment, you see a Symbol of the Service it is striving to give in maintaining its position as a public servant doing its full duty.

Camel Cigarettes
They Win You On Quality!
Your enjoyment of Camels will be very great because their refreshing flavor and fragrance and mellowness is so entirely different. You never tasted such a cigarette! Bite is eliminated and there is a cheerful absence of any unpleasant cigarety after-taste or any unpleasant cigaretty odor!
Camels are made of an expert blend of choice Turkish and choice Domestic tobaccos and are smooth and mild, but have that desirable full-body and certainly hand out satisfaction in generous measure. You will prefer this Camel blend to either kind of tobacco smoked straight!
Give Camels the stiffest tryout, then compare them with any cigarette in the world at any price for quality, flavor, satisfaction. No matter how liberally you smoke, Camels they will not tire your taste!

LOCAL BOY WITH SUICIDE SQUADRON

CARL KRETZSCHMAR WITH FAMOUS FLOTILLA THAT SWEPT NORTH SEA OF MINES.

The flotilla of mine sweepers, submarine chasers and trawlers, known as the "Suicide Squadron," which recently returned from sweeping the North Sea of the 50,000 mines they laid the year before, were reviewed for the last time by Secretary of the Navy, J. Daniels in New York on Monday of last week.

Among the crew of 1,500 men, 300 are from Minnesota. Carl Kretzschmar, son of Mrs. Anna Kretzschmar, of this city, was one of the Minnesotans and is expected in Thief River Falls for a visit about Dec. 15.

The work of the boys has been highly commended by Secretary Daniels and the secretary stated that their work equals if not surpasses the breaking of the Hindenburg line. Two vessels of the orginal fleet lie at the bottom of the German ocean. Admiral Strauss commanded the fleet while operating in European waters.

The name "Suicide Squadron" was given to the flotilla on account of the great risk they were taking in clearing the sea of these dangerous explosives as a collision with one of the mines meant the blowing up of the ship.

ALL ARE BOOSTING COMMUNITY TREE

EVERY ORGANIZATION IN CITY WILL ASSIST IN BIG ENTERPRISE.

Thief River Falls will have a community Christmas celebration this year that will eclipse anything of the kind ever attempted in the city. Individuals and organizations of every kind have signified their intention of getting behind the move and giving it whatever support is necessary in order to put it across big.

The Woman's club took the lead in starting the movement, being followed by the Merchants association, the Commercial club, Community Girls, Elks, Sons of Norway, the various railway brotherhoods, Royal Neighbors, Woodmen, the Catholic orders, Odd Fellows, Masons—in fact every body of men and women having an organization in the city.

There will be a monster tree, of course, but this is only one part of the plan. It is the intention that there shall not be a single family in the city for which a big Christmas dinner is not provided in case it is found that any are unable to look after this important detail themselves. There will also be presents for children in families where such things would be lacking were it not that the men and women behind this move have taken it upon themselves to see that no such situation shall exist.

It is a great undertaking and every man, woman and child in the city should be proud to be able to help it along.

MIDDERIGH AGAIN HEADS FIRE LADS

OFFICERS ELECTED AT ANNUAL MEETING HELD AT DEPARTMENT'S ROOMS.

At the annual meeting of the Thief River Falls Fire department held on Wednesday evening of last week officers for the ensuing year were elected as follows:

Chief, Paul Midderigh; first assistant chief, Harry Roberts, second assistant chief, W. Warner; third assistant chief, A. Warner; secretary, Ed. Jaranson; steward, Harry Roberts.

Members of the Firemen's Relief association will be appointed at a meeting to be held next month. The association meets the last Wednesday of each month and its present officers are: President, Paul Midderigh; Secretary, A. C. Warner; Treasurer, Paul Midderigh.

At the meeting last week the firemen authorized the spending of $450 for additional equipment for the department.

HONOR DEPARTED BROTHERS SUNDAY

ELKS WILL HOLD ANNUAL LODGE OF SORROW AT MASONIC TEMPLE.

Appropriate and impressive memorial services in honor of the departed brothers will be held by Thief River Falls B. P. O. Elks Lodge No. 1308 at the Masonic Temple Sunday afternoon, Dec. 7, at 2:15 o'clock.

The memorial speaker will be Charles R. Middleton, of Baudette, who is well known to many people of this city. The lodge rooms will be fittingly decorated for the occasion with flags and flowers. All members of the lodge and their families besides the general public are asked to attend.

A suitable musical program has been arranged by the committee detailed to look after this part and is as follows.

Cupid Does Good Business in November; 17 Couples

Danny Cupid did a rushing business during the month of November for the records at Clerk of Court Eklund's office show that during the month just passed there were 17 couples who had it figured out that two can live as cheaply as one. During the same month a year ago there were only 10 marriage permits issued. Clerk of Court Eklund credits the increase in marriages the last month to the return of the young men from military service.

The folowing is a list of those who secured marriage permits during November:

Nov. 4—Stanley Panek and Frances Kolski.

Nov. 5—Rene Elliott and Corine Sale.

Nov. 5—Ole Myrum and Sarah Austad.

Nov. 6—Rudolph Sagmoen and Ebba Wahlbeck.

Nov. 6—Ed. O. Vigen and Martha Moe.

Nov. 11—Clarence Erickson and Thelma Holm.

Nov. 13—Hilmer Aga and Lydia Kolstad.

Nov. 14—Carl Swenson and Martha Brandrud.

Nov. 14—Bernard Helgerod and Anna Urness.

Nov. 17—Harry Myrom and Anna Bergquist.

Nov. 17—Albert E. Schroder and Carrie Olson.

Nov. 18—Joseph Knox and Marian L. Day.

Nov. 18—Karl B. Johnson and Bertha Anderson.

Nov. 19—Henry Sunsdahl and Gertie Bjornaraa.

Nov. 24—Ray Burris and Eva Stangle.

Nov. 29—Fred Nierenz and Hilda Lena Kessler.

Indianapolis Man Tells How Small Creature Led to Discovery of Hidden Mountain Dew.

"A funny thing happened to me the other morning," volunteered an East side man after he got firmly established on the rear of an incoming East Washington street car and had successfully filled and lighted his pipe and had it going good.

"What's that, Bill; did you forget and go to church?" asked another passenger, who seemed to know the victim of the funny incident.

"I was lying on the bed reading some poetry, 'The Death of the Flowers,' you know how it goes, 'The melancholy days have come, the saddest of the year; of wailing winds and naked woods and meadows brown and sere. The robin and the wren are flown, and from the shrub the jay and from the woodtop'"—

"Well, as I was saying," continued Bill, "I was reading that sad poem—I'm doing a lot of that thing since the state went 'dry'—when I saw this bug running across a rug toward a clothes press in the corner of the room. It was the meanest lookin' bug I ever saw, and it certainly was goin' some. I jumped off the bed and made a dash for it, but it beat me and got into the closet. I didn't want the bug crawling around over my bed in the night, so I dived right into the clothes press and threw out about three dozen different kinds of garments that had been tossed in there to get 'em out of the way. Then suddenly I saw the bug and back in the corner a quart of mountain dew both at the same time. Durned if I didn't forget all about everything but that quart. It certainly was some find. I wonder when the wife hid it there."

"What became of the bug?" asked a young fellow who evidently was studying to be a lawyer.

"That's the funny part of it," replied Bill. "'Course I never thought of the bug again until about an hour after that when I saw Mr. Bug clear on the other side of the room beatin' it to get under a dresser, I got him that time, and he sure was some bug."—Indianapolis News.

Lost and Found.

A customer with a camera came in to tell his troubles to Joe Craven, a photographer in South Illinois street.

"Last Sunday I found this camera on a bench at Riverside," he said.

"There were two films that had not been used so I exposed them and would like to have the roll printed. If you know or hear of anybody who lost a camera, why just give it to them."

So when Craven printed the pictures he took one of them and put it in his window with a small sign on it. "This Girl Lost Her Camera; If You Know Her Please Tell Her That Her Camera Is Here and She May Have It and the Pictures Gratis!"

Three days later she came in for the camera and the finder of the camera came back for his set of pictures. The sad part of it all is the fellow came just about ten minutes too late to meet the girl. So girls, if you see a fellow look at you and then take a picture out of his pocket and look at it don't get excited. He merely wishes to meet the good looking girl who lost the camera.—Indianapolis News.

The Friendly Water Trip.

It's a queer world. Sunday we spent in a friend's boat, making the trip to Wallaceburg, Ont. Along that stretch of blue water we passed every sort of people in every sort of boats, and in every instance we waved a hand in greeting to them and they waved to us. It was no trick at all to get a warm and genial sign of friendship from passersby. The people on land saluted us. It seemed as though we were continually being welcomed as we arrived in sight and wished good luck as we departed.

Yet on land we could have passed by the same people time after time and not one of them would have turned to look or wave a hand. Why can't people be as friendly to land travelers as they are to those who travel by water? It's a queer world.—Cleveland Leader.

Priests Fought as Poilus.

Yesterday on the Rue St. Honore I met two priests, one wearing an empty sleeve, one wearing a mechanical leg and both wearing the Croix de Guerre.

"Were you in the war as chaplains?" I asked.

"No," replied the one-legged priest, "we were poilus. Most of the younger priests fought in the ranks."

"But I suppose very few were wounded?"

"On the contrary," replied the one-armed one, "the percentage was high. You see, we had no families, so it was only right that when there was something dangerous to do we should go first."—Leo Shippy in Kansas City Star.

Cotton Production Welcome.

Mesopotamia has always grown some cotton, which modern methods may improve. Of this material may have been the veil with which Rebekah covered herself at her first meeting with Isaac, as she journeyed under the guidance of Abraham's servant from Mesopotamia to Canaan to become Isaac's wife. Cotton competition between Mesopotamia and Egypt would be particularly attractive. And cotton is one good thing of which war's tatterdemalion, the world of today cannot have too much.—Boston Herald.

MORE EQUIPMENT ARRIVES FOR GYM

DOORS THROWN OPEN SOON, MANAGER OF ATHLETIC CLUB ANNOUNCES.

The doors of the Fallness Athletic club, under the Citizens State bank, will soon be thrown open to the members, according to an announcement made this morning.

During the past week a belated shipment of equipment was received and has been set up in the gym. A punching bag and chest exercising apparatus have arrived and are already in place. An excellent wrestling mat also arrived and as soon as the work of scraping the floor is completed it will be laid. The shipment also contained several dumb bells and Indian clubs. The steel lockers were received some time ago and have been put in place by Mr. Fallness.

Mr. Fallness regrets that the opening date has so long been delayed but owing to the fact that the equipment has been so slow in getting here it has been impossible to start operations.

By the time the work of renovating the room is completed it is expected the balance of the apparatus will be here, although there is now enough equipment on hand to start and members who wish to make use of the gym with the articles on hand may do so, Mr. Fallness has announced. The room will undergo some repairs this week and will be ready for members shortly thereafter.

Mr. Fallness received a wire last evening from the factory stating that the last shipment had been made from Chicopee, Mass., on Nov. 19, and is now in transit to this city.

CHARITY SHOW, PAIR OF SIXES, FRIDAY NIGHT

GREATEST OF ALL COMEDY SUCCESSES WILL BE PRODUCED HERE.

BY GIRLS' CLUB AND ELKS

ADVANCE SALES INDICATE ALL ATTENDANCE RECORDS WILL BE BROKEN.

The production by this name, to be presented by the Elks and Community Girls at the Auditorium tomorrow night, December 12, is sure a chuckle-spreader, according to the most authentic reports. You will laugh heartily when you see and hear it and you've just got to chuckle for weeks afterwards when you think about it.

A Thousand Laughs.

"A Pair of Sixes" is a happy, come-along farce comedy, brimful of pep and action, with a good, hearty laugh in every line. It is the kind of show that will be used for years to come as a standard to gauge others by. In the future all professional companies coming to Thief River Falls will have to look well to their laurels in order to present to the public shows as good as "A Pair of Sixes."

The cast for this show has been working hard and faithfully for the past several weeks in order to present to the public a performance of this splendid piece which will compare favorably with any road company playing it. All feel sure at this time of being able to make the most of the opportunity afforded by this scream of stageland.

A Brilliant Cast.

There has been a certain amount of criticism voiced by people who object to cards over the choice of a play with this title for presentation at a charity performance. For the benefit of all such it is here disclosed that the title refers to a pair of shoes and not to cards in any way, shape or form. The cards were used in the advertising matter to attract attention and it looks very much as if the plan succeeded. As a matter of fact there is nothing in any manner pertaining to the play that is in the least objectionable. It is clean, wholesome fun from beginning to end.

According to the program the play has been passed upon by the National Board of Censors, which is composed of the following well-known citizens: Hon. Nicholas W. Tarrant, Math Barzen and Andy Eckbaum. The presentation is under the direction of Mrs. Charles A. Pitkin and the cast is as follows:

Sally Parker, 200 chews a minute stenographer—Miss Irene Patrick.

The Shipping Clerk, Member U. S. R. R. Administration—Ed. Brevig.

Mrs. Nettleton, a bundle of smiles and nerves—Miss Una Nelson.

Geo. B. Nettleton, a business man by right of bluff—H. W. Protzeller.

T. Boggs Johns, a violet colored butler lover—L. H. Lawrence.

Tony Toler, a pink pill peddler—E. O. Mogensen.

Miss Florence Cole, T Boggs Johns' "Home Girl."—Miss Marie Nelson.

Mr. Samuel Applegate, a newly married man—Ted McGinn.

Thomas J. Vanderholt, a regular legal fixer—Lawrence Hormanson.

Lena, a maid that wants to go back to Sweden—Miss Laura Stopple.

OFFICERS ELECTED BY LOCAL LODGES

MASONS, EASTERN STARS, ODD FELLOWS, REBEKAHS AND ROYAL NEIGHBORS.

This is the season when nearly all lodges elect their officers for the ensuing year, installations being generally conducted shortly after the opening of the new year.

At the regular meeting on Monday evening the Masons selected the following for the leading positions for the ensuing year: O. L. Ihle, worshipful master; E. O. Berge, senior warden; T. H. Chittick, junior warden; C. L. Hansen, treasurer; G. L. Sterns, secretary; Ed. Lee, trustee for three years.

The Eastern Stars last evening elected the following officers for the year: Mrs. L. G. Larsen, worthy matron; H. C. Johnson, worthy patron; Miss Effie Hamry, associate matron; Miss Anna Quale, secretary; Mrs. C. R. Crandall, treasurer; Mrs. H. C. Johnson, conductress; Mrs. E. G. Mogensen, associate conductress.

The Masons and Eastern Stars will hold a joint installation sometime early in January, according to present plans, this being the usual custom.

Lone Pine Odd Fellows Lodge elected officers on Tuesday evening, the following being chosen: B. E. Cogel N. G.; V. R. Roburge, V. G.; Bernhard Knudsen, secretary; Adolf Eklund, treasurer.

The officers elected by Lion Rebekahs are as follows: Mrs. Cora Morgan, N. G.; Mrs. Louise Gasow, V. G.; Mrs. Mae Kline, secretary; Miss Gustie Johnson, treasurer.

The new officers of the Royal Neighbors are: Oracle, Mrs. Bessie Robinson; vice oracle, Mrs. Ethel McClelland; recorder, Mrs. Orra M. Richardson; receiver, Mrs. Abbie Wasgren; chancellor, Mrs. Hattie Menther; marshall, Mrs. E. Gillette; inner sentinel, Mrs. Emma Davidson; outer sentinel, Mrs. Hilda DeVelling; manager, Mrs. Nettie Johnson; physicians, Drs. O. F. Mellby and Jacob Biedermann.

White Way in Full Blast.

Supt. Legvold of the light and water department has received instructions from the council to light all the lamps on the White Way standards from now until after the holidays. Owing to the high cost of operation only the top lamp has been utilized during the summer and fall but it was considered advisable to light up during the holidays, particularly as the business houses will all be open in the evenings over that period and there will be a great many people in the city in the evenings.

N. D. MERCHANT TO SPEAK AT BANQUET

F. P. MANN OF DEVILS LAKE, HERE MONDAY, JANUARY FIFTH.

The Thief River Falls Merchants' association will be host at another banquet on the evening of Monday, Jan. 5. The speaker on this occasion will be F. P. Mann of Devils Lake, one of the most widely known business men in the Northwest. The complete arrangements for this event have not yet been perfected but are in the hands of competent committees and there will be nothing lacking in the preparations. The merchants have appointed standing committees to have charge of these affairs in the future, the membership being as follows: Speaker and reception, E. O. Mogensen, C. L. Hansen, W. W. Prichard, Jr. Musical program, Geo. Loken, Perry Froseth, Gynther Tessum. Banquet committee and hall arrangements, Carl Christofferson, O. L. Cronstrom, E. K. Aasen. Hall decorations, Florence Lien, Anna Aspelund, Josie Philipson. Ticket arrangements, A. S. Sapero, H. B. Newell and A. S. Lieberman, Charles Lieberman and L. L. Cohn, C. S. Simonson and A. M. Langseth, W. H. Mulry and H. K. Strand.

COAL FOR ONE WEEK ONLY NOW ALLOWED

STRICT ORDERS ARE AGAIN ISSUED TO DEALERS BY GOVERNMENT.

The coal situation is again such that distribution has been restricted to essential industries by the fuel administration. H. A. Pratt and W. E. Baker, agents of the Soo and Great Northern respectively, has been notified by the railway administration with regard to the preferential plan to be followed in the allotment, the allotment, the rules as they apply to Thief River Falls being as follows: The order applies to coal now on hand and in the yards as well as to any hereafter received.

First—Postoffice, county and municipal institutions and private hospitals.

Second—Public utilities and newspaper offices.

Third—Public buildings and other buildings housing families, offices, stores, bakeries, laundries, appartment and other residence buildings.

Fourth—Cold storage plants.

Fifth—Creameries, milk bottling establishments.

The above rotation only applies to Thief River Falls as the preferential orders are different for the larger cities, such as state capitals, places containing army or navy barracks, etc.

It is requested that the local fuel administrators cooperate with railroad agents in checking applications for the release of coal and the supervision of distribution by retail dealers as well as in ordering of any curtailment found necessary.

It is further urged that retail dealers who distribute coal for household requirements, heating, hotels, buildings, hospitals, etc., should take every precaution to see that the coal is only delivered where it is absolutely required and then only in such limited quantities that the supply may be distributed widely and prevent suffering.

Raise is Postponed.

A request for a raise in salary from $60 to $75 per month was received from Miss Gena Granum, city librarian, and laid over until after the first of the year by the city council on Tuesday evening. The request explained that the services of an assistant were now being dispensed with, the librarian doing the greater part of the work herself. H. L. Tollum, janitor at the library, also asked that his salary be raised from $30 to $40, his request meeting the same fate.

Farm Loan Convention.

The annual meeting of Valhall Farm Loan association will be held at the auditorium on Jan. 13. This branch has had a most prosperous and successful year and it is expected that the meeting will be full of interest.

TRAIN SERVICE ON G. N. LINES TO NORTH CUT

TRI-WEEKLY SCHEDULE RUN BETWEEN CROOKSTON AND WARROAD.

ONE SOO TRAIN EFFECTED

STOPS AT MOOSE LAKE INSTEAD OF GOING THROUGH TO DULUTH.

The shortage of coal is disorganizing railroad schedules all over the country, 60 trains having been taken off in the section of which Chicago forms the hub. The railway administration states that the arrangement is only temporary, it being the intention to reestablish the old order as soon as the fuel situation makes such proceeding possible. Indications are now that the trouble between the miners and operators has been patched up—at least temporarily—and that coal will be mined again within a short time. The understanding among railroaders is that as soon as the shortage is relieved the former schedules will be restored.

Great Northern Cuts.

The most important change, so far as the order affects Thief River Falls, is curtailing the service on the Crookston-Warroad branch. Hereafter there will only be one train a day over this line, the north run being made on Mondays, Wednesdays and Saturdays and the south run on the three intervening days. Freights over the division have not been interfered with. [illegible] even hinted that this department of the service may be increased. There will be a passenger train to Crookston this afternoon but none for the north at 11:15 as heretofore.

Some Soo Changes.

No trains have been taken off on the Winnipeg division of the Soo, but a few minor changes are announced. The Duluth train leaving here at 7 a. m. will run only as far as Moose Lake, where passengers for points south and east of that village will transfer to another train.

The sleeper attaced to No. 109 of the Soo from Minneapolis, which has been set off here at 2:40 in the morning and picked up by No. 110 from Winnipeg the following night, has been discontinued, much to the regret of a large number of traveling men.

The convenient arrangement whereby it was possible to leave Thief River Falls over the Soo at 9:50 in the evening and connect with the Great Northern east-bound train at Erskine is also upset, trains No. 35 and 36 on the Grand Forks-Duluth line having been taken off.

The changes are causing much inconvenience and it is hoped that the old order of things wil soon be reestablished.

LOCAL MEN FORM NEW ICE COMPANY

WILL ERECT TWO STORAGE HOUSES AND BEGIN BUSINESS AT ONCE.

The Big Four Ice company is the name of a new concern which will soon be bidding for the patronage of Thief River Falls people. A. F. Schwartz, Martin Johnson and Ross Trickle, all of this city, have formed a company for the handling of the product and are already delivering in quantity lots. The ice is being cut on the Red Lake river, above its junction with the Thief, and is thus as pure as any to be found anywhere.

The erection of one ice house will be begun at once on the west side of the river and another will probably be built on the east side later in the season. The work of plowing and gathering the product has been going on for some days, the firm having contracts for filling a number of private ice houses about the city.

It is the intention to have a sufficient quantity of the summer necessity stored to be able to meet not only the requirements of the city but also to ship in large quantities to points west and south. The members of the firm believe that there is an excellent opening here for anyone able to supply the demand and they are determined that there shall be no question raised on this score.

The offices of the company will be at the former Newbury barn on Second street, between Main and LaBree avenues.

Hose Has Advanced.

Fire Chief Paul Midderigh submitted a request for 500 feet of new hose this week and with it a letter from the manufacturers quoting a price of $1.05 per foot. The advance on this particular article is not so startling as might be expected, the last bought for the city costing 95 cents per foot.

Natural Gas Discovered.

Last Wednesday morning while Ed. Lyon's crew was drilling a well on the Kvark farm three miles from Hallock, they struck natural gas at the depth of 125 feet. The flow then came up with a great force, catching fire from a heater that was used. A flame of roaring, burning gas over 50 feet high followed. Gradually the flame was quietened as the pressure from below threw up piles of fine sand which in time put out the flame. At present the shaft is plugged awaiting the arrival of an inspector from the state department in St. Paul. The entire country is greatly excited over the discovery, and the people anxiously await the arrival of the expert.

CLOSING NOTICE.

In order that the clerks may have an opportunity of fully enjoying Christmas and New Years, the public is hereby notified that all stores will be closed at 6 o'clock in the evening both on Christmas eve and New Years eve.

Stores will remain open until 10 o'clock every evening on and after Dec. 15, but not on Christmas eve. It is hoped the public will understand the very excellent reasons for making this ruling.

TO FIND COST OF ELECTRIC CURRENT

METERS TO BE INSTALLED AT BOTH PLANTS TO DETERMINE POWER USED.

At the council meeting on Tuesday evening a letter was read from the concern which has made a tentative proposition for the purchase of the power dam in this city. The communication stated that in case a ten year contract was entered into a rate of two and three-quarter cents per kilowatt hour could be made at this time with the probability that it would be cut down to one and three-quarter cents if the water power could be developed to its full capacity. F. H. Josselyn, the writer, stated, however, that he considered a price lower than that quoted to be impossible at this time.

The council took no action in the matter other than vote to install meters at both the dam and oil engine plants in order to ascertain how much power is costing at the present time. After this has been discovered to a certainty an engineer will be engaged to go over the entire plant and find just how much it is costing the city now to furnish electricity. Absolutely dependable figures are lacking and until these are obtained the council does not feel justified in entertaining any proposition dealing with the subject.

ALL SEWER WORK HALTS FOR SEASON

ENGINEER HERE TO LOOK AFTER JOB RECOMMENDS SUCH ACTION.

—. —. Bradley, head of the engineering concern in charge of the street improvement in this city, was here this week for the purpose of inspecting the job, as far as it has gone. Appearing before the council on Tuesday evening he recommended that all work be suspended for the season as the weather has reached a point where it is no longer either profitable or safe to continue. The council accordingly notified Holt & George, the contractors, to cease all operations except filling in where this proved necessary in order to prevent freezing.

Mr. Bradley also went over the entire situation with the council members yesterday afternoon. The agreement was reached that nothing further should be done until spring.

GRANT AUDITORIUM FOR BASKET BALL

TEAM GRANTED PRIVILEGE WHEN PLAYING TEAMS FROM OUT OF TOWN.

Supt. W. A. Ziegler of the city schools appeared before the city council on Tuesday evening and requested that the high school basket ball team be granted the use of the auditorium for games when pitted against out-of-town teams. He explained that the gymnasium at the Lincoln school was too small and that the beam across the ceiling made it almost impossible to play the game properly. He also said that the team was willing to pay for the use of the room and guarantee that no damage would result from their presence. Math Barzen spoke in favor of granting the privilege and this was done with the understanding that it will be withdrawn in case anything about the premises is damaged.

The rental was placed at $12 in order to cover the cost of moving the seats and for the light used.

Backe Sentenced.

Bertil Backe, found guilty of larceny by a jury in the Marshall county court house at Warren, was this week sentenced to serve an indeterminate sentence by Judge Grindeland. The evidence at the trial showed that Backe did not in any manner profit by any of the transactions in which he became involved and it is conceded that his trouble was brought about rather by lack of judgment than any criminal intent.

PREPARING FOR GREATEST XMAS FETE EVER HELD

EVERYBODY GETTING BACK OF MOVEMENT IN MOST SATISFACTORY MANNER.

ALL MUST MEET ON DEC. 21

FINANCE COMMITTEES SHOULD REPORT IN FULL TO THAT DATE.

Are you putting your pennies and such small change into the little savings banks found in every business the history of this entire section, fellow has any small coins in his pockets these days. They all go toward helping defray the expenses of the greatest Christmas celebration in the history of Thief River Falls. Much of it will be needed, but the indications are that it will be forthcoming. L. A. Lampert, general chairman of arrangements, says there is no doubt but that the necessary sum will be oversubscribed, although but few organizations have as yet reported.

Individual Collections.

The different lodges and unions in the city have appointed finance committees of their own who will see to it that the right thing is done. The rules and charters of many organizations forbid the spending of money out of the treasury for any but specified purposes, but the individual members are not stopped from kicking in to their heart's content or to the extent of their ability. While some contributions will not bear the official stamp of any lodge they will have been secured thru the membership and the same end is served. Officials should notify E. P. Brevig or C. W. Vorachek of any action taken as these gentlemen compose the finance committee and it is necessary that they should know just about how much to depend upon. Reports must be made by the 15th.

To Decide Thursday.

At the joint meeting of the Commercial club and Merchants' association on Thursday evening it will be decided just how these two organizations will participate in the big undertaking. Every member stands ready to do his full share both individually and as a club or association member and there will be no fault to find with the manner in which they respond.

Meeting of Committees.

Chairman Lampert has called upon all committees to report at a meeting to be held at 2:30 on the afternoon of Sunday, Dec. 21 in order that the final steps may be taken.

It will be the greatest and happiest observance of the Christmas season held in northwestern Minnesota this year.

CATTLE SOLD MUST BE AS REPRESENTED

SELLER RESPONSIBLE WHERE PURCHASE IS MADE IN GOOD FAITH.

County Attorney Theo. Quale of Pennington county last week received an opinion given by C. Lewis Weeks, assistant attorney general, with reference to the interpretation placed upon the law referring to the sale of pure bred cattle in this state and the responsibility of the seller for statements made in sale bills or advertisements. Mr. Quale's letter of inquiry was as follows:

"What construction does your Department place on Section 4721, Statutes 1913, in regard to certificate of health furnished by the seller of pure bred cattle for breeding purposes? The question arises in instances where a farmer makes a public farm sale. He has a considerable number of grade cattle, possibly three or four head of pure blooded cattle. These are sold with the rest of his stock. Does the fact that his sale bill mentions that these few head are pure blooded or the fact that the auctioneer makes mention of it in offering these particular cattle for sale, constitute sale 'for breeding purposes,' so as to require the seller to furnish a certificate of health before delivery of animal?"

Mr. Weeks is of the opinion that where the buyer purchased an animal in good faith and on the strength of presentations made by the seller the latter is under the law bound to make good, although there might be a legal question as to his responsibility. Regarding this he says:

"In case of a criminal prosecution under Section 4722, it is doubtful whether a jury would be authorized to find the seller guilty of selling for 'breeding purposes' upon no evidence other than that set forth in your letter. On the other hand, if the successful bidder stated that he was buying for breeding purposes then and in such case, in my opinion, the seller would violate the law if he did not furnish the certificate. So, too, without so explicit a statement of his intention on the part of the buyer, a jury might find that the buyer bought for breeding purposes and hold the seller chargeable with knowledge of such intention or purpose on the part of the buyer."

Mr. Quale is asked to urge persons dealing in cattle to comply with the obvious intention of the law even though it is not exactly clear from a technical standpoint that a violation would result if a certificate of health were not furnished.

Will Show Health Film.

The Pennington County Public Health association has secured the health film sent out by the state as an aid in the campaign of education along general hygienic lines and it will be presented at two places in the county. The first will be at Goodridge on Dec. 18, when it will be shown at the moving picture house in that village. On the 19th the same film will be run at the Princess theatre in this city.

The subjects handled are said to be of great interest to every person in the community and presented in such manner as to make it most interesting. Miss Lulu Saucer, public nurse, will be in charge of the presentation on both occasions.

FINE PROGRAM AT MEMORIAL SERVICE

C.R.MIDDLETON OF BAUDETTE, DELIVERS STIRRING PATRIOTIC ADDRESS.

There was a good attendance at the annual memorial service held by Thief River Falls Lodge No. 1308, B. P. O. E., at Masonic hall last Sunday afternoon. The beautiful ceremony was carried out by the officers, there being a number of special features to add impressiveness to the occasion.

The Memorial address was delivered by C. R. Middleton of Baudette. The speaker emphasized the importance of such organizations as the Elks' lodge just at this time when there are so many agencies having for the apparent purpose the overthrowing of all constituted authority. He spoke of the great work by the order in the past and of the services of American boys during the late war. Those who were not required to take any active part in that conflict, he said, should make it their one special concern to see that the principles for which others fought and died be upheld against all the dangerousisms which now threaten their destruction.

A mixed quartet composed of Mrs. O. F. Mellby, Mrs. Irma Mallory Fisher, C. Durrin and E. M. Bennes, sang "The Vacant Chair." Mrs. Fisher gave a beautiful rendition of "Oh, Divine Redeemer," the Elks quartet, Messrs. Durrin, Olson, Niclai and Bennes, also sang an appropriate number and several selections were given by the Elk's orchestra.

The departed brethren of the lodge in whose memory the services were particularly held were W. W. Pierce, M. C. Cutter, K. O. Dock, H. L. Anderson, W. J. Gorman, J. H. McKinney, George G. Johnson and Charles A. Pitkin.

Upset the Hose Sleigh.

Driver Lee will hereafter keep the fire team well in hand when exercising it in the winter. He hitched to the hose sleigh the other day just to let the horses get a little fresh air. At the corner of Third and Horace a lady was crossing the street taking no notice of her surroundings so Lee gently touched up the hand siren. The horses started for a fire somewhere, turning the corner with such speed as to upset the sleigh, scattering the teamster and about 600 feet of hose all over the place. They were stopped before any further damage resulted.

Tries Job on Daily.

B. E. Bothun, who joined The Times force shortly after his graduation from high school in this city about four years ago and who again resumed his former place after serving two years in France, left last Thursday for Chippewa Falls, Wis., where he will take a reporter's position with the Daily Herald. "Ben" was raised in Thief River Falls and his circle of acquaintances includes practically every person residing in the place. He is a likeable fellow and everyone will hope that he makes good in the larger field he now tackles.

CLASS WILL STUDY MASONIC HISTORY

GRAND LODGE REPRESENTATIVE ADDRESSES MEMBERS SATDAY EVENING.

Robert E. Denfeld, for 30 years superintendent of schools of Duluth, delivered an address to local Masons last Saturday evening, there being a fair representation present to hear him. Prof. Denfeld is at present touring the state under the auspices of the grand lodge of the order for the purpose of interesting members in Masonic study. He delivered a most interesting address on the ancient history of the order, showing it to have flourished in times so remote that all authentic record of its beginning has been lost.

As a result of his visit there will be a class formed in the near future for the purpose of systematically studying the subject. The secretary was instructed to secure the necessary treatises and it is likely that the work will be taken up at once.

CLUB TONIGHT WILL HEAR OF HOUSING PLAN

COMMITTEE EXPECTED TO REPORT AND SUGGEST REMEDY FOR CONDITION.

LARGE TURNOUT DESIRED

EVERY BUSINESS MAN AND PROPERTY OWNER INTERESTED IN OUTCOME.

The joint meeting of the Commercial club and Business Men's association to be held at the club rooms this evening may turn out to be the most important in the history of these organizations.

The one particular subject scheduled to come up for consideration is that of providing houses for the rapidly increasing population of the city. Even during the fall and early winter months there has been a scarcity of desirable living quarters and it is realized that unless something is done before spring the city is bound to suffer. Every day discloses new facts that emphasize the seriousness of the situation and the business men have decided to take steps at once to provide some relief.

Ready to Report.

At a previous meeting a committee composed of M. V. Evenson, F. H. Herrick and Math Barzen was appointed to make an investigation of the exact condition and formulate some plan for relief. Mr. Evenson made a trip to the cities where he interviewed owners and builders of apartment houses with regard to the probable cost of erecting a building capable of housing from 20 to 30 families, it being believed that some such enterprise could be financed and would serve to help the situation until a systematic building program could be worked out. It is everywhere realized that the need is urgent and that something must be done at once if the influx sure to take place in the spring is to be turned to advantage.

Will Present Plans.

While in the cities Mr. Evenson secured plans for a building such as he thought would be needed here and these will be presented for inspection at the meeting. The matter of cost will be gone into and plans for financing the enterprise taken up. This last feature will require careful consideration. It has been suggested that the business interests of the city get back of the move by loaning the money needed at a low rate of interest, depending on the added business brought to the city for the greater part of the return on their investment. Just how this proposition is being received will be disclosed this evening.

The question concerns everybody and there should be a record turnout.

A Farmers' Exchange.

The Soo railroad announces the establishment of a Farm Market Bulletin which will be issued monthly, or as often as conditions warrant, and which will be posted conspicuously in all Soo Line stations. The bulletin is designed to act as a medium of exchange among farmers, for livestock and agricultural products for which there is no local market.

Farmers wishing to list what they wish to buy or sell with this department should notify H. S. Funston, supervisor of agriculture, Soo Line, Minneapolis, by the 20th of each month.

Livestock, poultry, farm products, eggs—in fact anything produced or wanted on the farm—may be listed. There is no charge for the service, which should prove of much benefit to farmers and stock raisers particularly.

Child Welfare Board.

The county commissioners, at their last meeting, were waited upon by a number of citizens from different sections of the county who requested that a child welfare board be appointed having the county as it's field. The plan was favorably considered and Mrs. J. M. Bishop was made chairman of the new body, the other members being Mrs. L. G. Larsen of Thief River Falls, and Peter C. Wold of Highlanding township.

Secures Paint Expert.

A. C. Stoddard, formerly with the Stobar System, sign and automobile painters, Grand Forks, has been secured to take charge of the painting department of the Evenson & Sons garage. He has had a great deal of experience in this class of business and comes recommended as a workman of the very highest class.

The new Evenson garage is fully equipped to take charge of all work of this kind. The cars are run onto an electric elevator and taken to the second story where they are placed in a specially fitted paint room. Here the construction is such as to make everything practically dust proof, an important matter where a fine finish is desired. A dry kiln or bake room is also a feature, the paint being practically enameled onto the frame before the machine is removed. The Evensons stand ready to back every job turned out of their factory with a binding guarantee and should have all the business they can attend to. This is a good time of year to have matters of this kind looked after.

SOCIETY and Club

Parents' and Teachers' Association.

By far the best meeting of the Parents' and Teachers' association was held in the high school assembly room on Thursday evening, Dec. 4th. Two questions of great importance were discussed. One of them was a question of having parties in the high school gymnasium. There has in the past been so much objectionable dancing in the halls of the city by high school students, that a serious effort is being made to furnish entertainment so that it will be unnecessary for students to seek amusement under some of the deplorable conditions that have existed heretofore. It is a highly commendable and proper thing that students should be permitted to have the use of the gymnasium for school parties, that these parties be properly supervised and that the hours shall be proper. This is a decidedly forward movement. Everywhere things of this kind are being done and we do not want the young folks in our schools placed in such situations that immorality is the result. It is perfectly proper that young folks should seek amusement. They will seek it no matter what is done by all the rest of the world. It is perfectly right that they should be privileged to entertain themselves and as long as this is true, the proper place for it is in the gymnasium of the school building, under proper supervision and conduct. The discussions along these lines were many and enthusiastic.

Another matter that was taken up was that of developing a school here that should actually meet the educational needs of pupils going to school. Some of the phases of the Smith-Hughes school were presented by the superintendent. The world is undergoing a monstrous re-construction period and schools themselves are caught in this whirlpool of unrest. If the schools are to be brought down to a sensible level wherein everybody can find such education as will actually fit them for life, that is a thing highly to be desired and that is the sole purpose of the Smith-Hughes schools. In doing this, the question for Thief River Falls is, shall it be done for only students of the district or shall it be done for students of the northwestern part of Minnesota? Here is an opportunity not to be quickly passed over. There was much discussion of this phase of work at this parents' and teachers' meeting. President Fuller has called another Parents'-Teachers' meeting for Thursday evening, Dec. 18. He has asked business men in town to talk on this matter, so that it may be somewhat more fully understood. It is anticipated that there will be an intelligent and interesting discussion at this meeting.

The following people spoke: President H. Fuller, Dr. O. F. Mellby, W. A. Boreen, Mrs. Larsen, Mrs. Shaw, Mrs. Vance, Mrs. Melgaard, Mrs. Bishop, Mr. Halvorson and Mr. T. P. Anderson.

The girls' high school chorus sang two selections that were very much appreciated. The girls in the chorus were: Ruth Kiland, Luella Pederson, Gladys Nelson, Marie Cruse, Pearl Shetler, Pearl Sands, Shirley Anderson, Dorothy Lane and Alyce Berg.

Miss Johnson's second grade from the Northrop building sang some kindergarten songs and Miss Larson's second grade from the Washington building dramatized "The Got Boy." Miss Fjelstad's third grade, from the Knox building dramatized the story of "Epaminandos." The little folks did exceedingly well considering the fact that there was no special practice but only a sample of the regular work that they do in their school every day.

Eighth Grade Party.

The eighth grade pupils gave a party at the Central school on Wednesday, Nov. 26th. The guests were: Supt. and Mrs. Ziegler, Miss Haylar, the Misses Batten, Mortensen, Jordan and Zellmer; the kindergarten teachers, Miss Fristedt and Miss Benson. As each person entered the school a numbered advertisement was pinned on his back. Later on in the evening these proved to be of much enjoyment. Each advertisement having been numbered, one of the entertainment committee read off the title of each, according to the number. Each person not knowing what his number was, was anxious to know what he was advertising. There were many other games that followed to keep them busy enjoying themselves. About half-nine a tasty lunch consisting of pickles, sandwiches, cake, hot chocolate and ice cream, was served. The social committee had charge of this. There was plenty to eat and everybody had all they wanted. At eleven o'clock the pupils all left so as to be in good spirit for the next day, which was Thanksgiving.

Woman's Club Meeting.

The Woman's club will hold its meeting in the commercial club rooms on Monday evening at 7:30 o'clock. A splendid musical program has been prepared by the musical section composed of members of the Woman's club and Community Girls club. Following is the program:

Song—"It Came Upon a Midnight Clear"—Mixed Quartet.

Duet — Mrs. Mellby and Mrs. Boreen.

Reading—"The Other Wise Man"—Miss Taylor.

Solo—"It Came Upon a Midnight Clear"—Mrs. Halvorson.

Christmas Carols—Mrs. Brink, Miss Zeh, Miss Hoorn, Mrs. Fisher.

"Christmas Lullaby"—Mrs. Brink.

Song—"Joy to the World"—Audience.

U. C. T. Party.

The members of the local U. C. T. will give a party in the Odd Fellows hall on Saturday evening. A very fine program has been prepared and a good social time is assured for all who attend.

Married Folks Dancing Party.

About fifty-five married couples enjoyed a dance at the Masonic hall on Tuesday evening. Dancing commenced at eight o'clock and at 12 o'clock a lunch, furnished by the ladies, was served. A collection was taken of which $10 was donated to the Community Christmas celebration. The committee in charge was as follows: Mr. and Mrs. John Malafa, Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Ohm, Mr. and Mrs. L. J. Cerny and Mrs. Lillian Tyrer.

Girls Community Club Meeting.

The Girls Community club meeting in the Commerical club rooms next Monday evening. All members are urged to be present as this will be a special business meeting.

Birthday Party.

Last Thursday afternoon Francis Stitt was host to ten of his little friends at his home, 901 LaBree ave. N., the event being in honor of his fifth birthday anniversary. Games were played and a lunch was served at five o'clock.

Mrs. Froehlich Entertains.

Mrs. H. W. Froehlich entertained a few of her lady friends in honor of Mrs. S. R. Robinson of Oslo, who is a guest at the home of her sister, Mrs. F. H. Herrick. Needlework formed the diversion of the afternoon and at five o'clock a very fine lunch was served.

Twila Glines Entertains.

Twila Glines entertained a number of her friends Saturday evening at her home. The evening was spent in playing games. Light refreshments were served at 12 o'clock.

Ladies Aid.

The Trinity Lutheran church ladies aid meets on next Thursday, Dec. 18, in the church basement. A donation lunch will be served at three o'clock. Everybody welcome.

PANDOLFO GUILTY; OTHERS ACQUITTED

PROMOTER CONVICTED ON FOUR COUNTS CHARGING MISUSE OF MAILS.

Samuel Pandolfo, president of the Pan Motor company of St. Cloud, Minn., on Saturday evening was found guilty of using the mails to defraud in connection with the promotion of the motor company. He was found guilty of conspiracy. Twelve defendants were acquitted. The jury deliberated 10 hours, taking 20 ballots.

The punishment of each count is one year in prison or a fine of $5,000 or both.

A telegram received by the defendants from "Citizens of St. Cloud," stated "no matter what the verdict is, St. Cloud is with you to a man and will greet you with a brass band."

Four of the St. Cloud businessmen who withstood nine weeks fire of federal prosecutors wept in their relief at acquittal.

The outcome of this case has been watched with a great deal of attention in Thief River Falls and throughout northern Minnesota generally, there being many stock olders of the Pan Motor company in this section.

AMERICAN LEGION NEWS

Elmer J. Eklund Post.

A new plan of handling dues was adopted at the National Convention which will relieve a great deal of the burden now falling upon the secretary of the various state organizations and local posts in keeping track of dues of members expiring at various times throughout the year, which is an endless task. To alleviate this difficulty dues will be paid for calendar years without regard to the time of the year, which may work a little hardship on those joining late in the year, but it was considered impossible for the secretaries to handle the memberships in any other manner without a score of assistants.

National Dues.

A new plan of handling the national situation was adopted wherein the national dues for 1920 are included in the subscription to the American Legion Weekly, so that the national dues are $1.00 for the year 1920. The Legion Weekly has been adopted as the official paper of the American Legion. A credit of 25 cents is allowed to 1919 members.

State Dues.

The state dues are 25 cents for the year 1920, but for all members joining the post before November 11, 1919 a credit of 15 cents is allowed, which will make the state dues only 10 cents.

Local Dues.

The local dues are 50 cents for the year 1920.

Summary.

Members joining before November 11, 1919, pay as follows:

National dues including magazine for 1920	$ .75
State dues for 1920	.10
Local dues for 1920	.50
	$1.35

Members having paid $1.00 for American Legion Weekly will only pay 35 cents.

New members pay as follows:

National dues, including magazine for 1920	$1.00
State dues for 1920	.25
Local dues for 1920	.50
	$1.75

Payment of Dues.

All dues are payable before January 1, 1920, and checks should be mailed to G. Howard Smith, secretary, Thief River Falls, Minn., but should be made payable to Ed. Brevig, treasurer.

Legion Buttons.

The post has purchased the official buttons for its members and are selling them to the individual members at 25 cents each, and if you desire a button add 25 cents to your remittance.

If you were wounded and are entitled to a silver center button, please advise the secretary.

The button is a replica of the Victory button issued by the Government with the American Legion border.

Membership Cards.

Cards interchangeable and good in any Post or Club Room in the United States will be forwarded as soon as received from state headquarters.

PUTTING IN THE TEETH.

The report of A. Mitchell Palmer, attorney general of the United States, submitted to the senate, discloses a state of affairs with regard to Bolshevik activities that is little short of astounding. Americans generally have regarded this movement as something that would run its course in a short time and could not possibly secure any kind of a foothold in free America, but the situation is shown to be alarming. Mr. Palmer pleads for legislation that will permit his department to deal with the menace, there being no adequate machinery for this purpose now at hand.

A bill covering the deficiency has been introduced by Representative Davey of Ohio. If this is enacted into law it will make the kind of propaganda carried on by these anarchists decidedly unhealthy. Among other things it contains the following clause defining sedition and providing for its punishment;

"Whoever, with the intent to levy war against the United States, or to cause the change, overthrow, or destruction of the Government or of any of the laws or authority thereof, or to cause the overthrow or destruction of all forms of law or organized government, or to oppose, prevent, hinder, or delay the execution of any law of the United States, or the free performance by the United States Government or any one of its officers, agents, or employees of its or his public duty, commits, or attempts or threatens to commit, any act of force against any person or any property, or any act of terrorism, hate, revenge, or injury against the person or property of any officer, agent, or employee of the United States, shall be deemed guilty of sedition, and, upon conviction thereof, shall be punished by a fine not exceeding $10,000, or by imprisonment for a period not exceeding twenty years, or by both such fine and imprisonment, in the discretion of the court."

Representative Davey has published a pamphlet on the same subject for general distribution. Here are given facts and figures showing what has been done thus far to suppress this anarchistic tendency and ways pointed out for its complete suppression. The author quotes Mr. Palmer's statement to the effect that there are at the present time 222 foreign language newspapers and other publications actively engaged in advocating the overthrow of existing government, while 106 published in English are following the same course. This constitutes a menace to our institutions of which he hopes that our people will take cognizance without delay.

To the citizens of the northwest inhabited largely by persons of Norwegian birth or ancestry, it should be a source of pride and congragulation that none of these publications are issued in that language. There are also fewer seditious publications of any kind in this neighborhood than in any section of similar size in the entire country.

The Minnesota senators and representatives are all supporting the Davey bill and it would certainly be a good idea for the people of the state to let them know that their attitude receives unqualified endorsement at home. Write a letter to your congressman and senator upholding his position. It will help when the matter is brought up for final action.

A MOST URGENT CALL.

The ordinary American is justified in considering the drain upon his purse these days as something awful. He not only has to meet the price advances on all things absolutely necessary to his existence, but he is also required to come to the aid of others not so fortunately situated as he is himself. He is somewhat accustomed to this by now, however, and only wonders how he will manage to meet all the demands.

In making up his budget there is one charitable enterprise he should not forget. If he does it will mean that human lives have been lost by reason of his oversight or neglect.

This most urgent cry for help comes from the Near East. The Armenians particularly are in need of aid—so much so that unless it is speedily forthcoming the toll in lives will be a disgrace to civilization. At least 200,000 persons are partically given up as lost no matter what steps are taken for their succor, but it is hoped that the remainder can be saved.

It should be remembered that these Armenians are Christians, that the remnant of the race which escaped massacre at the hands of the Turk was driven from the land and was not permitted to return in time to secure any kind of crop during the past year and that few nations outside of America are in any position to extend any assistance.

Gov. Burnquist and other members of the committee in Minnesota have issued an appeal, a copy of which will be found in another column. Read it over carefully and then act without delay. Never did so much depend on your prompt response.

Help Save This Remnant of Armenian Christians

Another little child has shrivelled up and died! The mother, creeping back, gaunt and cold, from the desert, has put down the thin little bones with those that strew the road, so many, many miles, and sunk beside them, never to rise again.

Only a little child, and a mother, out on the bleak Armenian road. But what is that vision hovering there, and what is that voice the cold winds bear to the ears of our souls? "I was hungry, and ye gave me no meat; I was naked and ye clothed me not."

Today—yes, today, while we are preparing our gifts for Christmas—many more of these little children—not a hundred, nor a thousand, but two hundred and fifty thousand of them—are still wandering uncared for and alone in that dead land, "their weazened skins clinging in fear to their rattling bones," and they are crying out with gasping breath: "I am hungry! I am hungry!"

Now the children and the mothers in Armenia are dreading the winter. "Just human remnants, they are, not protected, many of them, from the elements by even the dignity of rags."

But we can feed and clothe those perishing ones—some of them—before it is too late. Hoover has cabled from the Causasus: "It is impossible that the loss of 200,000 lives can at this day be prevented, but the remaining 500,000 can possibly be saved." They need not starve and freeze and die if we will save them. Open now your heart and purse. They need not die! Give ye them to eat!

Today nearly eight hundred thousand destitute Armenians—His people—need food and clothing. He took little children in His arms and blessed them. Today will you take one or more of these sad, cold, hungry little children of Armenia into your arms and heart, in His name, and give them food, and warmth and life?

"Inasmuch as ye have done it to these My brethren, ye have done it to Me."

The pledge card for your Christmas gift to Him is here in this letter.

Faithfully yours,

COAL INSPECTION NECESSARY.

The price asked for coal in Thief River Falls at the present time is about $15.50 per ton but the amount paid is nearer $22. The difference is represented by the quantity of material received by the buyer which comes in the same load but is not coal. Slag, slate and stone form a considerable part of every consignment and were it not that people are glad to secure fuel under any conditions a howl would go up loud enough to compel attention.

It is not likely that much of anything can be done about this matter at the present time, but the result will probably be the selling of coal on grade hereafter—in most states at least. Laws should be passed making it compulsory on those furnishing fuel to specify the heat units contained in a ton the same as is now required by the navy and some of the larger institutions of the country. Coal will be high enough in price under the best of conditions in all likelihood and the public should at least have the assurance of getting what it pays for.

The coal dealer is no more to blame for this condition than is the consumer. He sells the stuff just as he gets it and would greatly prefer to handle a more satisfactory product.

THE NEXT TO GO.

Truth, with her hand-maidens of scientific knowledge, education and unselfish service of a true citizenship, has stamped out the arch-enemies of mankind—leprosy, smallpox, yellow fever and typhoid fever.

Official reports compiled by the Minnesota State Board of Health for the Minnesota Public Health association show that not a single death from leprosy or yellow fever occurred in this state during 1918. Smallpox claimed but seven and typhoid fever but 89 Minnesotans last year. Even accidents claimed but 1,695 victims in our eighty-six counties with their 2,500,000 men, women and children.

So, despite the prevalent belief, the leper's cry of "un-clean" is heard no more; the scourge of smallpox and of yellow fever has passed. Typhoid fever was the last to go.

But 2,500 Minnesotans were killed by tuberculosis last year. Tuberculosis is preventable and curable.

This awful, needless sacrifice of life must stop. The "Great White Plague" must be the next to go!

Your Red Cross Christmas Seals and Health Bonds will save lives!

It was bound to come. With about one-half the iron ore in the world located in Minnesota it would have been an oversight on the part of nature not to provide the fuel with which to melt it. This has now been discovered in the shape of natural gas near Hallock. The next thing on the program is to make Duluth an ocean port. After that we will find some plan by which our peat deposits may be turned into money. Other little things may suggest themselves as we go along, but we have enough enterprises on hand right now to keep us reasonably busy for a century or two.

The planets, comets and other astral bodies are scheduled to have a get-together party of some kind on the seventeenth of the present month. This is expected to have a depressing effect on everything on Earth—except the price of print paper.

Bill Carlisle, bandit, is lying in a hospital with a bullet through his lungs. In the meantime the lawyers are trying to discover whether the state of Wyoming ought to be given the privilege of hanging him or if he should be turned over to Nevada and compelled to finish out a life sentence in the penentiary of that state. We sometimes doubt if these spectacular careers are paying propositions.

Do not add another to the many things you already have to be sorry for by missing the presentation of "A Pair of Sixes" given by the Elks and Community Girls tomorrow evening. The proceeds go toward helping carry out the Christmas charitable enterprises of the two organizations. You will be able to offer no excuse—even to yourself—for neglecting your plain duty in this matter.

Leonardo's Handwriting.

Domestic Cat Distinct Species.

The Egyptian cat seemed to have a good claim to the honor of being the ancestor of the domestic cat, both on account of its tapering tail and size, in which it bears a great similarity to the domestic cat. But peculiarities which were discovered in its dentition were sufficient to remove its claim. So it seems best to consider the domestic cat a distinct species.

The Rattlesnake's Rattle.

The rattle of the rattlesnake is developed from the single conical scale or epidermal spine, which in most snakes forms the internal tegument of the tail. The bone on which the roof of the rattle rests consists of the last caudal vertebra and is covered with a skin which is the beginning of the rattle in young rattlesnakes.

Iodine for Scratches.

Scratches on dark oak furniture may be greatly improved in appearance by carefully painting the scars with iodine, using as many coats as necessary to produce the desired depth of color. When this is dry go over the whole piece of furniture with a good furniture polish.

Wanted Only "Overgrown."

Florence, having invited Earl to her birthday, was anxiously waiting for an invitation to Earl's party. One day she asked him if she was going to be invited to his party, to which he replied: "Oh, I'm not going to have any kids at my party, only overgrown people."

Pleased at Her Appearance.

Jane was busy entertaining herself by looking at the photograph album. Soon she came across a picture of herself taken when she was a tiny, baldheaded baby, and in all earnestness she said: "What a tunnin' homely baby!"

MANY MARMALADES.

Marmalades may be prepared from various kinds of fruit. The apple is perhaps the best known. A conserve which is a marmalade of mixtures of fruit is always an addition to any menu. Here are a few worth keeping and handing down:

Orange Marmalade.—Take one dozen oranges, half a dozen lemons, peel very thin and remove the white inner rind. Chop the rind very fine, or put through the meat grinder; also grind the pulp. To a pint of pulp and rind add one and one-quarter pints of water; boil twenty minutes. Remove from the heat and let stand twenty-four hours, then measure and add one and one-quarter quarts of sugar to one quart of pulp. Boil an hour and a half, or until the fruit is thick.

Amber Marmalade.—Take one each of large grapefruit, orange and lemon, wash and wipe and cut fine, shred the peeling in thin strips, discarding the seeds. Add three and a half quarts of cold water and let stand over night. The next day cook until the peel is very tender and again set aside over night. The next day add five pounds of sugar and cook until the sirup is thick. Store as jelly.

Golden Marmalade.—This is a marmalade which takes the place of the more expensive orange marmalade and is very tasty and wholesome. Scrape and put through a meat chopper one and one-half pounds of carrots, two lemons and the same measure of sugar. Cook the carrots in as little water as possible, add the lemons, also ground (removing the seeds). When well cooked, add the sugar and cook until thick, stirring carefully to keep the mixture from burning. Put in glasses as any other marmalade.

Tomato Conserve.—Take four quarts of ripe, fine tomatoes; add four pounds of sugar, six large lemons and one cupful of raisins. Prepare as usual and cook until thick. Seal in glasses.

Nellie Maxwell

Baptized in a Balloon.

The child of a well-known member of the British parliament was recently christened in the crypt of the house of commons. This is, in a sense, a survival of the custom of bygone days, when christenings in crypts were by no means uncommon. In one recent case in California, for instance, the ceremony was performed in a diving bell at the bottom of the sea. In another case the proud parents of the new arrival persuaded a clergyman to baptize the child while up in a balloon.

Balancing Trade.

Where one country exports extensively to another and buys nothing from it the checks and drafts given in payment do not balance and it becomes necessary to ship gold or otherwise readjust accounts. This is expensive and makes it necessary to pay a premium in exchange. This premium is virtually an addition to prices paid. When it becomes too high purchases will be made in other markets. Thus will trade be lost unless it is balanced.

Incompleteness.

How universal is the sense of incompleteness in human experience! Youth, maturity and even old age are ever reaching for the something else which they crave for the hour, which seems to be the essential need of the year while we occasionally meet natures who are bending every force of their working years to the end of attaining some great ambition, failing in which, life to them is but a fraction.—Robert Carroll.

Loyalty Well Rewarded.

A Parisian with a sense of humor bequeathed 800 francs to each relative who abstained from attending his funeral. One poor relative insisted on following the deceased to the grave: and her loyalty was rewarded, for by a codicil to his will the deceased left the residue of his large fortune to those relatives who were prepared to sacrifice the 800 francs.

The "White Feather."

The expression, "He showed the white feather," has its origin in reference to game cocks. Pure-bred game cocks have only red and black feathers, but crossbreeds have a white feather in the tail. The slightest impurity in strain is said to destroy the bird's pluck, hence the white feather is used to denote cowardice.

Wheat Berry Perfected.

Many of the present superior wheats produced in the United States were introduced into this country from Asia, Europe and South America, and acclimated to our country while undergoing the test. They have been bred and crossed until a berry has been secured which will adapt itself to the region requiring a wheat crop.

Wait in Patience.

Don't get discouraged. There is hope for everyone and success ahead for those who are willing to patiently await triumph. It is safer and surer for you if you'll follow the precedent of older and wiser persons than yourself. They probably know through keen and humiliating experience.—Ex.

TEN AND 20 YEARS AGO

Twenty Years Ago.

John Schlossar brought an action in the municipal court against H. E. Mussey, charging the latter with having stolen three pumpkins. The case came on before Justice Johnson and resulted in a verdict for Mr. Mussey, the costs, amounting to $44.70, being assessed against the complainant. The affair attracted a good deal of attention, the city's poet laureate immortalizing it in song.

The British, under Gen. Gatacre, suffered a severe reverse at the hands of the Boers at the battle of Stromberg in South Africa.

Laying of the Great Northern tracks to the river bank on the west side was about completed and the work of constructing the bridge was about to begin.

Rev. Parbst returned to the city after spending five weeks conducting revival meetings throughout Western Minnesota.

Rev. A. A. Myers, local Methodist pastor, exchanged pulpits with Rev. Littlehales of Stephen on Sunday.

Richard Ohm, a resident of Thief River Falls, received one of the medals given by the German government to all those who were in the army of that country during the years 1860 to 1871.

A girl was born to Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Knox in Minneapolis.

W. B. Fuller displayed a large number of relics gathered during his service in the Phillipines, using the windows of the new Odd Fellows hall for the purpose.

S. Smilo of the harness firm of Smile & Loken, left the city without notice and it was discovered that a considerable amount of the firm's money went with him. His disappearance caused a great deal of surprise.

Ten Years Ago.

Will Vaughan, who left Germantown to engage in business in Montana, was robbed of all the money in his store when bandits held up the entire population in the town of Collins.

Prof. Maxwell began the organization of a new junior band in the city.

S. T. Dakin of Breckenridge, arrived in the city with a line of general merchandise with which he opened for business in the Grundy building.

Allen F. and J. W. Beck of The Iowa Land Credit company, opened offices in the city for the purpose of issuing loans to the farmers of the neighborhood.

Lars Furan and Severt Benson, former residents, returned after a short stay at Huron, S. D., and again engaged in the barber business in the city.

MEMBERSHIP LIST OF THE RED CROSS

REPORT SHOWS THAT COUNTY IS STILL FAR FROM GOAL SET.

T. P. Anderson, county chairman in charge of the Red Cross membership campaign, states that while the response has been fairly good there is still a considerable sum to be raised before the quota is reached. The contributions are entirely voluntary, no solicitors having been sent out as in the former campaigns. This no doubt accounts for the somewhat tardy response, although the record is by no means poor when all the circumstances are taken into consideration. There is still time for those who wish to do so to hand or send their dollar to Mr. Anderson, but the matter should be attended to at once as he may be called on for a report at any time. Remember that all you need is a "heart and a dollar."

Following is a list of persons in the city who have paid their membership fee for another year:

Natural Barometer.

One of the simplest of nature's barometers is a spider's web. When there is a prospect of wind or rain the spider shortens the filaments by which its web is sustained and leaves it in this state as long as the weather is variable. If it elongates its threads, it is a sign of fine, calm weather.

Have your cylinders rebored when you have your car overhauled

We are equipped to do all all work of this kind

Believing that there are in this immediate vicinity a great many automobile motors the cylinders of which require reboring and fitting with over-size pistons, we have recently installed in our shop one of the latest type, scientifically accurate cylinder re-boring machines purchased of the Marvel Machinery Co., of Minneapolis, Minn. We are now in position to re-bore your cylinders, and fit them with over-size pistons, delivering to you as perfect a piece of work as can be delivered by any shop in the country. Nothing but strictly high-class and efficient work, which means satisfaction to the user.

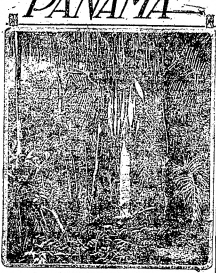
UNKNOWN PANAMA



Nut Palm Beside the Jungle Trail.

I BELIEVE it will surprise most Americans, and perhaps a few of our field naturalists, to learn that right at the back door of the Panama canal lies an almost unknown jungle wilderness, unmapped and practically uninhabited in the interior except for a few very primitive Indians. Virtually the entire eastern portion of the republic of Panama lying between the canal and Colombia, roughly 300 miles long by from 50 to 100 miles wide, is unknown, and the published maps of this country, except for the seacoast and the location of half a dozen small towns, are all faked, writes Lieut. Col. Townsend Whelen in Natural History.

It was my good fortune to spend the entire dry seasons (December to June) of 1916 and 1917 exploring a part of this country. We found it necessary to know something of that portion of it nearest the canal, and it fell to my lot, assisted by Companies E and H, Twenty-ninth United States infantry, to make a preliminary exploration with a view to planning and expediting its accurate mapping by the engineer corps.

It is because this little piece of jungle probably will remain virgin and unspoiled for many years that I think it ought to be brought to the attention of our field naturalists. It is so easily accessible, and yet only the borders of it have been scratched by the scientist. No one yet knows what is in the interior, what secrets it contains, what new fauna and flora its exploration will reveal.

In the Real Jungle.

In the Canal zone, which extends five miles to either side of the canal, practically all of the jungle forest has long since been cut off, and in its place has grown up a dense, impenetrable second growth of small trees, palms, creepers, thorns, and coarse grass. But if one cuts his way through this tangled growth for about five miles in from the canal he comes to the real jungle, standing up like a gigantic wall of green verdure. Once in it all is different, even the very climate itself. Here one can wander at will, unimpeded by thorns and creepers. It is even easier traveling here than in the woods of our own Northeast, because as a rule there is much less "down" timber. It is like a new world, a world that one has not even read about.

From the blazing sun and sweltering heat of the second growth one enters what is almost an underground world, cool and balmy. Everywhere the giant trees go up limbless for from 100 to 200 feet, and then spread out their verdure, literally hiding the sky. Beautiful slender palms grow in great profusion in the semidarkness forming the lower growth, impeding one's view but not one's progress. Scarcely ever can one see more than 50 yards, and never does the explorer get an extended view, even from the tops of the highest mountains. When I first entered the jungle it was with an indescribable feeling of awe and wonder, and this feeling has never left me; nay, it persists, drawing me, calling me to come back, more insistent even than the "Call of the North."

Unexplored Mountain Ranges.

That part of the jungle in which my most intensive exploration was conducted lies to the east of the city of Colon, between there and the town of Nombre de Dois, and extending from the Caribbean coast inland to the headwaters of the Chagres river system. Between the Chagres basin and the Caribbean coast rises the cordillera of Cerro Bruja, a mountain range that starts about ten miles east of Colon, and rises steadily, culminating in the peak of Cerro Bruja (3,200 feet) about 15 miles south of the town of Porto Bello. East of Cerro Bruja peak the Rio Piedras rises almost in the basin of the Chagres, flows north around the base of Cerro Bruja, then west, and empties into the sea half way between Colon and Porto Bello. The Piedras is one of the largest rivers of Panama, but you will not find it on any map, even its mouth having been mistaken for a lagoon of the sea when the coast line was charted.

The Rio Grande, figuring largely on existing maps, is an insignificant little stream, several miles long, really unworthy of a name. Beyond the valley of the upper Piedras rises a really imposing range of mountains called Cerro Saximo, culminating in a peak somewhere south of Nombre de Dois, which must attain an altitude of from 6,000 to 8,000 feet. I think I am the only one who has ever viewed this range, as it seems to be invisible from any place where there is any trace of human beings, and its presence is barely noted on only one old map, with no indication as to its altitude.

Beyond Saximo neither I nor anyone else know what! There are rumors that the interior beyond is inhabited by Indians of the San Blas (Cuna-Cuna) tribe, and that they are very hostile to invasion of their country by whites.

Plant and Animal Life.

I must confess to absolute incompetency when it comes to a description of the flora of the jungle, incompetency both scientific and linguistic. I doubt if the jungle as a whole can be described—it can only be marveled at. It is beautiful, appealing, terrifying. I never cease to wonder at the trees—giant moras, borigos, cavanillesia, ceibas, rubber, and fig. The enormous trunks with great buttressed roots rise 100 feet without a limb, and then spread out literally to hide the sky. Limbs, so high that one can scarcely see them among the leaves, drop lianas to the ground—long tangled lines like the wrecked rigging of some masted ship. Then there is the secondary growth, a hundred varieties of tree ferns and palms, suited by nature to grow in semidarkness, robbed of the sunlight by their giant neighbors.

The bird life is no less wonderful than the vegetation. The Panama jungle is alive with birds. The variety and coloring are truly remarkable. On the ground I observed several varieties of quail, tinamou, and pheasants. In the low-bush area are wrens, humming birds, thrushes, ant birds, and a variety of other species either common to the United States or unknown to me. In the medium zone, half way to the leafy ceiling of the jungle, dwell doves, guans, owls, motmots, and trogans. High up in the roof are parrots, parrakeets, macaws, toucans, and cotingas.

The mammal life of the jungle is also very abundant. The ordinary traveler, however, will see little of it owing to several conditions which only a man with extensive hunting or collecting experience will realize. Among the animals I observed were tapir, deer, peccary, agouti, paca, sloth, coati-mundi, kinkajou, anteaters, monkeys, otter, puma, jaguar (spotted and black), ocelot, squirrels, opossums of many varieties, and rabbits.

Snakes were fairly numerous, the harlequin snake, boa constrictors, and a very long and thin bright green tree snake being the most numerous.

Dad's Position.

"Nope, you can't marry him." "But, papa, consider his wavy hair, his soulful eyes. He is my ideal." "Listen here, girl. If you could meet up with an ideal earning as much as $30 a week I wouldn't say a word."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

Special Village Election Notice.

The Citizens of the Village of Goodridge in the County of Pennington and State of Minnesota, who are qualified to vote at General Elections, are hereby notified that a Special Village Election will be held at its voting place in said Village, on Saturday the 13th day of December A. D. 1919, between the hours of 9 o'clock in the forenoon and 7 o'clock in the afternoon of the same day, for the following purposes, viz:

Shall the Village of Goodridge purchase all the electric lighting equipment, except the engine and belt, for the sum of Twenty Two Hundred Fifty Dollars, ($2250.00.)

There being an agreement with the Goodridge Milling Company to furnish the power for operating same at the rate of $.15 per Kilowatt and $1.00 per month as a minimum rate, and that the village shall install all equipment in the Milling Company's building, and to do any other business proper to be done at said Election when convened.

Given under my hand this 2nd day of December A. D. 1919.

PALMER TVEDT, Clerk.

Our clerks know their business thoroughly

They know our stocks. They wait on you quickly.

And accurately.

And they know how to answer your questions and make suggestions. This makes buying groceries at our store most satisfying.

Besides, we have enough clerks so that there are no long waits before you can make your purchases.

This saves your time.

And it's only one of the many things we do to make our store of real service to you.

For instance, we know good groceries and we tell you about them.

There's RYZON Baking Powder for example.

You may not know it, but it's one of the best baking powders we've ever had in our store.

Its most efficient, its always uniform in quality and its absolutely pure. Then too, its fairly priced, 40 cents for a full pound tin.

We also have a number of the famous RYZON Baking Books at 30 cents each (original price $1.00). You'll like this book not only because it is especially adapted to RYZON but because the recipes are so attractive and have such a pleasing way of coming out right every time.

Industrial Husbandry

THE solution of our present-day problems lies in increased production. To this end the whole-hearted efforts of the 22,000 employees of the Standard Oil Company [Indiana] are directed.

The service rendered by the Standard Oil Company [Indiana] to industry generally, amounts to keeping the wheels of production at top speed.

Pause for a moment: try and think of a single unit of production which is not dependent upon one of the products of petroleum. Even the machine which turns out the humble laces on your shoes must have lubricating oil.

The Standard Oil Company [Indiana] in its capacity as a public servant, serves scores of industries and thousands of institutions with lubricants to minimize friction, thus increasing production.

Let the Company relax its vigilance and allow the quality of its products to deteriorate, the number of revolutions per minute on your machines will decrease, and under-production will follow.

If the Company is able to produce an oil which will permit greater speed, without undue friction, the number of revolutions per minute will increase, and production will increase in the same ratio.

Thus is illustrated the scope of responsibility of the Standard Oil Company [Indiana] as a public servant, which obligation it is striving hard to discharge in a satisfactory manner.

Farmers Should Order the United States Market Reporter

This bank is always glad to give the farmers any valuable information which it has concerning values of farm products. We are anxious to see farmers get the highest market prices for everything raised on the farm.

Beginning about January 1, 1920, "The Market Reporter," a periodical of general interest devoted to marketing information concerning important agricultural products, will be published weekly by the United States Bureau of Markets. It will be sent free to those interested who make request for it to the Bureau of Markets, U. S. Department of Agriculture, Washington, D. C., and who give the following information: (a) Name and full address; (b) business or occupation; (c) Kind or kinds of farm products in which interested.

In this way any farmer can get direct from the Government in Washington, each week, without charge, an official report as to market conditions and prices.

NEW UNIFORMS FOR ELKS' LODGE BAND

WILL BE ONLY ORGANIZATION OF ITS KIND IN THIS SECTION.

Thief River Falls is going to add another item to the many things it has to be proud of. It is the only city in northern Minnesota having a band composed entirely of members of the Elks lodge and the fact is going to be strongly featured.

There are twelve highly proficient musicians now members of the organization and the lodge at a meeting last Friday evening voted to procure uniforms for them.

There will be nothing dinky about the outfits secured. The final selection has been left to the trustees of the lodge—C. Storholm, H. A. Brummund and W. H. BonDurant—but instructions are to go ahead and get what in their judgement will best serve the purpose, it being understood that an expenditure of about $600 will be approved. This is to include the cost of the new drum, properly lettered, and such other smaller items as may be required.

Leader D. J. Cordes presented samples of uniforms and a Zouave outfit seemed to be greatly favored. Should this be decided the boys will most decidely make a hit wherever they appear.

The local lodge is growing by leaps. Because of the large territory comprising the jurisdiction of the Thief River Falls organization it has a considerable out-of-town membership and this is steadily increasing. A campaign now on foot has for its purpose the increasing of the membership to 500, which will make it the largest Elks lodge in this section of the state. Team captains have been appointed to solicit new members and another big initiation night will be announced for the near future. Preparations are also under way for the trip to Baudette sometime in January and it is hoped that the new band unforms will be on hand for that occasion.

Obituary

John Meyer.

John Meyer died at his home on a farm near Steiner on Dec. 7th. A complication of diseases from which he had been suffering for a long time was the cause of his death. The funeral services were held on Tuesday from the German Lutheran church in this city and the remains were buried in Greenwood cemetery. Mr. Meyer was born in Germany in 1854, making his age at the time of his death 66 years. He came to this country 33 years ago, having resided in Excel township for the past six years. His wife and five children are left to mourn his loss, the latter being: Mrs. P. Lamb of this city, Ella, Esther, William and Louis all of Steiner.

John Rayson.

John Rayson passed away at the home of his daughter, Mrs. J. S. Collins in this city on Saturday night. Mr. Rayson was a resident of this city until eight years ago when he moved to Centralia, Wash. He returned here a short while ago because of his failing health. He was born at Mendotta, Ill., January 31, 1858. Six children survive and are as follows: Mrs. Henry Lyons, Springfield, O.; J. W. Rayson, Centrailia, Wash.; Mrs. R. Floyd, Centrailia, Wash.; Paul, of Tamoca, Wash.; L. M. Rayson and Mrs. Collins of this city. The funeral services will be held this afternoon from the Methodist church and interment will be made in Greenwood cemetery.

Miss Anna Haugen of Newfolden was in the city receiving dental aid this week. She returned to her home this morning.

Mrs. R. H. McDonald of Goodridge spent Wednesday in this city as the guest of friends, and also attended to some shopping.

Miss Agnes Paquin of Oklee, who has been a guest of her sister for a brief period, returned to her parental home this morning.

H. C. Haugen arrived from his home in Newfolden on Wednesday evening and visited with his sister, between trains, returning to his home this morning.

About Sciences and Religions.

The philosophical sciences deal with the general principles, laws or causes that furnish the rational explanation of anything; the rationale by which the facts of any region of knowledge are explained. The phrase is used more particularly in reference to the study of natural philosophy or physics. Empirical methods are those of observation. It is a science that grows out of experience. Such a scientist is versed, or skilled, in collecting facts and from those fac's generalizations are made. There are hundreds of religions.

Forgot Waiting Bride.

When John Kemble, the gifted tragedian, was married, he returned to the stage to play Hamlet on his wedding evening. Whether his mind became so absorbed in the character as to exclude all other matters of vital importance, we cannot say; but for the time he forgot his waiting bride and what had befallen him on that fateful day, and went off to his own room on the conclusion of the performance at the theater.

Physical Valuation.

The young lady across the way says she saw in the paper that the railroads are giving a great deal of attention to physical valuation, and she doesn't suppose there's any business where it's more important to have the employees in good health.—Cartoons Magazine.

One of Nature's By-Products.

Among the industries that have developed at Niagara is the manufacture of artificial graphite, now largely used for purposes of lubrication. Graphite is also employed in many electro-chemical processes.

On Mistakes

Here is a refreshing little bit of philosophy that is going the rounds of the country press:

When the plumber makes a mistake he charges twice for it.

When a lawyer makes a mistake he has a chance to try the case all over again.

Wahlbeck-Sumpter.

Miss Ellen E. Wahlbeck and Roy Sumpter, both of Pennington county, were united in marriage on Saturday morning at ten o'clock at the parsonage of the Zion Lutheran Church, Rev. Geo. Larson officiating. The couple was attend by Mrs. R. Sagmoen, sister of the bride, and Mr. Sagmoen. After a short wedding trip the couple will reside on the groom's farm near Hazel.

Is Soldier Examiner.

Dr. A. W. Swedenburg of this city has been appointed examining physician for the returned men applying for soldiers' compensation under the new state law. Dr. Swedenberg will have charge of this important matter for all the service men in Pennington county and as he served during the war himself the appointment will meet with the general approval of the boys.

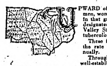
JOHN MORGAN, P. M.

An Appeal to the 31,000,000 People in the Mississippi Valley



UPWARD of 400,000 of our neighbors—men, women and children—now living in that great and prosperous territory designated as the "North Mississippi Valley States" have been stricken by tuberculosis.

These friends of ours are dying at the rate of approximately 40,000 annually.

Through lack of means to enforce well-established methods for the control of this disease thousands of new victims are being added to the list year by year.

With the funds derived through the sale of Red Cross Seals in former years, volunteer agencies consisting of state and local tuberculosis societies have achieved noteworthy results in bringing about a reduction in the number of annual deaths from tuberculosis. Thousands of wage earners have been restored to health. The lives of large numbers of men, women and children have been saved. An incalculable amount of human misery has been prevented, through the sale of Red Cross Seals at a penny apiece.

But there is much work yet to do, more than many of us realise. Unless we earnestly support this movement with our influence and our dollars this great life saving movement will fail of its object. It must not fail. Far too many lives—lives of our own people—are at stake.

The annual sale of Red Cross Christmas Seals and Health Bonds begins December 1st.

We, therefore, call upon the people of our respective states to give freely—both in money and in helpful service—to this great humanitarian cause.

The Best Holiday RESOLUTION

Resolve, that when the next Christmas Season rolls around you will be located in your own home. It will be the happiest Christmas of your life if you make such a resolution and stick to it. Ask your wife if this is not a fact. A large number of men have become tired of paying for someone else's property and have decided to build for themselves in the spring. Show your enterprise by being among the first to start.

WE WILL HELP YOU SO WILL OTHERS

Everyone admires the progressive man and is anxious to help him along. Get into the preferred class by owning your own home. It is the first and surest indication of a substantial citizen. Your city is going to grow. Resolve to grow with it.

See us for plans and details. We will cheerfully render all assistance in our power.

DE LAVAL SERVICE DAYS

For the benefit of our customers and users of DeLaval Cream Separators we have established a DeLaval Service Day.

On this day we shall be glad to have any DeLaval user bring his complete separator to our store for a thorough and careful inspection and adjustment, which will be made free of charge. Should any parts, due to unusual wear or accident, need to be replaced, this will be done, the only charge being for the price of the new parts used. No charge will be made for the service.

A DeLaval representative will be with us to assist with this work. Bring in your DeLaval Separator that day and receive the benefit of their advice on the care and operation of the machine, as well as the free service. It is our wish, and that of the DeLaval Company, that every user of a DeLaval Separator get the maximum of service at the minimum of cost, and we therefore urge you to avail yourself of this free and useful service.

PRINCE ALBERT

Copyright 1919 by R. J. Reynolds Tobacco Co.

YOU certainly get yours when you lay your smokecards on the table, call for a tidy red tin or a toppy red bag of Prince Albert and roll a makin's cigarette! You'll want to hire a statistical bureau to keep count of your smokestunts! Why, you never dreamed of the sport that lies awaiting your call in a home rolled cigarette when it's P. A. for the packing!

Talk about flavor! Man, man, you haven't got the listen of half your smokecareer until you know what rolling 'em with P. A. can do for your contentment! And, back of P. A.'s flavor, and rare fragrance—proofs of Prince Albert's quality—stands our exclusive patented process that cuts out bite and parch! With P. A. your smokesong in a makin's cigarette will outlast any phonograph record you ever heard! Prince Albert is a cinch to roll. It's crimp cut and stays put like a regular pal!

Prince Albert upsets any notion you ever had as to how delightful a jimmy pipe can be! It is the tobacco that has made three men smoke pipes where one was smoked before. It has won men all over the nation to the joys of smoking.

Awaiting your say-so, you'll find toppy red bags, tidy red tins, handsome pound and half pound tin humidors—and—that classy, practical pound crystal glass humidor with sponge moistener top that keeps Prince Albert in such perfect condition!

The High School Progress

Vol. 1. EDITED BY THE PUPILS OF THE THIEF RIVER FALLS PUBLIC SCHOOLS N

Thanksgiving in Kindergarten

The party given in the kindergarten the day before Thanksgiving was equally enjoyed by parents and children.

A little basket of turkey was the motive used on the invitations which the kindergarten child presented his parents, bidding them come to a party given especially for them.

Appropriate decorations were evidenced everywhere about the room.

The program rendered was similar to that used each day and was as follows:

1.—Circle, Songs: "Good Morning to You", "Happy Wednesday Morning (skipping to school), "Paul Polite" (motion), "Useful Song". Two Verses: "Five Fat Turkeys," "Merry Little Snowflakes. Three: Dramatization: "Jack and Jill," "How Many Miles to Boston-town?"

5.—Games: (1) Farmer in the Dell, (memory and action.) (2) Listening Game (ear training.) (3) Squirrel Game (alertness and quick action.) (4) Knock down the Tower, (to develop muscular control.) (5) Color Game (training sense of sight.)

6.—Story House: "The First Thanksgiving."

7.—Party: Before the party the children seated at their tables sang, "Thank Thee, Dear Father." Six little girls, chosen by the children, served refreshments to the parents, then to the school. Wafers on plates were passed followed by baskets of salted almonds.

8.—Good-Byes.

Pupils Win Awards.

Seventy of the pupils of the 7th grade were awarded the Palmer Method Pin by the A. N. Palmer company for having prepared satisfactory the first twenty-five drills in muscular movement. The pupils were:

Ernyl Anderson, Lottie Anderson, Olive Aaland, Annie Amon, Bonnie Barnett, Kathrine Barzen, Lloyd Bennes, Nellie Bergland, Henry Bjorge, Evelyn Buringlund, Thelma Christensen, Georgia Coyle, Rose Ellingson, Mildren Engen, Bernice Erickson, Oscar Field, Dorothy Fuller, John Gulden, Earl Hagen, Hjalmar Helland, Hattie Henze, Trygve Hetland, Maurice Holtzknecht, Orden Ihle, Alice Jacobson, Adele Jenson, Maxine Johnson, Helen Keating, Elizabeth Keating, Ariel Kinghorn, Margaret Klagness, Walter Larson, Roy Longevin, Du Waine Leslin, Paul Lundell, Harold MacAdams, Janice Meredith, Ella Monsebraten, Millard Myrin, Alma Myrold, Laurence Mulry, Dorothy Ness, Hilda Ness, Francis Ohm, Alma Olson, Russel Olson, Pauline Parenteau, Melvin Peterson, Judith Quammen, Agnes Remmem, Mildred Remmem, Isabel Richter, Amelia Reitz, Irene Roemhildt, Lucile Roark, Jessie Rogers, Esther Rustad, Beatrice Sandum, Agnes Skomsvold, Kenneth Streeter, Marie Veves, Adeline Wallen, Sylvester Wengler, Winnifred Wengler, Salome Wikel, Buell Will, Liv Vistaunet, Richard Zeh, Alice Gobler

All other seventh grade pupils will be given a chance to win this award after Christmas.

Lincoln High Member of State Debating League.

(Edna O'Brien.)

Miss Evans has chosen twelve students from her public speaking classes, who are to debate on the state question: "Shall the people of the Philippine Islands have complete independence from the United States?"

The boys' team will debate in a short time, before the members of the two public speaking classes. Later on the girls' team will give their debate.

We have joined the State Debating League. The students who are best qualified will go to Mahnomen and debate with the team there.

If the debators of the Lincoln high can win the contest at Mahnomen they will compete with other high schools for the championship of the state.

A gold cup is given to the winners of the debate by the state. If any one high school can obtain this cup for three successive years, they may retain it.

Date of Lyceum Course Changed.

Owing to the fact that December 20 comes on Saturday, when the teachers and many of the students who hold season tickets for the Lyceum Course number will be gone home for the Christmas vacation, the date for this number has been changed. Therefore, there will be no Lyceum course number on December 20, as previously announced. The new attraction and new date will be announced some time later.

Dental Clinic Next Friday.

Miss Saucer, the school nurse, has been working on the idea of a dental clinic since she arrived in the city last fall. Her plans are about to be completed. The dentists of the city have given her their heartiest co-operation and have offered to make next Friday their first clinic day at which time the teeth of the school children will be examined. The army has amongst other things brought out the fact that the teeth of the American public is responsible for a great deal of illness and that care of teeth will avoid a great deal of this. Pursuant to these plans, this dental clinic has been arranged for Friday of this week. Drs. Booren and Penney will have charge of the first one. Later Drs. Crandall, Nesse and Erickson will have charge of clinics. After the holidays, there will be clinics every two weeks. The school of Thief River Falls are fortunate in receiving this support from our city dentists.

Pupils of Local Schools to Have Christmas Entertainment in the Auditorium.

A new idea is to be tried out this year in the way of Christmas programs for the schools. Miss Holmes, musical supervisor, is busy arranging the program in sections. Every school is practising songs and numbers to be given in the auditorium. All of the schools, at that time on December 19th, will sing some songs and give other appropriate entertainment. It will be an interesting sight and a novel idea to have all of the school children in the city in one body. There will be about 1300 of them.

High School Inspector Here.

Miss Wylie McNeal, State Inspector of the Home Economics Department, was here Thursday and Friday last week to look over our Home Economics department. She had planned to remain but one day, but she stated that she found such a favorable outlook here for expanding the work that she decided to remain the extra day. She had long conferences with Miss Poppitz and Miss Taylor and the superintendent. In these conferences, plans were discussed for expansion of the work. The location of Thief River Falls is so favorable in the northwestern part of the state she said, in common with other inspectors that have been here this fall, that there is a great opportunity for establishing here an educational center that shall provide for the needs of this section of the state and this means, as has already been said a number of times, an education that shall be of direct benefit. Many times the old type of high school education was only detrimental. Students were led to expect good positions, high salaries, easy work as soon as they got their high school diploma, but everybody knows that the high school graduate is not particularly fitted to do anything well and so he has a hard time finding a position. The new idea in education is attempting to definitely fit high school students for specific work. Miss McNeal stated that the outlook here was very favorable for developing that type of a school.

Editors of Our School Paper.

The various classes are having elections this week to determine who shall be the editors of our high school paper. At the present time the voting has not been completed, but next week it will have been finished and the editors will be announced.

The Nurse's Talk.

(By Anna Harder)

The school-nurse gave a very interesting lecture on physical hygiene. She is willing to examine and take care of any high school pupil while the pupil is ill, and will be glad to have interesting talks with them. She feels as if she is a "Big Sister" to the high-school students. She also talked out selling Christmas stamps to help cure tuberculosis that causes thousands of deaths yearly. The selling of these stamps will take place at most of the stores, where a high school pupil will have a counter, and in this way will be able to sell more. Money will be sent to aid the many people who are suffering from tuberculosis.

Factory Inspector Here.

J. J. McHugh, factory inspector for the state of Minnesota, paid the local schools a visit last Friday. He went into the Manual Training shop to see if the machinery is safely protected. He made some few suggestions, but otherwise found the machinery well protected.

Mass Meeting.

A mass meeting was held in the Thief River high school on Thursday morning. There were short talks by each of the boys on the basket ball team and one by Coach Tommeraasen and the manager of the team. Several of the school yells were given by the students as a send-off for the boys went to play the W. M. C. A. team at Grand Forks on Friday. The members of our team are: Roy Flattum, Reuben Hadrath, Gordon LaBree, Dennis McGinn, Forrest Ralston, Elmer Larson and Leland Schuster.

A Resolution.

(By Olga Johnson.)

Now hath another month passed by,
And the hopes of a brighter draweth nigh.
All examinations happily passed,
And our minds, once more collapsed
From the strain of concentration.

But still we have a heart-felt dread,
The report cards yet remain unread.
And what their characters may to us reveal
Our peace and happiness may steal,
And cause us miserable woe.

This is our constant resolution:
Next month shall cause no confusion.
Our lessons shall be perfect every day
And our "exams' we'll pass O. K.
And try to do our best in every way.

How to Study.

Keep yourself physically fit by:
(1)—Sleep.
(2)—Exercise.
Remove all physical defects of:
(1)—Vision.
(2)—Defective teeth.
(3)—Adenoids.

Put your whole mind on what you are doing. Concentration is the finest time saver and the best road to learning that has ever been discovered.

WHERE—Study in the quietest room and the best light that you can get. Daylight is much better than artificial light. If you must study in the evening, let the light shine on your page over your left shoulder. Be sure your study room is well ventilated.

HOW—Have your tools ready. It's wasted time to run around for paper, pen, pencil, or books after you have started work.

WHEN—Study when you are rested. Wait a little after meals. If you attend recitations in the morning you can probably study best between three and five or between four and six in the afternoon. The next best time is between seven and nine in the evening. You are usually wasting time when you study after ten.

Nothrup School Children Have Skating Rink.

Mr. Reitz, janitor at the Northrop school, has provided a very slick skating rink for the school children, who are patronizing it very heavily. The cold weather has been ideal to make the ice very smooth, and the children are voting John's treat a great success.

School Spirit.

(Fred J. Will.)

Is a school, a school without its school spirit? When we consider this, it all lies in that one big factor, school spirit. Without it a school is like an animal without its backbone. It moves and crawls along with few signs of life and is passed by, nearly unnoticed. It never seeks advancement and seems to the pupil as something forced upon him.

If you are an average American you cannot sit idle and watch the downfall of that which makes life what it is to you. You will ask yourself, what can I do to push ahead, is spirit. Each day opportunities pass by and instead of heeding and making the best of them, you let them pass by unnoticed and then sit back and growl because you failed.

School spirit does not mean degradement and demolishment of the school and its fixtures or the disobedience to proper authority. It means fun and advancement combined. The finest forms of school spirit are exhibited by the Athletic teams who practice hard and diligently week after week to benefit the school. The rest of you sit back and not only let the other fellow do it but even worse than that, refuse to give them your support. Each club and organization represents hours of practice and work not so much to benefit the individual but for the advancement of the school. Can anyone who is a real live pupil with a normal reason shirk his duty in pushing the school to the very top? It isn't the other fellow the school is depending on, it is you. Put yourself on an equal basis with the boosters. A school slacker is not a desirable pupil and if you are not in this class, push, boost and raise your school and not to an equal, but above every other school and then without slacking your own ideas and not sit back and growl because the school spirit is missing.

December Seventeenth.

(By Olga Svendsgaard)

Now listen dear schoolmates and you shall all hear
About something which I think we all care,
And something which I think we all fear,
For the end of the world is pronounced to be near.
In the present month on the seventeenth day
Our planet, the sun, is thought to give way
To a piece of its substance, which together will sway
With the others planets on this great day.
It will strike the earth with a terrible crash,
And the earth with its possessions will go to smash.
Of our astronomists Porta this is the belief,
But not of the rest of us, which is a relief.

Color and Design as Related to Costume.

(By Harriet Anderson)

The subject of dress is one of importance. Our garments speak loudly for us or against us, not only to our friends but to the most casual observer. Our clothes have the power to make us conspicuous and magnify our imperfections, but they also have the power to make us feel comfortable and at ease. A costume that is appropriate and becoming enhances the charms of the individual. A really well dressed woman is never conspicuous. Young ladies planning their wardrobes should study the requirements of dress, and adopt the prevailing styles to their own individual charms or defects. If "fine feathers make fine birds", it must be seen that the feathers have been adapted to the lines, coloring, hair and silhouette of the individual. Each style should be studied and developed, and intelligent thought should be used in making our costumes serve us.

A gown may be beautiful, but in itself so striking in design and so strong in color, that it asserts it above the wearer with unpleasant results. A well designed gown will be harmonious in color and design, for ugly elements attract and annoy the eye.

The question of color is an important one, not only to wearer, but all those with whom she comes in contact. The wearer should always be considered first when selecting a color for a costume, because in the color, even more than in the design, lies the power to improve or impair the appearance. It is the outer expression of refinement and culture, and every girl should desire to have a true appreciation of color harmony. In determining a color scheme for a costume, think about the dominant color and endeavor to bring the others into harmony with it.

To decide what colors are best adapted to different figures, value, intensity, and characteristics of colors must all be considered. Retiring colors are best adapted to stout figures, but a little brihgtness adds to the attractiveness. Quiet color in dress is an evidence of good taste.

In our costume we should have a higher ideal than mere fashion. We often allow some one else to do our thinking for us in the matter of clothes. We follow fashion blindly for fear we won't look like everybody else. To be fashionable is to be of the thousands; to wear artistic and individual costumes is to be well dressed.

A discussion on costume would be incomplete without a word on simplicity, as 99 gowns of every 100 are spoiled by the lack of it. By this I do not mean plainness, but the intelligent omission of the superfluous, knowing what to leave off. Every bit of trimming adds to the beauty of the costume or detracts from it. No woman is well dressed in an exaggerated costume, and especially when it verges on the lack of refinement.

A gown may be beautiful, artistic and becoming, yet be lacking in the first requirements of good taste—appropriateness. The artistic gown then is appropriate to the occasion on which it is worn. It is of good material, neat, convenient and graceful. It is free from superfluous trimming, restful to look upon in color and design, and emphasizes in every possibly way the charm and personality of the wearer. Such a costume requires thought and study which is more than justified by the result.

Americanism.

(Henry Sagmoen.)

During the last few years, we have heard a great deal about Americanism. In this country Americanism is synonymous to patriotism. What then is patriotism? Does it consist of brass bonds, speeches and flag waving? True patriotim is a sincere desire to do something for one's country which does not, necessarily mean to fight. It is not only in times of war that patriotism is necessary, but in everyday life. Patriotism consists of a patient earnest endeavor to promote and develop our institutions, an honest endeavor to better our own conditions. Each individual is a unit of this country. A country's greatness rests with its inhabitants. Everyone owes to his neighbor, to his fellow-citizens the best that is in him. A person may consider himself absolutely independent in doing things that would injure his health, but it would lower his efficiency and he would not be giving the community and the country the best that he was capable of.

Do your best to make this a better place to live, both for yourself and your fellow-men. Grasp every opportunity to better yourself not at the expense of others, but by educating yourself and by doing something worth while, and you will be doing your duty as a 100 per cent American.

Not Americanized.

The sun had turned its back on labor unions and was working overtime. Hulda, following her gallant cavalier, Iver, about the fair grounds, was becoming extremely thirsty. Several hints to this effect had produced no results, but now by deft management she maneuvered Iver up to a soft drink stand. He produced a well-filled wallet, gave the vender directions, and Hulda breathed a sigh of relief. A moment later a tall glass of iced lemonade was set before Iver. He grasped it and took a generous swallow. He took another. Then, with a smack of appreciation, he turned to his partner. "This is good Hulda," he said, "you buy some too."

What Counts?

(By Lillian Eide)

It isn't the work we've just begun,
Nor the work we intended to do
That puts us right on the credit side,
It's the work we've already done.
Our debit is built on the things we shirk,
Our credit on things we have done
The one who totals the biggest plus
Is the one whose work is done.
Good intentions do not pay,
It's easy enough to plan
To wish is the job of a slacker
To do is the job of a worker.

A Student's Schedule.

(Beatrice Sandum.)

Can you afford to waste time? No, not one of us has any time to waste and especially not if you are trying to keep up with the school work, but if you can purque the daily routine, which almost every high school student pursues, and also manage to sell your share of Red Cross Christmas seals; if you then by algebra, geometry or any other science, can find time to waste you are undoubtedly a brainy person and unlike the most of us can waste your spare time without your conscience bothering you.

Your daily course may not follow this path exactly, but if you are an upper classman it will run somewhat like this:

You awake from a sweet? slumber and you find that you have about twenty or thirty fast flying minutes in which to dress, eat breakfast (this duty can be and very frequently is, omitted), and walk or rather run from twelve to fifteen blocks of icy sidewalks to school. Half frozen and out of breath, you fly into the cloak-hall and out again, and up what seems an endless flight of stairs and into your first period class just in time for roll call or perhaps learn that you have not been expected to attend that morning and are therefore marked "absent."

By the time the first two or three periods have sped by you begin to feel the effects of a breakfastless morning and work with double zeal to make the time fly more quickly until twelve o'clock.

If you can make your way through the cloak hall and find your coat, hat, and "perhaps" rubbers in a hurry without receiving any serious injury, you are free to run the rest of the way home, provided you do not exceed a reasonable speed.

You might be able to make this trip home and back in ninety minutes but you will not be able to do it in less time. The afternoon is much like the forenoon but at three-thirty you are by no means through for the day. Then there are class meetings, committee meetings, glee club practice, basket ball practice, gym work, staff meetings, and every other kind of meetings one would wish to attend. Then too, perhaps, you have some work to make up or an examination to take which cannot wait. You attend to as many of these duties as you can from 3:30 till six, and then suddenly you remember you have another meal coming before you go to bed.

From 6:30 till about 7:00 you work without interruption preparing some lesson for the next day. You are obliged to pay a visit to the public library for some reference work. Now you are getting a little sleepy and it would not be a difficult task to deliberately waste the whole remainder of the evening, but there are many things undone. Perhaps it is the end of the month and you will find that you have four or five note books about a month behind and must be brought up to date. You can easily spend the remainder of that evening and perhaps a part of the following morning in trying to fill up a few pages of each note book.

What time is left you can spend in any way you prefer. You will most naturally crawl into bed and in the morning try to imagine you've had a good night's sleep. But as sleep is a great necessity no one could accuse that the time thus spent had been wasted.

Don't Sell Your Bonds and Stamps

(By Roscoe Bakke)

The Government is doing all it can to stop grafters from cheating you out of your money, but they can't do it alone, you will have to help and you can help by not listening to these grafters with their slippery talk.

There are posters all around telling you about these things. They come to you and offer you, they say, more than par value, but in five years from the day you purchase a bond it is worth more yet and the stamps will be worth five dollars, where you only paid about four and a quarter dollars for it. Just because the war is over don't stop buying stamps either. School children who work after school and get a few dollars a week, put a quarter a week or fifty cents a week in a stamp and soon you will have a big one without noticing that your money goes and in a short time you will have enough to call a savings account. Above all hang on to what you have.

ROSSWORK CONTINUES AUXILIARIES

ARE FINDING THE UPON THEIR TIME GREAT.

PORT FOR PAST YEAR

MANY ARTICLES FOR NEEDY HERE AND REFUGEES ELSEWHERE.

The following report of the amount of work accomplished by the Red Cross auxiliaries in Pennington county will come as a surprise to those who figure that the activities of these organizations would come to a close with the end of the war. That the demand upon the time of these workers is still great is evidenced by the vast number of articles sent to headquarters during the year closing on Sept. 30. Mrs. Andrew Craik, in charge of this department of the organization's activities, has just submitted her completed report to the chapter officers in this city, showing that every branch has been busy and that a large number of articles have been made and sent in distribution. A considerable part of the articles provided go to refugees in the countries devastated by the war, the probabilities being that a considerable share also remain to relieve distress in different sections of the United States.

A detailed report of the work done by the branches has been submitted by Mrs. Craik as follows:

[illegible] Branch—17 pair socks, 50 property bags, 16 sweaters, 4 pairs stockings and 10 girls pinafores for refugee children.

Sanders Branch—39 pair socks, 30 bath towels, 7 sweaters, 2 pounds knitting yarn, 6 women's skirts, refugee garments, 4 pairs stockings for refugee children.

[illegible] Branch—3 sweaters, 20 pair socks, 48 hand towels.

Silverton Branch—8 sweaters, 20 bath towels, 6 pairs socks, 4 pounds knitting yarn, 10 girls pinafores for refugee children.

[illegible] Branch—11 hand towels, 12 sweaters, 12 pairs socks, 4½ pounds yarn, 10 girls pinafores and 4 pairs stockings for refugee children.

Wyandotte Branch—20 towels, 9 sweaters, 5 pair socks, 1 muffler.

Hazel Branch—30 bath towels, 10 sweaters, 18 pair socks, 5 convalescent robes, 16 hospital shirts, 15 [illegible] bandages, 15 yards outing flannel, 3 1-2 pounds stocking yarn and 10 girls petticoats for refugee children.

Highlanding Branch—10 sheets, 5 women's skirts refugee garments, 18 sweaters, 19 pair socks, 2 hospital shirts, 10 girls petticoats and 3 pair stockings for refugee children.

St. Hilaire Branch—8 hospital shirts, 15 sheets, 26 hand towels, 6 bath towels, 20 napkins, 25 army shirts, 40 convalescents robes, 10 women's skirts refugee garments, 29 sweaters, 63 pair socks, 1 helmet, 4 pair wristlets, 4 wash cloths, 5 afghans squares, 20 petticoats and 6 pair stockings for refugee children.

Kratka Branch—44 hand towels, 11 sweaters.

Reiner Branch—3 sweaters, 13 pair socks.

"Imperator" For England.

The former German liner, Imperator, the second largest boat afloat, on which many Pennington county boys were returned from France to the United States, will be turned over to England. Settlement of the controversy over the disposition of the large German liner was reached last week by shipping board officials. The Imperator and seven other ships were alloted to the United States after the armistice and were used to transport American soldiers from overseas. Great Britian had expected to obtain them after the work had been completed and the Cunard line had made arrangements to place the Imperator in the New York-Southhampton passenger service. When the war department had finished with the ships, they were turned over to the shipping board, which refused to surrender them to the British ministry of shipping at New York.

ADVICE ON CARE OF CHILDREN'S TEETH

TWO CLINICS WILL BE HELD IN COUNTY UNDER STATE AUSPICES.

Dr. Leonard will also speak on dental hygiene at the commercial club rooms in the evening. To this lecture all are cordially invited. Slides and lantern pictures will be used in illustrating the lecture. Admission is free.

"The teeth should be given a thorough examination every 6 months," dental experts tell us. A dental clinic where everyone desiring it may have his mouth examined free of charge will be held under the auspices of the Pennington County Public Health association, at the auditorium in Thief River Falls on Thursday, Dec. 18. Dr. Harold Leonard, the dentist who will conduct the clinic is a member of the Oral Hygiene committee of the State Dental association. He will not fill or otherwise repair any teeth, but will examine such teeth and advise as to treatment, referring them to local dentists. Lantern slide lectures and demonstrations also will probably be given.

Many serious diseases of later life and much needless ill health are caused by neglected or ulcerated teeth. One dentist in charge of the dental clinics such as the one to be held at Thief River Falls examined the mouths of 690 school children during the summer of 1913. In practically every case where there were badly decayed teeth and two or three abscesses the child suffered from headache, intestinal disorder, nervous irritability, and tonsilitis. There were two under the age of twelve who had carried five or six abscesses for several weeks. Seventy-five per cent of delinquency in school children is due directly to bad teeth.

There is little doubt that such abscesses are often the cause of heart lesions which so suddenly and prematurely clip the thread of life.

The late Theodore Roosevelt carried a blind abscess twenty years, and authorities claim that it was the cause of his untimely death.

The Pennington County Public Health association, cordially invites every one, and especially all school children, to be present, and benefit by the examination and advice of the dentists.

Farm Notes

CARE OF SHEEP IN NORTHERN COUNTIES.

"New flocks of sheep are to be found on many farms in Northern Minnesota," says W. A. McKerrow, of the extension division of the University department of agriculture. "This is a good sign for there are profits in sheep.

"The thing the farmer with a new flock must look out for is the proper care of his ewes," adds Mr. McKerrow. "Well fed ewes are more likely than others to give birth to strong, vigorous lambs. Ewes that are in good condition will be more liberal milkers and thus better mothers. We can only be sure of right conditions for lambing by starting in the fall, feeding properly and continuing it throughout the winter. It is impossible to accomplish this result in a few days or a month. Yet a large part of the ewe's ration may be made up of cheap feeds of little commercial value. On most Minnesota farms there are pastures, stubble fields, corn stalks or stover to be utilized.

"When the ewes are thin it is advisable to begin feeding grain in conjunction with the roughage soon after the first of December. Unless the ewes are very thin in flesh it is not necessary to feed more than a half pound of grain per head daily to ewes weighing 150 pounds. A good ration consists of equal parts of oats and bran or two parts of oats, two parts bran and one part of corn. One may feed, where available, one and one-half to two pounds of good clean silage per ewe per day and an equal amount of good clover hay or alfalfa. Where a good legume, as clover, alfalfa or soy bean hay constitutes the major part of the roughage fed it will probably not be necessary to give the ewes any grain until about six weeks before lambing. At this time it is well to begin to feed the ewes a little grain ration, about one-fourth pound per head daily of equal parts of corn and oats. In any event, in compounding rations the farmer must realize that economy and efficiency should be the watchwords and feed enough to have the ewes gain from 15 to 25 pounds during the winter period.

"Plenty of good drinking water should be kept before the ewes at all times. In the coldest weather where ewes are receiving nothing but dry feed they will drink from two to four quarts of water per head daily.

"Another important thing for flock owners to recognize is that breeding ewes should get enough exercise. When it can be arranged, at least a part of the roughage should be fed in the field at some distance from the barns or the shed and the ewes should be out every day that the weather is fair.

"In sheltering the ewes protect them from cold rains and driving storms. Low temperature in the barn or shed is not serious so long as the sheep are dry under foot and overhead."

Thumb Index to Character.

Just as the chin gives qualities to the face, so the thumb marks the personality of the hand, and is an unerring index of a man's natural strength or weakness of character.

HENDERSON GAINS 13 POUNDS AND GETS RID OF RHEUMATISM AFTER TAKING TANLAC.

"I have gained exactly thirteen pounds since I commenced taking Tanlac, and the troubles that have been making life miserable for me during the past three years, have been completely overcome," said I. A. Anderson, a well known employee of the Washburn-Crosby Co., and who lives at 71 Western Ave., Minneapolis, Minn., recently.

"I had suffered so much from rheumatism all though my body," he continued, "that I was just about all in when I commenced taking Tanlac. This trouble was so bad in my arms that I couldn't raise my hands above my head. Both of my legs were badly affected, too, and I had to lose a lot of time from my work. In addition to this, I had a bad case of stomach trouble, and every time I ate anything I would be all bloated up with gas for several hours afterwards. Sometimes I would get so dizzy that I would have to brace myself against something to keep from falling. When time came to get up every morning, my leaders and muscles ached so that I could hardly get out of bed and dress myself. I was living in Seattle while all this was going on, and I finally gave up my work and came to Minneapolis, my old home.

"I was in pretty bad shape when I got back home, and was very much discouraged, as I had failed to get relief from any of the medicines and treatments I had been taking. Then, I commenced to read about Tanlac, and heard a good many people talking about the good this medicine had done them, so I made up my mind to give it a trial. Well, sir, the very first bottle made a big change in my condition, and from that time on I just kept on improving until I had gotten completely rid of my troubles, and am now as well and strong as I ever was in my life. No more rheumatism, and no more stomach troubles. My appetite was never better, and everything I eat agrees with me all right. I have gotten back my strength, and can do as much hard work in a day as I ever could. In fact, I just feel fine all the time, and am glad to give Tanlac credit for it all."

Demoted Up

By VIRGINIA E. MAXWELL

(Copyright, 1919, by the McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

Somehow Janet's mother could not quite forget the stigma which she accused her daughter of putting on the family name when she married Gerald Cummings, their neighbor's chauffeur.

"Janet, my child, do you realize what you have done?" she remembered her mother saying with an awe-stricken face when they both came back from the short honeymoon trip, and Janet's family had since had time to digest the telegraphed news.

And Janet, then a girl of twenty, had faced her mother resolutely.

"Of course I know what I've done, mother. I've married the best man in the world."

"What's the use?" Mrs. Hemingway complained that same evening when Janet's father looked in at the young people seated in the drawing room, and smiled knowingly.

"Janet is too young to know that she has committed a grave social error in marrying beneath her class," Mrs. Hemingway continued. "And as for the man she chose, well—he will never be anything but a chauffeur."

Could Scarcely Believe His Words.

But the idea rankled in Mrs. Hemingway's mind for a long while after. Janet took a firm stand! They furnished a comfortable, though plain little flat and began to live the "happy ever after" period of their lives.

True, the furnishings of the modest flat did not compare with the cheapest in the Hemingway household, but as Janet reminded her mother, "wasn't it the love behind a household that made it a home, and not the mere material things?"

And after that Mrs. Hemingway decided to let the matter rest.

Two years later found Janet and Gerald more comfortably established than ever. Gerald had got a better position in an automobile firm and the work gave him more regular hours. But there was a lot of study entailed. Gerald within a short time became an expert mechanician and got another raise.

It was not money, however, that finally bred the sore spot in Janet's heart that had been forming unconsciously for months. It was her mother's silent influence. She never said anything about the affair ever since the day of Janet's last outburst, but the silent influence was there just the same.

Once when she had invited a number of girl friends to tea Janet's mother very untactfully displayed the fact that her daughter had no telephone, and pressed for a reason by her inquisitive friends, Janet had lied calmly that it was a source of annoyance. The truth of the matter was they could not quite afford it.

Janet was on the verge of utter discouragement, although there was no real cause for it except this subtle influence preening for the sake of a false pride. The foundation of their little home was at stake! The bomb came a few evenings later.

"Well, sweetie," Gerald said coming in enthusiastically, "I'm going—the big day has come Netty girl, when our country is calling all its red bloods, and I enlist—tomorrow."

"You—what?" Janet could scarcely believe his words. "Jerry boy, tell me you are fooling. You are—why—" she laughed frivously and turned away as though to belittle the idea as a mere passing fancy.

The next moment she turned toward her husband again. But the expression on his chiseled features made her realize there was no joking to it.

"I'm going Netty; surely you're glad. Don't stand there and gaze as though I were mad. Don't you realize what it means. Going over to protect you, other women, over there and over here. Gad, girl—"

But Janet had stopped him with her gesture. "You are mad. Stark mad—" she burst out angrily, "how can you go when you have me to take care of. You know married men don't have to go. What are you thinking of, and we just being able to see a horizon financially now?"

And so they argued into the late hours of that evening. Twice Gerald Cummings walked to the front window and peered down at the throng of men who were besieging the enlistment offices on the corner.

He pointed them out to Janet, but she was impassive. "Mad men," she remarked, and shrugged her shoulders.

And the final issue came about the next morning. Gerald was firm.

"War is a duty between a man and his God," he said hotly, "not a man and his wife."

Just Janet blazed her brown [illegible] and replied, "Well, if you go, Gerald, you go for good. If you are that stubborn and care for me so little, it's best we know it now. You go, Gerald, and—and—well, we part ways."

Gerald tried a conciliation, but it was futile. He decided to go!

A dull period of monotony followed for Janet at the Hemingway establishment, where she had taken refuge after Gerald had gone to camp. But the loneliness of the days she had hitherto filled to the brim with her many household cares seemed to pall. Janet must do something. And so because Anne Dawson was going into the navy as a yeomanette, Janet decided to take up stenography and go, too.

But she was disappointed. Several weeks after she graduated from the business school in the heart of town an order came through for stenographers at the gas defense plant on Long Island. She hesitated. Anne was appointed in the navy. But could she not do the same bit in the army?

Her selfishness in merely wanting to be with her girl friend came to her in full realization one morning when she had seen the first transport of wounded soldiers land, and she hastened to the plant to offer her services.

Janet, with the knack of her father's aptitude for business, got along exceedingly well. Meantime the war raged at its fiercest. Battles came thicker and more often, and the yell of the newsies' husky voices on the street corners at every edition of the big metropolitan daily made Janet's flesh creep. Yes, she had read of Gerald's wonderful deed.

She had followed every line of the account of how he had saved a whole squadron by repairing the motor ambulances so rapidly. Janet knew that a new and greater love had come into her life. There was a change, too, in her parents' view. Janet's mother, all conciliatory and one of the chief workers at the war camp community service, said she always knew there were big things in "Jerry."

But Janet had cried herself to sleep that night.

In vain she wrote letters abroad. If only she knew his definite address. She had read where he had been wounded, but no hospital number was given. The Red Cross took down the data she was able to supply them, scant as it was, for she had refused even to see him the day he graduated from the training camp and was ordered over.

That was months before, and a bitter repentance grew in her heart because of it. She had been selfish, narrow minded and vain. The words she had uttered that day he had enlisted burned and seared like blue flame now.

But morning banished all the tears, just because there was work to be done, and Janet, dainty from the feather in her little trig hat to her neatly polished shoes, went to the plant to take her place among its many other workers. It was her last trip this day, for orders awaited her to report in Washington.

A word of thanks to her captain for recommending her as most capable, a hastily packed traveling bag, a host of imagination—and Janet was on her way to the great center from which radiated so many executive spokes of the world's war. It was glorious! But the old feeling returned to quell her enjoyment every now and then on the train trip going down.

"Mrs. Cummings—" Sergeant Munsey read a day later from her slip to the lieutenant sitting at the huge oak desk to his right. And Janet had timidly acknowledged the title and mounted the stairway to the next floor with him.

"You are to work for the major, are you not?" he asked, and Janet said she had not been told. "Yes," continued Sergeant Munsey, "the new major arrived yesterday. I guess you'll like him all right, with his flashy smile and good humor always. So much as we have seen of him I don't wonder he was so popular with his men—"

But they had reached the doorway of the major's office and Sergeant Munsey stopped.

A somewhat faint yet emotional Janet wheeled the next moment and sat heavily in the chair the major offered. The shoulders had looked familiar, and, yes, the head.

But it was preposterous. And yet—

"Thank you, sergeant," Major Cummings said quietly. "I will swear the little lady in, you need not wait."

"Swear me in?" Janet said a bit breathlessly as she turned her wide eyes, radiant but tear-dimmed with happiness on her husband, Jerry.

"Why, yes—a mere custom of the service, Mrs. Cummings," he said haughtily, "but—" and there was a note of the Jerry who used to be, "but if you wish," he smiled this time, "I'll swear you in—for life."

And as Gerald expressed it a few weeks later when the armistice was signed and they both got their honorable discharges, it was the first time he had ever kissed a stenographer the first day he engaged her, and—the very first time he had ever taken one out to lunch the same day.

Birth of Red Cross Idea.

The suffering of soldiers in the Crimean war first directed the world's attention to the merit of systematic care for the wounded. In 1859 M. Henri Dunant was visiting Italy and witnessed the carnage of the battle of Solferino. He organized volunteers to help take care of the wounded. Out of his work grew the conference at Geneva, in 1863, and another in 1864. These conferences were the formal beginning of the Red Cross. The name and insignia were adopted. The American Red Cross was organized by Clara Barton in 1881.

Birds Foretell Weather Change.

Swallows are unerring in their instinct. If they are flying high, then an umbrella is not an immediate necessity. But if, when they are in search of their food, they skim along at a low altitude, it is safe to predict a downfall at no great period. The long-distance flyers, such as gulls and rooks, are well worth attention. They are not only weather-wise, but wise in common sense. They never venture far from home when bad weather is brewing.

United States Korean Treaty.

It was in 1882 that the first treaty with Korea was signed by the United States, and foreigners took up their residence with official sanction at Chemulpo, the seaport of the capital, Seoul. Even with this foothold in the new country, the unwelcome visitors pushed their way but slowly into other parts of the kingdom, and as late as 1897 only a relatively small portion had been visited by white men.—National Geographic Magazine.

Ill and Nervous.

Nurses dislike the season of thunderstorms. "We are not afraid of lightning ourselves," a nurse in a woman's hospital told me, "but it has a harmful effect on the patients. Most sick people fear lightning. In cases of extreme weakness or nervousness a dozen flashes of blinding lightning reduce the patient to a state of utter prostration."

Opening of Panama Canal.

In 1914, on August 15, the Panama canal was formally opened to the world. The canal had been nine years in building. The total cost of construction, exclusive of fortifications, civil government and payments to the republic of Panama, was approximately $337,000,000. The first passage after the formal opening of the canal was made by the steamship Ancon, Colonel Goethals, governor of the canal zone, was on board. The passage from Cristobal to Balboa was accomplished in nine hours.

Professional Enemies of Crocodile.

There are men whose business it is to catch crocodiles and who earn their living by that means. And whenever a human being has fallen a victim a professional crocodile catcher is asked to help to destroy the murderer, and a large reward offered him. The majority of natives will not interfere with the reptiles, or take any part in their capture, probably fearing if they do anything of the kind they themselves may some time or other suffer for it by being attacked by a crocodile.

Atlantis' Effort in 1873.

Although the first successful passage of a dirigible across the Atlantic easily called to mind the attempted journey in 1910 of Walter Wellman in the dirigible America, considerable time seems to have elapsed before anybody remembered the old-fashioned balloon Atlantis and its effort nearly fifty years ago to cross the ocean. The Atlantis started from Brooklyn N. Y., at nine in the morning of October 6, 1873, carrying as passengers Prof. Washington H. Donaldson, who was chiefly responsible for the enterprise, and two companions, Alfred Ford and George A. Lunt. The travelers were carried in a regular ocean lifeboat, suspended beneath the balloon, and to answer the purpose of modern wireless apparatus the expedition was equipped with homing pigeons. The effort was short-lived, for the balloon came down the [illegible] afternoon in New Canaan, about 100 miles from the starting point, having made no progress toward Europe.

Contentious Never Pays.

The wise man in Israel [illegible] truly said: "A fool's lips enter into contention," and the contentious fool is as common a nuisance today as he was, no doubt in the olden ones. Usually in proportion to their lack of actual knowledge do such persons presume to set themselves up as dictators to others.—Exchange.

The Unkind Razor

A razor that "chews" instead of shaves is not likely to make a good impression on the victim. You simply can not get a good shave with a dull blade.

Neither can you get satisfactory telephone service from a poorly equipped and operated telephone company. But what can the telephone company do if it lacks funds to meet expenses?

You can't expect capable men and girls to work for any concern which is unable to pay them fair wages. And you know by experience that what stood for fair wages two or three years ago will not meet expenses today.

Telephone wages and upkeep must be taken care of by the people who use the telephone. That is certainly reasonable. So it is plain that the service you get can be no better than that for which you pay.

In other words the rate you give the telephone also decides what the telephone can give you.

Elsie Takes Command

By WILL T. AMES

(Copyright, 1919, by the McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

A ferry boat load of the shipyard men piled pell-mell over the wharf, across the railroad tracks and onto the main thoroughfare of the town, at the foot of which lay the makeshift slip. They were roughly clad and grimy and strong, and, many of them, hard-looking.

There had been a crap game on the boat coming over and it had not gone smoothly. Three of the men among the thousand showed the marks of it, for they were more or less bloody and still white with anger.

The three, each with a friend or two, stopped at the saloon at the foot of the street to wash off the stains of the row. The rest of the workers paid no heed but hurried on homeward. There was little laughter or joking. What conversation there was among them was unsmiling and it was plain to be seen that the yeast of discontent was at work.

At the street corner two blocks from the wharf a girl stood by the curb, watching the passing throng and looking for some one. By and by she caught sight of a tall, toughly fashioned young fellow with thick hair that looked flaxen by contrast with his sunburned skin.

He spied the girl at the same instant, said a brief word to the companions of the moment, and stopped beside her, automatically reaching out for the bundles she carried.

The girl's eyes were shining. "What do you know, Billy? I found a place! an honest-to-goodness apartment. Mrs. Ells heard about a couple that are going out of town—somebody she knows. She's a good old thing, after all, Billy, and she went right down there and got them to keep still about it till we could get a chance at the place.

"I've been down today and engaged it. It's an old house, Billy, but there's three rooms and a bath—and only one other family, the folks that own it; they live downstairs. I guess they're boosting the rent two or three dollars. But we should worry—with your pay. It's our lucky day, isn't it, Billy?"

But Billy Noxon didn't respond to the happy mood of his young wife nearly as she had anticipated. While Elsie lay in wait for him there she had expected that he would throw up his hat and shout. Places to live—to really live and keep house like regular civilized people—were simply unobtainable in the town. The Noxons had been "light housekeeping" in a single room for four months, like hundreds of others.

"Don't know as there's any use in fussing about it, Chick," the boy finally replied soberly. "We're likely to have to get to blazes out of this man's town any time now. The gang's pretty sore, and they're likely to tie a can, any time at all, to the bunch of grafters that are running the tea kettle factory over the river."

"What do you mean, Billy Noxon—a strike?"

"It's a heap sight more than just one strike, when the blowoff comes. The working man has been carrying the tar end of the stick about as long as he's going to in this country. Here's you and me living like a couple of bums in a coop of a room and me sweating my hide off over there on those hulls—and a lot of loafers that don't hit a ship a lick from the time she's doped out till she's overboard, and haven't even got a dollar of their own money in the plant, pulling down millions.

"Living in palaces and dressing their wives in thousand-dollar furs and swelling around in limousines and playing golf while we play on a rivet gun—and all off us! All stolen from the working man and his family! And then, when we hit them for a lousy dollar a day raise, to help pay for the profiteering prices on the grub we eat, they give us the boot!"

Elsie was looking very steadily and studiously at her big husband. "Well?" she said, as he ran out of breath.

"Well," Billy resumed, "it's about all over, sis. There's going to be something doing, and that right quick. I dunno's it's worth while for us to change from one room to three. Maybe we'll be in the middle of a hard-boiled shindy in a week or two—and either have some kind of a decent share in things or nothing at all. Death's better than slavery." The boy stared gloomily at a passing touring car.

The girl was about an inch above five feet—her husband about an inch above six. Her eyes had been growing bigger and bigger as she listened to his dour speech. Now she seized him by the arm and said: "Billy Noxon, you come home with me, straight.

"And don't you speak—or even think—a word till I tell you to." The somber face of the boy thawed into a sheepish grin as he permitted himself to be marshaled along six city blocks to the place where they lived in Mrs. Ells' furnished second floor back.

Not until they were in their room, with the door closed behind them did Elsie speak again. "Now," she declared taking the bundles from Billy and putting them on the table, "I've got something to say to you, you big boob! You've been listening to those darned bolsheviks again! You sit down there and answer me a couple of questions;" and she pushed her husband into the limpy-legged morris chair. "First—How much money did we have after two years when we quit Roxbury and came here? We had $140, didn't we? We've been here four months, and how much have we got? We've got $480 of new money, that's what we've got. And it's clean money, Billy, honestly earned. I'd rather have that than a million that was grafted. We're not getting along so badly. Maybe somebody else is getting a whole lot more that doesn't deserve it half as much. But I guess these things will be straightened out if fellows like you don't go looney and spoil everything. Anyhow, you never had so much money ahead in your life, Billy Noxon, and I know it.

"Now, who's the head devil over there at the yard in getting up all this I. W. W. sentiment? Is it a black-muzzled follow they call Saunderson?"

"Well, Saunderson's the smartest, most independent man in the yard, if that's what you mean, and not afraid to speak his mind. The fellows listen to him because he's there with the goods."

"I thought so. I sat behind him and some other anarchists in a street car yesterday, when he ought to have been at work, and I know what he thinks. I heard him tell the man with him that it was about time the 'boorzhwa' was kept from monopolizing everything, including the 'most beautiful and desirable wives'—that's exactly what he said, Billy Noxon!"

"Well," responded Billy, rather doubtfully, "he meant that a working man can't compete with a rich one for a girl, when he can't send her flowers and give her buzz-car rides and such things."

"Billy, you're a simp. He meant—because he said so—that the women ought to be nationalized. Understand that? Made the property of the men equally, like the food and the clothes and the houses and automobiles! He said it was too early to spring that idea yet, but it would surely come."

Billy tried to say something, but the little wife kept on. "Billy, I didn't tell you before, but twice that black devil has tried to pick me up on the street. Yesterday when he got up to leave the car he grinned at me and winked, and he said out of the corner of his mouth as he passed: 'Pretty peach!' Billy Noxon, do you want me nationalized—for Saunderson? Are you for the bolsheviks or for me?"

Billy Noxon found Saunderson in the yard next day, and hammered him for five minutes. He told him that he'd lick him every time he saw him. Wherefore, Saunderson is now agitating elsewhere, and there hasn't been any strike in the yard. Maybe everything is not exactly as it should be as between labor and capital, but as between Billy and Elsie, bolshevism hasn't a look-in.

PARAVANE PROVED ITS WORTH

No Vessel Protected by That Contrivance Is Known to Have Been Sunk by Mines.

The oddity of the word "paravane," as it now reaches the general public, shows how well an important secret was kept during the historic years 1917-18. During those years the invention, perfected at Portsmouth, England, was added to some 4,000 British vessels, and no case is known in which a ship thus protected was damaged by a sunken mine. Towed under water on both sides of the bow, the paravane, shaped like a kite, met the mooring wire of the sunken mine, deflected the hidden menace to a safe distance from the ship, severed its mooring, and left it free to come to the surface where it could be exploded by gun fire. Seamen naturally enough soon came to speak of the paravanes as "otters," and they enabled many a vessel to travel safely through mine-infested waters. Several hundred American ships had been thus equipped at the signing of the armistice, and it is a pleasing thought that the cessation of hostilities saved about $10,000,000 which the United States meant to spend in providing paravanes for American shipping.

Would Return the Favor.

Some years ago there was a Fourth of July celebration at a town in northern New York, where my father was pastor of a church. During the day several out of town couples came to the parsonage to be married, and one husky bridegroom as soon as the knot was tied, asked: "What are the damages?" Father replied that he made no particular charge for marrying people, but left the amount to the generosity of the groom. "Thank you," said the young man, "I'll do as much for you sometime," and walked out, leaving us all convulsed with laughter, but when they reached the street the bride would go no farther until "hubby" came back and handed the minister a $2 bill.—Exchange.

Size of Ocean Waves.

The size of the Atlantic ocean waves has been carefully measured for the hydrographic bureau, Washington. In height the waves usually average about 30 feet, but in rough weather they attain from 40 to 48 feet. During storms they are often from 500 to 600 feet long and last ten to eleven seconds, while the longest one yet known measured half a mile, and did not spend itself for 23 seconds.

Quest of Novelty.

"Henry, I must have a motorcar that is unlike anybody else's."

"I don't see how we are going to arrange that, my dear. Most of the available models seem to be in use. However, we might persuade a manufacturer to build a car to order shaped like a bee hive, and you could buzz around in that."—Birmingham Age-Herald.

These Investigations!

Congressman (conducting an investigation of the cost of living)—Come in here and sit down! I want to ask you some questions. Now don't try to evade, 'cause you can't get away. Is it true that you have been profiteering in food products?

Profiteer—Yes, it's true. What're you goin' to do about it?

Congressman—Well, well, now, don't get excited. I just wanted to know if it was true.

And thus another stirring investigation is recorded.—Kansas City Star.

Flowers Foretell Rain.

The ordinary clover and all its varieties, including shamrock, are barometers. When rain is coming the leaves shut together like the shells of an oyster. For a day or two before rain comes their stems swell to an appreciable extent, and stiffen so that the leaves are borne more uprightly than usual. This stem swelling when rain is expected is a feature of many flowering grasses.

The KITCHEN CABINET

Is to have been a hero.

"There is a hard hand and a light one in cooking, as well as on a horse's rein, and it almost seems as if butter and eggs know their mistress and instinctively obeyed her orders, feeling themselves in the grasp of a superior power."—Kate Douglas Wiggin.

SUNDAY NIGHT LUNCH.

Dishes which may be prepared on the table in a chafing dish or with little work beforehand are always appreciated.

English Monkey.—Soak one cupful of stale bread crumbs in one cupful of milk until soft. Melt one tablespoonful of butter, add a cupful of soft cheese, and when the cheese is melted add the soaked crumbs, one egg slightly beaten, half a teaspoonful of salt and a few dashes of cayenne. Cook three minutes and pour over toasted crackers or toasted bread, and sprinkle with paprika.

Jellied Chicken Salads.—Put into a saucepan three cupfuls of highly seasoned chicken stock, the whites and yolks of two eggs, three tablespoonfuls of gelatin and two tablespoonfuls of lemon juice. Boil two minutes, stirring constantly. Place on the back of the range for thirty minutes, then strain through a double cheesecloth. Cover the bottom of individual moulds with liquid jelly and set in ice water. When firm decorate with red and green peppers cut in fancy shapes; cover the decorations with the jelly mixture. Moisten one cupful of cooked fowl with one-half cupful of mayonnaise dressing to which has been added one teaspoonful of gelatin dissolved in two tablespoonfuls of water. Shape in balls, put a ball in each mold and add jelly to fill molds. Chill, remove to lettuce and serve with mayonnaise dressing.

Scrambled Eggs.—To make a few eggs go further in serving, use from a quarter to a half a cupful of well-washed rice; brown the rice in butter or sweet fat of any kind in a frying pan. When yellow add water or milk and cook until the rice is soft, then add three, four or five eggs (depending upon the number to be served), with milk and butter; salt and pepper to season. Stir and cook as scrambled eggs, and the dish will be as good as one made using double the eggs.

WHAT TO HAVE FOR DINNER.

As simple meals are the accepted and expected way of saving work these busy days, we must strive to have a well-balanced meal, attractive and at the same time appetizing. It is not always easy to suit all members of a family, but if we endeavor to bring up this generation to eat and enjoy all kinds of food well cooked and served, perhaps in time we may have a generation of Americans with normal appetites. We may not like all things equally well, but there is no reason, except where there is some physical disability or idiosyncrasy, why we may not eat something of all foods placed on the table. The physical development of a child depends upon his having a variety of the various seasonable vegetables and fruits, and it should be the first and important thing to teach a child to like all kinds of foods.

A child may be handicapped all through life because in his youth he did not become accustomed to eating various foods that needed special care in preparation to make appetizing, or the importance of such foods was not understood. It is worth while to labor with children to teach them to like different vegetables, if for no other reason than it makes them more livable with. We are reaching the stage in our civilization when it is something to be ashamed of to say: "It doesn't run in our family to like cabbage." The fact is the average person who doesn't like cabbage or celery or carrots or any of the other good things, has not been properly brought up, and none of us like to admit that.

Summer Squash.—This delicious vegetable must be cooked until tender and as much of the liquor evaporated as possible. Then season well with salt and butter. This is important, use plenty of butter. Go without it on the bread for dinner, (the English people think it strange that we serve butter at dinner with meats and vegetables), but use it as seasoning in vegetables, especially if you are trying to teach some one to like them. The proper seasoning is fully as important as the proper cooking and serving.

Work Counts.

"Recommendations are all right in their way," declares Mayor Snyder, "but nowadays they are too lightly given to be of any real value. Like that of a cook that once applied at my home. When told that her recommendation was really a very poor one, she replied:

"'Well, sir, 'twas this way. The missus was too busy to write it so she had the maid do it and the maid had only been to night school three times sir.'"—Los Angeles Times.

ROSEWOOD

Meetings have been conducted at the Congregational church in town every evening this week since Wednesday, and will continue over Sunday, with Rev. Werner Drotts of Viking, Rev. A. Andrean of Crookston and Rev. O. J. Lundell of Thief River Falls in charge.

Excavation work commenced this week for the new bank building which will be erected this spring on lot 8, in town. Olof Opseth has the contract for the basement excavation and is running a crew of two teams and three men.

Matt Rafteseth who is now employed at Oslo at bridge work was in town this week to visit with his parents and to contract for the shipment to Oslo of a few carloads of gravel.

Rev. F. L. Larson of Roseau, will be at Rosewood next Friday, Dec. 12 and will speak at the Congregational church in town at 8 p. m. On Saturday the 13th, at 8 p. m. and on Sunday, the 14th at 10:30, and at 8:00 p. m. Everybody is welcome. On Saturday evening will be held in connection the Swedish Young Peoples society when lunch will be served at the close.

Fred Jarsaw and J. Langley returned on Saturday evening from Warren where they had spent the last week to receive medical attention.

A representative of the Diabold Safe and Lock company of St. Paul, was in town last Friday to study out the combination locks on the new safe that was installed at the Farmers State bank last week. Wrong instructions made it impossible for Cashier Holm to open the safe, although several combinations were forwarded by the company, and an expert had to be sent out. This safe has three different combination systems including one two clock time lock which when set will open only at the expiration of certain hours, and is as near burglar proof as can be made.

O. J. Lundell returned to Thief River Falls on Friday evening after spending two days to attend meetings and visit here.

E. M. Bennes of the Lincoln Life Insurance company, was in town last Thursday to establish an agency here in connection with the Farmers State bank.

B. Peterson was an over night business visitor at Thief River Falls last Thursday.

Thor Sevaldson returned from Warren where he had been employed, last Friday evening.

Mrs. John Erickson and children left last Friday for Goodridge where they will visit for a day and will later leave for their home at Sandborn, N. D.

Mr. and Mrs. Rudolph Sagmoen left last Tuesday for Thief River Falls where they will visit over Sunday with relatives.

Iver Westby, Jr., has been in Viking several days of this week to load a threshing outfit which he purchased and will ship to Goodridge. He has been assisted in the work by Alex Helquist, Selmer Haugen, Adolph Rafteseth and Axel Larson, and left for Goodridge on Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. S. Benson of Thief River Falls spent Wednesday and Thursday at this place to visit with relatives and friends.

A party consisting of Mr. and Mrs. John Sagmoen, Mr. and Mrs. L. L. Furan, Mr. and Mrs. S. Benson, Chas. Sagmoen, Mrs. B. P. Sagmoen and Isabel Sagmoen drove to Anita last Wednesday evening to visit with Mr. and Mrs. Rudolph Sagmoen.

Postmaster Herbert Carlson left on Wednesday evening for Thief River Falls, where he will spend a few days on business.

The Rindal Lutheran church at their annual business meeting last Tuesday seriously considered the moving of their church which is now located two miles north of this village into town. While town is not a center for their entire congregation the advantages for both traveling ministers, social meetings, barn conveniences and denser population seems to outweigh this and several of the leading men of the church were very favorably impressed with the idea.

The Norwegian Y. P. S. held their monthly meeting at Rindal last Tuesday evening to a small but enthusiastic audience. A brief musical program was rendered and refreshments were served. The local minister was unable to be present as other duties necessitated his leaving for Thief River Falls the same evening.

Mr. and Mrs. John Sagmoen and three children, Mrs. B. P. Sagmoen and daughter, Miss Isabel, left last Saturday evening for Thief River Falls to attend a farewell reception at the S. Benson home in honor of Mrs. J. Erickson, who leaves on Monday for her home in North Dakota.

Mrs. S. T. Johnson and two children, Sina and Walter, were in town last Saturday as guests with the A. C. Vorseth people.

The L. L. Furan family is spending the week-end with friends and relatives at Thief River Falls.

Carl Bloom is shipping out two carloads of baled hay and straw this week to the southern part of the state.

Rev. Werner Drotts left on Monday morning for his home at Viking and Rev. A. Andrean left for Crookston after concluding their meetings at this place.

Miss Annie Bloom returned on Wednesday evening from Warren, where she has been to see her father who is confined in the hospital there.

Axel Bloom returned the latter part of the week from Hazel, where he had been employed for the last two weeks.

STEINER

Harvey Copp visited at his father's home southwest of this place last Sunday.

Rene Werner helped S. R. Rogers thresh last Saturday.

Mrs. M. O. Saugen had her threshing done last week. It was a difficult job to get the rig to her place and away again as the snow was so deep that it was a hard matter to haul the separator.

Arthur Simonson has been hauling hay from up northwest of this place the past week. He says the roads are pretty bad for hauling hay.

Willis Warring took his hogs to town last week and shipped them through the association. He reports very satisfactory results.

Henry Rogers is still in the hospital in Minneapolis, but his father informs the writer, the operation was satisfactory. He is expected to be home soon.

The telephone company has a crew of men on the two old lines south of here making a brand new line out of the two old ones. One set of poles will answer what two did before. There will be six wires on the long distance lines instead of two.

John Meyers died at his home one and a half miles northwest of here Saturday, Dec. 6. He was an old and highly respected citizen, a German by birth. He was only sick a few days. Interment will be in the Thief River Falls cemetery.

Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Werner were at the Meyer's home Saturday being called there by the death of Mr. Meyers.

Vernon Copp has been buying hay from his brother, Harvey, and hauling it down to their father's farm.

Mr. Rogers got his threshing done last week. He had about given up hope of getting his grain threshed this year.

Miss Ella Meyers returned home from Thief River Falls Saturday to help her mother and be in attendance at her fathers funeral.

MAVIE

Born, to Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Holman, a baby girl. Both are getting along very well.

Eleanor Rambee spent Sunday at Thief River Falls visiting at her brother's place.

Mr. and Mrs. Brownly, their married daughter and grandchild, left for the southern states last Friday.

Anna Lendobja returned home last Friday after spending a very enjoyable day with the Feliars at Gully.

Adeline Svensgaard went to Thief River Falls, where she will be employed for the winter months.

Kelly Horton drove to Mavie on Monday morning to transact business.

Richard Lund returned to Mavie Monday afternoon to resume his work of baling hay.

Johnnie Anderson went to Thief River Falls Friday evening to transact business. He returned the following day.

Olga Svensguard came out from Thief River Falls and spent Saturday at her home.

Oliver Holmen visited at the home of his parents last Friday.

Anna Kotlan visited at the home of her parents and sister, Mrs. J. Houfek, over Saturday and Sunday. She was also busy Christmas shopping. She returned Monday morning to resume her duties as teacher.

Talmer Kjesbo is busy visiting his many friends in this vicinity. The Kjesbo family had moved from here to Halstad, a year ago.

The Stein brothers have arrived in Texas. They are living amid the flowers, while we are "knee deep in snow."

Anton Kotlan drove to Thief River Falls Tuesday to transact business for the day.

Charlie Ptacek went to North Dakota last Monday where he will spend the winter visiting with relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. Nordlan were business callers in Mavie Friday.

ROCKSBURY.

The weather is pretty cold at present.

Miss Hattie Zinter, who has been spending the last two weeks with her brother at Goodridge, returned home Thursday.

Miss Lena Koop and sister-in-law, and three children, left Thursday evening for Columbus, Neb., where Mrs. Koop will make her home. They will also visit friends at Mankato and Omaha before going to Columbus.

Henry Koop and Christopher Anton spent Sunday evening at the Carl Zinter home.

August Moeller helped Henry Koop haul hay Monday.

Theodore Garnet and family, of Lincoln Mo., moved on the Henry Wilken farm.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Wilken and son, expect to take a trip to the sunny south in the near future.

Roy Randorf is busy hauling wood at present.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Moeller made a trip to Thief River Falls Tuesday.

Roy Rondorf made a fast trip to Thief River Falls Monday morning.

John Engelbart helped Gustave Wilken butcher, Monday.

Henry Wilken transacted business in Thief River Falls last Saturday.

Ole Rue.

Word has been received by relatives announcing the death of Ole Rue on December 7, from cancer of the stomach from which he had suffered for a number of years. At the time of his death he was 56 years old. Those left to mourn his loss are two daughters, Mrs. E. Christianson of Halstad, Minn., and Miss Amanda Rue of Neilsville, one son, Theodore who resides in Arizona, two sisters and three brothers, all of Grygla. Deceased was a cousin of Mrs. P. E. Olson of this city and resided in Pennington county for a number of years, leaving this vicinity to take up a homestead in Canada.

PUBLIC FORUM

OBJECTS TO DANCING IN THE SCHOOL ROOM.

Editor Times: The other night when I came home my little girl told me that I would have to go over to the Lincoln school with her, as there was to be a play by the small children. I did not feel like going out and told her that besides I did not think it necessary for her to go. She insisted that as she was to take part; however, it would be necessary for me to take her, so we went.

The play itself was fine as there were only young ones in the cast. After it was over a gentleman I had never seen before talked about healthy, useful and good amusements for the children. A lady whom I did not know but whose identity I guessed at brought up a number of funny ideas. Now and then I heard the word "dance" used and I said to myself; "That's coming on very good—a dance in the public school."

It was the first time in my life I had ever heard of such an idea as the school house being used for a public dance—in the building bearing the name of Abraham Lincoln, too. If it had been at the time that he was traveling around the country and found such fun in a schoolroom that had his name over the door I should think he would do as the Master himself did when He came to a place He called His Father's House, found a whip and drove them out of there. So would Abraham Lincoln surely have done.

I am willing to pay taxes for a school house, but not for a dance hall. If anyone wants that for their young folks let them put up a place for that purpose.

Respectfully,
P. J. JAKOBSON.

Was Prepared For Opportunity

If J. P. Tanger had waited until opportunity knocked before preparing himself to meet it, he would probably not have been named Deputy State Bank Examiner recently. Like thousands of others, he was made ready for his big chance by thorough training at Dakota Business College, Fargo, N. D.

Another pupil, Mae Olson, was "ready prepared" when the American Legion's State Secretary recently needed a capable stenographer. She got the job.

LEGAL NOTICES

County Commissioners' Proceedings

On call of the County Auditor the County Board of Pennington County met in the office of the County Auditor in the City of Thief River Falls, at two o'clock in the afternoon, for the purpose of hearing on the petition of A. J. Hed and others for a change in State Road No. 1, south of St. Hilaire, and for any other business that may legally come before said meeting.

The meeting was called to order by Chairman Commissioner Peterson. On roll call the following members responded present: Commissioners Hanson, McGinn, Naplin, Roy and Peterson. Members absent, None.

The matter of hearing on the petition of A. J. Hed and others for change in part of State Road No. 1, south of St. Hilaire, came duly up before the Board. Owing to the fact that the County Attorney could not attend the meeting said hearing was on motion duly set over until four o'clock at which time it will be taken up and proper disposition made of the same.

Bids for the graveling of four and one-half miles east of Hazel was advertised for November 7th, but owing to the fact that not enough members were present the bids were received and laid over until this meeting. The following bids were received:

Bid of Lloyd E. Crown—

To furnish gravel laid down in Hazel for $1.75 per cubic yard. To load and haul up to one mile at 75 cents per cubic yard. From there on at 55 cents per cubic yard per yard mile. The County to furnish and pay for the same. Certified check of $1,000.00 accompanied said bid.

Bid of P. W. Roark as follows—

Bond Resolution.

WHEREAS, In pursuance of and in full compliance with the General Laws of the State of Minnesota applicable thereto, such steps have been duly and legally taken that those public drainage ditches, known as Judicial Ditch No. 13 and Judicial Ditch No. 18, situate in this County of Pennington, in the State of Minnesota, have been duly and legally established therein, and the contract let and tabular statements made and filed, and bonds heretofore issued and sold, as provided by law, and said contract has, in both of said cases, been wholly completed, but that by reason of an error on the part of the engineer in computing the yardage, or other work pertaining to such ditches, or by reason of unforseen obstacles having arisen after the letting of the contract, the total cost of each of said ditches has been increased in amount exceeding Five Thousand Dollars ($5,000.00) in each case, and the total amount of the tabular statements, and each thereof filed, and the amount of bonds issued, was less than the total cost of each of said ditches, the total amount of benefits, as returned by the viewers, and shown by the record, exceed the amount of the statements filed and bonds issued, in an amount, in the case of said Judicial Ditch No 13 of a sum and amount exceeding Twenty-four Thousand Five Hundred Dollars ($24,500.00), in the case of said Judicial Ditch No. 18, of a sum and amount exceeding Twelve Thousand Five Hundred Dollars, ($12,500.00), and such steps have been duly and legally taken, as provided by law, that an additional tabular statement in each of said cases has been duly filed covering the deficiency between the amount of the previous tabular statements and the total cost of such ditch, and this County Board is duly and legally authorized to issue the bonds of this County in the aggregate amount of Twenty-four Thousand Five Hundred Dollars ($24,500.00) in case of said Judicial Ditch No. 13, and of Twelve Thousand Five Hundred Dollars ($12,500.00) in the case of said Judicial Ditch No. 18, for the purpose of paying in part the expenses incurred in the construction and completion of said Judicial Ditches, respectively, and said bonds have been duly sold;

NOW, THEREFORE,

Resolved by the County Board of Pennington County, Minnesota, as follows:

Section 1. That the negotiable coupon bonds of this County of Pennington, Minnesota, be issued, for the purpose of defraying the additional expense incurred in constructing said Judicial Ditch No. 13 in the amount of Twenty-four Thousand Five Hundred Dollars ($24,500.00), and for said Judicial Ditch No. 18, the sum and amount of Twelve Thousand Five Hundred Dollars, ($12,500.00);

That said bonds shall be forty-two (42) in number, numbered from 1 to 42, both inclusive, in the aggregate amount of Thirty-seven Thousand Dollars ($37,000.00), bonds numbered 1 to 27, being for said Judicial Ditch No. 13, numbers 5, 7, 9, 11 and 13 being of the denomination of Five Hundred Dollars ($500.00) each, and all the rest of the denomination of One Thousand Dollars ($1,000.00) each; bonds numbered 28 to 42, both inclusive, being for said Judicial Ditch No. 18, numbers 28 to 32, both inclusive, being of the denomination of Five Hundred Dollars ($500.00) each, and the balance of the denomination of One Thousand Dollars ($1,000.00) each, all said bonds to bear date November 1st, 1919, and to bear interest at the rate of five and one-quarter per cent (5¼%) per annum, payable semi-annually on the 1st day of May and November of each year, both principal and interest payable at the banking house of The Northwestern National Bank of Minneapolis, in Minneapolis, Minnesota.

Section 2. That the maturities of said bonds shall be as follows:

Bonds numbered 1 to 27, both inclusive, for said Judicial Ditch No. 13, which mature, in their numerical order, one (1) thereof of the denomination of One Thousand Dollars ($1,000.00) on November 1st, of each of the years 1925, 1926 and 1927, two (2) thereof, one (1) of One Thousand Dollars ($1,000.00) and one (1) of Five Hundred Dollars ($500.00), on November 1st of each of the years 1928 to 1932, both inclusive, and two (2) thereof of the denomination of One Thousand Dollars ($1,000.00) each on November 1st of each of the years 1933 to 1936, both inclusive.

Bonds numbered 28 to 42, both inclusive, for Judicial Ditch No. 18, which mature, in their numerical order, as follows: One (1) thereof of the denomination of Five Hundred Dollars ($500.00), on November 1st of each of the years 1925 to 1929, both inclusive, and one (1) of the denomination of One Thousand Dollars ($1,000.00) on November 1st of each of the years 1930 to 1939, both inclusive.

Section 3. That said bonds and the coupons attached to each thereof shall be substantially in the following form, with the necessary variations as to the number, maturity, denomination and the Judicial Ditch for which the same is issued, which form is hereby adopted and approved:

(Form of Bond).

State of Minnesota, County of Pennington, ss.

In the matter of the Petition of R. M. Johnson, Joe Kiland and others for the repair, widening, deepening and extending of ditches in the County of Pennington, State of Minnesota, designated and numbered as County Ditches Nos. 39, 45 and 59:

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN, That petitions have been filed in the office of the County Auditor of said County, praying for the repair, widening, deepening and extending of public ditches designated and known by the County Auditor of such County as County Ditches Nos. 39, 45 and 59; that such petitions and proceedings have been ordered consolidated and that an Engineer has been appointed and has made and filed his report, and the Viewers have been appointed and have made and filed their report.

Description of Repair of Pennington County Ditches Nos. 39, 45 and 59:

DITCH "A": Beginning the numbering with station 0, thirty (30) feet south of the center line of the State Road at the common corner of Sections 26, 27, 34 and 35 of Township 154, North of Range 41, West of the 5th Principal Meridian; thence South along the ditch at the West boundary of said Section 35, deepening and widening the channel of said ditch from station 5 to 37, and along the ditch at the West boundary of Section 2, Township 153, North of said Range 41 West, deepening and widening the channel of said ditch from station 52 to 76, and along the ditch at the West boundary of Sections 11 and 14 in said last named Township and Range, deepening and widening the channel of said ditch from station 106 to 212; thence along the ditch southwesterly to Red Lake River, deepening and widening said ditch from station 212 to 243.

DITCH "B": Beginning at and in the South end of the ditch along the West boundary of Section 31, Township 154 North and Range 40 West; thence South along the the West boundary of said Section 31 and Sections 6 and 7 of Township 153, North of said Range 40 West to the ¼ corner on the West boundary of said Section 7; thence West along the ¼ Section line through Sections 12 and 11 of Township 153, North of Range 41 West to a terminus in Ditch "A".

DITCH "C": Beginning in the ditch at the Southwest corner of Section 32, Township 154, North of Range 40 West; thence South along the West boundary of Sections 5 and 8 of Township 153, North of Range 40 West; thence West along the North boundary of Section 18 of said last named Township and Range, a distance of one-half mile to the ¼ section line; thence South along the ¼ line through said Sections 18 and 19, to a point of intersection with the ditch in Section 19 of said last named Township and Range; thence along said ditch, deepening and widening the same, and providing a curve at the outlet so as to enter the Red Lake River at a tangent as a terminus.

DITCH "D": Beginning at the Northwest corner of the Southwest ¼ of the Southwest ¼ of Section 7 of Township 153, North of Range 40, West, thence South along the West boundary of said Section 7 one quarter of a mile; thence East along the South boundary of said Section 7 to the ¼ line and entering Ditch "C" as a terminus.

DITCH "E": Beginning at a point one-thousand feet East of the ¼ Section corner between Sections 13 and 24, Township 153, North of Range 41, West, thence West along the South boundary of said Section 13 to a terminus in the ditch now existing along the Western portion of the South boundary of said Section 13.

DITCH "F": Beginning at the Southwest corner of Section 27, Township 154, North of Range 41, West; thence South along the West boundary of Section 34 of said Township and Range, and of Sections 3 and 10 of Township 153 North of Range 41 West, to the ditch along the West boundary of said Section 10; thence deepening and widening the ditch along the West boundary of Sections 10, 15 and 22 of said last named Township and Range and turning with fifteen degrees curve across Lot 1 of Section 21, and entering Red Lake River at a tangent as a terminus.

DITCH "G": Beginning in the ditch at the Southeast corner of Section 9, Township 153, North of Range 41 West, thence West along said ditch to the Southwest corner of said Section 9; thence South along said ditch to the ¼ Section corner between Section 16 and 17 of said Township and Range; thence West along said ditch along the ¼ Section line thru said Section 17, to its intersection with Red Lake River as a terminus.

Notice of Cancellation of Real Estate Contract.

To Hans T. Hansen, Rasmus M. Hansen and Jens Jenson.

TAKE NOTICE, That you are in default, under and according to the terms, conditions and provisions of that certain Contract dated the 15th day of November, 1916, whereby B. H. Chase of the City of Thief River Falls, County of Pennington, and State of Minnesota, agreed to convey unto you, upon full and timely performance by you of your part of the terms, conditions and provisions thereof, reference to which Contract for more particularity is hereby made, of the following described real estate situated in the County of Pennington and State of Minnesota, to-wit: "The northwest Quarter (NW¼) of Section Six (6) and the Southwest Quarter (SW¼) of Section Six (6), all in Township one hundred fifty-two (152), Range forty-five (45), according to the Government survey thereof, which contract was filed for record in the office of the Register of Deeds of Pennington County, Minnesota, on the 20th day of October, 1917, at three o'clock P. M., and was duly recorded in Book 3 of Deeds on page 368.

And that according to the terms, conditions and provisions of said contract there became due and payable from you to the said B. H. Chase on the 15th day of November, 1918, the sum of Three Hundred Dollars ($300.00) and on the 15th day of November, 1919, the sum of Four Hundred Dollars ($400.00) with interest thereon at the rate of six per cent per annum from the 15th day of November, 1918, and that such default consists in the non-payment when due of said payments and that at the date of this notice said amount and interest still remains overdue and unpaid, and such default as above specified still exists.

NOW, THEREFORE, You are hereby notified, that unless on or before ninety days after the service of this notice upon you, you pay to B. H. Chase at the office of Theo. Quale, his attorney in the McGinn Block, in the City of Thief River Falls, Pennington County, Minnesota, the amount of money above stated with interest to the date of payment, and the costs of service of this notice, and perform the terms and conditions, and comply with the provisions of said Contract on your part to be performed, said Contract will be cancelled and terminated, and all your right, title and interest thereunder, and in and to the land and property covered thereby, forfeited and annulled. Said cancellation and termination of said Contract to take effect March 15th, 1919.

Dated December 9th, 1919.

B. H. CHASE,
Owner of said Contract.
By THEO. QUALE,
His Attorney.

Mortgage Foreclosure Sale.

Default having been made in the payment of the sum of eighteen dollars which became due on the first day of April A. D. 1918, and is due and claimed to be due at the date of this notice upon a certain mortgage duly executed and delivered by Knut Jorstad and Anna Jorstad, his wife, mortgagors, to the Trail State Bank, of Trail, Minnesota, a corporation, mortgagee, bearing date the 3rd day of April, 1915, and with the power of sale therein contained, duly recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds in and for the county of Pennington, State of Minnesota, on the 23rd day of November, 1917, at eight o'clock A. M., in Book 59 of Mortgages on page 285 thereof; and whereas, pursuant to the terms and conditions of said mortgage, by reason of said default, the whole unpaid principal sum of said mortgage, to-wit: The sum of fifty-four dollars ($54.00) became at once due and payable, and was and is hereby so declared by said mortgagee, and whereas there is actually due and claimed to be due and payable at the date of this notice upon said mortgage the sum of fifty-four dollars ($54.00), with interest thereon at the rate of ten per cent per annum since the first day of April, 1916, or the total sum of seventy-nine and 31-100 dollars, ($79.31).

And whereas, the said power of sale has become operative, and no action or proceedings having been instituted at law or otherwise to recover the debt secured by said mortgage or any part thereof;

NOW, THEREFORE, notice is hereby given, that by virtue of the power of sale contained in said mortgage and pursuant to the statute in such case made and provided, the said mortgage above described will be foreclosed by a sale of the premises described in and conveyed by said mortgage, to-wit: The north half of the southeast quarter (N½ of SE¼) and lots three (3) and six (6) in Section thirty-three (33), Township One Hundred Fifty-two (152), North of Range thirty-nine (39) West 5th P. M., in Pennington County, State of Minnesota, which sale will be made by the Sheriff of said Pennington County at the front door of the Court House in the City of Thief River Falls, in said County and State, on Friday the 6th day of February, A. D. 1920, at two o'clock in the afternoon of said day, at public vendue, to pay the said debt of seventy-nine and 31-100 dollars, ($79.31) and interest from the date of this notice as aforesaid, and taxes if any on said premises, and an attorney's fee of twenty-five dollars as stipulated in and by said mortgage, and the disbursements allowed by law, subject to redemption at any time within one year from date of sale as provided by law.

LOVING CUPS FOR BEST SEAL SALES

BOTH COUNTY AND LOCAL ORGANIZATIONS HAVE CHANCE TO WIN.

Five silver loving cups will be awarded to the county and local campaign directors of the Red Cross Christmas Seal and Health Bond Sale in Minnesota, whose organizations make the best records in the health fund drive now underway.

These prizes are being donated by Mrs. C. A. Severance, of St. Paul, chairman of the state campaign committee, and other prominent Minnesotans.

Details of the award were announced today, by Otto F. Bradley, state campaign director.

Cups will be awarded to the county campaign directors for the first and second highest record of Christmas Seals and Health Bonds per-capita of population in their counties. Cups also will be presented to local city or township campaign managers, who secure the highest sale per capita of population in each of the following classes: first, over 10,000 population; second, from 4,000 to 10,000 and third, below 4,000.

Banners will be awarded to counties, cities and townships on the same basis, these to remain the property of the winning communities.

Each county has a minimum quota of ten cents per capita of population, of the state's minimum allotment of $250,000. Reports to officials of the Minnesota Public Health Association, which is directing the state health fund drive, indicate that many counties will have exceeded their quotas before the end of the week.

NEARLY $97,000 OF TAX MONEY IS DISTRIBUTED

THIS IS SUM GOING TO SUBDIVISIONS FROM FALL COLLECTIONS.

STATE'S SHARE IS SMALL

OVER $20,000 APPLIED TO SPECIAL ACCOUNT OF PENNINGTON COUNTY.

The force in the offices of County Auditor T. P. Anderson and County Treasurer John Gullingsrud have been busy during the past week making a division of the tax moneys collected for the last half of the present year and certified back by the state treasurer. County warrants for the different amounts are being sent out to the treasurers of townships, villages and school districts.

The total amount to be distributed is $96,585.70, of which the state gets $5,297.87, distributed as follows: State tax, $3,360.35; teachers' insurance and retirement fund, $75.69; state school tax, $1,861.84. In addition to this the state gets $2,546.69 from former sales of university, internal improvement and swamp lands.

County's Share $35,507.47.

Special taxes absorb a large share of the money being returned for purely county purposes, the different funds receiving the following amounts: Revenue, $7,581.15; roads and bridges, $5,250.05; bond and interest fund, $454.96; special taxes, $22,221.31. These special taxes include such items as local improvements in the city, county ditches and township roads.

A total of $14,862.82 goes to the cities, townships and villages, the distribution being as follows: Revenue fund, $2,965.50; bond and interest, $619.66; special taxes, $10,979.66. The distribution is as follows:

Bray Twp.	$ 315.78

SOLVING PROBLEMS OF BUSINESS MAN

W. H. FARLEY GIVES INTERESTING LECTURE TO LARGE AUDIENCE THURSDAY.

A number of excellent rules for business success were laid down by W. H. Farley of Dayton, Ohio, in a lecture entitled "The Troubles of a Merchant and How to Stop Them," delivered last Thursday evening to an audience which crowded the Commercial club rooms to the doors. The lecture was illustrated by stereopticon and moving picture views.

Mr. Farley, after showing that lack of system was responsible for a very large percentage of the business failures of the country, pointed out how a merchant should share his responsibilities with others, never attempting to shoulder all the burden alone.

One of the things the speaker particularly warned against was the tendency of people living in a community to refer to it as a "small town." They should consider it the largest town in the world, he said, and unless they managed to do so it would always remain a small town.

He gave sound advice to both owners and clerks as to the best methods to be followed in securing and holding business, but his references to the power of advertising was perhaps the most interesting portion of his discourse. He showed the difference between good and bad advertising, explaining how it was possible for a merchant to expend considerable sums for publicity of this kind without getting the expected results for the reason that not enough time and thought were given to the preparation of copy. He urged his hearers to take more pains with this department of their business as it is one of the most important features connected with it. Among the maxims he wished to have the merchants present take as their guides were: Don't crowd your space; get copy to the newspaper early; keep your advertisements in one particular place in the paper all the time; advertise consistently, not spasmodically; do not exaggerate; use plain, easily understood language in all descriptions; emphasize quality at all times and quote prices where possible. By following this advice and selecting the newspapers of proven circulation and standing it would be impossible to make advertising anything but a paying investment, said Mr. Farley.

Considerable time was devoted to telling the many clerks present a few things for their own and their employers' good. Mr. Farley showed how neatness, cheerfulness and a ready smile were business assets of which the boss was certain to take notice; how the observant, obliging clerk would draw customers to a place while a negligent or indifferent employe invariably proved a detriment to the business, and how by study and application any employe could in a short time better his or her own condition.

This third lecture of a series sponsored by the Merchants' association proved a great success and its value will be felt in many directions.

Miss Alma Anderson, who has been visiting her parents in Middle River, was a guest of her sister, Miss Ella, who is employed in this city, on Tuesday, enroute to Crookston where she is employed.

MEETS INSTANT DEATH AS CAR LEAVES TRESTLE

BROKE THROUGH BUMPERS

FAILURE OF BRAKES BLAMED. LEAVES LARGE FAMILY RESIDING HERE.

John L. Holscher, a switchman, aged 36, was almost instantly killed about 11 o'clock Tuesday morning when a car on which he was riding was pushed off the end of the coal chute trestle at the Soo yards.

Holscher was riding on the last of a string of eight cars which were being pushed up the incline to the dumping trestle by an engine in charge of C. H. Bartlett. One previous attempt had been made to get the cars into position but owing to the heavy load this failed. Another start was taken and the grade negotiated without trouble, but the train failed to stop at the right point with the result that the end car was driven against the safety bumpers with such force that these were snapped and the car toppled over. Holscher was at the end farthest from the bumpers when the collision occurred and as the car upended he was thrown off to one side and to the ground, a distance of about 30 feet, alighting on his head about 40 feet from the track. The skull was crushed, death ensuing in a very short time.

The injured man was at once hurried to the hospital but he died before reaching there.

Leaves Large Family.

Holscher was formerly a resident of Red Lake Falls and had been in the employ of the Soo for about two years. He leaves a wife and family of eight children, the eldest a boy about 16 years of age. The family resides at 306 Horace avenue north. The remains were taken to the Larson undertaking establishment and the funeral will probably take place tomorrow morning, although arrangements have not been definitely made. Deceased was a member of the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen, in which order he carried life insurance to the amount of $2,000.

Inquest is Held.

Coroner H. W. Froehlich ordered an inquiry into the cause of death on the afternoon following the accident. Engineer Bartlett testified that he had used no more power in elevating the cars than usual and that he had been doing that work off and on for years. The testimony of others also went to show that death was due to an accident for which no one could be held to blame.

SALARY QUESTION WILL BE TAKEN UP

SCHOOL BOARD EXPECTED TO ACT ON MATTER NEXT MONDAY EVENING

The school board held a meeting last Monday evening, but while it was expected that the question of an increase in teachers' wages would come up for discussion, the matter was laid over until next Monday evening owing to the fact that two members of the board were absent.

It appears that there is something of a division concerning this matter. While all agree that the present salaries are too low in some instances they are of the opinion that in others they are adequate for the services rendered. It is agreed practically unanimously that the instructors who have been here for some years, and even those among them who have put in any considerable length of time in the profession, should be raised, but objection is voiced to a level advance such as is demanded.

The board has the example of other school authorities in the neighborhood to go by, it being asserted that Thief River Falls is the only city of its class where the wages of teachers have not been increased. Some disposition will undoubtedly be made of the vexing problem when the board again meets.

ANNUAL CHRISTMAS RUSH IS ON AT P. O.

LATE PARCELS MAY NOT REACH THEIR DESTINATIONS IN TIME.

The rush season at the postoffice has commenced but even at that the employes wish that business would become more brisk. They know by experience that the more parcels and letters they are forced to handle at this time the fewer there will be on the last days before Christmas. Every year the business has grown heavier but thus far Postmaster Morgan and his crew have been able to handle it without much difficulty. They hope to do so again and to that end ask the cooperation of the patrons.

Mailing Christmas parcels early in the season is of course highly to be commended, but now that this is no longer possible the next best thing is mailing them early in the day. Performing two errands on one trip may under ordinary circumstances be a commendable proceeding, but this does not apply to mailing parcels and obtaining the incoming mail at the same time during the Christmas rush. This is the habit of people everywhere and for this reason the postoffice lobbies are crowded shortly after the arrival of the mails every day. If people would make a special trip to mail their outgoing packages and then return for their incoming post it would greatly relieve the situation.

Train schedules are not as satisfactory as in former years in many instances, and this is another reason why all parcels should be in the post office as early as possible. Delay in getting them there may mean that the party for whom they are intended will not receive them on time, causing annoyance to everybody concerned.

NEW FIRM RENTS QUARTERS IN CITY

CALLOWAY & HOURIGAN WILL OPEN MILLINERY STORE HERE SOON

The east room of the Christo building, formerly the Grundy block, was this week leased to Calloway & Hourigan of Bemidji and Cass Lake for a period of five years. The lessees intend opening a high class millinery parlor in this city in the spring or as soon as the other arrangements can be made.

The firm already conducts such a store at Bemidji and one of the partners also is interested in other lines at Cass Lake. They are progressive business men who have for some time considered Thief River Falls as a likely location for a store of the kind they intend operating. The lease runs from the first of the year and the work of remodeling the room is expected to start within a short time.

While it is undertsood that millinery will be the principal stock in trade, it is also possible that a complete line of women's furnishings will be included before long.

SECURE EXTENSION ON CITY CONTRACT

HOLT & GEORGE GRANTED UNTIL JULY 1 ON WATER MAINS

J. F. Bradley of St. Cloud, president of the engineering firm in charge of the paving preliminaries in this city, was conferring with the members of the city council last week. In company with a committee of citizens he went over the work thus far carried on and said he believed it to be satisfactory. Objection to the course pursued by the engineer in charge was encountered in a number of instances, but Mr. Bradley maintained that he had every confidence in the efficiency of his man. If the authorities insisted, however, another would be sent here, he said.

The Holt & George Plumbing and Heating company of this city, the contractor in charge of the excavations necessary in order to put the water mains in the desired shape before paving operations are begun, was granted an extension of time in which to finish the job. The original contract called for completion by December 1, but the setting in of winter at an unusually early date has made it impossible to carry on work of this kind. Inability to secure material also figured in the firm's failure to meet the specifications and it was recognized that the delay was unavoidable.

ELKS WILL INITIATE 35 FRIDAY EVENING

THIRD BIG CLASS OF THIS YEAR TO HAVE HORNS ATTACHED.

The members of Thief River Falls Lodge No. 1308 B. P. O. E. are preparing for another big initiation tomorrow evening. A class of 35 fawns have progressed to the point where they are to have the horns attached and the occasion is one which calls for considerable of a ceremony. The regular lodge room is not large enough to accommodate the antlered herd sure to be on hand and the auditorium will be used for the occasion. When these novices have been taken into the fold the number so honored during the year will be not far short of 300. This is without a doubt the best record made by any Elks lodge in the state in the same length of time.

A business meeting will precede the initiation and matters of great importance will come up. For one thing it is expected that the committee which has been looking into the matter of building a club home will report and as this has been awaited for some time with great interest the announcement should bring out a record crowd.

The lodge is still somewhat shy of the 500 memberhip which has been set as the goal, but by spring it is expected that the figure will be reached. This will make it the largest lodge in this section of the state.

G. N. TRAINS TO NORTH RESUME OLD SCHEDULE

DAILY PASSENGER SERVICE IN EFFECT TODAY CROOKSTON TO WARROAD

RESTORE SLEEPER SERVICE

DULUTH TRAIN ON SOO ALSO WILL MAKE ENTIRE TRIP HEREAFTER

After one week of curtailed train service, this section of the country today goes back to the former schedules. The return of the coal miners to work has relieved the fuel situation to such an extent that it is deemed safe to resume the old time tables, much to the relief of the entire country.

Slight Change Here.

Thief River Falls was affected by the order chiefly by reason of restricting travel to points on the Great Northern to one train per day in one direction instead of both ways as formerly. Beginning today the former plan of operation will be followed, the north bound train leaving at 11:20 and the south bound at 3:20.

The sleeper service on the Soo also will be restored. For one week no sleeping car has been set off here by No. 109, running from the Twin Cities to Winnipeg, which has been the source of much annoyance to the traveling public.

Coal Also Released.

The Soo train to Duluth, which for a week has gone only as far as Moose Lake, will also make the through run today.

Restrictions on the use of coal have also been removed by the return of the miners and industry throughout the country is approaching a normal basis. Coal operators said that nothing like a normal output could be expected for several days as it was necessary to clear away the debris which had accumulated in a large number of properties during the 40 days of strike, before the hoisting of coal could begin.

Studied Tax Problems.

T. M. Thronson, assistant cashier of the First and Peoples State bank, returned the last of the week from St. Paul, where he had been for the purpose of acquainting himself with the provisions of the income tax law. Bank representatives from all over the state were on hand to learn from experts just how to solve questions involving surtaxes, exemptions and deductions. This step was taken by the local banking officials in order that there might be a man at hand who has made a special study of this important matter when the time comes for making returns. This will prove a great aid to the patrons of the institution, particularly the farmers, the intention being to extend any assistance needed in making out the reports.

LAND LOAN HEAD TO SPEAK HERE

PRES. QUAME WILL ATTEND ANNUAL MEETING OF VALHALL ASSOCIATION.

The annual meeting of the Valhall National Farm Loan association will be held at the auditorium in Thief River Falls on Tuesday, Jan. 13, at 2 o'clock. President E. G. Quame, of St. Paul, president of the regional bank, will be present for the purpose of explaining the workings of the plan and the advantages it holds for farmers who are compelled to borrow money. The directors have sent notices to all sections of the territory served by the local branch and it is expected that one of the largest gatherings of farmers ever seen in the city will be present.

The slogan of the association for this occasion is: "Make Tuesday, Jan. 13, a Holiday," the idea being to urge on every farmer the advisability of being present at this meeting. As an added inducement a dinner will be served to all those attending from 12:30 to 1:30 p. m.

The Valhall association is one of the most successful in the state and has made an enviable record during its first year of operation. A full report of its activities will be presented at the meeting by Secretary-Treasurer L. A. Lampert.

CHURCH BUILDINGS OFFERED FOR SALE

TRINITY CONGREGATION WILL ALSO DISPOSE OF OTHER PROPERTY.

M. V. Evenson, C. M. Carlson and H. S. Dahlen are members of a committee appointed by the congregation of Trinity Lutheran church to dispose of the properties coming into the hands of the organization by reason of the recent consolidation. The merged congregation will for the present use the former Synod church as a place of worship, this being the largest of the three.

The property of the former Hauge synod at the corner of LaBree and First street south is for sale, as is also the brick basement at the corner of Horace and Fourth, used until a short time ago by the members of the United church. Both are in excellent condition and it is not anticipated that any difficulty will be experienced in finding buyers. All the ceremonial equipment in both churches is also for sale, including a piano, two organs, baptismal fonts, etc.

As soon as these properties are disposed of the intention is to begin planning for the erection of an entirely new church edifice, it being doubtful if any of the former locatons will be selected. The present building is not large enough for the greatly augmented membership and more room is an absolute necessity. When the entire program has been worked out the congregation will have one of the finest and largest buildings of its kind in this section.

LAIRD URGES FURNISHING OF FEED AT ONCE

REPORT ON SITUATION IN FLOODED DISTRICTS IS SENT IN.

NEEDY FAMILIES HELPED

MEETINGS SCHEDULED FOR DIFFERENT POINTS AFTER FIRST OF YEAR.

A nice Christmas present is probably in store for many of the flood sufferers of this part of the state if the efforts of Appraiser Scott Laird are productive of results with the state board of relief. Mr. Laird has recommended to the board certain allowances in the way of feed for horses and cattle on the farms of the people, who suffered by reason of the heavy floods of last summer, while in other instances family relief has also been urged.

Changes Are Probable.

Careful investigation has been made of the situation as it exists today in this vicinity and the allowances have been made only after due deliberation. It may be that alterations will have to be made in the figures as sent in to the state capitol if conditions warrant such action. This will be determined after public hearings are held in several of the towns of the counties affected.

To Hold More Meetings.

It is proposed at present to hold these meetings about the middle of January, following the return of the county agents from their vacations and their attendance at the state meeting of county agents at the experimental station in St. Paul the first week in the new year. The tentative plan now is to have a meeting at Goodridge January 13, Grygla January 14, Gatzke January 15, Holt January 16, Greenbush, January 19, Badger January 20 and Roseau January 21.

Dairymen's Officers.

At the annual meeting of the Red River Valley Dairymen's association held at Crookston last week the following were elected officers for the ensuing year: N. P. Hanson, Westbury, president; W. V. Gousseff, Crookston, first vice president; L. P. Anderson, Clearbrook, second vice president; Leonard Houske, Halstad, secretary; G. M. Davidson, Climax, treasurer. C. G. Selvig, for eight years president of the association, declined a reelection.

A Big Express Bill.

O. J. Dahl, a prosperous farmer residing a short distance from the city, purchased a fine Shorthorn bull calf at the stock show in South St. Paul recently and had it shipped here by express. The transportation cost was $35, which would under ordinary circumstances be a fair price for the calf. It was no ordinary critter, however, and the sum is only a small part of the total cost.

N. P. LEAGUE WILL INVADE COUNTIES

ANNOUNCED THAT COMPLETE TICKETS WILL BE PUT IN FIELD.

Press dispatches from St. Paul contain the information that plans for the establishment of a county organization of the Nonpartisan league were approved at the meeting of the league's national committee in that city recently.

It is understood that the organization plans to participate in county as well as national and state poltics in the various states where it has a membership.

The county organization plan was presented by President A. C. Townley. The organization will be begun immediately, it was announced.

A portion of the annual dues paid to the league will be devoted to this work, it was stated.

The national committee also considered plans for developing a national auxiliary of women.

REPORT SHOWS GOOD WORK OF FARM BUREAU

MEMBERSHIP INCREASED JUST 100 DURING YEAR ENDING NOVEMBER 30.

9000 MILES OF TRAVELING

NEARLY 1,000 DIFFERENT FARM VISITS MADE—WIDE RANGE OF ACTION.

Unless a person takes the trouble to study carefully the annual report just issued by County Agent J. J. McCann it is impossible to realize to what extent the Pennington County Farm bureau has become a factor in the life of the farmers of the neighborhood. The second year of actual operation closed on Nov. 30. During the year just 100 new names were added to the list of members, the total now being 245. To this might also be added the boys and girls club membership, this coming also under the direction of the agent, which makes 240 more.

The report shows the year to have been a busy one. Nearly 2,000 letters and circulars pertaining to the business of the office were mailed and Mr. McCann was directly or indirectly responsible for the publication of 134 articles pertaining to farm topics in the local papers. He also contributed 24 general articles to the Farm Bureau News and mailed 1164 letters, not counting 822 circulars of all kinds. Twelve demonstration meetings were held at different points in the county during the year and the agent was called upon to furnish information to government, state or other public institutions 82 times.

A Helpful Program.

The farm bureau has not alone assisted in every undertaking calculated to benefit the farmers direct but has been active in many directions. Among the organizations that have sought the assistance of the agent in his official capacity or of the bureau generally the following are mentioned in the report: Farmer's clubs, Community club, Live Stock Breeders associations, shipping associations, poultry breeders, fair association, bankers' association, public health organizations, Woman's club and the American legion.

Department of Soils.

Twenty experimental plots were secured for Pennington county in cooperation with the soils department of the university. Twenty-four tons of phosphate were distributed to the farmers of the county. Twenty experimental phosphate fertilizer plots were conducted.

Treated seed was sown on 8,850 acres and 23,460 bushels of grain was furnished to 236 farmers through the exchange list and the farm bureau office. The campaign waged against smut improved the quality of the grain crop in the county 36 per cent over that of the previous year. The report shows that six farmers assisted in conducting pure seed plots and the same number helped in the poisoning of grasshoppers.

The Tuberculin Test.

Sixty-two farmers were assisted in the sale and exchange of 220 head of livestock. The cattle tested for tuberculosis numbered 2,153 and were owned by 150 farmers, this being the largest number of cattle thus accredited in any county in the United States. Two cow testing associations were formed.

Ten boys and girls received a free trip to the state fair, the livestock contest or the livestock show.

The above are only a few of the items contained in this very interesting report. The entire document will soon be issued in pamphlet form and every member of the association provided with a copy.

PANDOLFO GETS 10 YEARS; ALSO FINE

JUDGE LANDIS ORDERS ORGANIZER COMMITTED TO LEAVENWORTH PRISON.

Federal Judge K. M. Landis on Tuesday sentenced Samuel C. Pandolfo, organizer and head of the Pan Motor company, St. Cloud, convicted of using the mails to defraud, to serve 10 years in the Leavenworth federal penitentiary and fined him $4,000.

Attorneys for Pandolfo gave notice that his case will be appealed to the United States circuit court of appeals at once.

A stay of sentence was granted Pandolfo by the United States court of appeals, pending carrying the case to a higher court. Pandolfo was released on $25,000 bond and "must refrain from doing those things which placed him in this unfortunate position," Judge Alschuler said.

New Grocery Firm.

Alfred Bredesen and O. J. Snustad have purchased the stock and fixtures of the grocery store formerly conducted by M. N. Benson on Main avenue and are prepared to supply the public with anything in their line. Both gentlemen have been connected with grocery establishments in this city for a number of years and have a wide circle of friends and acquaintances among the buying public.

Free For Children.

Manager A. J. Lawrence of the Lyceum has decided to give the kids a Christmas treat. He will put on a show from 10 o'clock until 12 Christmas day, to which all children under 16 years of age will be admitted free of charge. An appropriate play will be secured for this free entertainment.

GETTING READY TO CELEBRATE VISIT OF SANTA

COMMITTEES WILL SOON HAVE THINGS READY FOR BIG EVENT

TO CHEER UNFORTUNATES

HIGH SCHOOL GIRLS WILL SING CAROLS AT POOR HOUSE AND HOSPITALS

Things are shaping up for the big community Christmas celebration in this city on the afternoon of Christmas day. A number of details are yet to be perfected and these cannot be ironed out until the finance committee reports the results of its labors at a meeting of the general committee this evening. It is known, however, that the things most necessary for a proper observance as far as the children are concerned will be forthcoming.

The original plan, which was that each organization should look to the collection of money among its own members, has to some extent been changed and energetic solicitors have during the past few days been securing funds in the good old-fashioned way—by going out after subscriptions.

The Community Girls will meet on Monday evening at the Commercial club rooms for the purpose of filling the bags with candy and such other things as are indispensable to a proper celebration of Christmas.

Will Sing For Inmates.

A very pretty and appropriate feature of the day's program has been added through the efforts of the Woman's club. It is proposed that early on Christmas morning the high school girls be taken in bob sleighs to the hospitals and poor house, where they will sing carols and distribute candles to be placed in the windows. This latter custom is followed in many old countries and is becoming more general in the United States. It is suggested by an old legend which says that on Christmas eve the Christ Child wanders in the snow in the guise of a poor little child, searching for the spirit of Christianity, which is charity. Wherever he finds a light in the window He knows He will find shelter and warmth within.

Mrs. Mauritz Brink and Miss Zella Zeh will have charge of the carol singing by the high school girls throughout the day.

The Sick Remembered.

On Christmas afternoon, after the distribution has been made at the tree, the Santas will make a trip to the sanitorium, the hospital, the poor house and the homes of sick children for the purpose of bringing Christmas cheer to those who are unable to be present at the general observance.

Further details of the program will be perfected this evening.

DRY LAWS UPHELD IN SUPREME COURT

UNANIMOUS DECISION MAKES COUNTRY DRY UNTIL PEACE IS PROCLAIMED

Wartime prohibition was held constitutional on Monday by the United States supreme court in a unanimous decision. Thus vanished the hopes of many for a "wet" holiday time.

Enforcement of the act must continue until peace is proclaimed, the court decreed.

The decision was a sweeping victory for the contentions of the prohibitionists and the government. It means that the millions of gallons of intoxicating liquors now stored thruout the country and valued at about $1,000,000,000, will be a near total loss unless peace is proclaimed before constitutional prohibition becomes effective.

By the decision the government will lose $440,000,000 in revenue from whiskey alone, unless the ban is lifted before Jan. 16.

No decision was rendered on the case involving the constitutionality of the Volstead law, the prohibition enforcement act, framed to carry out the intent of the prohibition amendment to the constitution.

In passing, however, Associate Justice Joseph D. Brandeis did hold that the prohibition amendment was binding on the states as well as the federal government.

The court entirely reversed the contention of the "wets" that wartime prohibition was outside the wartime power of congress and pointed out that wartime control of foods and railroads still were in effect.

The court will render opinions again next Monday, at which time the beer cases are expected to be decided, after which the court will recess until Jan. 5. The prohibition constitutional amendment will become effective Jan. 16.

Last Meeing of Year.

The board of county commissioners will meet for the last time this year on Dec. 29 and 30, when ditch matters will occupy the attention of the members. The date for the first meeting in the new year is Jan. 12.

STOCK SHOW A BIG SURPRISE TO LOCAL MAN

OLAF RAMSTAD SPENDS SHORT TIME AT INTERNATIONAL EXPOSITION

WAS WONDERFUL DISPLAY

BELIEVES MORE THAN EVER IN VALUE AND IMPORTANCE OF INDUSTRY

Olaf Ramstad, president of the Citizens State bank of this city, returned last week from Chicago, where he had gone to attend the International Livestock show. He was in some doubt as to the wisdom of making the long trip before he went but now he would not have missed it for a big sum.

Mr. Ramstad has given a great deal of study to the stock industry in Pennington and surrounding counties and has always been of the opinion that the farmers here would finally come to realize that in this direction lay their road to permanent prosperity. He returns from the big show more firmly than ever convinced that such is the case.

"There were entries from every state in the Union and practically every province of Canada," said Mr. Ramstad. "The display was so vast that no person could do it justice in less than a week's stay. It took just that length of time to judge the horses and cattle alone, to say nothing of the smaller stock.

Perfection Seems Reached.

"A visit to this show is a liberal education," continued the banker, "and I only hope that in the future a number of our farmers will be able to make the trip. The exhibition must be visited in order to be even in the slightest degree appreciated and it would take an entire month to go over it all with any degree of care.

"The animals displayed show what constant aim toward perfecton will accomplish. They were so perfect that it would be impossible for an artist to reproduce their likeness on canvas. The exhibition is a liberal education in the results that may be achieved by perseverance and intelligent application," said Mr. Ramstad, "and I only regret that more of our people—particularly the young folks—were not there to see it."

Mr. Ramstad believes our section of the state is peculiarly adapted to the raising of livestock of the very finest quality. This, he thinks, is realized, but what is not so well understood is that the raising of purebreds is the only effort worth while. The international show demonstrated that the scrub no longer has a chance in the competition, no matter how cheap it can be had as an original investment nor how little it costs to bring it to the best form attainable. When the difference is thoroughly understood there will no longer be need for urging that a better quality be aimed at, according to his view.

Will Cure Unrest.

"Observaton of the men who make a business of raising livestock convinces me that here lies a cure for much of the unrest that prevails in the country," continued Mr. Ramstad. "There is something in the business that makes a man an optimist and causes him to be satisfied with his lot. The exhibitors at this show were almost without exception citizens of the very highest class and it was a pleasure to mingle with them. It has been stated that cattle would make our farms better, our farmers more prosperous and our entire outlook for the future more promising, but I am also convinced that the pursuit will make better men and women of those who engage in it with the intention of mastering its details and getting the most out of its possibilities."

RIGHT OF INDIANS TO HUNT ATTACKED

COURT WILL DECIDE WHETHER STATE LAWS APPLY ON RESERVE.

Whether or not the state game wardens can enforce the laws of the state of Minnesota against the Indians will be finally settled through an action begun in justice court in Grand Rapids last Saturday. Game Warden J. P. Murphy brought in two Chippewa Indians from the Pigeon river country, accused of hunting deer during the closed season.

This is a matter that has always caused considerable discussion, particularly in communities near Indian reservations. The general impression has always been that the Indians, being wards of the government and living on their own lands, are not governed by the state laws covering the killing of game and fish, but the Itasca county wardens are evidently of a different opinion and are going to test the matter out. In this they are supported by State Warden Carlos Avery.

Before this case is finally decided, it is expected to go to the highest courts in the state, and perhaps to the United States supreme court. The standing of the Indians as regards their right to hunt and fish in spite of state laws will be determined. There has been more or less difficulty with the Indians in Northern Minnesota for a number of years. They have been permitted to net fish, kill game and trap fur-bearing animals without regard to open or closed season. The state game and fish commission wishes to conserve the game and fish supply and believes that the laws were made for the Indians as well as the white men. The issue will be finally determined before this test case is settled.

Alumni Party.

The Thief River Falls high school alumni will hold their annual "get-together" in the auditorium on the evening of Dec. 26 at 8:30 o'clock. The first part of the evening will be taken up with a business meeting and program. Dancing will commence at 10:30. Any alumni who has been overlooked and is not in possession of a personal invitation is to consider himself invited. It is especially desired that there be a large attendance so—come alumni. This is one big opportunity to meet your old classmates.

Masonic Installation.

Northern Lodge No. 236, A. F. & A. M., and Winslow Chapter of the Eastern Star, will hold a joint installation of officers in the lodge room next Monday evening. All Masons and Star members are invited to be present at this ceremonial but the report that the affair will be open to the general public is erroneous.

MUST USE WOODEN BOX FOR EXPRESS

PACKAGES WEIGHING OVER 25 LBS. WILL NOT OTHERWISE BE TAKEN.

The new express packing rules went into effect on Dec. 16, according to a statement made by Agent R. F. Spencer, in charge of the local express offices. Under the regulations now in force, all express shipments over 25 pounds must be forwarded in wooden containers or cartons bearing the boxmakers' certificate as to strength and size required by the express company.

No change is contemplated in the shipments under the 25-pound limit, which will still be accepted wrapped in paper. Agent Spencer advised Christmas shippers not only to send their holiday packages early, but to see that they were properly packed and accurately addressed.

"We expect a very heavy movement of Christmas gifts by express this year," said Mr. Spencer, "and this at a time when we are handling a greater amount of traffic than at any period in the history of the railroads. It will be well for Christmas shippers to keep in mind the 25 pound limitation for paper wrapped packages. Mosth holiday presents, we believe, are under that weight and are, therefore, not affected by the new rules.

"But any shipment over 25 pounds must be forwarded in special containers, and we will be very glad to give anyone interested full information as to how they should prepare their Christmas presents for shipment by express."

DURABLE ROAD SAVES MONEY

Saving of Eight Cents Per Ton Mile Can Be Effected in Transportation Costs Alone.

The report of the joint congressional committee which investigated highway economics in 1914 shows that a saving of eight cents per ton mile can be effected in transportation costs when a road is lifted from the dirt to the durable class. This does not take into account increased real estate valuations or social advantages resulting from the improvement.

IMPROVE ROADS FOR TRUCKS

Bureau of Markets Arrives at Conclusion Motor Vehicles Have Passed Experimental Stage.

Inadequate highways are one of the penalties with which the user of highway transportation must contend, says Bulletin No. 770, recently issued by the bureau of markets. The department arrives at the conclusion that the motortruck has passed the experimental stage, but says that before it can attain its fullest usefulness the highways must be improved.

Good Drainage Necessary.

The most necessary requirement of a good road is a solid, bone-dry foundation. This means good drainage first, last and all the time.

Trees Along Highways.

Trees at a distance of 50 or 60 feet apart along the highway add to its comfort and pleasing appearance.

FAIL TO REACH AGREEMENT ON HOUSING PLAN

ENTIRE PROJECT SEEMS TO HAVE LANDED ON FINANCIAL SHOALS

SUBJECT NOT ABANDONED

SOLUTION OF PROBLEM MAY YET BE WORKED OUT SATISFACTORILY

It will cost in the neighborhood of $50,000 to build an apartment house capable of accommodating 20 families in Thief River Falls, and up to date no one has indicated a willingness to produce the money. This does not mean that the subject of providing additional living quarters in the city has been abandoned, but simply that some other way out of the difficulty will in all probability be looked for.

There was a good representation of citizens present at the Commercial club rooms when the report of M. V. Evenson, Math Barzen and F. H. Herrick, the committee appointed to look into the matter, was submitted last Thursday evening. Those present were agreed that something should be done to encourage the building of more residences, but just how the matter is to be gone about is the stickler.

Would Cost $50,000.

Mr. Barzen was the first speaker. He stated that so far the committee had been able to find no one outside the city who cared to invest the required sum in such an enterprise just at this time. He said that 60 per cent of the total needed would have to be raised in cash, the balance being secured by mortgage on the property. He figured that the raising of $50,000 for the purpose at home under present circumstances might be a difficult matter.

Mr. Evenson reported on his recent visit to Minneapolis, in which city he had investigated the situation with regard to apartment buildings and found that such houses were going up at a tremendous rate. He also found the cost of such undertakings to be much greater than he anticipated but that many evidently considered them good investments. The best results were obtained, he said, from three-story buildings with half basements. Mr. Evenson declared that he had no doubt but that such a building could be kept full all the time and at a very good rate of rental. According to the tentative schedule submitted, the gross returns would be about $800 per month, if the same rental were charged as in Minneapolis.

Definite Figures Lacking.

It was suggested that sufficient funds be subscribed by those wishing to back the enterprise to enable them to hire an architect and thus find out exactly where they were at, but this proposition went no farther. Gay Halvorson moved that the same committee be given more time in which to pursue their investigations, and this was finally decided upon.

President E. M. Stanton of the club said that he considered the whole matter as a cold-blooded business proposition and could see no other sensible course than that a number of men with the necessary credit put up the building the same as they would enter upon any other business undertaking. H. O. Chommie and C. L. Hansen agreed with this view and suggested that a corporation be formed for the purpose of financing the deal. H. O. Loken wanted the matter started at once in order that the position of those present might be discovered, but nothing toward this end was done.

Still Another Plan.

Daniel Shaw and others stated that they would much prefer to see some plan envolved whereby people could be helped toward owning homes of their own. Since the meeting there has been a noticeable disposition to look more closely into the matter from this angle and there are well-founded hopes that a workable scheme may be set in motion. According to the views of many it would be by far the most satisfactory solution and the risk involved by the investors would not be so great.

PLAN HONOR TO ROOSEVELT

Suggestions Have Been Made to Name Transcontinental Highway After Former President.

Memorials to the dead and tributes to the living in the form of highways is a plan which is catching the popular fancy everywhere. Since France christened a street in honor of Wilson, Tientsin, China, has done the same thing, and elsewhere suggestions have been made that a transcontinental highway be named in honor of Roosevelt. Louisiana is planning a Victory oak way and sentiment is reflected by movements to rename streets and highways after heroes of the war in other states.

Proved Truth of Saying.

The saying, "United we stand, divided we fall," comes from one of Aesop's fables called "The Four Oxen and the Lion." Four oxen were attacked by a lion. They were safe when they turned their tails together, and presented their horns, but when they separated the lion killed them singly.

Obtain Oil From Eggs.

The turtle living in the Orinoco lays eggs which are extraordinarily rich in oil. The Indians in British Guiana collect 25,000,000 yearly for making oil. The eggs of many sea birds are excellent eating. The best of the lot is said to be that of the "murre," a bird which is very common on the Labrador coast.

TEN AND 20 YEARS AGO

Twenty Years Ago.

Bert Young started his stage line to the agency. Two stages were placed in commission, one round trip a week being made. The sleighs were enclosed and provided with heat. The ice on the river was thick enough to carry the heaviest loads and as stopping places were provided along the route the trip could be made in safety and comfort.

Joe DuChamp took a contract to haul 60,000 pounds of beef to the lumber woods for Mr. Patterson.

The family of E. E. Zeh moved into the Joseph Jerome house in the Third ward.

Joseph Jerome, president of the city council, moved to the lumber woods for the winter and his place as director in the Knox school district was filled by Frank Zavoral by appointment.

L. Oriard, cattle buyer at Germantown, bought a two-year-old bull weighing 1640 pounds from Mekkel Anderson. It was the heaviest critter for its age ever raised in the section.

Ten Years Ago.

Mrs. Pauline Jensen, mother of Mrs. I. T. Anstad of this city, died at her home in St. Paul at the age of 62. She was a pioneer of the state, having resided in St. Paul for 38 years.

It was announced that the local branch of the Finch-Winslow-Carlisle company was to be organized as an independent concern on Jan. 1, under the management of J. H. McKinney.

Orban Eberhart and Miss Elsie Jerome were married at the home of the bride's parents.

Rev. O. O. Fugleskjel, a Scandinavian missionary, well known to many Thief River Falls people, was frozen to death at Silver Creek.

W. A. Kratka, a resident of the city in pioneer days, arrived from California on a visit to old friends.

A boy was born to Rev. and Mrs. Henry Pope of Rocksbury township.

Raise For Trainmen.

Under an agreement between the railroad administration and the four brotherhoods of train and enginemen, time and a half for overtime in slow freight service will become effective as of Dec. 1.

All arbitrary and special allowances formerly applicable between terminals were eliminated, but special allowances for switching and similar work at initial terminals were preserved, at the old rate.

Card of Thanks.

We wish hereby to express our heartfelt thanks to our friends and neighbors who so kindly assisted us during the illness and death of our beloved son and brother, and the many floral offerings.—Mr. and Mrs. Carl Haug, and Children. d18p

Indians are Paid.

Supt. George W. Cross has announced that the fall annuity payment has been made to all members of the Red Lake tribe of Chippewa Indians, the share of each member being $17.70. Payment was last Saturday made at Ponemah, (Cross Lake) and at Red Lake agency on December 11 and 12. The payment coming on at this time of the season will certainly be greatly appreciated by the Indians.

Pine Lumber Sale.

Sealed proposals were closed at Red Lake Agency, Red Lake, Wednesday, October 15, for the sale of all or part of approximately two-million feet of white and Norway pine lumber, which was manufactured at the agency sawmill by the Red Lake Indians. The most satisfactory bid received was that of Upham & Walsh, Inc., of Chicago, their bid being $38.50 per thousand, f. o. b. Redby, and same was accepted. This is considered one of the best and most successful sales ever held at the Red Lake agency.

Leave For Navy Men.

G. H. Fort, in charge of the navy recruiting station at Minneapolis, has announced that all men enlisting during December will be granted leave permission to remain at home until Jan. 3.

Methodist Choir Program.

The Methodist church choir of fifteen voices will give a musical program on next Sunday evening at 8 o'clock under the direction of Mrs. Irma Mallory Fisher, with Miss Harriet Mitchel presiding at the piano. Mrs. Fisher needs no introduction to the music lovers of this city and all who attend will be assured of a rare musical treat. The program to be given follows:

1. Anthem, "Hark, the Herald Angels Sing"—Choir.
2. Solo, "Infant King," by Nidlinger—Mrs. Nason.
3. Anthem, "It Came Upon a Midnight Clear,"—Choir.
4. Duet, "Christmas Song" by Adam—Mrs. Nason and Mrs. Fisher.
5. Male Chorus, "Bethlehem," by Armstrong.
6. Anthem, "While Shepherds Watched Their Flocks by Night,"—Choir.
7. Solo, "Christmas Lullaby," by Buck—Mrs. L. F. Fisher.
8. Anthem, "Hark, What Mean Those Holy Voices"—Choir.

U. C. T. Party.

The party given by the U. C. T. in the Odd Fellows hall on Saturday evening was well attended and a complete success. The committee in charge of the entertainment deserves much credit as everything had been very cleverly and systematically arranged. Contest games, cards and dacing made up the program for the evening. One especially interesting feature of the amusements was a game of polo played by Messrs. Brown, Ostby, Anderson and Larson, all riding Kiddy Kars. The onlookers were kept in a continual uproar watching the gentlemen in their strenuous efforts to retain their positions on the miniature horses.

At midnight a very fine lunch was served cafeteria style, after which the guests departed with the hopes that another party of the same nature would be given in the near future.

For Mrs. Robinson.

Mrs. F. H. Herrick was hostess at a series of parties in compliment to her sister, Mrs. S. R. Robinson of Oslo, who is her guest. The first two took place on Thursday and Friday afternoons of last week. Twelve ladies were present at each event. Prizes were awarded to Mrs. Froehlich and Mrs. O. Ramstad. Mrs. Vance assisted the hostess in serving.

On Tuesday evening eight girls were entertained. Contest games formed the chief amusement. Misses Gena Granum and Grace Wilson carried off the evening's prizes. At 11 o'clock a delicious lunch was served. Mrs. A. S. Sapero assisted in the serving. The guests were: Misses Grace and Agnes Wilson, Gena Granum, Irma Johnson, Dora Holmes, Blanche Johnson and Meta Kiland, and Mesdames A. S. Sapero and Leo Fahey.

Mutual Help Club Meets.

The Mutual Help club held its regular meeting on the evening of December 6th in the normal department rooms. The following program was given:

Song: "Battle Hymn of the Republic"—Audience.
Reading: "Somebody's Mother"—Ida Sovde.
Duet: "One Sweetly Solemn Thought"—Mable Shefeland and Wilma Sund.
Monologue: "Washing Dishes"—Mildred Jahr.
Song: "Vacant Chair."
Reading: "It Isn't Your Town, It's You"—Mable Rogers.
Trio: "Sweet and Low, Smile, Smile Smile."
Song: "Jingle Bells"—Audience.

The next meeting of the club will be held the first Saturday in February, 1920. All rural teachers are invited.

Glee Club Girls Entertain.

Saturday evening the Lincoln high school was the scene of a very enjoyable party. Supper was served in the main hall of the building with six guests sitting at each table. After partaking of a bounteous repast the girls hied themselves to the gymnasium where they played various games. They then proceeded to the general assembly where an impromptu program was given, after which the guests departed for their various homes. Those present were the members of the Glee club, the Misses Evans, Whipps, and Holmes.

Johnson-Johnson.

Miss Julia Johnson of Holt and Edwin Johnson of this city, were united in marriage on December 16th, at the home of the groom's parents in this city. Rev. O. J. Lundell officiated. After the ceremony a dinner was served to the immediate relatives of the contracting parties. The young couple will make their home in this city.

Bazaar Lunch.

The menu for the lunch to be served by the ladies of the Presbyterian church at the bazaar on Friday evening, Dec. 19, is as follows: Roast beef and brown gravy, riced potatoes, creamed carrots, cabbage salad, pickles, bread and butter, cranberry sauce, cake and coffee. Children under 12—35 cents; adults—50 cents. d18

In Honor of Mrs. Schlosser.

Mrs. Math Barzen informally entertained ten ladies on Saturday afternoon in compliment to her sister-in-law, Mrs. Schlosser of Mansfield, Ohio, who has been her guest. The afternoon was spent in fancy work, and at five-thirty a delicious lunch was served.

Fill Christmas Bags.

The Girls Community club will meet at the commercial club rooms on Monday evening and it is urgently requested that all members be present. The special purpose of the gathering is the filling of bags for the community Christmas tree. Lunch will be served.

Mrs. Schrapel Honored.

Mrs. M. Schrapel was honor guest at an informal gathering of ladies at the home of Mrs. Fred Holzknecht last Saturday afternoon. A delightful lunch was served by the hostess which closed a very enjoyable afternoon.

Dahl-Hanson

Miss Olga Dahl and Alfred O. Hanson, both of this city, were united in marriage on Monday evening at the Zion Lutheran Parsonage. Rev. George Larson, pastor of the church, officiating. Gordon Larson and Charlottie Larson, were witnesses.

Mrs. Vance Entertained.

Mrs. P. M. Vance entertained at a dinner party on Wednesday evening in honor of her daughter, Miss Mary's eighteenth birthday anniversary. Covers were laid for twelve. The hostess was assisted by Mrs. F. H. Herrick.

Mrs. Rowan Hostess.

A few ladies were entertained by Mrs. Thomas Rowan at her home on Duluth avenue last Saturday afternoon. The ladies busied themselves with their sewing. A dainty lunch concluded the afternoon.

Entertain.

Mr. and Mrs. G. C. Streeter informally entertained a few of their friends on Tuesday evening. Cards formed the chief diversion and at midnight a dainty lunch was served.

LAST HOME TALENT PLAY IS BEST YET

"A PAIR OF SIXES" PLEASES CAPACITY HOUSE ON FRIDAY NIGHT

The presentation of "A Pair of Sixes" by home talent under the auspices of the Elks and the Community Girls last Friday evening was one of the most delightful events of its kind ever attempted in Thief River Falls. The comedy itself is decidedly one of the best, while the performers outclassed the majority of traveling troupes in every department. Under the able direction of Mrs. C. A. Pitkin they had become not only letter-perfect in their parts, but acted throughout with thorough appreciation of the possibilities contained in the different situations and a keen understanding of the requirements. Never has an amateur company so well balanced appeared before a local audience and none has hiterto received such general commendation for its work.

Miss Merle Nelson and Miss Una Nelson divided honors as leading ladies in the production. Cast in totally different roles, they gave decidedly clever interpretations of the characters assumed. Miss Irene Patrick and Miss Laura Stopple furnished the comedy features on the ladies' side of the cast and were exceptionally clever.

H. W. Protzeller and L. H. Lawrence as George B. Nettleton and T. Boggs Johns, respectively, the two partners owning the Eureka Digestive Pill company, direct opposites in appearance but much alike in disposition, led the men's side of the production. The plot of the story is woven around the jealousy existing between these two over which is the most important factor in the development of the Eureka pill. A solution of the problem is advanced by Thos. J. Vanderholt, a legal fixer, who proposed that the partners settle by a game of draw poker who is to be the boss, the loser agreeing to become the servant of the other—a butler in fact. Boggs loses and enters upon his duties gamely. The big fun in the play is brought out during his service in the household of Mr. Nettleton, where he is shamefully imposed upon by that somewhat tyrannical gentleman. But it all comes out all right.

Lawrence Hermanson as the lawyer, Carl Granning as the bookkeeper, Ed. Brevig as shipping clerk, Ted Hunt as Jimmy the office boy, and E. O. Mogensen as the breezy, energetic traveling salesman, were all very good, balancing the performance nicely throughout.

The proceeds of the evening, totaling something in the neighborhood of $800, will be divided equally between the Elks and Community Girls after the expenses are paid. These organizations will in turn employ the money in furthering the Christmas charities for which they have become sponsors.

Miss Ragna Larson returned to her home in Holt on Friday, coming here on Thursday to attend to some shopping.

CENTRAL HEATING SYSTEMS.

The problem of heating business blocks during the winter in this northern latitude is receiving a great deal of attention at the present time. The cost of coal and the trouble in getting it has had the effect of centering interest on the feasibility of central heating plants. There are a number of towns in Minnesota where this plan of heating the business district has been employed with the most satisfactory results and others are seriously considering the advisability of adopting the idea.

In cities where the business section is compact, as is the case in Thief River Falls, there is no question but that a central heating plant would prove economical and vastly more efficient and satisfactory than the usual methods of individual units. The idea has been tried out often enough to carry it past the experimental stage and in every instance the outcome has borne out the contention of those favoring it.

An article appearing recently in the Toronto Mail and Express deals with the success attending the installation of such plants in the smaller cities of Canada. The experience of these is of particular interest to people residing in this section, because of the similar climatic conditions. The Toronto paper says:

"The town of Renfrew has carried a by-law to spend $25,000 on a central heating plant for the business section. It is erecting a new fire hall, and takes advantage of the opportunity. Owen Sound is said to have a similar scheme under consideration. This is an avenue of small town development that will be much more extensively traveled in the future. Ontario towns are usually compact, the streets used for business intersect each other, and with the advent of modern heating systems in the stores and factories, the economic possibilities of a central heating plant are exceptionally good. Many cities and towns in the United States have adopted the system, and results have been very satisfactory. Instead of two dozen furnaces, two dozen coal bins, two dozen firemen, one big plant handled by about three men, does the whole business. Modern insulating methods prevent loss of steam and heat underground and the service is usually better than any home system. The obtaining of coal is such a problem nowdays for the ordinary merchant and factory operator that the putting of responsibility on a civic plant would be a great relief. The ultimate saving, once the heating equipment is installed, ought to be thousands of dollars a year. In many of the small Ontario towns stores are still heated by stoves, or hot air furnaces, using anthracite coal. The statistics of the relative cost of steam heat cannot be made up without consideration of local conditions, because pipelaying, radiator installation and plant costs vary with the size of the project, and the location of the premises to be heated. But the innovation is one that should commend itself to the notice of all town councils."

DELAY NO LONGER.

The unseasonable cold weather of the past week has made it hard for people living on farms to get to the city to do the shopping incident to this season of the year. Christmas is only one week off and many find it decidedly inconvenient to obey the injunction laid on them to do their buying early. As a result the next few days will be busy ones at the stores.

People residing in the city can make things easier for their country neighbors by getting their purchases out of the way. There is no good excuse for their waiting until the last minute, and they should make a special effort under the circumstances. They have more time in which to make selections and can without any great inconvenience do their trading in the forenoon. This would prove a big help and leave the latter end of the day open for the farmers, permitting these to get their business over and return in time to attend to the necessary things at home.

This may look like a small matter, but it is in fact very important. Merchants are naturally anxious to give the best service possible, but their efforts are unavailing when the bulk of the shopping is confined to three or four hours. The clerks are rushed to death during these busy periods and cannot give to each customer the attention that they otherwise would. The customer is also better able to decide when leisurely inspection is possible. This cannot be had when there is a jostling crowd awaiting attention.

Mr. and Mrs. Cityman, get your shopping out of the way now—this week if possible. By so doing you will be saving yourself and many other persons annoyance and possible disappointment.

ADVERTISING COSTS.

The Georgia Press association, at its recent meeting in Macon, devoted a great deal of attention to the cost of running advertisements—from the publisher's standpoint. It was found that rates, particularly in the smaller cities, were too low and that an advance would have to be made if the newspaper men expected to continue in business. Editorial associations in other sections of the country long ago came to the same conclusion but the Georgia publishers went into the matter with a view to discovering just what prices should be charged in order to show a reasonable profit under prerent condtions. The committee members were surprised at what they learned. As a result a resolution was drawn up reading as follows:

"That this association recommends, and strongly urges the adoption of the following advertising rate schedule, based on circulation: For first 1,000 circulation, not less than 20 cents per inch; for second 1,000 circulation, not less than 10 cents per inch; for third 1,000 circulation not less than 5 cents per inch. We recommend that all political advertising be subject to a higher rate for reasons that are obvious to any one conversant with this class of business."

It is not likely that it costs less to run newspapers in Minnesota than it does in Georgia and consequently the prices in this state should be fully as high. With very rare exceptions, however, such is not the case. The probabilities are that the rate for the first 1,000 of circulation is seldom over fifteen cents per inch, with perhaps five cents per thousand thereafter. This price is woefully inadequate.

If charged for at the rate recommended by the Georgia association, advertising in the Thief River Falls Times would cost 45 cents per inch instead of 25 cents. Did The Times have but 2,000 circulation instead of 5,000 the present price would still be five cents per inch under the figure regarded as approximately correct.

These are things for the advertiser to consider. It is doubtful if another paper in the state so thoroughly covers the field from which business men in the city draw their business. It is not alone on the score of quantity that The Times stands alone, the quality of its clientele being of such nature as to make advertising in its columns of particular value. The paper goes into practically every farm house in Pennington county as well as the northern tier of townships in Red Lake and the southern part of Marshall counties. It is the one "home paper" with the people living in the fastest growing and most progressive section of the United States. This fact is recognized by all whose purpose it is to reach the people of this prosperous region.

No matter what price a business man pays for advertising in any other available medium in this section, he will find by actual comparison that the announcements he places in The Times are the cheapest. They reach the greatest number of people and are thus bound to bring the greatest returns.

LABOR'S DECLARATION.

American organized labor will have nothing in common with the forces aiming at the overthrow of established government. Bolshevists and members of the I. W. W. were read out of the ranks at a meeting last week in Washington, the vote of the 200 delegates present being practically unanimous on this score. Legal resistance to government by injunction was also urged and the meeting went on record as being as strongly opposed to this method as they are to those of the agitators and extremists.

All of which goes to prove that American labor is sound at bottom. Sometimes individuals or irresponsible units within the organization take matters into their own hands and go contrary to the instructions of their chosen representatives, thereby acting against their own best interests, but such actions are repudiated by the majority at the earliest opportunity.

The news dispatches state that radicals in an all-day fight attempted to override the "declaration of independence" finally adopted so as to make it conform to their extreme views, but they failed to muster any appreciable support, there being but three votes cast against the "declaration" on the final ballot.

No news of a more cheering nature has been received for some time. The effort to stampede the federation members has been defeated, and by the members themselves. The safe and conservative counsel of Gompers and other leaders prevails and the destructionists are deprived of the one element of substantial support on which they depended.

Labor is restless, but so is nearly everything else. The men object particularly to application of the injunction in strike proceedings, and no reasonable person attempts to defend it except where it is evident that the attitude of the men constitutes a menace to the peace and general welfare of the country. Even then it should be called into use only after the most careful consideration. It is one of the easiest instruments in the world to misuse and the laboring men are perfectly justified in being suspicious of it.

Down in Crookston they evidently were determined that in case the end of the world came on the 17th the event would find the people of the city and country united for once, believing perhaps that such attitude toward one another at the last moment would make up for a great many shortcomings. Their deductions were eminently sound and they lost nothing by reason of the fact that the advertised collapse did not take place. Everybody enjoyed one of the greatest get-together banquets in the history of the city and if there were any present who were apprehensive of the outcome the fact did not seem to affect their appetites. Apropos: It is some time now since the farmers in the vicinity of Thief River Falls have been the guests of the business men and it might be a good idea to give the matter some consideration.

One Pennington county farmer paid $35 to have a Shorthorn bull calf expressed to Thief River Falls from South St. Paul the other day. Had this same man paid any such price for the calf itself a few years ago the fact would have caused a great deal of comment. It was some calf, of course, and the $35 was only a small part of his total cost, but the incident shows that not only are our farmers demanding the best but that they also have the money to pay for it.

The secretary of the National Association of Retail Clothiers volunteers the cheerful information that clothing selling for $25 before the war and which now costs $50 will be $60 or more by next spring. Piece workers among the garment makers are receiving as high as $135 per week and kicking for more. The outlook for most of us is rather shabby.

Bill Noonan of the Baudette Region says there are just as many nickel cigars as ever, the only difference being that they cost 13 cents now.

Better Understanding is Necessary Between Farmer and Townfolk

Reserve Bank Head, While Deploring Agitation, Admits That Farmer Has Considerable Grounds For Complaint.

John H. Rich, federal reserve agent for the Ninth Federal Reserve district, in a statement issued this week, pleaded for a better understanding between farmers and town dwellers of each community in the northwest, and for intelligent effort to meet propaganda now stirring up unrest and partisan feeling among northwestern farmers.

"Certain factors in our immediate northwestern territory should cause serious alarm," said Mr. Rich in his statement on business conditions. "It has been habitual to associate unrest more with the laboring classes than with other classes of the public. Nowhere in the United States is unrest more acute or bitter feeling more prevalent than among the agricultural population in the Ninth Reserve district. Since the beginning of the war farmers have been under heavy pressure to attain the highest possible production. They have been enjoying the highest prices that have ever prevailed in the northwest, yet there is widespread dissatisfaction and complaint.

Rich Blames "False Economics."

"Part of this is due to vicious propaganda based on false economics which has been spread through all the farming districts. The farmers have been deliberately misled and have not had the benefit of corrective legislation at the hands of those competent to tell the truth about the economic problems that are serious to the agricultural class

"Part of this is due to the feeling of surprise and bitterness upon realizing that, while enjoying high prices, their anticipated profits have been cut by rising costs. The influences combined have made many thousands of men, who have ordinarily been clear and level headed in their views, critical and antagonistic toward their government, and bitterly hostile toward business interests at the larger centers, which they have been led to believe are antagonistic toward them. A division between country and city would be one of the most unfortunate things that could happen in this district.

Would Analyze Complaints.

"There is urgent need that reliable and thoughtful men to whom the farmers will listen should seek to make clear the manner in which the various economic cross currents have been working during the past three years. Those who have the confidence of the farmers can do the latter a genuine service and perform a service to their country in annihilating the false doctrine that has been spread about. The cause of complaint should be analyzed and identified, and if they rest upon injustices, these should be ruthlessly eliminated. To a certain extent, the farmer, like everyone else, must work out his own salvation, but the community, as a whole, is seriously at fault if it permits the farmer, because of his isolation and his lack of close contact with other sections of the public, to become the victim of either those who are radical propagandists because they hate their government, and who, while prating of democracy, are seeking to overturn the very foundation stone upon which the truest and best democracy in the world is founded.

"World Not All Wrong."

"Those who came into this territory 25 or 30 years ago included many thousands who came with nothing whatsoever in the way of property or goods. Today these men find, as does every citizen, that there are some things in life and environment which are justly subject to criticism. On the other hand a large precentage have prospered amazingly, and those who were thrifty and industrious have become influential citizens and well to do members of their communities.

"Obviously, a world in which such remarkable things have occurred is not all wrong. It is a duty resting upon every responsible citizen to counteract the vicious, conscienceless, false and deliberately misleading propaganda which has created this feeling."

Farmers Take Charge.

(Northwest Farmstead.)

That farmers are an influence to be reckoned with in Canadian as well as American politics, is indicated by the result of the recent election in the province of Ontario, just north of Minnesota.

The farmers elected a majority of the provincial parliament, and also placed one of their number in the highest position in the gift of the people, that of premier.

The farmers of Canada have gone rather farther than those of the United States in the matter of organization for the cooperative handling of grain. They first organized cooperative elevators; then they thought they would eliminate the Board of Trade, but later found it to be a facility needed in their business and formed a farmers' commission company which handles one-half of the grain in Canada, remitting its profits in the form of patronage dividends to the farmers for whom the wheat is handled.

The organized farmers of Canada also own their own terminal elevators at Port Arthur and Port William, which towns correspond in Canada to Duluth in the United States for the shipment of grain. Four railroads run into these towns, which are twins like Minneapolis and St. Paul, and one railroad goes on east. Most of the shipment east goes by water.

Not only do the farmers own their own elevators, but they have a cooperative exporting company which ships the grain from Port Arthur to Liverpool or elsewhere, collecting for it on its arrival. In fact, in Canada the farmers now have it organized to keep for themselves all the profits from the grain from the time it leaves the farm until it enters the doors of a flouring mill. This they have done in advance of political organization, and now they have taken charge of the legislative and executive branches of the provincial government.

Those who hitherto have profited by these activities prophesy wild radicalism and early ruin as a result of the farmers' political success. Northwest Farmstead inclines to the belief that the farmers in power will be progressive but not visionary or wildly radical. Further, that while they will adopt measures to help farmers, those same measures will be a help to every other legitimate interest.

Found the Metropolis.

Ray Osborn, editor of the Glyndon News, spent a short time on a hunting trip in the Grygla neighborhood this fall and has written of his experience for his paper, the News. Part of his discription is as follows:

"tracing rail lines and connections, the nearest point to our destination we find will be reached by the Soo line, north from Detroit, and we pass through the Indian country, Plumme and Thief River Falls—the last named the metropolis of the northwestern part of the state. From this point to Goodridge the railroad mentioned maintains eighteen miles of branch line road, which is served by a combination gasoline-electric car making two trips daily except Sunday. Freight, express and passengers are comfortably taken care of, but when it's 'all out, end of the line,' you are no more at the mercy of th railroad trust."

Mrs. T. L. Morgan arrived here on Friday evening from Kenmare, N. D., where she visited her daughter who is ill at the hospital in that city. She left for her home in Warroad on Monday morning.

Mike Ault, living near here, departed on Tuesday afternoon for Big Timber, Mont., where he will spend two weeks visiting at his parental home. He was accompanied by Miss Rossana Cork who will also visit at that place.

Mrs. L. A. Parmalt of Brooks, spent the week-end in this city attending to shopping and also visiting freinds. She left on Tuesday morning for Bengal, Sask., where she will be the guest of her sister until after the Christmas holidays.

Miss Ruth Nelson arrived here on Saturday evening from Viking where she has been employed for the past few months, and was the guest of Miss T. Kolberg over Sunday. She departed on Monday morning for her parental home in Gatzke.

Mrs. Rev. Palm, who has been visiting her daughter, who is ill in the Warren hospital, arrived here on Thursday evening and visited over night at the home of Mrs. Susan Kausa, returning to her home in Oklee the following morning.

Louis Rosland came down from Newfolden on Saturday and spent Sunday visiting local friends.

Mr. and Mrs. A. Gjelhaug of Baudette, were week-end visitors at the home of Mr. and Mrs. T. A. Fossum.

Miss Gerda Mortenson, one of the local teachers, will spend the Christmas holidays at her parental home in Fosston.

Mrs. G. Howard Smith left for the cities on Saturday evening and will visit with relatives and friends until after the holidays.

Roy Miller will arrive on Saturday from Grand Forks, where he is attending the university, to spend Christmas at his home in this city.

Miss Mable Johnson of the teaching force in this city, will spend the holidays at her parental home in Bemidji.

Miss Minnie Linstad, who is engaged in teaching school in the vicinity of Hazel, spent Sunday at her parental home in this city.

Miss Hannah Helquist, who is employed at the Stanton cafe, left on Wednesday morning for her home at Rosewood, where she will spend the holidays.

Miss Jeanette Lee, accompanied by Miss Pearl Olson, left on Friday morning for Fairdale, N. D., where they were the guests of the former's parents over Sunday.

The High School Progress

Vol. 1. EDITED BY THE PUPILS OF THE THIEF RIVER FALLS PUBLIC SCHOOLS No. 6

Basket Ball.

The season this year has started off with a rush. The boys have won their first two games. The one with the Y. M. C. A. of Grand Forks by a score of 37 to 26, and last Friday night they played the high school boys of Argyle and won the game 21 to 6. There was a good sized crowd to witness the game, but the floor was rather small, interfering somewhat with the brilliancy of the playing. The boys took the train to Warren and had to drive nine miles across country to Argyle. The weather was cold and the boys were chilled somewhat, but that made them only the more determined and they surely played a brilliant game in the evening. The guarding of the boys was exceptionally good as is borne out by the fact that Argyle made but one field goal. The team work was excellent and what is best of all to relate, the boys were very well behaved on the trip; were perfect gentlemen throughout.

The team: Schuster, rf.; Hadrath, lf.; Larson, c.; LaBree rg.; Flattum, lg.; Ralston, sub.; Sorenson, sub.

Schuster made three field goals and one free goal. Hadrath made four field goals and three free goals Larson made one field goal and LaBree and Flattum as guardsmen, did exceptionally fine work, in that they held the opponents to a single field goal through the entire game.

Thief River at Grand Forks.

(Dennis McGinn.)

Friday evening, Dec. 5, the local basket ball team journeyed to Grand Forks, N. D., where they defeated the Y. M. C. A. of that place.

The game started with a rush, the "Y" boys making ten points in the first three minutes of play. The locals then opened up with some brilliant team-work evening the play for the rest of the half. Score, end of first half 14-13.

Coach Tommeraasen gave the boys a real lecture between periods and the battle started anew at the sound of the whistle. Schuster rolled in a basket the first half minute and from then on the locals' speed and teamwork kept their opponents on the jump. Larson and Hadrath were counting from the field while Larson also counted from the foul line. Flattum at guard was playing his old game. The game as a whole was well played and showed that Thief River has another championship team. Final score, 37-26.

Parents'-Teachers' Association Meets Tonight.

Mr. Fuller, president of the Parents'-Teachers' association, has arranged an interesting program for the Parents'-Teachers' association meeting to be held tonight. A number of business men have been put on the program to discuss the advisability of expanding or restricting the school plan here, wherewith to meet the educational needs of the youth of northwestern Minnesota or restrict it to our home boys and girls. President Fuller has also provided to have Dr. H. Leonard speak this evening.

Local Schools Held First Clinic.

The first dental clinic to be held for the school children of Thief River Falls was held by the local doctors last Friday. It was a decided success. There will be more of them in the future.

Foot Ball Banquet.

Letters will be given to foot ball men who earned them at a banquet to be given at the Brumund hotel next Friday evening. These coveted letters are given only to boys who have earned them. Boys all have to be above grade in all of their classes and be good students. It is an honor for a boy to wear a monogram of the Thief River Falls schools. It is these honors that will be conferred Friday evening at the banquet.

Tardy?

A new rule has been adopted at the high school. Whenever pupils are tardy they will have the number of minutes they are tardy marked against them. Instead of marking the number of times tardy on the report cards, the number of minutes will be marked down. Some pupils have the habit of sauntering along, not caring how late they are as long as they are going to be tardy, but here's where there will be an inducement to a student not to saunter along so, but to cut down the number of minutes tardy to the greatest possible extent.

Washington First Grade Overcrowded.

The total enrollment in the first grade of the Washington school is about 50. It has been necessary, therefore, to have one-half day sessions only in this grade. One-half of the children come in the morning and one-half in the afternoon.

Debate.

Preliminary try-outs are being held in the debating squads. It will be most interesting to have a debate with other schools and the pupils are anticipating with a great deal of interest the first contest which will occur in January.

School vacation will begin December 19th and end January 5th. There will be a general exodus of both teachers and students Friday and Saturday.

The next issue of School Progress will not occur until after the school vacation. The date is January 8th.

THE SOPHOMORES.

An Unwelcome Visitor.

Every year about November or later a little man makes his appearance and asks if he may visit the schools. The nurse shakes her head and tells him in a commanding voice that his presence is not wanted either by the school children or the public. But by his cunning tricks he finds a hole, that no one thinks worthy of patching, and crawls through. He then sets himself to the small task of bringing about confusion and disorder. He gives us the chills, a sore throat and then with his long pointed fingers, marks your face with little red pimples. You begin to feel curious as to what those pimples are so you visit the nurse. Oh, yes, she says, that little man found a hole against my warnings to keep out. If, by this time, you don't recognize him I will tell you what his name is, so next time you hear of him in this manner, you will know who he is. His name is Mr. Measles.

The Glee club of the Lincoln high school had a supper in the gymnasium of the school on Saturday, Dec. 13, at six o'clock. The evening was spent in games and music.

A business man's methods may be studied, his resources considered and his efforts may be admired; but the final verdict of his prosperity is based only on the results of his accomplishments.

On Thursday afternoon the Juniors had a sandwich sale. There were peanut butter, egg, ham and deviled ham sandwiches sold at five cents a piece. The proceeds which amounted to over fifteen dollars will be used for the banquet which is to be given on February 12.

The high school basket ball team played the second game of the season last Friday at Argyle. Thief River Falls, by superior playing won with the score of 21-6.

An announcement has been made to the high school students that a number of half year subjects will be open to any who desire to take them the second semester. Physiology, general science, American history, solid geometry, commercial geography, physical geography and civics will be offered. A half year of both algebra and geometry will be given so that those students who have taken only one-half year in either subject may complete the requirements of a full credit in both algebra and geometry.

Editors are Chosen.

The following people have been chosen to act as editors of the High School Progress. They will get busy and put life, snap and enthusiasm into the page: Henry Stengelson, Agnes O'Brien, Lester Coyle, Ethel Conklin, William Herrick, Agnes Oftedahl, Lorrayne Crandall, Lucile Curtis.

Watch out to see what these great editors will do, beginning with the issues right after the holiday vacation.

Visiting Day.

The first visiting day was on the whole a big success, especially in the fact that a number of men came to visit school. There was a pleasing total attendance. These visiting days will be regular features. The teachers desire them very much for they wish parents to come to school to see what is being done. The next one will be in January sometime.

Health booklets have been sent to every family in town. In these booklets, best rules of health are graphically told. These will do a great deal of good.

The Breadmaking club entertained its new members at a reception in the gymnasium of the Lincoln high school on Wednesday, Dec. 3. Games and music formed the entertainment of the evening.

An Example.

(By Henry Stengelsen)

The aisle only was between them. The girl with the fluffy hair was seemingly engrossed in "Hamlet". In reality however she was lending an attentive ear and an occasional assent to her companion's remarks. To the casual observer the girl in the blue sweater was pouring over "The Outlines of European History". But the principal, whose wary eye nothing escaped, noted that she was taking the major part in a skillfully conducted conversation.

"Oh dear me," sighed the girl in the blue sweater, turning the pages of her book languidly, "I certainly can't see why we must study History. I know I shall never make use of my knowledge. And then the time we waste on the subject could be devoted to better things. Why don't they teach calisthenics or dancing?" and her daintily spatted foot tapped animatedly. "And the lessons we get is enough to drive a person to distraction. Really they are giving us college work. Three times already I have had to go down to the library and hunt among a lot of old books to find out about Pericles, Hannibal, Demosthenes or some other old scientist. I don't think Miss K. knows her business and I'm going to tell her some day. They ought to get somebody who can make things more interesting."

The girl with the fluffy hair was about to murmur some sympathetic reply when an unforseen interruption caused her companion to burst forth anew. "Four bells. Now what do you suppose is going to happen? Some great speaker again I suppose. They make me so tired. Last time Mr. W. spoke here I learned a whole verse of "Success" during chapel period. Oh, do look at Manie, isn't it ridiculous the way she dresses in that sweater. Really some people have no taste whatsoever." She viewed her own immaculate form with great complacency.

"Mr. J. is going to speak this morning," murmured the girl with the fluffy hair.

"Now isn't that just what I told you?" rejoined her companion, "last time he spoke here I heard him distinctly give a grammatical error. Now why don't they get the band boys to play for us? I want to hear "Meaw" so bad. Do look at those freshmen. Isn't it scandalous the way they carry on with all their noise and conversation. Really they ought to put them in an assembly by themselves".

A voice carrying a note of unquestionable authority stilled every other tongue. "We cannot go on with our program until certain persons in the back of the room cease their conversation."

The broad aisle separated them. The girl with the fluffy hair was seemingly engrossed in "Hamlet". To the casual observer the girl in the blue sweater was poring over "The Outlines of European History" the principal, whose wary eye nothing escaped, saw—and understood.

Farmers Should Order the United States Market Reporter

This bank is always glad to give the farmers any valuable information which it has concerning values of farm products. We are anxious to see farmers get the highest market prices for everything raised on the farm.

Beginning about January 1, 1920, "The Market Reporter," a periodical of general interest devoted to marketing information concerning important agricultural products, will be published weekly by the United States Bureau of Markets. It will be sent free to those interested who make request for it to the Bureau of Markets, U. S. Department of Agriculture, Washington, D. C., and who give the following information: (a) Name and full address; (b) business or occupation; (c) Kind or kinds of farm products in which interested.

In this way any farmer can get direct from the Government in Washington, each week, without charge, an official report as to market conditions and prices.

Continuity of Service

TO the motorist whose car goes purring along the road, there is a feeling of security and satisfaction as he senses the smooth, even flow of power, under complete control.

The quiet, efficient engine under the hood, doing its full duty every minute, symbolizes the necessity for Continuity of Service.

The titanic pumps which supply the city with water, the elevators in a tall building, the sewing machine in the home give satisfaction only when they can render a Continuity of Service.

The Standard Oil Company (Indiana) has perfected a Continuity of Service in the manufacture, distribution, and sale of petroleum products.

Its large refineries, where the wants of the Nation are being anticipated years in advance—its vast storage tanks, where large quantities of oil are held against a possible urgent demand, its comprehensive system of distribution, whereby the wayside tank and pump assure an unbroken supply of fuel to the transcontinental motorist—all these stand for that Continuity of Service, without which the high-geared life of the present day would be impossible.

This Continuity of Service which sends the wheels of progress purring along is but a phase of Standard Oil Company (Indiana) effort to discharge satisfactorily and completely its obligation as a public servant.

The Troubles of Ye Scribe.

(Henry Stengelsen.)

I just sat down to write something for the "Times." I am sitting on a chair. A table is ahead of me. The rest of my equipment consists of a piece of clean paper, a three-cent pencil which cost me five cents, and a mind that is almost blank.

To write or not to write is not the question. If I do not write anything a zero will be the result. But what shall it be? There is no use to put much work on it. It will not appear in the paper anyhow. But the long and short of this wagging tale is this: I must produce a gem of literature and produce it in the next fifteen minutes.

How would a story go? A good detective story, or any love story has such a taking way. A story it shall be. How is this for a title—"Brass Bottles?" Or this, "A Hat Without a Feather?" But Webster says there must be a plot. That lets me out.

An editorial is a means of enlightening the public in general; it is a popular form of literature among the cultured, and it bears witness to a profound mind. To assist in raising the intellectual standards of our people in the land of the brave we shall write about "The Chief Justice and The Judicial System." But who is the Chief Justice? An essay would probably be more acceptable.

According to Webster an essay must contain, among other things, a subject, theme, title, unity, mass, coherence, an occasion, sentences, parallel, balanced, obverse, loose, periodic, and topic, and a scale of treatment. Rome was not built in a day and neither was an essay.

That last sentence is suggestive. Poetry has always appealed to me. I always feel like bursting forth in verse. The least enmotioned disturbance, as the sight of the moon, will call forth odes and sonnets.

"White as a lily,
Red as a rose
Was her complexion
And her nose."

That sounds too crude and undignified. And besides I believe somebody else wrote that once. "Oh, young Lochinvar has come out of the West. Thru all the wide border his steed has no equal. Having cost him forty-five dollars at the market, where good nags fresh from the country, with burrs still in their tails are selling for a song."

That sounds better only another bird warbled about young Lochinvar before I did.

I am still sitting on a chair with a table ahead of me trying to write something for the "Times." My equipment consists of a piece of soiled paper, a two-cent pencil which cost five cents, and a perfectly blank [illegible]

[illegible]hank you.

Rubber.

(Muriel Loken.)

[illegible]bber is obtained from the rubber [illegible]. This tree grows best where the [illegible] is flooded during a part of the [illegible]ar. When the rubber is taken from the tree it is a sap and looks like milk. On a rubber plantation there [illegible] several men to take care of the rubber trees. Each man has his trees to take care of. He has from sixty to one hundred trees to attend to each day. There are no roads except paths from tree to tree.

The men begin in the morning to tap the trees in their row. They make two or three little gashes in each tree. When he taps them the milky sap begins to ooze out, and the man quickly puts a little cup under each wound. Only a few tablespoons of the milky sap drops into the little cups. There is not very much sap and if a man gets two quarts of the milk he thinks he has done very well.

The good rubber when cured is expensive. A lump as big as a base ball will sell for a dollar. The rubber is made into many articles such as rubbers, gloves, boots, trimmers, balls and dolls. There are several other things made from rubber.

About a hundred years ago rubber was very little used but today we find it in every piece of machinery one can think of and we find a daily use for it.

Pertaining to Gifts.

(James Bellø.)

"He Gives Nothing but Worthless Gold
Who Gives from a Sense of Duty."

This does not mean that his gift has no intrinsic or commercial value, or that he, in his reluctance to part with his treasures, may be tempted to give counterfeit money instead of [illegible]enuine. It may be just as good, or [illegible]ve just as great purchasing power, [illegible] that received from one who gives the joy of giving. But it is not [illegible]uch the value of the gift that is [illegible]rished, but it is the thought of the [illegible]eart and the motives of the giver. [illegible]ich gifts wax poor when givers [illegible]ve unkind." —Shakespeare.

Remarkable Remarks.

(Dagny Tharaldson.)

Theodore Roosevelt:

No man is happy if he does not work.

A man to be a good American must be straight, and he must also be strong.

Woodrow Wilson:

Just a little exposure will solve most questions.

I think one would go crazy if he did not believe in Providence.

I have always been among those who believe that the greatest freedom of speech was the greatest safety.

Charlie Chaplin:

People as a whole get satisfaction from seeing rich people get the worst of things.

I'm a nut.

The Ex-Crown Prince:

Father and I are down and out.

My father did not desire war.

Secretary McAdoo:

I would rather have the esteem and confidence of the American people than any office in their gift.

Bernard Shaw:

The longer I live, the more I am inclined to the belief that this earth is used by the other planets as a lunatic asylum.

"Fatty" Arbuckle:

Well, it's a hard life.

Mary Pickford:

We're slaves of the public.

These remarks, taken from the different issues of the "Independent" should afford the reader some truth as well as amusement.

Are You a Slacker?

(Edith Patten.)

Are you a slacker?

When Uncle Sam asked you to buy bonds and stamps did you buy until it hurt or did you say: "I cannot afford to buy bonds just now."

When you have an opportunity to buy Christmas Seals at one cent a Seal, do you pass by and say: "Guess I will not buy any this year."

Now why not change your old ways and say: "I still have an opportunity to help my country. I can keep my bonds. I can buy W. S. S., and I can buy Seals to help fight the dreaded tuberculosis."

The men who enlisted in the army or in the navy during the war showed that they were not slackers and to the last man they were ready to give their lives to their country.

If the people were sorted out and put in two groups, would you be in the group with the 100 per cent Americans or would you be in the group with the slackers who were afraid to lend their money to their country?

Everyone has just as much of a chance to help their country now as during the war. Let's take advantage and do it now!

Our Big Sister.

(Olga Svendsgaard.)

Miss Saucer walked upon the platform one day,
And with her usual smile and her winning way,
Said: "Please Miss and please Mister,
Will you come to see your 'Big Sister?'"

"If you have a pain, or anything that you fear,
And you do not wish to have a doctor near,
Or something else that is likely to pester,
Will you come to see your 'Big Sister?'"

"If you are out of school, and ill,
And I have not a date to fill,
And you send me word for a visitor,
In, soon, will come your 'Big Sister.'"

Early at morn and at night when 'tis late
Our school-nurse usually has a date;
And practically each one's daily visitor
Has come to be "Our Big Sister."

Labor and Democracy.

(Ethel Conklin.)

The objective of American thought today is to formulate some practical plan of controlling the present disturbed labor conditions.

Several plans of profit-sharing with the employees have been submitted, but in practice they have proved inadequate.

Democracy applied to industry seems a novel idea but in reality it has been adopted by several companies with successful results.

For the success of this plan there must be no discontent, controversy or ill feeling between the laborer and the employer. The employer must remove such barriers and gain the confidence of the laborer. One of the underlying causes of discontent among the laboring class is their desire of controlling, in part, their employment conditions. Many laborers in factories are foreigners, more disposed to be discontent with their surroundings than Americans, but education and fair treatment will invariably overcome this.

The plan of the so-called industrial democracy is patterned after the Constitution of the United States. It provides for a cabinet composed of the executive members of the company, a Senate of the foremen, and a House of Representatives elected by the workers.

These bodies hold meetings each week for the purpose of deciding on wages, working hours, holidays, production, and sanitation. They vote by private ballots with the cabinet the right to veto any measure of the other bodies. This right has been but little exercised, however, in the companies that have adopted these principles.

A dividend of the saving in cost or increase in production is given to the workers. It is this part of the plan that particularly appeals to the employee. He feels a personal interest in the amount and character of production and bends all his efforts to better conditions.

Another factor shown in the industrial democracy plan is the inventive power of many of the laborers. With the promise of a reward, a laborer is encouraged to propose labor-saving devices.

This cooperation on the part of the working men is, of course, beneficial to the employer as well. This plan, advantageous to all concerned, seems to be a solution of the labor difficulties.

Democracy is a successful government for Americans. Why can it not be successfully applied to American labor institutions?

Miss Sanford's Speech.

(Anna Antonson.)

One noon there was a great deal of commotion at high school. We were going to have the pleasure of hearing Miss Sanford talk to us. It is not often that we have such a rare treat. When she was being escorted to the platform the high school body rose and sang, "America." Mr. Ziegler then introduced her and she began her speech by saying that she appreciated the respect which we showed her. We all marvelled at the grace with which she could talk and make her voice carry in spite of her age. The thought of her speech consisted mainly of getting us to realize the importance of seeing, hearing, and most important of all, thinking.

Day before examination, a Freshman said to a Senior: "Gee, but I feel blue today."

Senior to Freshman: "Perhaps I am color blind but you look mighty green to me."

Joke.

(Lester H. Coyle.)

John: "What are you doing about the fuel shortage?"

Bill: "Oh, I cut up an old piano and got several chords."

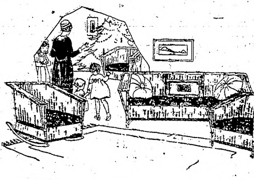
Furniture
The Useful Gift

YOU have probobly ere this decided that you will give useful presents this year, and this advertisement is simply by way of a reminder that nothing is more useful, welcome or appropriate than furniture. Buy something in which the entire family can take delight the year 'round. Ornaments and bric-a-brack are fine for individuals, but when it comes to something for the home nothing so well fills the bill as furniture. The giver is in a position to know what will prove most acceptable and the recipient appreciates this touch of thoughtful consideration.

Every department in this big store is replete with goods of the most desirable character. It matters not what you want—from a parlor suite to a picture frame—we have it. And the price is right.



It is not alone in things for the parlor and dining room that we are well stocked. Hall, bed room and kitchen are provided for and articles for these rooms are often as necessary and welcome as more showy ones.

Local High School Wins

The Thief River Falls high school won two basket ball victories over the East Grand Forks high school. The score in the boys' game was 41 to 6, and in the girls' game 6 to 3. The game was played in the auditorium and in spite of a slippery floor both teams did splendidly. The game was a clean one and the team work of the local boys was exceptionally good. The second team was given an opportunity to display their talents along athletic lines by substituting during the latter part of the game. Chas. Herron substituted during the last 3 minutes for Flattum, Stanley Sorenson for LaBree 8 minutes, Buster Ralston for Schuster 10 minutes, Chas. Warner for Hadrath 5 minutes. The lineup for the girls' game is as follows:

T. R. F.		E. G. F.
Lund	rf.	Wefalnsky
Erickson	lf.	Moriarity
Herron	c.	Jarvis
Lindquist	lg.	Deise
Austed	rg.	Elbe

The boys' game as folows:

T. R. F.		E. G. F.
Schuster	rf.	Byndall
Hadrath	lf.	Bornheim
Larson	c.	Murphy
LaBree	rg.	Sullivan
Flattum	lg.	Franklin

McGorvein substituted for Franklin during the last half.

The score in the first half was 16 to 14.

Obituary

Andrew Johnson.

Andrew Johnson passed away at his home in Norden township on Dec. 13 at the age of 74 years, the immediate cause of his death being cancer or the cheek. He was born on August 24, 1845 in Christiana, Norway. In 1872 he was united in marriage to Miss Anna M. Olson. In that same year he went to Albert Lea, where they resided until 1882, when he and his wife moved to this section of the state taking a homestead eight miles west of this city. Later he bought a farm within two miles of this place and there he resided until his death. A wife and eight children are left to mourn his death. The names of the latter are as follows: Mrs. Ed. Erickson of Crookston; Hans Johnson, Kratka; Mrs. O. W. Carlson, city; Marvin Johnson, Warren; Mrs. G. Hanson, city; Albert, John and Mrs. A. A. Haugen, all at home. Interment was made in the Oakridge cemetery on Dec. 17. The deceased was one of the first settlers in Pennington county. He was well liked and highly respected by all his neighbors and friends.

Mrs. R. K. Calloway.

Mrs. R. K. Calloway died December 10 at the Physicians hospital in this city after a lingering illness.

Miss Mary Jane Wardell was born at New Castle on Tyne in the year 1855, and her girlhood days were spent in the North of England, and there she united with the Primitive Methodist church, early becoming an earnest Evangelist in that communion. Later, after her marriage with the Rev. R. K. Calloway, she united with the Wesleyan Methodist church where she continued her labors, and obtained official recognition from the Rev. Charles Garrett under the seal of the conference during the year that he was president of that body. Her labors extended to many of the largest cities of the old country. In the year 1879, she accompanied her husband to the new world and the couple toiled as evangelists in Massachusetts and Illinois. In the year 1889, Brother Calloway joined the Northwest Iowa Conference, and Mrs. Calloway thus became the wife of an itinerant Methodist preacher. Their appointments led them to Missouri and afterwards to Minnesota where she graced the parsonage of several stations and missions. Her last evangelistic work was in connection with the campaign of Gypsey Smith in Kansas City. Later her career is well known to many among whom she lived as neighbor on the farm southwest of this city. She identified herself with the local Methodists and acceptably filled the pulpits of that church, the Presbyterian church and also spoke frequently in the Salvation Army. Her pastor was with her during her last moments, and her end was triumphant. The interment was in Greenwood cemetery, and six of the local pastors acted as pallbearers. The last services were held in the Methodist church and were participated in by many of the Thief River pastors.—Contributed.

Old Bridge Stood for Centuries.

The new London bridge was opened on August 1, 1831. This replaced the celebrated old bridge, built more than eight centuries before. It had 18 solid stone piers, with bulky stone arches and was covered from end to end with buildings. On the "Tailor's gate," at one end, the heads of traitors were shown. It was removed on account of its obstruction to navigation.

Dogs in a Different World.

It is widely known that fishes and other lower vertebrates possess numerous types of sense organs quite unlike anything in our own bodies, and it is quite impossible for us to form any conception of what the world appears like to these animals except insofar as their sensory equipment is similar to our own.

Even the companionable dog, who responds so sympathetically and intelligently to our moods, lives in a very different world. Recent experiments have shown that his sense of vision is very imperfect, especially for details of form; and everybody knows the inconceivable delicacy of the hound's sense of smell. With us vision is the dominant sense, and our mental imagery is largely in terms of things seen. Even a blind man will say, "I see how it is," when he comprehends a demonstration.

What sort of a world is it to a dog, whose finest experiences and chief interests are in terms of colors?—C. Judson Herrick, in Natural History.

Not Responsible.

The justice of the peace of a certain town was a hardened old bachelor, notoriously averse to marriage. His most intimate friend was to be married and insisted that he perform the ceremony. After much persuasion the justice consented and the affair went on smoothly until the last interrogation, "Do you take this woman to be your lawful wedded wife?" was asked in a pathetic tone.

"I do," was the response.

"Then I pronounce you man and wife, but remember, Jack, you asked me to do this. Don't ever blame me for it."

Didn't Amount to Much Then.

Elman was boasting to his younger brother about how smart he was when he was a year old. "I could walk an' run an' jump," he bragged, "an' sing a song."

"An' what was I doing then?" inquired Willie. "Did I run an' jump, too?"

"You couldn't do nothing," was Elman's crushing reply. "When I was a year old you was nowhere; you was just a speck of dust."

Illustrating a Point.

While going to church I was detained by a friend, and when I arrived there I was late, for the preacher was already speaking. At the time of my entrance he was saying, "He who sinneth shall fall," when suddenly I tripped over a cane which a man had carelessly put out in the aisle. I went to my seat, red as a beet, among broad smiles from the audience.—Exchange.

Ford
THE UNIVERSAL CAR

The Ford Coupe, with electric self starting and lighting system, has a big, broad seat deeply upholstered. Sliding plate glass windows so that the breeze can sweep right through the open car. Or in case of a storm, the Coupe becomes a closed car, snug, rain-proof and dust-proof. Has all the Ford economies in operation and maintenance. A car that lasts and serves satisfactorily as long as it lasts. Demountable rims with 3½-inch tires all around. For the doctor and travelling salesman it is the ideal car.

Birth of Red Cross Idea.

The suffering of soldiers in the Crimean war first directed the world's attention to the merit of systematic care for the wounded. In 1859 M. Henri Dunant was visiting Italy and witnessed the carnage of the battle of Solferino. He organized volunteers to help take care of the wounded. Out of his work grew the conference at Geneva, in 1863, and another in 1864. These conferences were the formal beginning of the Red Cross. The name and insignia were adopted. The American Red Cross was organized by Clara Barton in 1881.

THE KITCHEN CABINET

Four seeds I drop in every hill;
One for the worm to harm,
One for the frost to kill,
And two for the barn.

SEASONABLE GOOD THINGS.

A delicious way of serving beets, the tender young ones, is to cook them until tender; then chop and return to the fire, pour over a well-seasoned French dressing and serve as a vegetable.

Creamed Eggs With Sardines.—Melt four tablespoonfuls of butter, add one-fourth of a cupful of bread crumbs and a cupful of thin cream, bring to the boiling point, then add two hard-cooked eggs finely chopped, a half a box of sardines freed from the skin and bones, and salt, pepper and paprika to taste. Bring again to the boiling point and serve at once.

Drop Cookies.—Cream one-fourth of a cupful of shortening, add one-third of a cupful of ginger sirup and half a cupful of strained honey with one egg slightly beaten. Mix and sift two and three-fourths cupfuls of flour with two teaspoonfuls of cream of tartar, one teaspoonful of soda and half a teaspoonful of salt. Add to the first mixture, beat well, drop from the tip of a teaspoon onto a buttered sheet and bake in a moderate oven.

Spanish Ragout.—In a deep casserole put some fat or oil, slice a few onions and add a clove or two of garlic, a little mace, salt and pepper, brown well then lay on top of these vegetables a pig's liver with very little water, just enough to keep from burning. Cover and cook two hours. The liver will shrink and absorb most of the contents of the pan. When cold it slices nicely.

Newport Pound Cake.—Cream seven-eighths of a cupful of butter, add one and a half cupfuls of flour gradually, and a teaspoonful of vanilla. Beat the yolks of five eggs until thick and lemon-colored and add one and a half cupfuls of powdered sugar gradually. Combine the mixtures, add the whites of the eggs beaten stiff and sift over one teaspoonful of baking powder. Beat thoroughly, turn into a deep buttered cake pan and bake one hour in a moderate oven.

Mustard Pickles.—To a gallon of vinegar add one-half cupful of mustard, one cupful of salt and two cupfuls of brown sugar. Drop in the pickles as they are gathered; cover with horseradish leaves.

A Seasonable Resolve

MAKE up your mind that before another holiday season rolls around you will have your family housed in a home of your own. It will be the greatest and most satisfactory Christmas Gift you could possibly present.

If you build as early in the spring as possible you will have made money by Christmas time through the increase in the value of your building. Everything indicates that both material and labor will be higher before they can go lower.

Do not wait. Stop in as early as possible and have us show you plans for just such a home as will suit your purpose. We have many of them and the service is free.

This Medicine Recommended by a Doctor

DR. J. H. WAGNER

When a doctor uses a medicine himself besides prescribing it to his patients, he must know that it has merit.

This is what Dr. J. H. Wagner, a prominent physician of Skate, Kentucky, has to say about Dr. Hartman's well-known remedy, PE-RU-NA: "I have used PE-RU-NA myself for catarrh and have given it to others for catarrh, bloating after eating and other ailments. It has proved a success in all cases with old and young men and women. All speak well of PE-RU-NA. It is the best of all tonics."

Dr. Wagner, out of the fullness of his own personal experience, for the good of all sick and suffering, recommends a medicine which he knows to be good. You may be sure a doctor would not endanger his professional reputation by endorsing PE-RU-NA unless satisfied beyond a doubt of its value.

Whether your trouble be a cough or a cold, or a more subtle catarrhal affection of the stomach, bowels or other organs, give PE-RU-NA a trial. The immediate improvement which you will see will satisfy beyond a doubt that PE-RU-NA is what you need.

PE-RU-NA may be purchased anywhere in tablet or liquid form.

IT'S NOT YOUR HEART IT'S YOUR KIDNEYS

Kidney disease is no respecter of persons. A majority of the ills afflicting people today can be traced back to kidney trouble.

The kidneys are the most important organs of the body. They are the filterers, the purifiers, of your blood.

Kidney disease is usually indicated by weariness, sleeplessness, nervousness, despondency, backache, stomach trouble, pain in loins and lower abdomen, gall stones, gravel, rheumatism, sciatica and lumbago.

All these derangements are nature's signals to warn you that the kidneys need help. You should use GOLD MEDAL Haarlem Oil Capsules immediately. The soothing, healing oil stimulates the kidneys, relieves inflammations and destroys the germs which have caused it. Do not wait until tomorrow. Go to your druggist today and insist on GOLD MEDAL Haarlem Oil Capsules. In twenty-four hours you should feel health and vigor returning and will bless the day you first heard of GOLD MEDAL Haarlem Oil.

After you feel that you have cured yourself, continue to take one or two capsules each day, so as to keep in first-class condition and ward off the danger of other attacks.

Ask for the original imported GOLD MEDAL brand. Three sizes. Money refunded if they do not help you.

Whooping Cough

"The disease I most dread is Whooping Cough, for children are often permanently injured by the awful straining of the cough. You should never neglect it, and treatment should be started at the first symptom. You cannot mistake the symptoms: protracted coughing, worse at night; peculiar whoop; labored expectoration of mucus; apparent suffocation after coughing.

Chamberlain's Cough Remedy

is a positive remedy for this disease—repeat the dose frequently, for if given freely it liquifies the tough mucus, makes it easy to expectorate and counteracts any tendency toward pneumonia. There is no danger whatever from Whooping Cough when Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is freely given."

ROSEWOOD

Shipping Association Meeting.

The Rosewood Livestock Shipping association held its third annual meeting at Rosebank school Saturday afternoon, but on account of the cold not many were present. Reports showed that during the past year 104 head of cattle had been shipped thru the association, which brought a net price of $1,798.16. The sinking fund showed a balance of $37.75. All shipping during the year has been very successful and the prices received generally satisfactory. The secretary was instructed to communicate with the Marshall county agent in regard to the testing of cattle for tuberculosis, and a special meeting will be called later to discuss this matter. Election of directors for the ensuing year resulted as follows: Thom Holten, Selmer Haugen, Emil Anderson, Selmer Sorenson and John Sjolsvold. Joel Shoberg was re-elected secretary and treasurer. The rating of sheep in shipping mixed carloads was again changed after the manager had explained that the present rating was unsatisfactory. The rate will hereafter be 15 cents higher than on cattle. The rate on hogs was unchanged.

E. P. Johnson, while sawing wood with his gasoline rig at the C. LEGAL NOTICES

Notice of Hearing on Petition.

State of Minnesota, County of Pennington, In District Court, Fourteenth Judicial District.

In the matter of a petition for the organization of a drainage and conservancy district under and pursuant to Chapter 13 of the laws of special session of 1919. To be known as "The Red Lake Drainage and Conservancy District."

You and each of you are hereby notified that on the 15th day of December, 1919, petition in the above entitled matter duly signed as provided by law, and involving contiguous territory in the Counties of Pennington, Marshall, Red Lake, Beltrami, Polk, Clearwater, Itasca and Koochiching in the State of Minnesota were duly filed in the office of the Clerk of the District Court of said Pennington County, and that on the 15th day of December, 1919, an order for hearing on said petition duly signed by the Court of the 14th Judicial District and by the Court of the 15th Judicial District by the respective Judges thereof, Hon. Andrew Grindeland of Warren, Minnesota and Hon. C. W. Stanton of Bemidji, Minnesota, was duly filed in the office of the Clerk of the said District Court of said Pennington County, and that said order after the title thereof is as follows:

"Order For Hearing on Petition.

"This matter came regularly before the said Court and the undersigned Judge thereof, and before the District Court of the Fifteenth Judicial District and the undersigned Judge thereof upon the application of the petitioners herein for an order fixing the time and place for hearing said petition. And it appearing to the satisfaction of the undersigned Judges of the District Court that a due and proper petition as provided by law and signed by not less than fifty resident free holders of said proposed District has been filed in the office of the Clerk of District Court of Pennington County, Minnesota at the City of Thief River Falls, therein, and that said Pennington County contains territory included in said proposed District as shown by said petition, and that said City of Thief River Falls is wholly within the limits of said proposed District; and it further appearing to the satisfaction of the Court and of the undersigned Judges thereof that a good and sufficient bond with sufficient sureties and conditions as provided by law, and duly approved by the undersigned Judge of the said District Court of said Pennington County as to amount, sureties and execution has been filed with the Clerk of the said first mentioned District Court, and the said Clerk of the said first mentioned District Court duly notified said Courts and the undersigned Judges thereof of the filing of said petition and bond, and it further appearing that said territory described in the said petition includes more than one County in the 14th Judicial District and also territory in the 15th Judicial District, and the said Judge of said first mentioned Court having duly made arrangements with the Judge of the said 15th Judicial District for a joint hearing upon the said petition, and the said petition and the said bond and each and all of the same as filed as aforesaid being before the said Courts and the undersigned Judges thereof, and Wm. J. Brown, attorney of Thief River Falls, Minnesota and Julius J. Olson of Warren, Minnesota appearing as attorneys for the petitioners, the Court being fully advised,

IT IS ORDERED, That said petition be heard, considered and determined by the said Court of the 14th Judicial District and the said Court of the 15th Judicial District and the undersigned, or other Judges thereof as provided by law in the main room of the City Auditorium at the Corner of Main Avenue and Second Street in the City of Thief River Falls in said Pennington County on the 29th day of January, A. D. 1920, beginning at 10 o'clock in the forenoon of the said day, or as soon thereafter as counsel can be heard, which said time and place is hereby fixed and established for the hearing provided for in Section six of Chapter 13, Laws of Minnesota of Special Session, 1919.

IT IS FURTHER ORDERED, That the Clerk of said Pennington County District Court forthwith proceed to cause notice of such hearing to be given as provided by law.

IT IS FURTHER ORDERED, That at such hearing all parties interested may appear and be heard for and against the granting of said petition. Dated December 15th, 1919.

BY THE COURT.

ANDREW GRINDELAND,
One of the District Judges of the 14th Judicial District.

C. W. STANTON,
One of the District Judges of the 15th Judicial District.

YOU ARE FURTHER NOTIFIED, That the territory proposed to be included in said District, in general terms, is that included within the following boundary lines, as set forth in said petition, namely:

…SUS TAKERS TO …EGIN WORK JAN. 2

…ARTMENT ISSUES LIST OF …QUESTIONS WHICH WILL BE ASKED.

The enumeration of the population during a census of the United States always presents numerous difficulties, among them the apprehension on the part of the people, particularly those of foreign birth or extraction, that their answers to the enumerators' questions will cause increased taxation, legal entanglements or other consequences injurious to their welfare. In order to quiet such unfounded fears and at the same time acquaint all persons with the main questions included in the census schedules this statement has been prepared.

As the date set for the visit of enumerators is not far distant it might be well for the people of Pennington county to acquaint themselves with the principal questions which will be propounded to them. These, for the town-dweller, include the following:

Age at last birthday.

Each person ten years of age and over will be asked whether he is able to read or write.

Each person will be asked his birthplace as well as the birthplace of father and mother.

If foreign born the date of coming to the United States will be asked, and, if naturalized, the date of becoming a citizen; also mother tongue or native language.

Each head of a family will be asked whether his home is owned by him or rented. If owned, whether the home is mortgaged or free of debt.

Each person will be asked his occupation and whether he is an employer or employee or is working on his own account.

The farmer's catechism is considerably longer and he will have to have a regular balance sheet handy if he is to answer all the questions correctly. Following are some of the things he will be up against:

Each occupant of a farm will be asked how many years, if any, he worked on a farm for wages; how many years, if any, he was a tenant; and how many years, if any, he farmed as an owner.

Whether he (a) owns, or (b) rents, or (c) partly owns and partly rents his farm, or whether (d) he operates the farm for others as a manager or superintendent.

How many acres in his farm? Number of improved acres? Number of unimproved acres and number of acres of woodland?

Total value of farm? Total value of buildings? Value of implements and machinery on farm?

Number of cows, horses, sheep, chickens and other domestic animals on the farm January 1, 1920?

Whether farm is mortgaged? If so, the amount of mortgage?

Expenses for feed, fertilizer, and labor in the year 1919?

Several questions concerning artificial drainage of his farm.

Quantity and acreage of all crops grown on the farm in 1919, including fruits and vegetables?

Acreage of timber land on farm and value of forest products.

Copies of the Agriculture schedule can be had in advance by any farmer by writing to the Director of the Census, Washington, D. C.

RED CROSS GETS NO SEAL PROCEEDS

There is no conflict between the public health work programs of the American Red Cross and that of the Minnesota Public Health association and its affiliated county and local health organizations, which is financed by the sale of Red Cross Christmas Seals and Health bonds, it is emphasized in a statement by Otto F. Bradley, state Christmas Seal sale director.

He also states that although the national Red Cross grants exclusive sale of the Red Cross Christmas Seal to support the National Tuberculosis association and its local agencies, none of the money from the sale of seals is turned over to the Red Cross.

In support of this statement a letter from Major C. C. Hield, manager of the Northern Division of the American Red Cross, was quoted.

"The National Tuberculosis Association is the organization which annually issues these Red Cross Christmas Seals and sells them to obtain funds with which to fight tuberculosis throughout the nation," Major Hield's letter states.

"The national association has affiliated local and state associations in every state. Its co-operating agency in Minnesota is the Minnesota Public Health association, which in turn has affiliated local and county health associations.

"The Red Cross not only has a working agreement nationally with this organization, but it has by states as well. This agreement saves overlapping of work.

"Support should be given by our people to the anti-tuberculosis association's and public health associations' work. The money derived from the sale of these seals is used in combatting one of our worst enemies, tuberculosis."

The Red Cross chapters are not permitted to buy seals with funds in their treasuries. Where chapter officials and chapter members may be of service to the other organizations, they are urged by Major Hield to help to the limit of their available time.

Misses Hilda Bentling, Margaret Gall and Bertha Haggy, all of Germantown, left on Saturday afternoon for Caseleton where they will be employed.

FEELS SHE COULD SHOUT FOR JOY

MRS. MORRISON IS REJOICING OVER REMARKABLE RESTORATION TO HEALTH.

"I could just shout for joy, I feel so happy since Tanlac made me well again," was the statement made by Mrs. Charles Morrison, of 749 York St., St. Paul, Minn., to a Tanlac representative a few days ago.

"I thought my time had just about come for I had suffered until I was scarcely more than a frame," continued Mrs. Morrison, "and had to spend most of my time in bed. For eight long years my stomach was in an awful condition and no matter how little I ate I suffered no end of misery after nearly every meal, and sometimes I went a couple of days at a time without touching a bite of nourishment of any kind. Gas formed on my stomach and pressed up against my heart so bad that often I actually fainted and sometimes I got so dizzy that I would fall down flat in my tracks. Many and many a night I rolled and tossed all night long and didn't get a wink of sleep, and in spite of all I could do I kept getting weaker and weaker all the time, and finally I got to where I was almost a complete nervous and physical wreck and had to give up my housework entirely and go to bed. I tried and tried to get a medicine that would do me some good but nothing I took seemed to help me and I was beginning to think I had a hopeless case and was about to give up in despair.

"But I kept seeing Tanlac recommended for cases like mine by people right here in St. Paul so I thot I would try it and see if it would help me. The longest day I live I'll praise Tanlac, for my recovery has been simply remarkable and I'm feeling as well as I ever did. My stomach is in perfect condition and I can eat anything I want and never have the sign of an ache or pain afterwards and I'm gaining in weight as fast as I can. I never have a dizzy spell and I can sleep sound all night long and when I get up in the morning I feel refreshed. I just simply can't say enough for Tanlac for I'm a well and happy woman and every word I've said is the truth and if anybody don't believe it just send them to me."

TRINITY CHURCH WILL INSTALL NEW MINISTER

Rev. O. J. Kvale of Benson, Minnesota, Will Succeed Rev. I. T. Aastad.

SERVICE NEW YEARS DAY

Pastor One of Best Known in Entire State—Church Is Fortunate.

The board of trustees of the Trinity Lutheran church of this city has announced that Rev. O. J. Kvale of Benson, Minn., has accepted the call extended him by the local congregation and will be formally installed as pastor of the church on New Years day.

Rev. Kvale will succeed Rev. I. T. Aastad, who recently resigned to accept a call that takes him into a much larger field. Rev. Kvale comes to Thief River Falls well known as one of the leading Norwegian pastors of the state. He is at present a member of the board of education of the Norwegian Lutheran Church of America, which board has under its direct supervision all of the educational work of the numerous church schools in this country. This fact alone recommends him as a most desirable acquisition and the members of the local church board have every reason to congratulate themselves on their extreme good fortune.

Rev. Kvale is a graduate of Luther college, Decorah, Ia., and Luther Seminary, St. Paul. He also studied at Valparaiso university and spent over a year at the University of Chicago, where he received his masters degree. He was pastor at Orfordville, Wis., for 23 years and at Benson for two years.

New Years Day Services.

Special services for installing the new pastor will be conducted at the church at 11 o'clock a. m. New Years day, the Rt. Rev. I. T. Anstad having charge of the installation ceremonies. This church, being the amalgamation of the three Norwegian Lutheran churches of the city, has a very large congregation and it is anticipated that the installation services will be attended by one of the largest gatherings ever seen in a local church.

NILS JACOBSON IS FOUND DEAD

Attack of Heart Failure Ends Life While Alseep In Bed.

Nils Jacobson died at his home in this city on Arnold avenue south last Thursday morning. He was living alone in the house and his body was discovered by neighbors who went to the place that morning.

Heart trouble was undoubtedly the cause of his death as he was found in his bed apparently asleep with no evidence of any struggle whatever. Neighbors, noticing a light burning in the house late Thursday morning with no signs of anyone about the place, decided that something must be wrong. They notified the police and upon the arrival of Chief Erickson, entrance was gained to the house and the lifeless body of Mr. Jacobson was then found.

Until this fall Mr. Jacobson resided on a farm in this county, when he moved to the city. The only relatives in this vicinity is Mrs. Comstock, whose home is in Minneapolis. She was at once notified and came to make the necessary funeral arrangements. The services were conducted Tuesday afternoon and interment was made in Greenwood cemetery.

CITY NOTIFIED TO PAY $200 DAMAGES

Horse Dies From Injuries Received From Falling in Sewer Ditch.

At the meeting of the city council held Tuesday evening notice was served on the city by LaCoe & Fountaine demanding payment in the sum of $200 for a horse owned by them which died as the result of injuries received from falling into a sewer ditch. No action in the matter was taken by the council at this meeting.

It is claimed in the notice that on the 21st day of November the horse broke through the frozen dirt with which the sewer ditch being constructed by the city had been carelessly and negligently filled and so injured one leg that blood poison developed, killing the horse. The accident occurred on Second street between LaBree and Main avenues.

Elks Initiate Large Class.

A class of thirty was initiated into the lodge of the local order of Elks last Friday night. The work was put on at the auditorium and about two hundred and fifty of the antlered herd were on hand to see that everything was properly attended to. Following the initiation a lunch was served by Manager H. A. Brumund of the Brumund hotel. A feature of the entertainment program was the showing of the Gibbons-O'Dowd prize fight in motion pictures. B. P. O. E. No. 1308 now has nearly four hundred members and the campaign which is now on will, without doubt, put it past the five hundred mark within the next sixty days. This, it is figured, will be sufficient to insure the erection of an Elks Home in this city.

Free Movies.

The "kids" of Thief River Falls are enjoying a treat today. Both movie houses are entertaining them free. Manager A. J. Lawrence of the Lyceum, is putting on a special show between the hours of 10 and 12 a. m., which is free to the "kiddies", and Manager J. H. Brumund of the Princess, has distributed free tickets to the children through the Woman's Welfare branch of the Woman's club, which admit to the various performances throughout the day.

OPENING DATE OF GYMNASIUM DEC. 26

Will Be Open to Members Every Day From 2 to 10 p. m.

The Athletic club will be opened to members Friday, Dec. 26th. After experiencing considerable trouble and delay in securing the necessary material, Manager G. A. Fallness now has everything in readiness and has announced the formal opening date of the club.

The gymnasium is located in the basement of the Citizens State bank building. The place has been thoroly remodeled and makes an excellent place for the club. The equipment, with the exception of a few floor pieces, is complete throughout and all of the various kinds of apparatus necessary for all kinds of exercise are available. Instructors will be elected from the membership by the members and as far as possible the work will be conducted along beneficial and instructive lines. The place is equipped with all of the necessary conveniences, including lockers and shower baths.

The membership of the club now numbers thirty and a general invitation will be extended to the public to join until such time as the limit that the club will accommodate has been reached. It will be open to the men every day from 2 to 10 p. m., except on Wednesdays, which day has been reserved for the ladies. A class of about twenty ladies has already been secured.

The direct management of the affairs of the club will be in the hands of G. A. Fallness to whom is due the credit for the establishment of the gymnasium in this city.

BIG DEMAND FOR SWEET CLOVER SEED

Soil of County Well Adapted to Growing of This Crop.

Judging by the number of demands coming in to the Farm Bureau office for sweet clover seed, it is estimated that a large acreage will be planted in the vicinity of Thief River Falls the coming year. Because of the abundance of lime in the soil, Pennington county is well adapted to the growing of this crop. It will grow on a soil poorly drained, so worn and low in humus that alfalfa or red clover will not live. Where these more valuable legumes do not thrive, sweet clover, which was once viewed as a weed, is of considerable value. It may be used for pasture, hay, soilage and has occasionally been used for ensilage. At first animals usually refuse to eat sweet clover as all parts of the plant contain a bitter compound, with a vanilly-like odor. In spring time the hay is less bitter and animals of all classes will eat is quite readily.

Sweet clover seed should be thickly sown so that the stems will not grow too coarse, and especially in the second year the crop should be cut when the first blossoms appear, or even before, since after this stage the plants rapidly grow woody. The crop should be cut about six inches from the ground, for the new roots grow out, not from the crown, as in alfalfa, but from the stems. Sweet clover makes good hay for horses, cattle and sheep and also furnishes good pasture for pigs. It should be closely grazed to keep the plants from becoming woody. The yellow-flowered sweet clover is two weeks earlier in growth than the white variety.

A number of farmers who grew sweet clover for seed in 1919, have reported that their supply of seed is now exhausted and many more pounds will have to be ordered from outside sources.

HOME BREWING IS ILLEGAL SAYS SUPREME COURT

Person Has No Right to Manufacture Intoxicants For Own Use.

NEAR-BEER IS INCLUDED

Judges Unanimous In Interpretation of Law; First Arrests Made.

Minnesota's wartime prohibition enforcement law is constitutional and a warranted exercise of police power, the state supreme court ruled on Friday in two decisions declaring illegal the manufacture of liquor even for maker's personal use and the transportation of intoxicants except for medical purposes. To prevent excessive use of intoxicating liquor, the court ruled, the legislature has the power to prohibit traffic, sale, transportation, possession and even manufacture for private use of the maker.

Two Are Indicted.

The decisions uphold orders issued by the Hennepin county district court overruling demurrers to indictments against Eugene A. Hosmer and Andrew Brothers, both of Minneapolis. Hosmer was accused of manufacturing a quart of beer to be used as a beverage, and Brothers was charged with transporting a gallon of intoxicating liquor. The beer made by Hosmer was alleged to have contained only one-half of 1 per cent of alcohol.

To carry out its purpose of prohibiting the excessive use of intoxicants, the state legislature has power even to forbid traffic in nonintoxicating beverages, if they are almost intoxicants, the court ruled in its decision against Brothers. In the decision on the Hosmer appeal, the court said that under the Minnesota statute it is unnecessary even to allege that the liquor in question is potable as a beverage.

Both Decisions Unanimous.

Both decisions, which were written by Justice Oscar Hallam, were approved by unanimous verdict of the supreme court judges.

The fact that the state enforcement law is broader in its provisions than the national law which it was designed to enforce, does not invalidate it or limit its operation to matters prohibited by the national act, the court said in both rulings. The state statute was declared a "separate, complete and independent act."

"The prohibitions of our statute are not limited to liquors manufactured from grains, cereals, fruit or other products," said the decision upholding the district court's ruling in the Hosmer case. "The statute forbids the manufacture of intoxicating liquor for the private use of the manufacturer.

Conforms to Constitution.

"A state statute absolutely prohibiting within the limits of the state, the manufacture and sale of intoxicating liquors, is a warranted exercise of the police power of the state. It is not in contravention of our state constitution or of the constitution of the United States."

Winter Term Opens Jan. 5.

The winter term at the Northwest School of Agriculture will open on Jan. 5. At that time new classes will be organized in all of the subjects offered for both young men and young women. Accommodations will be provided for forty additional students. Rooms will be reserved in order of the receipt of applications for them. Special classes in farm engineering, tractors and automobile work will be organized. Those who are expecting to attend should not fail to write to the school at once.

Will Visit in England.

Thos. H. Smith, cashier of the Farmers State bank of Mavie, and his brother, Wesley, expect to leave about January 15th on a trip to England, where they will visit for about two months at the home of their parents. This will be Mr. Smith's first visit with his parents since he came to this country some twelve years ago.

CONTRACTS ARE LET FOR BANK BUILDING

C. M. Carlson Gets General Contract For First and Peoples Bank.

The board of directors of the First and Peoples State bank at a meeting held last Thursday evening awarded the contracts for the remodeling and furnishing of their new bank building. The general contract was let to C. M. Carlson and the furniture will be supplied by the Larson Furniture company. The fixtures will be furnished by the Miller-Davis company of Minneapolis.

Work on the building will be rushed as fast as possible and the bank officials hope to be able to occupy their new quarters by April 1st.

Santa Claus will be at the Municipal Christmas Tree this afternoon at 3:30, with something for all of the children of the city.

ORGANIZING IN COUNTIES PLAN OF N-P LEAGUE

Bylaws Changed to Provide For Selection of County Manager.

ANNUAL DUES INCREASED

All Money Divided Among State, County and National Organizations.

A plan for local county and township organizations is one of the results of the meeting of the national committee of the Nonpartisan league held in St. Paul last week.

Just to what extent this plan will be carried out in Minnesota was not disclosed, but the probabilities are that local organizations will be formed in all counties where the league has any considerable following. The membership fees were increased from $16 to $18, but it is stated that all this increase will go to the counties, the division being as follows: Seven dollars to the county, $4 to the state organization, and $7 to the national organization. The latter figure will pay the national papers and otherwise sustain the work from national headquarters.

The amount which is allowed for the county fund is nearly twice what cost of obtaining the members through the national and state organizations has been. And the greater interest possible by reason of county organization and county work is expected to reduce this cost.

In North Dakota the farmers will put up county candidates in many counties, but nothing is said in the report of the meeting.

A County Manager.

"The local county organization plan," says a statement from League headquarters, "will go into effect in the different states as rapidly as the state managers co-operating with the state executive committees and county committees can put it into effect.

"The county organization plan does not go into operation at the same time in all counties. The plan depends for its operation upon co-operation and agreement between the state and county organization.

"The plan is not expected to work in unorganized or poorly organized counties, and will not go into effect in any county until a county committee consisting of one committeeman from each voting precinct and a county executive committee have been elected. These committees will be elected at the regular precinct and county conventions held to indorse candidates and state delegates.

"In counties considered well enough organized and where the membership wants county organization and has elected its committees, the membership, through county committees, will enter an agreement with the state manager to employ an organizer or county manager who will reside within the county and give all his time to the work in that county."

Boys Arrested.

Four boys, Walter Offelie, David Morgan, Albert Ness and Clarence Dicken, were arrested Tuesday on a warrant sworn out by Mrs. Ida Langseth, charging them with cutting three evergreen trees from her farm south of town. The boys were taken before Judge Tarrant and the case was settled by the parents paying Mrs. Langseth $25 as damages. At the request of the county attorney the boys were placed on probation with instructions to report to Judge N. W. Tarrant each week. The offense was doubtless due to thoughtlessness on the part of the boys more than a deliberate attempt to do wrong.

SENATOR NAPLIN EXPLAINS ERROR IN SLEIGH BILL

Law as it Now Stands Is Not the One Passed by Legislature.

ERROR IN PRINTING LAW

Legislative Measure Applies to Vehicles Purchased at First Hand.

Investigation of the measure known as the "Sleigh Bill" passed by the last legislature has brought to light the fact that the law as printed in the statutes differs in important details from the original bill as shown by the Senate and House Journals. Senator Naplin was a member of the committee on motor vehicles and was, therefore, in close touch with the bill. The following explanation, written by him, reviews the history of the bill and points out where the law as it now stands in the statutes differs from the measure passed by the legislature:

"Various newspaper articles have appeared regarding the so-called Sleigh Bill passed by the last legislature. For the information of the public and users of sleighs in particular the following may be of interest.

Not Law Passed.

"The law as it now stands is not the law passed by the legislature. Even without consulting the official copy of the session laws I have told inquirers that the law provides that no dealer can sell the narrow guage sleigh after January 1, 1921, but that it does not prohibit the use of old narrow guage sleighs, or for a blacksmith to make narrow guage sleighs.

"Recently I looked up Chapter 180 of the laws passed by the 1919 regular session, and found that it prohibited the use as well as sale of narrow guage sleighs. It was a surprise to me, because I was in close touch with the bill from its introduction to its final passage, and felt certain it was not compulsory.

"This bill, known as Senate File No. 31, was introduced by Senator Hegnes of Marshall county on Jan. 15, 1919. It was referred to the committee on Motor Vehicles of which Senator Hegnes was chairman. I was a member of this committee and through my and Senator Wold's opposition this bill was recommended out in preference to others which were compulsory in nature. It was a question of choosing the lesser of two evils, as it was apparent that some such measure would be passed.

Measure as Adopted.

"It came up for passage in the senate on March 31st and Senator Swanson made an attempt to amend it in a way to compel the use of wide sleighs. I opposed the amendment and was supported by Senators Wold and Cummins. The amendment was defeated and the bill passed in the following form:

"Section 1. On and after the first day of Jan. 1921, it shall be unlawful for any person, firm or corporation in this state to sell any new or first-hand draft sleighs to any person or persons residing in the state for use therein, unless the runners of such sleighs shall measure from center to center four feet six inches. And on and after such date it shall be unlawful for any person or persons to use upon any of the public highways of this state any such sleigh, purchased at first-hand, after said day of January, 1921, unless the runners shall measure from center to center four feet six inches.

"Section 2. Any person, firm or corporation violating any of the provisions of this section shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction shall be fined not less than five dollars nor more than twenty five.

"In the above form it was sent to the House of Representatives where Rep. Berve had charge of it. On April 2, it came up for passage in the House, and Rep. Neuman offered to amend by striking out the words 'purchased at first hand,' as it appears in line 5 Section 1. The vote was 21 yeas and 78 nays, so the amendment was lost. The bill was amended by inserting the words 'not less than' in two places before the words 'four feet six inches,' and was passed so amended by a vote of 87 yeas to 10 nays.

"On April 3rd it came up in the Senate for concurrence in the amendments made by the House. Again an attempt was made to make it compulsory but met with defeat and the bill was passed with a vote of 39 to 14. In neither case did I vote for or against the bill. It was not a measure which I approved, and having been instrumental in getting it recommended out from the committee I did not feel like voting against it. As said above, it was a matter of choosing the lesser of two evils.

Important Words Omitted.

"Why the words 'purchased at first hand' should have been left out from the law as printed is difficult to surmise. It is either the result of bungling on the part of the engrossing clerks or a deliberate attempt to make laws over the head of the legislature. In any event, the farmers can still use their old narrow guaged sleighs, so far as this particular law is concerned. The Journals of the Senate and House prove conclusively that it was not passed in the form you find it in the copy of the Session Laws for 1919."

Mrs. Carrie M. Hornseth.

Mrs. Carrie M. Hornseth died at the Physicians hospital on Dec. 19th at 10 o'clock in the morning, death being due to heart failure. The deceased had been failing since early fall and it was found necessary to remove her to the hospital on Dec. 16th, where she received an operation, death ensuing a few days afterwards. Funeral services were conducted by Rev. Aastad on Dec. 23 at the Trinity Lutheran church. Rev. Albin Larson of the Swedish Lutheran church, who visited her the day before her death, also participated. Miss Carrie Luvaas was born in Norway on Jan. 27, 1863. When 19 years old she came to this country and in 1890, she was united in marriage to T. P. Hornseth, in the state of South Dakota, later removing to this city where they have resided for the past ten years. Her husband and three children survive, as follows: T. P. Hornseth, Richard, Tony and Clarrisa, all of this city. Burial took place in the Greenwood cemetery. The deceased was a member of the Royal Neighbors lodge which attended the services in a body as did also the Sons of Norway of which Mr. Hornseth is a member. The following out of town relatives were present at the services: Mrs. Thea. Hornseth, Mrs. Doney, both of Hector, Minn.; Mrs. Cloutier of Grand Rapids and Mrs. Doland of Grand Forks.

MUCH INTEREST IS SHOWN IN CLINIC

Hundred and Seven School Children Have Their Teeth Examined.

Much interest was shown in the Dental Clinic held in the city auditorium, Dec. 18. Dr. Harold J. Leonard examined one hundred and seven school children from 10 a. m., until 5:30 p. m. Of the one hundred examined, ninety-four showed unclean mouths, ninety-nine decayed teeth, fifty-five hypertrophied tonsils and a large percent stated that they did not have any previous dental treatment. That this work is important is shown by the result of this very successful clinic. All children whether in the city or in the country should take advantage of this examination as the charges to the Pennington County Public Health association are the same whether a large or small number of children is examined. The expenses of this clinic amounted to $81.00, which is paid by the local Public Health association, and we hope that this good work is appreciated by the parents of these children.

Dr. Leonard gave a very interesting talk, illustrated by slides, at the Parents-Teachers meeting in the high school, on the evening of Dec. 18th.

Print Paper Saving.

Another step in his effort to bring conservation of news print paper without restrictive legislation was taken by Representative Halvor Steenerson of Minnesota, chairman of the house committee on postoffices and post-roads, recently, when he introduced a resolution requesting secretaries of state, war, interior, agriculture, commerce, labor and the attorney general to furnish the house with information relative to the use of paper by their departments. They are asked to consider the possibility of effecting a 10 per cent curtailment of its use.

Andrew Hestekind.

After an illness of about a year, Andrew Hestekind died at his home late Friday evening, Dec. 19th from tuberculosis. Mr. Hestekind was born at Independence, Wis., Jan. 22, 1882. He came to Pennington county with his parents in 1884, where the elder Hestekind took up a homestead in the township of Smiley. Here Andrew worked with his father until the homestead was sold, when they moved across the line on his grandfather's homestead, which they then owned, and where Andrew has passed practically all his life, except two years of homesteading at Baudette, Minn. He was married to Nellie Hagen in 1911, and have four little children. He was a good husband and father, as well as a good neighbor. He was one of the men who keep the wheels of progress going, being public spirited, always ready to help in any progressive issue confronting the neighborhood, state or nation. He took sick about a year ago with influenza, developing into tuberculosis from which death came to relieve him from further suffering. His death is particularly sad as he leaves these four small children, the youngest less than six months old, which makes the situation extremely trying without a father's care and protection. The family has made many friends and the heartfelt sympathy of the entire community is extended to the bereaved wife and children over the loss of husband and father, so sadly needed by them. May the blessings of a kind providence help them to bear, in a measure, their load of sorrow and time of affliction.

Funeral services were conducted by Rev. Grimsrud from the St. Pauli church, Tuesday, and interment was made in the St. Pauli cemetery.

KIEWEL BLOCK PURCHASED BY JAS. COSGROVE

Desirable LaBree Avenue Business Property Changed Hands Monday.

WILL BUILD BIG ADDITION

Work of Extending Building to Alley Will Start When Weather Permits.

A business deal of considerable magnitude was consummated Monday when Jas. Cosgrove purchased from the Kiewel Products company, their two-story brick business block on LaBree avenue just south of the Farmers and Merchants State bank.

Mr. Cosgrove has acquired the property for his own use and will occupy it as soon as it is possible for the present occupant, L. P. Christianson, to vacate.

Will Build Addition.

As soon as weather conditions will permit in the spring Mr. Cosgrove will start the erection of a 70 foot one-story addition to the building. The present size of the building is 25x70 feet and this addition will extend it to the alley. The first floor will at that time be remodeled and a complete set of new fixtures installed throughout. This will give Mr. Cosgrove one of the finest equipped confectionery and soft drink parlors in the northwest.

The second floor of the building is used for office and dwelling purposes and no change in this department is anticipated by the new owner.

During the past few months there has been considerable activity in business property in this city, which fact is a decidedly good indication. This last deal makes the seventh business block to change hands within a very short time.

COURT DECISION FAVORS W. H. QUIST

Thompson Serves Notice of Appeal to District Court.

The case of Olaf O. Thompson versus W. H. Quist, came up for trial before Judge N. W. Tarrant in Municipal court Tuesday and resulted in a verdict for Mr. Quist.

The case was an action brought by Mr. Thompson to recover the sum of $100 for alleged expense in taking care of a cow left with him by Mr. Quist some two years ago. When Mr. Quist left Thief River Falls about two years ago he left the cow, which is a three-quarter Guernsey, with Mr. Thompson. During this time two calves were raised from the cow and Mr. Thompson also had the proceeds from the milk. Upon his return to this city recently, Mr. Quist demanded the return of his cow. This Mr. Thompson refused to do and Mr. Quist secured possession of the animal through replevin proceedings. Mr. Thompson then brought action to recover the sum of $100, which he claimed the care of the cow was worth in addition to any income he received from it.

The court held that the two calves and the milk from the cow should be sufficient compensation. Mr. Thompson has served notice of appeal of the case to district court. O. A. Naplin represented Mr. Quist and Hans O. Chommie appeared for Mr. Thompson.

TEACHERS SALARIES INCREASED BY BOARD

Advances of Five and Ten Dollars Will Date Back to September First.

The school board of District No. 18, at a special meeting held last Thursday evening, decided to raise the salaries of the instructors in the local schools. Those who have been engaged in their profession here prior to this year were granted an increase of ten dollars per month and all others five dollars per month. The increase dates back to the opening of the school year and as a consequence some good sized checks will be issued in January, at which time all will be paid up to date.

This raise applies to all instructors in the public schools of the city who are now receiving a salary less than $1,000 for the school year and is in addition to the five per cent bonus which is paid to all teachers at the end of the year.

A real estate deal was closed last Saturday whereby E. M. Bennes became the owner of the H. P. Spenhelm residence at the corner of Bridge street and Markley avenue.

CHRISTMAS.

The contention that Christmas is coming to mean less and less to the people of this country is not borne out by the evidence. In some respects the method of observing the day may be changing, but the changes are generally for the better. The tendency is to extend the strict interpretation of its significance and to make it a season of general good will in every direction. From a purely church function it has broadened out until now it means an occasion of general rejoicing in which the entire world finds time and has the inclination to take part.

In the United States the indiscriminate giving of supurfluous and often useless gifts to individuals has largely been replaced by a program of general benefit to the community. It is a time for looking after the welfare of the poor and unfortunate in a more special degree, and to see that those who, through stress of circumstances, would have but little to remind them that it is a season of universal good will, shall be so provided for that the significance of the occasion may not be lost.

This is the idea of the community Christmas tree. Here everybody gathers, joins in the old appropriate songs, listens perhaps to a short address and goes away, feeling better toward his neighbor. The affair itself may not always be on an elaborate scale, but the influence is there and for a short time at least serves to bring out the best and kindest feelings in us all.

The people of Thief River Falls have provided a Christmas tree of this kind. The invitation to join the crowd is general and none who comes will be overlooked. One particularly pleasing feature in connection with the observance of the anniversary here is the care that has been taken to include those who cannot be present. The hospitals and poor farm will be visited as will also all the homes in which there may be sick children. This, to our way of thinking, is the finest part of the entire program.

Quite a number of men and women have given liberally of both time and money to make this affair a success. Show that you appreciate their efforts and the fine spirit behind them by lending your presence. Let's forget business and gather simply as neighbors on one day anyway.

MUCH THE BETTER PLAN.

The probable failure of the plan to build an apartment house, while regrettable, is not without its compensations. People must have houses in which to live and if these cannot be rented they will have to be built.

An apartment house at best is nothing more than an improved tenement, and while these may be necessary in large cities their value is not to be compared with little homes. In Thief River Falls, where the cost of building lots is still very low, the better plan is to encourage the man with a family to put the money he would have to pay out as rent into a place that he can eventually own.

Business men would have to get behind this apartment house idea and guarantee the investment. It will require some $50,000 before the building is in shape to move into and the risk is not looked upon by bankers as any too sound. They show by their attitude that they at least do not regard the project as one which should be accorded anything in the shape of a reduced rate of interest.

The business men of the city would therefore have to back the project with their cash or credit. Such being the case, would it not be better to back twenty responsible and reliable men to the extent of $2500 each, add this to anything they may themselves have and start them on the road toward paying for their own homes? We believe it will be admitted by all that these twenty h men would be of greater value to the community generally than one large building. The investment would also be a great deal safer for the reason that if the apartment project went bump a very large sum would be involved, while it is absolutely certain that only a small percentage of the individuals assisted would fail to make good on their contracts. The men backing either of the projects would be better off if they found themselves with two or three small properties on their hands than with a single great big one. The prospects for getting their money back would be vastly better.

The objection is raised that it costs a lot of money to put up a residence building. The same argument holds good to even a greater degree where large apartments are concerned. Ask any banker in town which he would rather do: Grant a loan to help a man who is paying for his home or become one member of a corporation putting up a $50,000 building to rent, and see what he says.

The thing for the business men of the city to do is get behind those who have faith enough in the future of the place to wish to make it their home. The argument may be advanced that our population is inclined to be of the "floating" variety and that the majority of those coming here to live would prefer to be so situated that they can move at a moment's notice. That is exactly what we want to try and get away from, and nothing will help so much as having the people own the home they live in. Count up those among your acquaintances who have left the city for other points during the past year and then figure the percentage of home-owners in the list. You will find it very small.

Thief River Falls is as good a place to live as most towns—better than a great many. The man who owns his home here will think so. The one who has no greater interest in it than the job he holds will move away if he gets a notion that some other locality holds greater opportunities. If his money is invested here he will hesitate long enough to find out that he was mistaken concerning the wonderful advantages held out by the other proposition.

WORTH TRYING, ANYWAY.

With some people nothing short of a decision by the supreme court of the United States requiring the hanging, drawing and quartering of the meat packers would have proven satisfactory. They object most strenuously to the agreement made by Attorney General Palmer with the meat industry heads whereby the latter are to discontinue all side lines and confine their efforts in the future entirely to the handling of meats.

We have all seen the result of court orders in trust-busting cases. Fines have been assessed but up to date none have been collected. Jail sentences may also have been imposed in certain instances, but none of the alleged culprits have ever served a day in jail. The combinations against which these efforts were directed are operating pretty much as before.

Now the packers offer to get rid of the holdings to which objection is raised and do so without any further delay. As this is what has been demanded it would seem as if they should at least be given a chance to show their good intentions before anything further against them is attempted. The probabilities are that the action of the attorney general will be approved in most quarters.

To sell, under supervision of the United States district court, preferably to the livestock producers and the public, all their holdings in public stockyards.

To sell, under the same supervision and in like manner, all their interests in stockyard railroads and terminals.

To sell, under the same supervision and in like manner, all their interests in market newspapers.

To dispose of all their interests in public cold storage warehouses, except as necessary for their own meat products.

To forever disassociate themselves with the retail meat business.

To forever disassociate themselves with all "unrelated lines," including wholesale groceries, fresh, canned, dried or salt fish, fresh, dried or canned vegetables, fresh, crushed, dried, evaporated or canned fruits, confectioneries, sirups, soda water fountain supplies, etc., molasses, honey, jams, jellies and preserves, spices, sauces, relishes, etc., coffee, tea, chocolate, cocoa, nuts, flour, sugar, rice and cereals (with an exception to be noted), bread, wafers, crackers, biscuit, spaghetti, vermicelli, macaroni, cigars, china, furniture, etc.

To forever abandon the use of their branch houses, route cars and auto trucks, comprising their distribution system, for any other than their own meat and dairy products.

To perpetually submit to the jurisdiction of the United States under an injunction forbidding all the defendants from directly or indirectly maintaining any combination or conspiracy with each other or any other person or persons monopolizing or attempting to monopolize any food product in the United States, or indulging in any unfair and unlawful practises.

The supreme court of Minnesota evidently believes that prohibition should prohibit. In a unanimous verdict handed down last Friday the wartime prohibition law is held constitutional and a warranted exercise of police power by the state. It is held that the intent of the law is to prevent the use of intoxicating liquors and for this reason even its manufacture for personal use is contrary to the statutes.

Although the liquor interests still profess to entertain some hope that there will be a letting down of the bars, it is almost certain that they will be doomed to disappointment. The country goes dry by constitutional enactment on January sixteenth and there is but little time left in which to open the subject again. Attorney General Palmer has declared that President Wilson cannot lift the wartime prohibition order, and there is no hope of this being done until after constitutional prohibition has been put into effect.

The supreme court's action in declaring that a man is prevented from brewing some sort of a decoction for his own use comes as a surprise. Many persons seem to think that this interferes with their personal liberty to an unwarranted degree, but the court cannot see their side of the argument, holding that as the object is to prevent the manufacture and sale of intoxicants it does not matter by whom they are manufactured, for what purpose or where.

It looks as if the only hope for the liquor traffic lies in the abrogation of the new amendment by the people themselves. Such proceeding would entail a long and tedious fight with the chances decidedly against its being successful.

John Barleycorn is about through.

CART BEFORE THE HORSE.

The congressman who advocates a plan for forcing large corporations to cut down their advertising appropriations in order that the amount paid by them as income and profit taxes may be increased, has hit upon a great idea. He evidently does not know that a large part of the sum on which the tax is to be collected was only made possible by consistent and persistent advertising. The man does not give the advertisers credit for having any sense at all, apparently. The latter know that if they quit advertising there would in all probability be no income tax to pay and that if their plan were to reduce profits they certainly would not resort to the most positive of all known means for increasing sales. Any person who is convinced that a manufacturer or dealer would rather pay a newspaper for something worthless than give a just sum to the government as a tax has not a very high opinion of the patriotism or common sense of his countrymen. The fact of the matter is that the more these concerns spend for advertising the larger the income and profit taxes they will have to pay.

Soldiers Will Soon Be Paid.

The first sale of ten million dollars of state soldier bonus certificates will take place in two weeks, according to plans made by the bonus board recently. Every effort, it was indicated, will be made to begin payment of the bonuses at the earliest possible date.

Predicting that the payment of one million dollars a week will be made State Auditor Preus, Adjutant General Rhinow and other board members favored the selling of ten millions of dollars of certificates at the first sale. It was predicted that the cash would be forthcoming before February 1 and payment would start not later than that date.

DEPORTED REDS SAILED SUNDAY; MORE GO SOON

Emma Goldman and Alexander Berkman Were On Board.

BRAINS OF REDS IN LIST

Sixty Thousand Radicals Listed For Like Fate, Say Officials.

Led by a woman, who declared that her husband had been deported to Russia on the "soviet ark" Buford, a mob of 150 Reds attacked the entrance to the Ellis Island ferry in an effort to reach fellow radicals awaiting deportation at the island. A riot call was ordered before the police were able to restore order.

The mob gathered around the gate keepers several minutes before the attack. Then the woman who proclaimed that she was an anarchist, drove both fists thru the glass window. As pieces of glass fell the mob sang the "Internationale."

"Down with this dirty, rotten government," screamed the woman, "They have taken my husband just as they will be taking your husbands, brothers and sweethearts."

Unable to quiet the mob, Asa Mitchell, superintendent of the barge office, located at Manhatten put in a call for police assistance.

The mob turned on the first policeman to answer the riot call and beat him but when reserves with clubs drawn and coast guards with fixed bayonets came they became docile. Members of it explained that they came to inquire about relatives who had sailed on the Buford.

A young Russian woman who gave her name as Clara Brooks was arrested as the ring leader.

The "soviet ark" Buford which sailed for an un-named Russian port Dec. 21 with 249 radicals on board will be followed by another ark filled with "reds" before the first arrives in Russia, according to the best information obtainable. It was stated that a "second batch" of deportees would be embarked as soon as possible to show the drastic steps to be taken by the government against aliens who would bring about the overthrow of constitutional government. The department of justice stated that there were 60,000 radicals listed. How many radicals and their "Red leaders" will go on the enforced voyage to their homeland was not made known.

The Buford embarked under heavy guard and amid darkness early Dec. 22 in the morning. On board were Emma Goldman and Alexander Berkman, two of the most radical reds, together with 247 other radicals of various degrees of "redness." Department of Justice agents said the passenger list comprised the brains of the radical movement in the United States.

The deportation of Emma Goldman and her devoted companion, Alexander Berkman, ends a joint career of 30 years in the United States during which they preached the overthrow of the government by violence. He spent 16 years and she three years in jail, but they were never punished for the part their teachings played in attacks by others on life and property.

Berkman served 14 years for shooting Henry Clay Frick and two years for urging young men to abstain from registering for the draft early in the war. Miss Goldman was in prison two years for opposing conscription and one year for inciting to riot. Berkman was never brought to trial on an indictment for murder in connection with the Preparedness Day bomb outrage in San Francisco. Miss Foldman was acquitted of illegal distribution of birth control literature.

Their joint activities as publishers of the anarchist magazine, "Mother Earth" and "The Blast," suppressed during the war, combined with their addresses at anarchists' meetings, helped cause the assassination of President McKinley, the government charged in its deportation proceedings. The confession of Czolgosz described the influence which Miss Goldman's writings had on him.

Their influence was traced in the dynamiting of the Los Angeles Times. Matthew Schmidt and David Caplan, now in jail with others for that crime, were "of the Goldman clan," Attorney General Palmer has said.

They were suspected of receiving German money to oppose preparedness by the United States before the United States entered the war.

They were the pioneer radicals in the United States. Now there are 60,000 reds here and 222 disloyal foreign language newspapers, according to Attorney General Palmer.

Denounced by judges and other public officials from President Roosevelt down, as enemies of the country seeking to destroy it, but regarded by woman anarchists who greeted them with kisses as "beautiful characters, 100 years ahead of their time," they so increased their following that it was easy for them to provide $15,000 or $25,000 bail in cash or liberty bonds. Yet fines of $10,000 each for opposing the draft were unpaid. They had no property, they said.

For more than 10 years their deportation had been agitated and at times seemed near but no formal proceedings for this purpose were instituted until the alarming radical activities of 1919, including the Seattle and Winnipeg general strikes, the sending of bombs through the mails to Attorney General Palmer and other prominent men, the formation of branches of the communist party and plans for anarchistic demonstrations on the anniversary of the formation of the soviet republic of Russia, which were frustrated by country wide raids in November. These raids made a total of 697 anarchists seized by the United States on deportation proceedings in the last two years.

Berkman's last hour of freedom in this country expired early this month in New York City while Henry Clay Frick was being buried in Pittsburgh and mourned as a public benefactor.

Emma Goldman is 49 years old and Berkman 50. She was born in Kovno, Russia, and in early childhood removed with her parents to East Prussia. When 15 years old she came to the United States and started working in clothing factories in Rochester, N. Y.

Recently asked who her relatives were; Miss Goldman replied: "I have children all over the United States."

In 1887 when 17 years old, she was married, in Rochester to Jacob A. Kersner, who came from Russia in 1882, and was naturalized two years later. In 1909 his citizenship was revoked because he was not 21 when naturalized and had not been five years in the United States. Two years later the Kersners were divorced by a rabbi according to the Jewish rite. It was on a claim that marriage to him made her a citizen that her legal efforts to remain in this country were based.

"They can't keep me out," she said in 1907, when there was talk of deporting her. "I don't believe they would be foolish enough to try. My father is an American citizen. I married an American citizen."

Her father came to the United States in 1886, one year after her arrival, and was naturalized at Rochester when his daughter was 21 years old.

MAKE JANUARY 13 A HOLIDAY

The railways of the United States are more than one-third, nearly one-half, of all the railways of the world. They carry a traffic so much greater than that of any other country that there is really no basis for comparison. Indeed, the traffic of any two nations may be combined, and still it does not approach the commerce of America borne upon American railways.

—United States Senator Cummins.

Ask Any Doughboy Who Was "Over There" and he will tell you that American railroads are the best in the world.

He saw the foreign roads — in England and France, the best in Europe — and in other Continental countries — and he knows.

The part railroads have played in the development of the United States is beyond measure.

American railroads have achieved high standards of public service by far-sighted and courageous investment of capital, and by the constant striving of managers and men for rewards for work well done.

We have the best railroads in the world — we must continue to have the best.

But they must grow.

To the $20,000,000,000 now invested in our railroads, there will have to be added in the next few years, to keep pace with the nation's business, billions more for additional tracks, stations and terminals, cars and engines, electric power houses and trains, automatic signals, safety devices, the elimination of grade crossings — and for reconstruction and engineering economies that will reduce the cost of transportation.

To attract to the railroads in the future the investment funds of many thrifty citizens, the directing genius of the most capable builders and managers, and the skill and loyalty of the best workmen — in competition with other industries bidding for capital, managers and men — the railroad industry must hold out fair rewards to capital, to managers and to the men.

American railroads will continue to set world standards and adequately serve the Nation's needs if they continue to be built and operated on the American principle of rewards for work well done.

ROSEWOOD

Building of Public Hall.

A special meeting was called in town last Thursday evening to discuss the erection of a public hall in place of the one that was sold some over a year ago. The meeting was well patronized and the spirit prevailing for the project was very animated. Everybody present was willing to place their shoulder to the wheel and the result was that during the evening about $600 was subscribed for the building, which was more than was expected for the first meeting. A committee consisting of F. G. Dols, Benhard Ranum, Selmer Haugen and A. S. Holm, was appointed to canvass the community more thoroly and secure as many signatures as possible. The intention is that the hall shall be built exclusively by the farmers in the community and the business men in town, and to that effect shares will be sold at a cost of $25 each. Any man may buy one or more of these. The size and construction of the building is not yet definitely agreed upon, although the prevailing opinion seems to favor a size of about 30x40 and two stories high, the upper floor to be used for the hall and the downstairs to be rented out to some business enterprise. A hall is a much needed improvement in this community, and a lot of people are very enthusiastic about the intention, and if the present boosting is carried on there seems to be no question that the plan should not be realized.

Miss Laura Krohn of the Willowdale school south of town, had her Christmas tree festival on Friday evening, which was well attended, and a well arranged program by the pupils was rendered.

The annual Christmas tree festival of the Rindal church will this year be held on Monday evening, Dec. 29th, and on Thursday evening, Jan. 1st, will be given an entertainment in honor of the returned soldiers. Both parties will be given at the church and promise to be very interesting.

Nina Anderson left last Wednesday for Viking where she will visit with Mrs. S. S. Nordgaard, until Friday.

Miss Esther Thoreson returned on Tuesday from Thief River Falls, where she has been visiting and shopping over Sunday.

Emil Anderson and Marie Helquist returned on Saturday from Thief River Falls, where they had spent several days visiting and Christmas shopping.

Since the nice weather set in, John Sagmoen has resumed work on his new residence.

Percy Hanson and John [illegible] returned on Friday from their school work at the Crookston Agricultural college, and will spend their vacations with relatives and friends here.

Miss Lydia Dalen, Chester Dole, Henry Sagmoen and Henry Stengelson came home Saturday from their school work at Thief River Falls and will spend their vacations with their respective folks in this community.

Engineer H. B. Raftesath of the Northwestern Drainage company, came home from [illegible] Thursday where he has been employed this fall at dredging work, and will spend Christmas with his folks here.

Peder Sagmoen of Goodridge, was in town between trains one day last week to visit with his relatives, and left in the evening for the Twin Cities where he will attend to some business.

Section Foreman Carl Stromberg returned the first of the week from Milwaukee, where he had been to attend a railroadmen's convention.

Miss Mabel Lappegaard left last Monday for Thief River Falls, where she will visit with her brother, Albert, for a week.

Mr. and Mrs. T. Mellem will leave tonight for Bemidji, where they will visit over Christmas with their daughter, Mrs. John B. Eklund and family.

Mr. Iverson, who has been visiting with the Sevaldson folks west of town, returned to his home near Fergus Falls on Monday morning.

Mrs. L. L. Furan and Miss Isabel Sagmoen, left on Wednesday evening for Thief River Falls, where they will visit and shop for a day.

Mrs. Albert Paulson returned home from Thief River Falls last Wednesday, where she had been for a day to receive dental attention.

Miss Hannah Helquist, who has been employed at the Eat restaurant at Thief River Falls for some time, returned home on Wednesday.

Nels Axelson has written to his father, A. Axelson, from Bliss, Idaho, where he is now employed at irrigation work, and is feeling first-rate. Nels left some time ago for the West where he intends to spend the winter.

Melvin Pedersen arrived Monday from Thief River Falls and will spend Christmas with his brother, Peder Pedersen, north of town.

A Merry Christmas and a Happy and Prosperous New Year is wished all our readers.

Miss Clara Pedersen, at the Rosebank school, gave a very beautiful Christmas tree festival last Saturday evening. A lengthy and very interesting program was rendered by the school pupils which included a number of recitations, dialogues and some fine music and singing. Apples were treated at the close. The school building was filled to the last place with a very attentive audience.

Adolph Raftesath returned last Wednesday from North Da[illegible] he has been employed the pa[illegible]mer, to spend some time with his parents in town.

Our Merry Christmas Wish for You

The past year has not been perfect in every respect, but it has been good—really better than average.

Considering what other countries have endured, we have been wonderfully blessed.

Then why shouldn't we have a very merry Christmas—the best ever?

We believe you can and will have it, therefore, we wish it to you.

And may you have many more like it or better.

Nortz Lumber Co.

WE take this occasion to thank you for your patronage and loyal support during the past year.

It is only through your co-operation that we grow and prosper.

May all the best joys of Christmas be yours and may the New Year be full to overflowing with the world's good things.

And may we all so live that at all times we can enjoy to the utmost the many blessings that are ours.

SOCIETY and Club

Double Wedding.

A double wedding occurred on Tuesday morning at 10 o'clock at the home of Rev. M. B. Ordahl, at Holt, when Miss Ragna M. Larson and Elling Toftesrud, Mathilda S. Wendt and Geo. Johnson were united in marriage. Miss Larson's gown was of white voile while Miss Wendt wore a gown of white georgette crepe. The newlyweds departed on Tuesday evening via the Soo on a brief honeymoon trip. Miss Larson is well known to local people, having attended the Thief River Falls high school a few years ago.

Bean-Dahl.

On Saturday evening at 8 o'clock at the Zion Lutheran parsonage occurred the marriage of Miss Francis Dahl of Hazel and Clarence Bean of this city. Miss Clara Dahl, sister of the bride, and Lovien Bean, brother of the groom, acted as witnesses. The newlyweds are well and favorably known to many local people, the groom having resided here practically all his life, while the bride has been employed in this city at various times. Their friends extend to them wishes for a happy married life.

Holmen-Brekke.

Sivert Edward Brekke and Miss Annie Holmen, both of Smiley township, were united in marriage on December 22nd at 11 o'clock at the Zion Lutheran parsonage. Rev. George Larson officiated in the presence of Bennie Brekke and Miss Cora Holmen.

Kiel-Krantz.

Miss Ruth Georganna Kiel and Nels Krantz were united in marriage Tuesday by Judge N. [illegible] in municipal court. They were attended by Miss Gladys Kiel and Roscoe Adair.

Elk Ladies Entertained.

Mesdames G. W. Connell and R. H. Ross entertained twelve of the Elk ladies at the home of the latter on LaBree avenue north last Friday evening. Cards formed the chief diversion and at midnight a delicious lunch was served.

Club Meets.

The Community Girls club met in the Commercial club rooms on Monday evening with an attendance of about thirty-five. A short business meeting was followed by a delicious lunch served by the E's and F's. The girls filled approximately 1,200 Christmas bags. The party dispersed at 11 o'clock.

Breese-Gustafson.

Miss Doris Breese and Oscar Gustafson, both of Marshall county, were united in marriage on Dec. 23rd, at the parsonage of the Norwegian Lutheran church in the city of Warren, with Rev. Tollef officiating. August and Miss Minnie Gustafson, sister and brother of the groom, were witnesses. Mrs. Gustafson was formerly a student of the local high school. The newlyweds departed for Middle River on Wednesday where they will spend the holidays at the home of the bride's parents.

Missionary Society.

The Woman's Missionary society of the Presbyterian church will meet with Mrs. R. L. Barackman on next Friday afternoon at 3 o'clock. A full attendance is requested.

Squad Has Banquet.

The football squad of the Thief River Falls high school held a banquet at the Brumund hotel last Friday evening. During the four-course dinner each member of the squad delivered a speech. Supt. Ziegler of the city schools and Mr. Tommeraasen, coach, each spoke in a very interesting manner to the boys encouraging them along athletic lines. The guests included the members of the squad, Mr. Ziegler and Mr. Tommeraasen.

Entertained.

In Honor of Mrs. Helm.

Mrs. J. C. Streeter will entertain a few ladies at her home on Monday afternoon in compliment to her guest, Mrs. J. J. Helm of Red Lake Falls.

Alumni Reunion.

The Alumni Reunion will be held on Friday, Dec. 26th, at 8:30 p. m. in the auditorium. On account of the absence of the president, Miss Agnes Wilson, the meeting will be in charge of George Werstlein, vice president. The first part of the evening will be taken up with a business meeting and the following program will be given:

Remarks....................Geo. Werstlein

The mob gathered around the gate keepers several minutes before the attack. Then the woman who proclaimed that she was an anarchist, drove both fists thru the glass window. As pieces of glass fell the mob sang the "Internationale."

"Down with this dirty, rotten government," screamed the woman. "They have taken my husband just as they will be taking your husbands, brothers and sweethearts."

Unable to quiet the mob, Asa Mitchell, superintendent of the barge office, located at Manhattan put in a call for police assistance.

The mob turned on the first policeman to answer the riot call and beat him, but when reserves with clubs drawn and coast guards with fixed bayonets came they became docile. Members of it explained that they came to inquire about relatives who had sailed on the Buford.

A young Russian woman who gave her name as Clara Brooks was arrested as the ring leader.

The "soviet ark" Buford which sailed for an un-named Russian port Dec. 21 with 249 radicals on board will be followed by another ark filled with "reds" before the first arrives in Russia, according to the best information obtainable. It was stated that a "second batch" of deportees would be embarked as soon as possible to show the drastic steps to be taken by the government against aliens who would bring about the overthrow of constitutional government. The department of justice stated that there were 60,000 radicals listed. How many radicals and their "Red leaders" will go on the enforced voyage to their homeland was not made known.

The Buford embarked under heavy guard and amid darkness early Dec. 22 in the morning. On board were Emma Goldman and Alexander Berkman, two of the most radical reds, together with 247 other radicals of various degrees of "redness." Department of Justice agents said the passenger list comprised the brains of the radical movement in the United States.

The deportation of Emma Goldman and her devoted companion, Alexander Berkman, ends a joint career of 30 years in the United States during which they preached the overthrow of the government by violence. He spent 16 years and she three years in jail, but they were never punished for the part their teachings played in attacks by others on life and property.

Berkman served 14 years for shooting Henry Clay Frick and two years for urging young men to abstain from registering for the draft early in the war. Miss Goldman was in prison two years for opposing conscription and one year for inciting to riot. Berkman was never brought to trial on an indictment for murder in connection with the Preparedness Day bomb outrage in San Francisco. Miss Goldman was acquitted of illegal distribution of birth control literature.

Their joint activities as publishers of the anarchist magazine, "Mother Earth" and "The Blast," suppressed during the war, combined with their addresses at anarchists' meetings, helped cause the assassination of President McKinley, the government charged in its deportation proceedings. The confession of Czolgosz described the influence which Miss Goldman's writings had on him.

Their influence was traced in the dynamiting of the Los Angeles Times. Matthew Schmidt and David Caplan, now in jail with others for that crime, were "of the Goldman clan," Attorney General Palmer has said.

They were suspected of receiving German money to oppose preparedness by the United States before the United States entered the war.

They were the pioneer radicals in the United States. Now there are 60,000 reds here and 122 disloyal foreign language newspapers, according to Attorney General Palmer.

Denounced by judges and other public officials from President Roosevelt down, as enemies of the country seeking to destroy it, but regarded by woman anarchists who greeted them with kisses as "beautiful characters, 100 years ahead of their times," they so increased their following that it was easy for them to provide $15,000 or $25,000 bail in cash or Liberty bonds. Yet fines of $10,000 each for opposing the draft were unpaid. They had no property, they said.

For more than 10 years their deportation had been agitated and at times seemed near but no formal proceedings for this purpose were instituted until the alarming radical activities of 1919, including the Seattle and Winnipeg general strikes, the sending of bombs through the mails to Attorney General Palmer and other prominent men, the formation of branches of the communist party and plans for anarchistic demonstrations on the anniversary of the formation of the soviet republic of Russia, which were frustrated by country wide raids in November. These raids made a total of 627 anarchists seized by the United States on deportation proceedings in the last two years.

Berkman's last hour of freedom in this country expired early this month in New York City while Henry Clay Frick was being buried in Pittsburgh and mourned as a public benefactor.

Emma Goldman is 49 years old and Berkman 50. She was born in Kovno, Russia, and in early childhood removed with her parents to East Prussia. When 15 years old she came to the United States and started working in clothing factories in Rochester, N. Y.

Recently asked who her relatives were, Miss Goldman replied: "I have children all over the United States."

In 1887 when 17 years old, she was married in Rochester to Jacob A. Kersner, who came from Russia in 1882, and was naturalized two years later. In 1909 his citizenship was revoked because he was not 21 when naturalized and had not been five years in the United States. Two years later the Kersners were divorced by a rabbi according to the Jewish rite. It was on a claim that marriage to him made her a citizen that her legal efforts to remain in this country were based.

"They can't keep me out," she said in 1907, when there was talk of deporting her. "I don't believe they would be foolish enough to try. My father is an American citizen. I married an American citizen."

Her father came to the United States in 1886, one year after her arrival, and was naturalized at Rochester when his daughter was 21 years old.

The railways of the United States are more than one-third, nearly one-half, of all the railways of the world. They carry a yearly traffic so much greater than that of any other country that there is really no basis for comparison. Indeed, the traffic of any two nations may be combined, and still it does not approach the commerce of America borne upon American railways.

Building of Public Hall.

A special meeting was called in town last Thursday evening to discuss the erection of a public hall in place of the one that was sold some over a year ago. The meeting was well patronized and the spirit prevailing for the project was very animated. Everybody present was willing to place their shoulder to the wheel and the result was that during the evening about $500 was subscribed for the building, which was more than was expected for the first meet-

Miss Lydia Bakke, Chester Dolen, Henry Sagmoen and Henry Stengelson came home Saturday from their school work at Thief River Falls, and will spend their vacations with their respective folks in this community.

A Merry Christmas and a Happy and Prosperous New Year is wished all our readers.

Miss Clara Pedersen, at the Rosebank school, gave a very beautiful Christmas tree festival last Saturday evening. A lengthy and very interesting program was rendered by the school pupils which included a number of recitations, dialogues and some fine music and singing. Apples were treated at the close. The school building was filled to the last place with a very attentive audience.

Adolph Raftesath returned last Wednesday from North … where he has been employed the past …, to spend some time with his parents in town.

Our Merry Christmas Wish for You

The past year has not been perfect in every respect, but it has been good — really better than average.

Considering what other countries have endured, we have been wonderfully blessed.

Then why shouldn't we have a very merry Christmas---the best ever?

We believe you can and will have it, therefore, we wish it to you.

And may you have many more like it or better.

SOCIETY and Club

Double Wedding.

A double wedding occurred on Tuesday morning at 10 o'clock at the home of Rev. M. B. Ordahl, at Holt, when Miss Ragna M. Larson and Elling Toffesrud, Mathilda S. Wendt and Geo. Johnson were united in marriage. Miss Larson's gown was of white voile while Miss Wendt wore a gown of white georgette crepe. The newlyweds departed on Tuesday evening via the Soo on a brief honeymoon trip. Miss Larson is well known to local people, having attended the Thief River Falls high school a few years ago.

Bean-Dahl.

On Saturday evening at 8 o'clock at the Zion Lutheran parsonage occurred the marriage of Miss Francis Dahl of Hazel and Clarence Bean of this city. Miss Clara Dahl, sister of the bride, and Lovien Bean, brother of the groom, acted as witnesses. The newlyweds are well and favorably known to many local people, the groom having resided here practically all his life, while the bride has been employed in this city at various times. Their friends extend to them wishes for a happy married life.

Holmen-Brekke.

Sivert Edward Brekke and Miss Annie Holmen, both of Smiley township, were united in marriage on December 22nd at 11 o'clock at the Zion Lutheran parsonage. Rev. George Larson officiated in the presence of Bennie Brekke and Miss Cora Holmen.

Kiel-Krantz.

Miss Ruth Georganna Kiel and Nels Krantz were united in marriage Tuesday by Judge N. [illegible] in municipal court. They were attended by Miss Gladys Kiel and Roscoe Adair.

Elk Ladies Entertained.

Mesdames G. W. Connell and R. H. Ross entertained twelve of the Elk ladies at the home of the latter on LaBree avenue north last Friday evening. Cards formed the chief diversion and at midnight a delicious lunch was served.

Club Meets.

The Community Girls club met in the Commercial club rooms on Monday evening with an attendance of about thirty-five. A short business meeting was followed by a delicious lunch served by the E's and F's. The girls filled approximately 1,200 Christmas bags. The party dispersed at 11 o'clock.

Breese-Gustafson.

Miss Doris Breese and Oscar Gustafson, both of Marshall county, were united in marriage on Dec. 23rd, at the parsonage of the Norwegian Lutheran church in the city of Warren, with Rev. Tollef officiating. August and Miss Minnie Gustafson, sister and brother of the groom, were witnesses. Mrs. Gustafson was formerly a student of the local high school. The newlyweds departed for Middle River on Wednesday where they will spend the holidays at the home of the bride's parents.

Missionary Society.

The Woman's Missionary society of the Presbyterian church will meet with Mrs. R. L. Barackman on next Friday afternoon at 3 o'clock. A full attendance is requested.

Squad Has Banquet.

The football squad of the Thief River Falls high school held a banquet at the Brumund hotel last Friday evening. During the four-course dinner each member of the squad delivered a speech. Supt. Ziegler of the city schools and Mr. Tommeraasen, coach, each spoke in a very interesting manner to the boys encouraging them along athletic lines. The guests included the members of the squad, Mr. Ziegler and Mr. Tommeraasen.

Entertained.

HAD TO SIT IN A CHAIR ALL NIGHT

Clark Was So Run Down and Nervous—Gains 18 lbs. Taking Tanlac.

"I know Tanlac is something extraordinary because it has restored me to health after everything else failed," was the statement made by M. E. Clark of 1200 Chestnut Ave. North, Minneapolis, Minn., to a Tanlac representative recently. For twelve years Mr. Clark was a well known and highly respected harness maker in Minneapolis, but he is retired now.

"I suffered from a general run down condition which had been brought on by a severe attack of the 'Flu'" continued Mr. Clark. "It left me in a very weakened condition and kept me confined to the house from December, last, until the middle of June. I was too weak to even start to do any work, and when I would walk around the house a little I would become so exhausted I would almost fall over. I was so nervous at times I was afraid to shave myself, and finally I had to quit altogether. I had trouble with gas forming on my stomach, and with a peculiar flutter just under the heart. At one time I had awful pains, especially across my chest, and for three weeks I had to sit up every night in a chair. I lost in weight rapidly, going from one hundred and ninety-eight to one hundred and forty-five, an actual loss of fifty-three pounds. I tried all kinds of medicines and treatments but got only temporary relief.

"A friend of mine noticed about Tanlac in a Davenport, Iowa, paper, tried it and improved wonderfully and advised me to take it. Well, sir, I began to get better on my first bottle but I thought it would be only temporary just like I had gotten from all the other medicines I had tried; but not a bit of it—I kept on improving until now I've taken three bottles and feel like a different man entirely. Tanlac built up my strength and nerves, until now I've gained eighteen pounds and can shave myself without being the least bit nervous. I'm not troubled with gas any more, and don't have any pains across my stomach or chest at all. I feel hale and hearty all the time and can eat anything I want, in fact I can hardly get enough to eat. I take a long walk in the morning and one in the afternoon, late, and when I get back home I don't feel tired. Tanlac has certainly lived up to its reputation and achievement. I'm glad to indorse it."

This meeting is called for the purpose of electing a permanent Board of Directors and to make all necessary preparations for opening up the store.

A. P. FOX,
President.
PAUL A. HARRIS,
d25 Secretary.

Annual Meeting.

The annual meeting of the Bray Mutual Fire Insurance Company will be held at St. Hilaire, Minnesota, on Monday, January 12th, 1920, beginning at one o'clock p. m. sharp.

This meeting is called for the purpose of electing officers for the coming year, examine reports, etc. The question will also be taken up to change the date of the annual meeting so that the meeting may be held during the summer months, if it is found that we have a right to do so. And any other business will be transacted that may come before the meeting.

JOHN O. SWANSON,
d25-p-18 Secretary.

Notice For Bids.

Sealed bids will be received by the County Board of Commissioners of Pennington County, Minnesota, up until four (4) o'clock in the afternoon of Tuesday the 6th day of January, 1920, for the publishing of the financial statement for the year 1919; also the delinquent tax list, commissioners' proceedings and all other legal notices and publications required by law for the year 1920.

Bids may be mailed to the County Auditor at Thief River Falls or handed to the County Board at their meeting on above date.

Knute Danielson returned from McIntosh, where he had been in attendance at the funeral of his father, who recently passed away. Mrs. Bergit Danielson and son, Daniel, are to make their future home near McIntosh.

L. B. Johnson completed his 14x30 log barn Saturday. 'Sub Urban' was one of the "architects" on the job.

Mr. and Mrs. Z. J. Hole celebrated their wooden wedding anniversary on Thursday evening.

There was a large attendance at the Christmas tree party given by Miss Tillie Thompson, teacher, at the school house in district number 14. An elaborate program was rendered. Incidentally four of the elderly ladies gave a "Whistling Concert" ere the crowd adjourned.

The Misses Phoebe and Edna Shubert, who have been attending high school at the "Queen City," have returned home to spend the holidays with the home folks and with friends.

Scribbs was not too sure that he'd "be here" to report it when last Sunday his eye caught the sign posted on corner opposite the Clover Nook school house, which read: "Announcement—There'll be 4 successive prayer meetings from Sunday evening to evening of the 17th, inclusive, in preparation for the coming catastrophe. By Order of Hole."

O. K. Lien and G. A. Iverson were callers at the L. B. Johnson home Saturday afternoon when they also took part in "dedicating" Mr. Johnson's new barn.

There is a rumor afloat that "The Gossip Clearing House" is scheduled to be moved to the vicinity of the planet Neptune, there to be reestablished. We still have our doubts. 'Tis too good to be true. If not true, why shouldn't "Neptune" rejoice?

"Granny" Chamberlain

Everybody's friend when they have coughs and colds and their children have croup and whooping cough.

Most everyone knows me. I have been going from home to home for nearly fifty years—always welcome, too, for I never fail in their hour of need.

I have helped young mothers whose babies were choking with croup, and been the comfort of parents whose children tramp to school through the wet winter weather. Many a cold and attack of bronchitis I have warded off, and thousands I have helped through the anxious moments of whooping cough. I have come to the aid of mothers and fathers when they had colds and influenza, and have been a relief to old folks suffering from bronchitis and asthma.

I have had a most varied experience; I go everywhere—among the rich and the poor, in cities and the country.

Now don't forget "Granny" Chamberlain! You will see me often now, for I am going to tell you of my experience and what can be done in your home with

KIDNEYS WEAKENING? LOOK OUT!

Kidney troubles don't disappear of themselves. They grow slowly but steadily, undermining health with deadly certainty, until you fall a victim to incurable disease.

Stop your troubles while there is time. Don't wait until little pains become big aches. Don't trifle with disease. To avoid future suffering begin treatment with GOLD MEDAL Haarlem Oil Capsules now. Take three or four every day until you are entirely free from pain.

This well-known preparation has been one of the national remedies of Holland for centuries. In 1696 the government of the Netherlands granted a special charter authorizing its preparation and sale.

The housewife of Holland would almost as soon be without food as without her "Real Dutch Drops," as she quaintly calls GOLD MEDAL Haarlem Oil Capsules. They restore strength and are responsible in a great measure for the sturdy, robust health of the Hollanders.

Do not delay. Go to your druggist and insist on his supplying you with GOLD MEDAL Haarlem Oil Capsules. Take them as directed, and if you are not satisfied with results your druggist will gladly refund your money. Look for the name GOLD MEDAL on the box and accept no other. In sealed boxes, three sizes.

Notice of Cancellation of Real Estate Contract.

To Hans T. Hansen, Rasmus M. Hansen and Jens Jensen.

TAKE NOTICE, That you are in default, under and according to the terms, conditions and provisions of that certain Contract dated the 15th day of November, 1916, whereby B. H. Chase of the City of Thief River Falls, County of Pennington and State of Minnesota, agreed to convey unto you, upon full and timely performance by you of your part of the terms, conditions and provisions thereof, reference to which Contract for more particularity is hereby made, of the following described real estate situated in the County of Pennington and State of Minnesota, to-wit: The northwest Quarter (NW¼) of Section Six (6) and the Southwest Quarter (SW¼) of Section Six (6), all in Township one hundred fifty-two (152), Range forty-five (45), according to the Government survey thereof, which contract was filed for record in the office of the Register of Deeds of Pennington County, Minnesota, on the 26th day of October, 1917, at three o'clock P. M., and was duly recorded in Book 3 of Deeds on page 369.

And that according to the terms, conditions and provisions of said contract, there became due and payable from you to the said B. H. Chase on the 15th day of November, 1918, the sum of Three Hundred Dollars ($300.00) and on the 15th day of November, 1919, the sum of Four Hundred Dollars ($400.00) with interest thereon at the rate of six per cent per annum from the 15th day of November, 1918, and that such default consists in the non-payment when due of said payments and that at the date of this notice said amount and interest still remains overdue and unpaid, and such default as above specified still exists.

NOW, THEREFORE, You are hereby notified, that unless on or before ninety days after the service of this notice upon you, you pay to B. H. Chase at the office of Theo. Quale, his attorney in the McGinn Block, in the City of Thief River Falls, Pennington County, Minnesota, the amount of money above stated with interest to the date of payment, and the costs of service of this notice, and perform the terms and conditions, and comply with the provisions of said Contract on your part to be performed, said Contract will be cancelled and terminated, and all your right, title and interest thereunder, and in and to the land and property covered thereby, forfeited and annulled. Said cancellation and termination of said Contract to take effect March 15th, 1919.

Dated December 9th, 1919.

CHEST CLOGGED UP WITH HEAVY COLD?

Don't give it a chance to "set in"—use Dr. King's New Discovery

THAT dangerous stage where a cold or cough or case of grippe might get the better of you may be nearer than you think. Prompt action with Dr. King's New Discovery will avert a long siege.

For fifty years it has loosened congested chests, dissipated tight-packed phlegm, broken vicious colds and coughs. Give it to the youngsters—take it yourself. There will be no disagreeable after-effects.

60c. and $1.20 a bottle. At your druggist's. Give it a trial.

Bowels Become Normal

—liver livens up, bile flows freely—headache, biliousness, tongue-fur, stomach-sourness, disappear when Dr. King's New Life Pills get in their natural, comfortable action.

Purgatives, never pleasantly corrective, sometimes habit-forming, should not be taken to rack the system violently. Nature's way is the way of Dr. King's New Life Pills—gently but firmly functioning the bowels, eliminating the intestine-clogging waste, and promoting the most gratifying results. Cleanse the system with them and know the boon of regular bowels. 25c. at all druggists.

STEINER

Peter Solem and son, Otto, drove to Thief River Falls one day last week to attend to various business enterprises.

Mrs. Bertha Saugen and daughter, Celia, were among the visitors at Thief River Falls Saturday. They also attended to business matters.

The school children of County Line school, gave a fine Christmas program at the school house Friday evening. They also had their Christmas tree. A large crowd was present.

August Koglin made a business trip to Thief River Falls last Friday.

Mr. Ufer was a business visitor at Steiner Friday afternoon, looking after business interests.

G. L. Leisner, our former local merchant, left on Saturday for Cuba, where he will stay for some time. Mr. Leisner will also look after the business of the farm which he owns there.

Peter Hornseth, from the reservation, came up here last week to haul wood from the C. A. Swanson farm.

Peter Solem drove to Steiner on Monday to attend to business interests.

Miss Olga Koglin returned to her parental home here Saturday evening, after a stay at Thief River Falls for a short time.

Julius Liden and sister, Mathilda, spent Saturday at Thief River Falls, visiting with relatives and attending to business duties.

Several of the neighbors have been hauling wood from the Christ Jackman farm, southwest of Steiner, recently.

A load of Christmas trees passed thru this burg on the way to Thief River Falls, Saturday evening.

Wood sawing is the word in this neighborhood this week.

PUBLIC FORUM

That Dance Question.

While looking over your paper of two weeks ago, I chanced upon the article by Mr. Jacobson which was published in the "Forum," and wish to say that Mr. Jacobson is laboring under a wrong impression.

It is not the intention of the parents to secure the high school gymnasium in order to give public dances. On the other hand we wish to have our young people dance in the gym to avoid the public ones.

When the older people of the city rent a hall for an evening's recreation they are not disturbed by having people of questionable character thrust themselves upon them, but when our high school boys and girls do this it is very difficult for them to keep the unadvoidable element out, no matter how keen their desire is to do so. By giving them permission to dance in the gymnasium the dances will be much more exclusive than ever before.

As for dancing in the building that bears the name of Abraham Lincoln, if he were here in person, no matter what his own principles may have been, he would be broad enough to realize the immediate need of the young people of today and would be glad to think that he could help even in a small way to establish a means by which they could enjoy an evening's recreation under proper supervision.

If I remember correctly, Mr. Jacobson is not adverse to dancing at all, as I recall distinctly a number of evenings that he has spent indulging in the aforementioned pastime. Why should not our boys and girls be granted the same privilege that we enjoy?

MRS. T. P. ANDERSON.

Editor Times: Knowing your fairness in dealing with matters of public welfare we will venture to say a few words in regard to the stand taken by John H. Rich, federal reserve agent for the 9th federal reserve district, against the farmers. Mr. Rich says: "Certain factors in our immediate northwestern territory should cause alarm." He fails to give special reasons why we should feel alarmed. Again he says: "Nowhere in the United States is unrest more acute or bitter feeling more prevalent than among the agricultural population of the 9th reserve district."

As a matter of fact what offense, if any, has the farmers of the 9th reserve district committed to be accused in a like manner? Is it, Mr. Rich, because the 9th reserve district forces more than any others were responsible for bringing about a more just grain grading system? This however, should not cause any serious alarm, but Mr. Rich evidently knows what he is at, because he now sees that there are other things fully as important that are about to follow the new grain grading system, under the organized forces not only of the 9th reserve district, but of the entire northwest. So he drops the "bomb." The farmers have been misled thru "false economics," he says. What Mr. Rich wants to get at is this: We farmers have no business or right to take any part in progressive movements that stand for the welfare of the public, without, as he says, "The cause of complaint should be analized and identified, first by bringing those matters before the powers that be, in the same manner that sugar, coal, oil and packer products are now being analized by congress, etc." Anything outside of this is a false doctrine according to Mr. Rich.

He contends as long as the farmers submitted to this they were good, level-headed fellows, but now that they have started to do a little thinking of their own why they have been led astray by false economics, as he terms it. They are radicals.

As farmers and producers we hold that we have the right to work out our own solution through the same channels as all other forces. Through co-operation and organization without being made subjects of abuse. And furthermore, we hold that the time for the farmers to have "others" do the thinking for them as Mr. Rich wants, is a thing of the past, as the farmers now days are intelligent enough to fully solve their own problems without the aid of special guardians. All they demand is a square deal and the right to exist under the civil rights granted us as American citizens under the constitution of the United States. This talk of trying to show up the farmers as "antagonistic towards their government," is a "false alarm," and is in plain English what we can call one of the most damnable attacks ever conceived or directed against a set of honest upright human beings.

In no place throughout the entire country did the farmers do more towards supporting the policies of our government in the matter of production, in the matter of purchasing bonds and upholding the Red Cross work and other demands for relief during the war than the farmers of the northwest did, and in doing so many of them made great sacrifices in order to show their loyalty to our government.

Yet Mr. Rich wants to make believe that those very farmers were seeking to overthrow the very foundation that our government is founded upon, because they got out of the old ruts in trying to establish a new form of government, under majority rule, with the ballot as the only weapon and with law and order as their motto. No, Mr. Rich, the farmers of the Northwest are neither misled nor ignorant—they are simply using their intellectual talents for the betterment of all mankind in bringing about better laws and better conditions under which to live, by correcting the evils and abuses that now exist, a system that is in every way seeking to destroy the foundation of government today with your consent.

A story of a Pennsylvania Dutch settlement—of a modern Cinderella, a scullery maid, the unwilling slave of a widower father and his two loutish sons. It tells of powerful contrasts—of false love and true love—of the unfolding of the bright flower of innocent girlhood triumphant even in a sombre environment of selfishness, sordidness and Satanic cruelty. America's most representative girl in the happy love story of a household drudge who became the Governor's lady.

And furthermore, we hold that the time for the farmers to have "others" do the thinking for them as Mr. Rich wants, is a thing of the past, as the farmers now days are intelligent enough to fully solve their own problems without the aid of special guardians. All they demand is a square deal and the right to exist under the civil rights granted us as American citizens under the constitution of the United States. This talk of trying to show up the farmers as "antagonistic towards their government," is a "false alarm," and is in plain English what we can call one of the most damnable attacks ever conceived or directed against a set of honest-upright human beings.

In no place throughout the entire country did the farmers do more towards supporting the policies of our government in the matter of production, in the matter of purchasing bonds and upholding the Red Cross work and other demands for relief during the war than the farmers of the northwest did, and in doing so many of them made great sacrifices in order to show their loyalty to our government.

Yet Mr. Rich wants to make believe that those very farmers were seeking to overthrow the very foundation that our government is founded upon, because they got out of the old ruts in trying to establish a new form of government, under majority rule, with the ballot as the only weapon and with law and order as their motto. No, Mr. Rich, the farmers of the Northwest are neither misled nor ignorant—they are simply using their intellectual talents for the betterment of all mankind in bringing about better laws and better conditions under which to live, by correcting the evils and abuses that now exist, a system that is in every way seeking to destroy the foundation of government today with your consent.

Realart Pictures

A story of a Pennsylvania Dutch settlement—of a modern Cinderella, a scullery maid, the unwilling slave of a widower father and his two loutish sons. It tells of powerful contrasts—of false love and true love—of the unfolding of the bright flower of innocent girlhood triumphant even in a sombre environment of selfishness, sordidness and Satanic cruelty. America's most representative girl in the happy love story of a household drudge who became the Governor's lady.

Derived from Mrs. Fiske's play by Marian de Forest and the original novel, "Barnabetta," by Helen R. Martin.

Directed by JOHN S. ROBERTSON
